BOROUGH DEMOCRATS LEANING TOWARD FUSION

Citizens' Leaders Put Proposition, With Threat, Before Committee.

LATTER SURRENDERS

W. J. Conroy for Mayor; J. J. Stahl and Dr. Buchanan, Republicans, for Council—Straight Ticket Supporters Angry.

Undismayed by the stand taken by the Borough Democrats last Monday, in which it was voted to run a straight party ticket, the remnants of the disaffected Republican band that arrayed itself against the administration at the last election, have approached the Democrats with a fusion proposition. The tender was made yesterday afternoon by a self-appointed committee of Republicans representing the Citizens' movement of a year ago.

The proposition was placed before the Democratic party through the committee on nominations appointed at the caucus in the Somerset school on Monday.

Stripped of the whys and wherefores, and the arguments and other things advanced by the Cit committee, the proposition is this: The Democrats may name the mayoralty candidate, and the Citizens—which means the Republicans in the fusion movement—name the two councilmen. The Cits were not rebuffed. While the proposition was not accepted outright it was received for advisement, and at meetings held later tentative candidates were decided upon according to the terms of the proposed agreement.

W. J. Conroy was fixed upon as the mayoralty candidate. Much secrecy was observed by those engaged in the deal, and the names of the two candidates for Republican representation could not be learned authoritatively this morning. J. J. Stahl is said to have been one of the two chosen, and Dr. J. H. Buchanan the other.

Those who made the fusion tender for the Cits are A. V. D. Honeyman, Isaac P. Runyon, Thomas Armstrong and W. C. Debele. They asked the Democratic committee to meet them, and the two bodies came together yesterday afternoon in the office of S. S. Swackhamer, who is head of the Democratic committee. Besides the Cits and Mr. Swackhamer there were present W. J. Conroy, David Bodine, Councilman Frank Krewson and James Daly, members of the Swackhamer committee. Andrew E. Kenney was the only member of that committee not present.

The tone adopted by the Cits is said that have been more cocky than conciliatory.

"We have not merely the power to help you," they said, "but it is within our province to do you a good deal of harm. You must accept our proposition or suffer the consequences."

Mr. Armstrong is said to have put the case very plainly.

"Come in with us," he is understood to have said, "and allow us to name the two councilmen, or we will nominate an independent ticket. I will accept the nomination for mayor on that ticket without hesitation."

The committee appeared to be impressed with the statements advanced by the fusion seekers. When the conference broke up the Democrats were more than halfway pledged to the course demanded by the Cits.

After supper the Cits met again at Mr. Debele's house, and fixed up the councilmanic slate. At the same time the Swackhamer committee was in session at Mr. Conroy's house. He said he would not be averse to the honor of heading the ticket. Mr. Daly asked him if he would stick to the head of a Citizens' ticket without regard to party preferences. Mr. Conroy replied that if his party did not accept him he would resign the nomination.

None of the conferees who were seen by reporters this morning would admit that the ticket or the fusion movement had been finally decided upon. Positive information on the subject may not be made public until the nominations are filed with the borough clerk Saturday.

Prominent Democrats who were in favor of a straight ticket at the caucus on Monday are angry over the action of the committee. They go so far as to accuse Mr. Swackhamer, who is held responsible for the committee's action, of "selling out the party." The feeling among these men is so strong that the fusion ticket, should it go into the field, might be wrecked by faint support.

"The whole thing," said one of these men this morning, "is a tricky

FURTHER BIDS RECEIVED FOR NEW COURT HOUSE

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS WILL AWARD CONTRACT NEXT THURSDAY.

Somerville, Sept. 1.—The Somerset County Board of Freeholders met in the court house here yesterday for the purpose of opening bids for the new county jail. All the members were in attendance. This was an adjourned meeting from three weeks ago, when all bids were rejected because they exceeded the appropriation of $45,000.

Seven bids were opened yesterday in the presence of a member of the firm of Gordon, Tracy & Swartwout, of New York, the architects, and Hon. Alvah A. Clark, counsel for the building committee. The bids were referred to the latter, which wishes to examine them thoroughly before awarding the contract, and the meeting was adjourned until next Thursday, when it is probable the contract will be ordered executed.

Until that time the bids will not be made public.

AFTER THE TREE SCALE.

Kelly Armed Himself with Whiskey and Paint Against Pest.

Charles Kelly, an old gardener and bug killing expert, appeared at the doors of a number of houses on West Ninth street yesterday forenoon, with a can of paint in his hand and a lot of whiskey in his interior. He said he was out after the maple scale and begged householders for a chance to get a swat at it with his paint brush.

The war on the scale was frowned on, and Charles lay down on a lawn to enjoy a forced peace. The people in the house telephoned to police headquarters, and Patrolman Higgins and the hurry-up wagon came after the warrior. In the wagon Charles pulled out a half-filled flask of whiskey.

"Have a drink?" he asked Higgins.

"No," said Higgins, reaching for the bottle.

With a sweet smile Kelly jerked the flask out of reach and emptied it down his throat. Then he slept peacefully on the seat.

In court this morning Kelly begged so hard for a chance to be good that Judge Runyon suspended sentence. The old man was arrested two years ago for the same offense.

Who Can Doubt This?

A. A. Cannon, of Somerset street, brought home a thriller in the way of a yarn from his trip to Sewaren Wednesday. He and Hilaire Blatz had been out about two hours when Cannon felt a mighty strike. He started to reel in, but the thing at the end of the line would not have it that way. The handle of the reel was jerked loose from Cannon's fingers and the line began to pay out like a streak. It reached the end almost in a flash, snapped off like a thread, and disappeared beneath the water. "Now, what in the name of all that's piscatorial did I hook?" says Cannon, with awe in his tones.

Charles C. Randolph Renominated.

Charles C. Randolph, councilman from the Fourth ward, will be the organization's candidate for ward councilman at the coming primary. There has been talk of Herbert Buxton's nomination in Mr. Randolph's place, but Secretary William Newcorn, of the city committee, announced this morning that Mr. Randolph had been tendered the nomination and had filed his acceptance. Mr. Randolph was known as the choice of the independents, and with the regulars endorsing him, he appears to have clear sailing to another and full term.

Husband and Wife at Hospital.

Mrs. Frank Haurand, of Elmwood place, who was recently taken ill with typhoid fever, was removed to the hospital on Tuesday and yesterday Mr. Haurand was taken to the hospital to be treated for the same disease. Their infant child, now recovering from an attack of spinal meningitis, has been taken to the home of Mr. Haurand's sister, Mrs. G. O. Keller, where he will remain for some time.

Mr. Firstbrook's New Position.

George Firstbrook, formerly of the reportorial staff of the Courier-News, has secured a position with the Hoboken Inquirer, of which Philip Daab, manager of the Plainfield baseball team, is the owner. He will commence work on Tuesday as sporting editor.

A Baseball Benefit.

The Park Club Juniors will hold a social and lawn fete at the home of Louis Slocum, 78 Mercer avenue, Thursday afternoon, September 7, at 3:30 o'clock, for the benefit of the baseball team.

WORK OF C. E. UNION

Executive Committee Plans For Beginning New Year's Activities.

CONGRESS MEETING

Central Representative Body Will Hold Its First Session at Faith Chapel on September 14.

Preliminary arrangements for the inauguration of the new year's work were made by the Plainfield Christion Endeavor Union at a meeting of the executive committee last night, held at the home of Miss Mildred Green. Plans were made for the first congress meeting, which is to be held Thursday night, September 14, at Faith chapel. Within a month the union will be engaged in its work with the full vigor of its strength.

The congress of the union is the central representative body of the organization. It is composed of two representatives from each society, and governs the movements of all the branches. The president of each society is one of the two representatives. The union was formed to argument the effectiveness of C. E. work and to bring the workers togetner in closer intimacy.

The congress will map out the work of the coming year in detail. It will meet every two months for reports, and missionary work in the city will probably receive a noticeable stimulus from its labors.

The following are the officers of the league: President, Fred C. Lounsbury; vice president, Miss Georgiana Gallaway; secretary, Miss A. M. Greene; treasurer, Clarence B. LaRue.

The churches represented are the First Presbyterian, Congregational, Trinity Reformed, Park Avenue Baptist and Seventh-Day Baptist churches; Faith chapel and Warren chapel, of Plainfield; the First Presbyterian church, of Dunellen; the Seventh and First-Day Baptist churches, of New Market; the South Plainfield Baptist church and Washingtonville chapel.

MARE KICKED SPECIAL TRAINING CART TO BITS

In his effort to break a kicking mare, Benjamin F. Ruckman, of Plainfield avenue, furnished exciting amusement for a crowd of 200 people Wednesday afternoon. He hitched the mare to a specially built cart, consisting simply of two long shafts and a small boxlike seat set far back out of reach of the mare's heels, climbed into the seat, and turned the mare loose in the yard back of his place on the corner of Second street. The mare got busy right away. She squealed and kicked furiously, and it wasn't long before a small mob gathered. Out of reach of the flying heels, Ruckman sawed on the lines and whipped the mare, talked to her, coaxed her, and advised earnestly to mend her ways and be good. The crowd enjoyed the fun hugely, and added spice to the situation by firing advice at the driver.

Things went well enough for Ruckman, considering everything, until the harness shifted in some way, and allowed the mare to slip back in the shafts. As soon as the straps began to give the mare seemed to divine Ruckman's idea in putting the seat as far to the rear and started to squirm back with all her might. Almost before the driver knew it she was in position to reach his perch and her heels commenced to rattle against it. Ruckman jumped out in a hurry, and started for the mare's head, but before he could get a restraining hand on her she kicked the box in flinders with a triumphant squeal. Then she calmed down and consented to go back to her stall.

Mr. Ruckman has dealings with soap fat people. There is a large chance that that mare will soon repose gracefully, in square chunks, on bathroom and laundry racks.

Ice Crop Short; Price Longer.

Commencing today the retail price of ice will be fifty cents a hundred, an increase of ten cents. This, the dealers say, is due to the shortage in the crop of ice. According to the officers of the Natural Ice Company the local supply is exhausted and shipments are being made from the Carbon Spring Water Company in Pennsylvania. Fortunately, the weather from now on will be cooler, and the demand for ice will not be as great as during the summer months.

—Neuman Brothers still lead all other dealers in their vegetable display. A great variety, strictly fresh, is maintained at all times.

HARRISON'S SUIT AGAIN BEING HEARD

SECOND JURY HEARING CASE AGAINST W. R. STANBERY.

The second trial of the suit for $200 damages brougnt by Oscar Harrison against William R. Stanbery, for the killing of his horse and the destruction of his rig in the auto accident in which Mrs. W. A. Westphal lost her life, was begun in Justice Von Minden's court, Dunellen, this morning, before a jury of twelve men. The case was taken out of the first jury's hands three weeks gao, after a vain attempt of the jurymen to agree on a verdict in a three-hours' consideration of the evidence.

That trial lasted all day, and the hearing started this morning will be as long, if not longer. When court was convened at 10 o'clock today the court room was filled with spectators, as on the day of the other hearing, but the crowd did not seem to be quite as large. There was a general impression that the testimony would be a rehash. S. S. Swackhamer appeared for the defense and W. L. Hetfield, Jr., for the plaintiff.

As far as the witnesses this morning went, it was. Harrison himself, Joseph Rutledge, who rode in the carriage with him at the time of the accident, and Mr. and Mrs. Boice, eyewitnesses, went on the stand.

They told practically the same things as were presented to the first jury. Mr. Swackhamer cross-examined with the transcript of the original testimony before him, and seemed pleased with the variations in the testimony he brought out. They did not appear to be important enough for comment to the spectators, but the lawyer looked and spoke as if he regarded them as strengthening to his case.

Court was adjourned for lunch at noon. It reconvened at 1:30 o'clock.

THOUSANDS VIEW THE BABY PARADE AT ASBURY

ANNUAL AFFAIR AT THE RESORT GREATER SUCCESS THAN EVER.

Asbury Park, Sept. 1.—Babies held the boards in Asbury Park yesterday. It was the annual parade day, and 50,000 spectators perched on housetops and a black mass that covered the grand stands and boardwalk benches watched the tots in review before Queen Titania and her court on Ocean avenue.

The tots peeped from their silken covered baby carriages and threw kisses at the bystanders. They shouted and slept at intervals and posed in such remarkable variety that the crowd went wild with delight and lapsed into baby talk.

The parade was divided into ten divisions, comprising doll coaches, express wagons, baby coaches and go-carts, costumes in fancy dress, costumes in college colors, costumes in burlesque, twins and triplets, floats and pony turnouts. A miniature water wagon with the legend "Water is Good Enough for Asbury Park," was viewed with astonishment.

The first prize winners were: Henry O'Brien, Somerville; Edith M. Weidenstein, Brooklyn; Catharine Asay, Asbury Park; Patrina Terchman, Brooklyn; Helen Brinkerhoff, Brooklyn; Nellie M. Meeker, Newark; Edward H. Eisele, Newark, and Henry and Richard Cook, of Newark, who rode in a leather baby carriage, captured the twins' prize.

Tonight Queen Titania will view the water pageant on Deal Lake, after which the sceptre will be restored to Mayor Ten Broeck, who needs it in the hotel district. The only entries in the parade from Plainfield were Evelyn, Alfred, Irving and Raymond Manley.

HER DEATH SUDDEN.

Miss Marie Connolly Succumbs to Attack of Heart Failure.

Miss Marie Veronica Connolly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Connolly, of West Fifth street, died very suddenly yesterday afternoon from heart failure. She had been complaining recently, but her condition was not considered serious. She is survived by her parents, three sisters, the Misses Margaret, Ella and Julia Connolly, and two brothers, John and Thomas Connolly.

The funeral services will be held from St. Mary's church tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock and interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Celebrated Her Birthday.

THEIR TICKET COMPLETE

Borough Republicans Will File List of Nominees Today or Tomorrow.

ALL IS HARMONY

List of Petitioners Shows Names of Men Formerly Identified With Anti-Annexation Movement.

The Republicans of North Plainfield have picked their nominees for the various offices to be filled in the borough this year, and they, together with the names of the petitioners in the First and Second districts, will be filed today or tomorrow, according to the primary election law. The nominees are as fohows:

For mayor, Newton B. Smalley; for members of the Borough Council—First district—Clifford W. McGee; Second district—Edward P. T. Smith; for commissioner of appeal, John P. Emmons; for justices of the peace, Abram B. King, Silas C. Mundy and Thomas Snape.

The Republicans have secured an especially strong list of petitioners for their ticket in both the First and Second districts of the borough and a glance at them will show that to a large extent harmony has been restored in the ranks of the G. O. P. It is generally conceded that the annexation issue is practically a dead one so far as the coming election is concerned and the leading Republicans have combined to win out, if possible. Noticeable among the petitioners are several who have heretofore been identified with the anti-annexation movement, but have since joined the regular forces. These are the petitioners:

First district—E. S. Hooley, William J. Buttfield, Martin I. Cooley, Charles L. Nichols, Charles W. McCutchen, W. W. Rowley, Morris C. VanArsdale, W. C. Dunham, W. H. Angleman and Nelson A. Miller.

Second district—Robert Clark, Jr., James K. Arnold, Peter A. Emmons, E. H. Terry, G. B. Fletcher, J. E. McClintock, Harrison Coddington, Arthur E. Smith, C. VanDyke VanZandt and W. L. Sharkey.

The primaries will be held on September 12 to ratify the action of the Republicans.

OTHER WITHDRAWALS FOLLOW JUDGE RUNYON'S

TRIMBLE AND VOORHIS BOTH OUT AT ELIZABETH.

City Judge William N. Runyon's action Wednesday seems to have inaugurated a procession of withdrawals in the county political world. Charles A. Trimble, who had his eye on the assembly, and George Van Voorhis, both of Elizabeth, who exhibited a kindly feeling for the shrievalty, have both retired from the sphere of political endeavor, at least for this year. They addressed letters to the Elizabeth Journal yesterday announcing their withdrawal.

So far as the race for the assembly is concerned, the retirement of Trimble leaves the contest clear for Tucker and Kellogg. The surrender of Van Voorhis insures harmony for Kirkland in the Fifth ward of Elizabeth.

The followers of Van Voorhis, though defeated at the nominating meeting last Monday, spoke of carrying the fight into the primary on September 12. The action of Van Voorhis yesterday obviates that possibility.

Mr. Van Voorhis stated in his letter that he retired in the interests of harmony, as he did not desire to precipitate a factional struggle in the Fifth ward, which might endanger the success of the Republican ticket at the coming election.

An Ideal Day's Outing.

An ideal day's outing is promised all who accompany the Plainfield Grocers' Association on its annual excursion to Coney Island on Labor Day. Arrangements have been made for one of the Iron Steamboat Company's large boats, and every convenience will be afforded those who go. A full day will be given at Coney Island and with all the many forms of amusement, the day is sure to be filled with pleasure.

In Trolley Wreck.

Morris Braunstein, of Richmond street, was among the passengers on the eastbound fast line trolley car in collision near Dayton on Tuesday. He was not hurt, but narrowly escaped being cut by flying glass.

A Labor Day Sermon.

Rev. L. R. Howard will occupy his pulpit at Hope Memorial chapel Sunday. In the evening he will preach a special Labor Day sermon from the subject "Is Labor Day Truly American?"

DEMOCRATS' HARD LUCK

Leaders Find It Impossible to Get Candidates For Office.

J. V. E. DILTS HUSTLING

Is Making an Effort to Secure the Necessary Number of Signatures to the Required Petition.

While the Republicans have been busily engaged in making up their tickets in the various wards, the Democrats have not been quite so fortunate. In fact, it is almost impossible for them to secure candidates for office. According to the latest report the First ward is the only one where there is a possibility of securing a nominee for the Common Council, and that person refuses to allow his name to be used until tomorrow, when he will give his answer.

J. V. E. Dilts, from the Second ward, is hustling about today trying to get the required number of signers to his petition, and he admits that it is the hardest work he has had in a long time. When questioned as to who would be the nominee for councilman from his ward, he replied that as yet no one had been found who would accept the nomination.

It is said that no attempt will be made to nominate a man in the Third ward, while the Fourth ward is as quiet as a church mouse, with no signs of making up a ticket. There was a meeting of Democrats on Wednesday night, and the reports received were discouraging. The petition blanks were distributed for the purpose of securing the requisite twenty signatures, but as yet they have not been obtained.

It now looks as though the Democrats would fail to present a complete ticket, as but little time is left for the filing of the same as required by law.

SCANDALIZED CARFULL.

Angry Negress Loosed Stream of Profanity and Obscenity in Trolley.

On one of the early evening cars between Scotch Plains and this city last night a negro woman created a good deal of scandalized excitement among the other women passengers by her profane and obscene tirade against three young men who annoyed her. The woman defied the conductor, and talked herself out without interruption. The young men said something the negress didn't like, and she turned on them like a drunken fishwoman. The stream of cuss words and worse that streamed from her mouth caused the carfull of people to gasp.

The women passengers were outraged, and one of them demanded that the conductor stop the affair. He tried to quiet the negress, but she was thoroughly aroused and refused to stop. She talked on until she reached the end of her passion, and after that she was as silent as the proverbial clam. The young men who started her carefully avoided any reference to things calculated to arouse her again. Her tongue was too much for them to match.

Mrs. Louise Mary Austin Dead.

Mrs. Louise Mary Austin, daughter of the late Archibald and Eliza Lewis Austin and granddaughter of Commodore Jacob Lewis, United States Navy, all of Perth Amboy, died yesterday morning at the home of her niece, Mrs. L. A. Johnson, of East Ninth street, from a complication of diseases. She was eighty-eight years old and had been a resident of this city but a short time. The funeral services will be held from St. Peter's church, Perth Amboy, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mrs. Hibbard's Funeral.

The funeral services of Mrs. Henry D. Hibbard were held yesterday afternoon from the late home in East Seventh street, at 3 o'clock. Rev. E. V. Stevenson, rector of Grace church, of which Mrs. Hibbard was a member, conducted the services, which were simple and brief. There was a large display of floral tributes from relatives and friends. The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

Ye Sleuth at Rest.

Detective F. S. McCarthy, the only plain clothes man on the police force, has started on his two weeks' vacation. He is enjoying the early part of it on a walking tour along the Raritan Canal. McCarthy expected to have his share of the Long reward for vacation money, but the Van Nuis suit forced him to depend on the pile he has been carefully nurturing during the past two months.

Watch for Stolen Horse.

The local police have been asked to look for traces of a sorrel horse, black buggy, and a black set of harness, which were stolen from a Port Reading place two days ago. The thief is believed to have travelled this way.

NOW FOR THE SEVENTH

DAAB NOT WORRIED

Confident that His Men Will Again Win Out—Columbia College Man to Pitch.

The seventh contest in the series of ten for the county championship will occupy the attention of county fans at Recreation Park, Westfield, tomorrow, when the Daabsters will journey there and try to wrest another victory from the Denmanites. That Manager Denman and Captain Mallen mean business is shown by the fact that they expect to have at least four or five National League players on the team, and they feel confident of taking not only tomorrow's game, but the one on Labor Day afternoon on Crescent Oval.

It is an important period in the life of the Westfield aggregation, and the management knows well that unless they win the next two games its chances for breaking even and having a chance to win the pennant are gone. With this situation staring Westfield in the face there is every reason to believe that the best players obtainable will be secured to turn the tide that is almost overwhelming the aspirants for county championship honors. The Westfield fans are with the management and are willing to spend any amount of money to win.

It is known that Waller and Cotter will be the battery, but aside from that little will be known of the makeup of the Westfield aggregation until it appears on the diamond.

Manager Daab is not worried over the situation and only yesterday he expressed entire confidence in his team to win on Saturday and Labor Day. He will present about his usual lineup. Dalton, who was injured a few weeks ago, telephoned Mr. Daab yesterday that his foot is now well and that he will be able to play second base tomorrow. If he is in condition he should be a valuable acquisition, as in the few games he played early in the season his fielding and hitting were features.

Mr. Daab has secured the services of Tyler, the former Columbia College pitcher, and he will be with the team tomorrow. He has not decided when he will use Tyler, but one thing is sure and that is "Willie" Deegan will pitch either tomorrow or Monday. Tyler is considered an exceptionally strong man in the box and with the stick. Last season he defeated the local team, pitching for the Murray Hills. His work with Columbia was of the best, and he is said to be even better this season than ever. Otherwise the local team will present its regular lineup.

If Plainfield wins tomorrow the pennant will about be a sure thing, while if Westfield is victorious it will make the race doubly interesting. The Denmanites have everything to gain and nothing to lose, and the loss of the two next contests will sound the death knell of Westfield. This will be Plainfield's lineup for tomorrow:

FOR BRICK PAVEMENT.

Wish of Mayor Buckle that Something in This Line Be Accomplished.

Regarding the possibilities of the permanent pavement being extended in the business section of the city, Councilman Wilson, chairman of the street committee, says that he has not given the matter any attention of late and that he does not know whether the improvement will be made just now or not. It is known, however, that other members of the Common Council have seriously considered the question, and it is the wish of Mayor Buckle that something along that line be accomplished.

It is realized by several officials that too much money is required to keep macadam pavement in repair, especially in the business section, where the travel is the heaviest, and there is no doubt but that some means will be devised to extend the brick pavement, if that proves satisfactory, to streets in the center of the town. Street Commissioner Gavett is also known to favor a permanent pavement, recognizing its economy. Reference has been made to this matter in Mayor Buckle's message, and it is only a question of time when some action will be taken.

Purchased Voorhees' Property.

D. F. Dugan has purchased the Voorhees property at East Seventh and Richmond streets for $2,700. It is Mr. Dugan's intention to improve the property.

—VanArsdale's $2 and $2.50 shoes for men and women are unequaled for service.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Dunellen will line up against Clinton Avenue again tomorrow in one of the final games of the present series. As Clinton Avenue has yet to win a game from the locals it is expected that they will come padded up to take vengeance. Phil Smith, the old reliable in the box, for the locals, is expected back in his accustomed place. His absence, caused by a badly cut ankle, has greatly handicapped the nine and his return will be good news to his many admirers here. That he will make an extra effort to pitch a good game can be assured as he is anxious to get the chance of playing with Plainfield, which Manager Daab is considering. The manager of the locals has just completed arrangements to play two games at Roselle on Labor Day. A large crowd of rooters will accompany the team at both games.

There have been several newcomers in town lately in search of houses, both for rent and sale, but the supply does not equal the demand. If some enterprising land-holder would start to build, there is money ahead for him.

Henry Staats has returned to his home here after five years' service in the U. S. Navy, spending three years of his time on the U. S. S. Oregon. He is telling all his friends stories of his experience and his trip to the Orient.

George Apgar is apparently one of the most interested Dunellenites in the New Plainfield theatre. George has been in the audience at every show thus far, and last night he saw "The Legend of the Catskills."

It is stated on good authority that the Repuolicans will have petitions filed with the borough clerk setting forth a full primary ticket. The outlook for a Democratic ticket at the primary is quite discouraging.

Work on the gas main from Gallagher's corner toward Lincoln is going on rapidly. It is expected that work on the south side of the railroad on the main will start in a very few days.

The Dunellen Fire Department held a regular meeting, Wednesday night. The meeting was a short one and only routine business was transacted.

Rudolph Smith, who has purchased a lot on South avenue from Eugene Runyon, has started the erection of a new up-to-date dwelling.

The Vail family reunion, composed of Vails from Dunellen, New Market and Plainfield, was held at Washington Rock, yesterday.

The framework on the new Siriski building is fast nearing completion. The owner hopes to occupy the place by November 1.

Mrs. Frank Smith, of Topeka, Kan., has been spending some time with relatives in New Market.

Everyone is invited to attend the basket picnic to be held at Washington Rock, on Labor Day.

Miss M. Pennick has returned from a three weeks' stay with friends at Philadelphia.

Mrs. Theodore Hoffman has returned from a two weeks' stay at Asbury Park.

Fred Wilcox, who has been on the sick list for the past few days, is convalescing.

Mrs. J. Crandell and son are visiting Mrs. W. H. Carman, of Prospect avenue.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The rural free delivery service for Washington Valley, Glenside and Berkeley Heights started this morning at 9 o'clock. Edward Debbie, who received the appointment two weeks ago, resigned his commission and Charles Burgmiller, of Berkeley Heights, was appointed to fill the vacancy. The work will be under the supervision of Postmistress Mrs. Augusta Dunn.

The Nonpariel Fife and Drum Corps, of Elizabeth, held an outing and dance last night at Rapp's pavilion. Nearly 150 friends of the corps were out to enjoy the dance, two special cars being used to accommodate the large crowd.

The many friends of Miss Nina Seeber, a former teacher in the public school, are agreeably surprised to hear of her marriage, which occurred at her home in New York Wednesday.

Baseball games of interest tomorrow are the Plainfield-Westfield game at Recreation Park and the local-Cuban Giants game on the home diamond.

The Laurels, the second bowling team, is arranging a series of games with the first team. This will mark the opening of the local bowling season.

Looks bad for the town—that underbrush and briars, which, owing to neglect, has hidden from view many of the graves in the Baptist cemetery.

The report circulated that the Seeman house in the borough was entered by burglars Sunday night, is denied by Mr. Seeman.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., initiated two candidates at the weekly meeting held last night in the library rooms.

"The Mystery of Pain and Suffering," will be the topic of the weekly prayer meeting at the Baptist church tonight.

Leader Ben LaVere has arranged an elaborate programme for tonight's band concert at Concert Park, Plainfield.

Adam Gray, of Newark, has been visiting his brother, Joseph Gray, of Prospect avenue.

Credit Free To All

gives you all the benefits of a cash store, the convenience of a credit system and advantage that you cannot procure elsewhere.

We Make it Easy for Everybody to Dress Well.

We know you like to dress well. We know you like to dress your wife well. We know you love to see your children well dressed. Yet you are probably trying to do without new clothing and you are compelled to stay at home and so are your wife and children, because the conditions have forced your house expenses up and your income to dwindle down.

Do You Know that we sell better made clothing on credit for less money than you can buy the inferior qualities elsewhere for cash ?

WE MAKE EVERY GARMENT WE SELL

and no argument is therefore necessary to prove our statement.

It is a well-known and positive fact that the customer must pay the middle-man's profits, including traveling and salesman expenses.

Hundreds Have Opened Accounts With Us,

realizing the worth of buying direct from the makers. Come in and talk the matter over with the manager and you will surely decide that you need not wait any longer. The terms will be made to suit your convenience and nothing is added to the cash price.

We Clothe the Whole Family on Credit.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

I. N. Wyckoff, of West Front street, contracts to do first-class painting and paper-hanging.

LeVine, the Wathung avenue tailor, will make your suit look as good as new for a nominal sum.

Carpentering that is skilful is hard to get in many cases. M. D. O'Keeffe, of West Fourth street, is a carpenter of proved skill.

Trees and shrubs of all varieties may be found in the ever-complete stock of the Belleview Nursery, Belleview avenue.

If you have not had a Turkish bath you have missed the true luxury of bathing. Go to Brookside Sanitarium for one. Somerset street.

John Herrmann is a carpenter and stair builder, located on Somerset street, and if you give him a trial you will be sure to get good service.

Everything in the confectionery and ice cream line, which is made by T. P. Kolb, West Front street, is the purest to be found. All products there are fresh every day.

William Hand & Sons, of East Second street, are experienced truckmen and they will remove goods to all parts of the country. The firm's storage warehouse is up-to-date.

You don't have to search long for a place to buy good cigars when J. Philip Kirch is in business. His store is on North avenue and the best goods in the cigar line may be found there.

Laundry work has much to do with the length of time clothing lasts. Good laundering preserves the clothes—the kind you get for your money at M. A. Brown's, West Second street.

Milk that is not of the purest kind is valueless. You might as well drink water for all the good skimmed or inferior milk does you. Use Marchant Brothers' milk and get the best obtainable. North avenue.

Have you begun to save yet, young man? Don't wait too long, or the habit will never be yours. Cultivate the saving habit by starting a small account in The Plainfield Trust Company at once. Your gray years will be easier for it.

It is not bargains so much as full value for money received that the Peck store is always planning. Dealers in cheap and inferior goods can always make bargain sales. It takes probity and honor to give full value always. West Front street.

A. M. Griffen, the hardware merchant, is offering regular goods at cut prices and this is the time to secure bargains. Tinning, heating and plumbing of all kinds executed promptly and in a satisfactory manner. Hardware, machine tools, etc., also in stock.

Woodhull & Martin are offering exceptional bargains this week, including 5,000 yards of American shirting prints in the newest fall styles at very low prices, also velvetta flannels and the new outing flannels. The August furniture sale is also attracting considerable attention and for the canning season you will find all kinds of jars, jelly glasses and paraffine.

RAILROAD CLEARING HOUSE PLAN FAVORED

Judging from the attitude of the presidents of the New Jersey railroad, it is quite probable that the next thing that will come to light will be the clearing house for the prompt and economical settlement of business interchanged between the lines.

Buffalo has one for the benefit of the lines comprised in the New York Central system. This clearing house has developed into a most successful institution. The plan for its organization was devised by John Carstensen, vice president in charge of the accounting departments of the New York Central lines, and this fact gives the feature great weight, because Mr. Carstensen is one of the most experienced men in his line of railroad work.

The Pennsylvania favors the scheme because it now maintains a clearing house at Pittsburg on its own account. It is under the management of John T. Denniston and is not only saving much time, but is saving lots of unnecessary detail.

President Truesdale, of the Lackawanna, is so much in favor of the clearing house that he was desirous that one should be established simultaneously with the adoption of the per diem basis, and that it should make the settlements between the various roads. Mr. Truesdale also desired that bills for repairs to cars damaged while away from home should be settled through a clearing house, thereby effecting a great saving of time and labor, which could readily be accomplished.

President Underwood, of the Erie and President E. B. Thomas, of the Lehigh Valley, are each said to be in favor of the establishment of a clearing house for the joint settlement of railway accounts and Vice President and General Manager J. E. Childs, of the New York, Ontario and Western, is outspoken in favor of such an institution.

Two years ago, at the early meetings of the executive offices of the trunk lines, held for the correction of private car abuses, every suggestion of the correction of the abuses contained a provision that the reduced rates proposed should be enforced and settled through a clearing house.

In view of the great favor in which the plan is held by the men whose influence can readily establish one, it need be no surprise to hear that one is to be established in the very near future.

FISK ESTATE CHARTERED AS RIVERSIDE COMPANY

AMENDED CERTIFICATE FILED WITH SECRETARY OF STATE.

The Riverside company, which is the incorporation of the Fisk estate, capitalized at $725,000, and having its registered office at "Riverside," the Fisk homestead, Ewing township, Mercer county, filed an amended certificate in the office of the Secretary of State yesterday.

The company was chartered August 12 and the capital was divided into $480,000 preferred stock and $245,000 common stock.

The amendment filed yesterday provides that the preferred stock shall have a preference over the common stock in any distribution of assets other than profits, until the full par value thereof and 5 per centum of the issue shall have been paid thereon by dividends or distribution. The preferred stock is not to receive any dividends from profits in excess of 5 per centum per annum, nor any share in the distribution of assets in excess of said par value and the amount then unpaid of such cumulative dividends, but the common stock alone shall receive all further dividends and shares in distribution.

AMUSEMENTS

The story of "Why Girls Leave Home," which will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre tonight, is said to be one of the unusual dramatic plays of great intensity. The story is that of a young and beautiful girl whose character is misunderstood by her older brother, who seeks to drive instead of coaxing her, and she is induced to believe that there is more in a "Bohemian" life than in the quiet life of her home. She is saved from the evils of that kind of life by good friends and constant lover, and all ends happily with virtue triumphant and villainy exposed and punished. Messrs. Vance and Sullivan are said to have spared no expense in staging the play; the scenic investiture being very elaborate, while the members of the company are people especially suited to the characters they portray.

That really original merry-maker, "Finnigan's Ball," will be the offering of Manager Counihan at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow night. This excellent farce comedy has for several years been a welcome visitor because of its freedom from vulgarity, its fund of humor and laughable absurdities and the attention to detail which has always characterized its presentation. The wisdom of this course is practically illustrated in standard of esteem which rates it second to none in the list of drawing attractions. Among the special features this season the scenic and mechanical effects demand more than ordinary comment, since they eclipse anything of the kind ever offered in a farce comedy production. A talented company, headed by Mr. Edward F. Niner and Mr. H. B. Riggs, present the play this season.

The great musical success, "Running for Office," which emanated from the pen of that clever comedian and author, Geo. M. Cohan, comes to the Plainfield theatre Monday night. This is one of the largest and cleverest aggregations on the boards today. The music is popular, the lyrics are pointed and bright, and the third act alone contains material enough for half a dozen of the so-called comedies. Sam H. Harris, under whose direction the tour is being conducted this season, has spared no expense to make this season's enterprise keep up the standard maintained heretofore. An acting company and chorus of fifty people is a feature not to be overlooked.

One week from tomorrow night will end the most successful season ever known in Pain's Amphitheatre at Manhattan Beach. During the week there will be, besides "Port Arthur," reminiscences of the great Carnival. Labor Day will, of course, have a splendid programme appropriate to the occasion. Wednesday Philandes Council, No. 828, R. A., will visit Port Arthur and on Friday there will be a gathering of the Sons and Daughters of Old Erin, under the auspices of the Gaelic League. It will be Irish night, and everything will be done in honor of the "Old Dart." Saturday, the closing night, is to be celebrated with all fitting pomp. It will be Pain's jubilee and in all probability a farewell to the present enclosure. In honor of the occasion the lawns will be illuminated and many things will be done to make the occasion memorable.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Whiton, of Central avenue, will sail for Europe on Saturday, September 16. They will be away about three months.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Mumford, of East Ninth street, and Miss Louise Holly, of Park avenue, will leave tomorrow for a western pleasure trip. They expect to visit Yellowstone Park, also the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

Plainfield N. J., September 1, 1905.

Now look out for the man with the scintillating smile who will wink his eye and give you that chestnut that "Oysters R in season."

New York's famous subway tavern, dedicated by Bishop Potter, has failed for $13,000. No cause for surprise when you strike off the three ciphers.

"Peace has been declared in Union county. Let not the universal jubilation over the ending of the war between Russia and Japan cause the Union county imbroglio to be overlooked. City Judge Runyon, of Plainfield, whose many friends claimed for him a mortgage on the Republican nomination for Senator to succeed Judge Cross—because of services rendered to Congressman Fowler in the Kean-Fowler factional fight—nas quit. He has abandoned the claim and will not renew it for at least three years. Plainfield, the Port Arthur of Union county politics, and the hitherto impregnable fortress of the Runyon forces, has capitulated and been turned over to Ernest R. Ackerman. The preponderating influence of Senator Kean in Corea—or rather in Elizabeth and Rahway, is acknowledged. Manchuria—or, rather, the several townships—are to be completely evacuated by the Fowler-Runyon forces, but the latter are not to pay a kopec of indemnity for the total destruction of the Republican ticket in 1903. A few minor details are yet to be settled, such as the shrievalty nomination, but all these will doubtless be looked after by those who advised Judge Runyon to withdraw, and who, he declares, are 'best informed as to the county conditions,' and in whose opinions he has learned to have the utmost confidence. The Senatorial question being thus settled, the attention of the Republican leaders will be turned to the choice of a sheriff, and as there are already two aspirants in Elizabeth, the probabilities are that Dr. Lawrence, of Summit, will be given the nomination. And thus peace is assured in Union county once more, and to an outsider it looks as if the organization elements outside of Plainfield, united with the anti-organization forces in Plainfield, had won a notable victory. President Roosevelt settled the war in the East. President Roosevelt's cousin settled the war in Union county."

NO THIRD WARD MEETING.

Voters Failed to Fix Their Ticket Last Night.

The Republicans of the Third ward did not hold a meeting last night, as was expected, to select a ticket to be placed in nomination at the primaries on September 12, but such a meeting will have to be held before tomorrow, as the nominees will have to be filed by tomorrow night.

As stated yesterday, Councilman Leslie M. Daniel will undoubtedly be renominated for ward member of Common Council, and Joseph Shellabarger is likely to be nominated as a member at large. The delegates to the city and county convention and members of the city and county committees will be picked at the meeting to be held.

AMUSEMENTS.

Completing its run of many weeks, the great Boer War spectacle at Brighton Beach will close with the last performance Sunday night. This wonderful enterprise has been given exactly as it was produced at the St. Louis Exposition all last year and by press and public has been pronounced the peer of all amusements the world over. Over 1,000 men and horses are used in reproducing the noted battles of the South African conflicts, and they are so realistic it is hard to believe that the terrible scenes are not to be re-enacted. General Piet Cronje and many of the Boer heroes appear at every performance.

TRADING STAMP BILL WENT INTO EFFECT TODAY

PROVIDES THAT COUPONS MUST HAVE A REDEEMABLE VALUE.

The trading stamp bill introduced by Assemblyman Thomas R. Layden, of Paterson, and signed by Governor Stokes after the close of the legislative session, went into effect today. After providing that all trading stamps, coupons or other similar devices must have a redeemable value stamped on their face, the act requires that any person who shall issue or sell such stamps or coupons to any person engaged in any trade or business, shall upon presentation redeem them either in merchandise or cash, at the option of the holder, provided the stamps be presented for redemption in quantities calling for not less than five cents in each lot.

It is further provided that any merchant who shall distribute or deliver trading stamps or coupons shall, upon the refusal of the person or persons who originally issued them to redeem them, be liable, when presented in quantities of not less than five cents for their face value, and shall redeem them either in merchandise or cash, at the option of the holder. Any person, firm or corporation who shall violate any of the provisions of the act shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor.

JUMPS RAILS WHERE FATAL WRECK OCCURRED

FREIGHT TRAIN'S MISHAP ON THE NEWARK BAY DRAW.

Elizabeth, Sept. 1.—At the same spot where the Atlantic City flier dashed into an open switch on the Newark Bay drawbridge Friday morning, August 4, when the engineer was killed, a loaded train of sixty-seven freight cars jumped the tracks Wednesday and narrowly escaped running into the bay. The prompt application of the air brakes not only saved the engineer from a fate similar to that of William Mooney, the engineer of the ill-fated passenger train, but kept his train on the trestle.

All eastbound trains were sent to New York either by way of Newark or over the westbound tracks. The train had passed through the drawbridge. The engine remained on the tracks, but the third car from the tender, through a broken flange in the switch, jumped the track and carried six other cars with it. The wheels bumped along the ties for fifty feet before the train came to a stop.

Nobody was injured. The wrecking car was dispatched from the Elizabethport yards, and in the course of two hours the derailed train was able to proceed upon its way to Jersey City. A passenger train, eastbound, of the Baltimore and Ohio line, passed the spot only a few minutes before the accident occurred.

FESTIVAL AT WATCHUNG.

Affair Nets $50 for Benefit of School Piano Fund.

The class rooms of the school at Watchung were the scene of a very enjoyable ice cream festival last evening, held for the purpose of raising funds for a new piano. Its success was beyond all expectations, and much praise is due the teachers, Mrs. S. S. Higgins and Miss Ada G. Higgins, whose untiring efforts brought out a large attendance.

The donations of cake and other luxuries were generously contributed by the townspeople, who came in large numbers and purchased freely. The gross receipts were about $50, which is good evidence of much interest on the part of the people in its school.

An entertainment was provided which consisted of selections by the Watchung male quartette. A very clever recitation by Miss Edith Kutz, entitled "Lockery Settin' a Hen," was the cause of much laughter. Miss Edith Robinson, of Plainfield, sang a soprano solo, and instrumental numbers were rendered by the brothers Spier.

A very handsome cake was donated by Henry Voehl and won by Miss Kate Lillis, of Somerset street.

CORIELL DIDN'T WANT TO TAKE A SUBPOENA

DUNELLEN MAN IS SAID TO HAVE THUMPED ELDERLY CONSTABLE.

Constable Pierce, of Justice Von Minden's court, Dunellen, was given a batch of new subpoenas to serve in the Harrison-Stanbery damage suit this week. Among the number was one for Abner Coriell, Jr., of Dunellen.

Constable Pierce went up to Coriell in front of the latter's house Wednesday evening, and tendered him the subpoena. Coriell refused to take it. Pierce laid the paper and the service-binding half-dollar on one of Coriell's folded arms.

"Now you're served, whether you like it or not," said the constable, stepping back.

"You're a liar," Coriell is said to have exclaimed, throwing the paper and coin from him with a sweep of his arm.

"You lie yourself," retorted the constable.

Coriell's fists, according to the constable, then shot out, landing on the officer's eye and mouth. Pierce is an elderly man. He says he warded further blows off with his umbrella, and Coriell ran down the street.

The constable is minus a tooth and plus a black eye. No action against Coriell has been taken yet, and friends may patch the matter up with the officer.

VACATION DAYS.

George E. Glover, of Fanwood, will leave tomorrow for California. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Glover's two sisters.

Bandmaster Ben LaVere started on his vacation yesterday. He will leave for Greenville, Maine, near Moosehead Lake, tomorrow, for a two weeks' fishing trip.

Ralph K. Miner, of Washington street, and his sister, Miss Beatrice Miner, of East Seventh street, left today for Oriskany Falls, N. Y. The latter will remain two weeks.

John Auten, clerk at the Hotel Kensington, will leave on Tuesday afternoon for Portland, Me., where he will spend a week's vacation. He will make the trip by boat from New York.

George Cohan as a Spectator.

The audience that witnesses "Running for Office" at the Plainfield theatre Monday night will include the author of the piece, George Cohan, and his manager, Sam H. Haris. Mr. Cohan wrote the play for himself and used it as a vehicle for two seasons, but for the last year has been winning laurels in his new musical comedy, "Little Johnny Jones." His company has its first rest in many months next week, and he sent word to Manager Counihan that he would take the opportunity of seeing his own play and the new theatre at the same time.

Want Steamers' Licenses.

Trenton, Sept. 1.—Assistant Secretary of State J. B. R. Smith wrote today to Charles Clift and Moses Spencer, owners of the Gladys and F. W. Zuck, two of the steamers plying on Lake Hoptacong, demanding the return of the licenses issued by the State. This action followed a refusal of the owners to submit to a second inspection, which was insisted upon by the State authorities after the disclosures made in the report of Inspector W. H. Lewis, who examined the boats on the lake and pronounced five of them unfit for service.

CONVICTS TO WORK FOR THEIR FAMILIES

LEGISLATURE MAY PASS LAW TO THIS EFFECT.

Trenton, Sept. 1.—It is likely that the next Legislature will be asked to enact a law to compel convicts in the State prison and other penal institutions to labor during their terms of commitment for the support of their families. This is a plan advocated by Dr. George B. Wight, Commissioner of the Department of Charities and Corrections, and indorsed by Governor Stokes. The plan is also meeting with approval of other State officials and with philanthropists in general. The State Federation of Labor has been asked to co-operate in bringing about the desired reform.

Under present conditions sending a man to jail often means to deprive his family of its only means of support and to leave his wife and children in danger of starvation during his term of punishment. The prisoner is always well housed and fed and in such cases he suffers far less punishment than does his dependents. In the case of convicts without dependents, Dr. Wight would have them labor for their own support and for the support of their fellow-prisoners, allowing them only a small portion of their earnings.

17 CATS IN THEIR FLAT SO WOMEN SEEK LAW

THEIR MIDNIGHT CONCERTS MAKE A LOT OF TROUBLE.

Chicago Sept. 1.—Cats—seventeen of them in one small flat—have thrown an entire row of big apartments into a nervous state bordering on hysteria. The cats, poor things, are dead now, having been poisoned, it is charged, by an indignant woman, and the case is before Health Commissioner Whalen after its dismissal in the Hyde Park Police Court.

Mrs. Louise M. Pierce, of 4933 Indiana avenue, is accused by Miss Marie O'Neill, owner of the cats, of having administered the poison to the collection.

Following her acquittal in court, Mrs. Pierce entered a complaint before the health department on the ground that the midnight concerts of the cats afflicted the neighbors with serious nervous disorders.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

APPLE RECIPES.

Apple Fritters.

Cut a dozen large, juicy apples into slices after peeling and coring them. Throw the slices into the batter. Have ready a pan of equal parts of lard and butter, boiling hot. Take the batter up in a ladle, allowing a slice of apple to each fritter, and drop into the hot lard. Fry brown, drain a moment and serve with powdered sugar and nutmeg.

Apple Custard Pie.

Stew the apples with plenty of sugar and let them cool. Mix the yolks of six eggs with a full pint of the stewed apples; season with nutmeg and cinnamon. Add a quart of milk gradually, stirring well; then add the well-beaten whites of six eggs. This pie can be made with or without top crust, or with a crust in lattice.

Apple Merringue Pie.

Pare and slice tart apples, stew and sweeten them, mash them smooth and flavor with lemon juice and a little nutmeg. Line a pieplate with rich pie crust and fill it with the cooked apples. Put over the top of the apples a thick merringue. This pie is to be eaten cold.

Apple Salad.

Cut small round slices from the top of six nice King apples, hollow them out, making the pieces as large as possible. Do not spoil the shapes of the apples. Cut the scoopings in small squares and put them in a bowl. Cut, also the same size, the same quantity of white celery hearts and English nuts. Have half a pint of mayonnaise. Mix it with the salad, and finish with quarter of a pint of whipped cream. Mix gently and serve in the apples.

Apple Souffle.

Peel and slice six apples, put them in a pan, add a cupful of water and a cupful of sugar and let the apples cook until they become soft enough to pass through a sieve. Dissolve a small teaspoonful of cornstarch in a glassful of milk, set it over the fire and when it becomes thick add the well-beaten yolks of four eggs to it. Remove from the fire, stir into it the apple pulp and beat until it is thoroughly smooth; then stir in the whites of four eggs beaten to a stiff broth. Pour into a souffle tin and put into the oven at once. In fifteen minutes it will be cooked.—Harper's Cook Book.

NOTICE!

"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J Signed, July 12, 1905: Mrs. C. FROM A PALACE TO A PLACE IN THE CHORUS

ELEANOR DOLE, ONCE IMMENSELY RICH, EARNS HER LIVING.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 1.—Tall and handsome, with charms that have won her distinction in the courts of Europe, Eleanor Dole, former wife of Attorney General E. P. Dole, of Hawaii, a niece by marriage to the president of the island republic at the time of its annexation, accustomed to having an immense fortune at her command and society at her feet, is now appearing as a chorus girl at a local theatre.

Eleanor Dole's appearance is an echo of a celebrated case, a reminder of the marital disturbance that once created a big sensation on the Pacific coast and in Hawaii. She was a San Francisco society debutante in the spring of 1900, when she met Judge Dole, who was many years her senior. But he loved her and urged his suit, and the wedding at the Palace Hotel, in San Francisco, was one of the most brilliant events of a decade in the Golden Gate. They went to Honolulu for a time and were happy.

Then came the realization that December cannot live with May. Their tastes were different. She was young and pretty, and around her clustered a throng of admirers. She loved admiration and pleasure. He was sombre and sedate, and society had little charm for him. They were incompatible, and she returned to San Francisco at the end of two years, having agreed to give him a divorce, which was granted after a sensational trial, the contest being based on the question of alimony.

Before this, however, the couple had traveled extensively through Europe, where they were royally received in foreign courts, and honors were showered on the beautiful young wife. Around her throat, which is still pretty, she has worn the pearls of monarchs, while princesses' diamonds have adorned her hands.

After the divorce, Mrs. Dole went to Europe, a second time. She had been given alimony, and to get there and live in the style to which she had been accustomed she sacrificed all her jewels, for her parents had died, leaving less than any of her friends had ever suspected.

For a year she lived in an exclusive set. Then her funds were exhausted, and she determined to return to San Francisco with a view of entering upon some career that should yield her a living. The first opportunity she found was in the theatrical profession, and she accepted the opportunity.

EL PASO WOMEN CLEAN AND BEAUTIFY CITY

PRISONERS IN THE JAIL ORDERED OUT TO WORK.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 1.—A dozen or so women organized the Civic Improvement League.

"Mr. Mayor, we want to make a general clean-up of El Paso," the leader announced, and we want to ask you to issue a proclamation designating a certain day upon which everybody must make his premises as presentable as possible—and we want that day to be very soon, Mr. Mayor, please."

Every prisoner in the city and county jails was ordered out to work. Wagons standing on the streets were pressed into service, and every man who came in the way of the crusaders, be he hobo or bank president, was importuned to aid the good work.

The women themselves took brooms and joined the spotless-town throng, and, as they swept, they did not forget to boss the men who worked within range. Hundreds of tons of scrap paper, orange peels, boards, boxes, tin cans and other unsightly rubbish were gathered and hauled to a dumping place on the banks of the Rio Grande River.

This preliminary skirmish having been successfully carried out, the women started out the next day and personally requested every merchant and shopkeeper to have his sidewalk carefully swept before 7 o'clock each morning.

The streets were made spotless, and they are being kept so, for the city administration now sees to that. The parks were beautified. The public library grounds were thoroughly gone over until now they rival a Pasadena garden—in fact, the work of the league is evident from one end of El Paso to the other.

MRS. RANDOLPH DEAD.

Widow of Thompson E. F. Randolph Passed Away Last Night.

Mrs. Marie Antoinette Randolph, widow of Thompson E. F. Randolph, died last night at her home, in Central avenue. She had been ill about a year. Her husband died here last November, and at that time she was quite ill.

Mrs. Randolph lived in this city thirty-five years ago, and after an absence of many years returned here about six years ago, residing at her former home. She was a Miss Ireland before her marriage and was a native of New York City. She was a member of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and a regular attendant. Surviving her are five daughters, four unmarried, who live at home, and Mrs. Judson Bonnell, of East Front street.

The funeral will be held from her late home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

William Palmer Sm.... a Director.

The directors of the City National Bank met Wednesday afternoon and elected William Palmer Smith director, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Captain James Franklin Hubbard.

Bargain Matinees Saturdays.

The success of last week's afternoon performance at the Plainfield theatre has induced Manager Counihan to arrange for a bargain matinee every Saturday. Attractions that are sure to please women and children especially are to be provided and all seats except a few in the orchestra are to be twenty-five cents. The remainder will be reserved at thirty-five cents. Tomorrow afternoon and night the offering will be the comedy "Finnegan's Ball," the show that made Murray and Mack famous.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Edmund Skiff, of Grove street, have returned from their annual vacation.

INJURIES MAY BE FATAL.

Italian Hurt at Potter's In Critical Condition.

Tony Delzaso, an Italian leaving at 1328 Lincoln street, and employed at the Potter Press Works, as a helper, sustained injuries at the works yesterday afternoon which may prove fatal.

Delzaso was pulling up a heavy piece of machinery by means of a hand crane. The weight became too heavy for him and in releasing his hold he failed to jump back quick enough to escape being struck by the handle. His injuries comprise a fractured skull, a lacerated wound of the forehead and nose, a punctured wound of the left arm and a fracture of the right arm. Dr. Cregar was summoned soon after the accident and had the man sent to the hospital at once. He is quite comfortable today, but his condition is considered critical.

Sues Sanitarium Owner.

Through their lawyer, Francis J. Blatz, of this city, J. F. Noll & Company have brought suit on contract against J. W. Horter, in Justice Hand's court. Horter conducts the Resthaven Sanitarium, back of Scotch Plains, and the plaintiffs, who ars nurserymen, sue for the value of shrubbies and other plants alleged to have been placed there. The hearing is set for September 12.

Preparing for Fireworks' Display

Workmen have been busy all day at concert Park arranging the set pieces for the fireworks' display tonight. They assert that it will be doubly as large as the exhibition given two weeks ago. One new set piece to be shonwn will be a "travelling" affair that will run 300 feet along a wire in front of the grandstand. The programme is to commence promptly at 8 o'clock.

Pastor Wallace's Funeral.

The funeral services of Rev. Scott Wallace, former pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, were held from the church this afternoon at 2 o'clock. All of the local colored ministers, together with several from various parts of the State were present to take part. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, comprising many large pieces. The interment was in the Methodist cemetery in Plainfield avenue.

Strange Collie in Lockup.

Chief Marshal Weiss picked up a Scotch collie near Henry Voehl's store on Somerset street, this morning, it having disturbed the neighborhood by its strange actions. The canine was put in a cell at the borough lockup where it will be held a reasonable length of time. It wore an expensive collar with the engraving "Converse, 4 Norwich street."

Infant Dies from Convulsions.

William Traynor, the two-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph J. Traynor, of Richmond street, died this morning from convulsions. The funeral will be held from the parents' home tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

Entertained Friends at Lawn Party.

Miss Ida Tier, of Bank place, entertained about twenty of her young friends at a lawn party on Wednesday night. The grounds were brilliantly illuminated with Japanese lanterns and American colors. The evening was spent in playing games, after which ice cream and cake were served.

Goes to California.

F. A. Nittinger, the chief promotor of the company to improve and popularize Washington Rock, left Wednesday night for Los Angeles, Cal., where he will make his home with his mother and brother. His home was at Dunellen but he was employed by a local firm.

In the Toils Again.

Charles Williams, who has been getting drunk and going to jail with remarkable regularity for fifteen years, was pinched again yesterday afternoon. Judge Runyon made it thirty days this morning. This is half of Charley's usual dose.

Miss Ethel King, of Craig place, is enjoying life at Bridgehampton, Long Island.

SECOND JURY DISAGREES

Harrison's Suit Against Stanbery Again Fails to Bring About a Verdict.

SENSATION IN COURT

Foreman of Jury Alleges One of Its Members Held Unshakable Opinion Against Plaintiff.

After a three-hour deadlock in the jury room as in the first trial, the case of Oscar Harrison against William R. Stanbery, for the value of the horse and carriage destroyed in the fatal auto accident, ended in a disagreement in Justice VonMinden's court, Dunellen, yesterday. This time the preponderance of opinion in the jury room was for the plaintiff. The foreman, in reporting to the justice and counsel, said bluntly that the ballot was ten to two for Harrison.

In making his report the foreman sprung something of a sensation. He declared that one of the two men who held out for Stanbery had perjured himself when he swore he had formed no opinion at the examination of the talesmen, and that he entered the box with an unshakeable opinion against Harrison.

Aside from the jury matter there was little of interest in the suit. The afternoon testimony, but for one thing, was, like the morning's proceedings, pretty much of a reproduction of the first hearing.

One new point was introduced, and a new statement was brought before the jury, although the actual presentation of it as evidence was not allowed by the court.

The new point was a statement from Joseph Rutledge, who rode with Harrison in the runabout at the time of the accident, regarding a conversation held by him with George Stoller, a motorman, who testified to having seen Harrison driving fast at Dealaman's grocery store, just before the accident. Rutledge swore that Stoller told him that Stanbery followed the car from Plainfield avenue to Dunellen, and that he was continually cutting back and forth across the tracks. This testimony was not denied by Stoller.

Only one witness was brought into court by the defense, and his testimony was promptly ruled out. The witness was Freeholder W. A. Westphal, husband of the woman who died as a result of the crash. Mr. Westphal started to give a statement said to have been made by his wife on her deathbed. Lawyer W. L. Hetfield, Jr., for the plaintiff, immediately objected.

"May the court please," broke in Mr. Swackhamer quickly, "we merely wish to present the fact that Mrs. Westphal, as she lay in the shadow of death, affirmed that the accident was not the fault of Mr. Stanbery; that he was on the right side of the road, and was not to be blamed."

"That sort of testimony is utterly inadmissible in this action," said Mr. Hetfield, and the court so ruled. Mr. Swackhamer appeared to be satisfied with the way in which he got the statement before the jury.

An effort was made to impeach the testimony of Mrs. James Boice, who made a strong witness for the plaintiff. She testified at the previous hearing that she had no conversation with counsel before going on the stand. William Sanford, who was Harrison's counsel for a few days after the accident, went on the stand to prove that she did not speak to him. Then Mr. Hetfield brought out the fact that Mrs. Boice's answer was based on the impression that he was the lawyer referred to in the question. The impeachment fell flat.

All the testimony was in at 4:45. Mr. Swackhamer summed up first. He made a sentimental plea, much on the same lines as his address in the first trial. He spoke for twenty-five minutes. Mr. Hetfield reviewed the evidence for twenty minutes.

Mr. Swackhamer requested the court to charge that if Harrison contributed in any way to the accident he was equally liable and no verdict could be found for him. Mr. Hetfield asked the court to charge that if Harrison's contributory negligence was induced by fright, no attention must be paid to such negligence. The justice charged as requested, speaking very briefly.

The jury went out at about 5:30. At 8 o'clock they came in and called for the court and the lawyers. The foreman reported that there was no hope of agreement.

"I will lock you up all night," declared the justice.

The foreman stepped forward.

"Your honor," he said earnestly, "what are we going to do when there is a man who perjured himself on the jury, whose opinion cannot be shaken? We stand ten for damages and two for no cause of action, and one of the two came into the jury box, by his own admission to us, with an opinion formed."

WILSON FOR COUNCIL

Second Ward Republicans Decide to Make Him Their Nominee.

MELLICK AT LARGE

Friends of Tax Collector Robert L. Lee Working Hard to Secure His Return to Office.

The Republicans of the Second ward have decided upon Theodore D. Wilson as their nominee for ward councilman and George P. Mellick as the nominee for councilman at large, and these persons have been chosen as delegates to the city convention: A. Clinton Wilmerding, George H. Goddard, Leander Lovell, Julius E. Erickson, T. M. Day, Jr., and James P. Murray.

In the Third ward Leslie M. Daniel will be the choice for ward councilman, and the delegates selected from that ward to the city convention are David E. Titsworth, William S. Tyler, James W. DeGraff, James E. Kimball, Alex. Gilbert and W. A. Pinto.

In both cases the petitions were filed with City Clerk J. T. MacMurray today. Theodore D. Wilson is the present ward councilman from the Second, and it is known that he desired a renomination and election, and it is also known that there is another faction in the ward which opposes Mr. Wilson's candidacy. They favor either F. L. Montgomery or Daniel F. Ginna, but whether there is sufficient strength to secure them the nomination remains to be seen. Mr. Wilson has many good backers and is sure to make a strong fight.

So far as can be learned, there will be no opposition to the regular ticket in the Third ward, either on the part of the Democrats or a Citizens' movement. All of the tickets must be filed with the city clerk by tonight, and then it will be known just what opposition the Republicans will have in the city.

The friends of Robert L. Lee, the tax collector, who favor his nomination and election to that office for the coming year, have drafted a petition to that effect and the requisite number of delegates from the Fourth ward have been secured. The petition was filed with the city clerk this morning. These delegates to the city convention have been selected:

J. A. Green, Stephen H. Tugwell, Clifford A. Braider, E. H. Beekman, A. R. Martell, Frederick R. Phillips, Henry Leifke, J. J. Apgar and Juan A. Babcock.

There has been a feeling that the "machine" might not nominate Mr. Lee to succeed himself, and rather than take any chances, his friends have chosen delegates who will go to the city convention and urge that he be nominated for city collector on the Republican ticket.

Mr. Lee was elected by the Common Council to serve for the unexpired term of F. H. Smith, who was elected county registrar of deeds.

GAME PROBABLE.

Denman Says It Will Be Played If Rain Stops at 2 o'Clock.

Manager Denman telephoned The Daily Press this morning that if it stopped raining by 2 o'clock this afternoon it would be possible to play the game at Westfield, as the grounds at Recreation Park are easily drained.

He also says that Waller will pitch today's game, if played, also Monday afternoon's game on Crescent Oval. He will use another twirler Monday morning's game against Summit. His team will be further strengthened by Goldberg, of the Lackawanna League, who will play right field the rest of the season.

Last Call to Delinquents.

The names of owners of property on which the taxes of 1904 have not been paid will be published on Wednesday, September 6. In order to avoid publication and an additional charge of $3 on each item, it will be necessary to pay the taxes on Tuesday, September 5.

Death of Infant Daughter.

Elizabeth Titus, the two-weeks-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Titus, of Stony Brook place, died yesterday from an attack of convulsions. Funeral services were held this morning at 11 o'clock from the parents' home.

Mrs. Austin's Funeral.

Funeral servcies over the body of Mrs. Louisa M. Austin, of East Ninth street, were held in the Episcopal church, at Perth Amboy, this afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Interment was made in the cemetery of the church.

—In order to avoid carrying them over until Tuesday, Neuman Brothers, this afternoon and evening, will dispose of all their peaches and other fruit at greatly reduced prices. Here's the opportunity you have been seeking.

WHAT'S DOING LABOR DAY

Plainfielders Have a Large List of Attractions From Which to Select.

PLENTY OF SPORTS

Golf, Baseball, Horse Racing, Excursions and Theatre Among the Features.

Labor Day, the last holiday of the season, will be celebrated in various ways by Plainfielders, sports being among the chief attractions, while no doubt many will enjoy the day by taking in some of the excursions to points of interest.

Aside from the golf events at the Plainfield Country Club and Park Golf Club, there will be no local attractions in the morning, but in the afternoon there will be an important baseball game on Crescent Oval between Plainfield and Westfield for the county championship. This will be called at 3:45 o'clock. There will be golf events on the local courses all day, with many special events, and in the evening there will be social features at the Plainfield Country Club.

An interesting event will be the big shoot and formal opening of the Independent Gun Club grounds on Maple avenue. There will be an all-day shoot to be concluded with a summer night's festival on the grounds. Henry Haurand, shooting captain of the club, has charge of the details and a great time is promised.

Another event that is sure to attract many people is the eighteenth annual excursion of the Plainfield Grocers' Association to Coney Island. The excursionists will go from here to Jersey City by train and the rest of the journey will be made on one of the Iron Steamboat Company's commodious vessels.

Crescent Company, No. 13, U. R. K. of P., in charge of Captain John Hall, is planning to attend the annual field day exercises of the order to be held at Newark and the company will be accompanied by a delegation of members from Perseverance and Unity Lodges, K. of P.

Franklin, Somerset and Benevolent Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., have received and accepted invitations to attend a flag raising at Cranford, when the local Council will raise the Stars and Stripes over the new public school at that place.

As the annual convention of the Grand Castle of the Knights of the Golden Eagle, will open at Trenton on Monday, Freedom Castle, of this city, will be largely represented, as usual.

For those who like horse racing, the Raritan Driving Association, of New Brunswick, will offer an attractive programme in the afternoon. At Dunellen the local team will play two games with the Deltas, of Perth Amboy.

Regular meetings of the Common Council, Board of Education and Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital are scheduled for Monday night, but owing to the day being a holiday they are quite sure to be adjourned until Tuesday, according to previous custom.

Another opportunity to have a pleasant time is offered by the New Jersey Central on its holiday excursion to Mauch Chunk. Matinee and night performances will be given at the Plainfield theatre.

BICYCLE THIEVERY.

Another Wheel Stolen on North Avenue, and Cops Are Worried.

A Crescent bicycle, almost new, belonging to K. V. Koch, was stolen yesterday afternoon from the hallway of the Smalley building, North avenue. Koch is an employe of H. C. Van Emburgh, the civil engineer.

The theft was reported to the police. The notice of it resulted in a general order to the cops to keep a watch out for bike thieves, and the two wheels stolen within as many days in the past week. There is a fear at police headquarters that another outbreak of bike thieving such as swept over the city not long ago is beginning. The police will land heavily on any wheel thief they get into their clutches.

Barry Again in Trouble.

For the 'steenth time within as many months Charles Barry, of Howard street, was arrested by the borough police last night for allowing his cows to run at large and destroy the lawns of neighbors. He was too sick to appear before Recorder Doud last night, and trial was put over until he recovers. Barry was fined $5 for the offense about two weeks ago.

"Billy" Murray Will Sing.

Many who attended the band concert, last evening, were disappointed at the non-appearance of "Billy" Murray. An opportunity to hear him will be given tonight at Hill & Shupp's department store.

MAY DISREGARD FUSION

There is Possibility of a Straight Borough Democratic Ticket.

ANGER IN RANKS GROWS

Fellow Committeeman Criticises Swackhamer Bitterly—He is Held Responsible for Muddle—Deal Alleged.

Feeling against a hybrid ticket continued to grow among the supporters of a straight slate in the ranks of the borough Democrats yesterday, when the newspapers came out in the afternoon and made the facts of the conference between the Democratic committee and the Honeyman-Armstrong - Runyon - Debele committee became general property, the rank and file of the Democracy developed a strong sentiment against endorsing the action taken by the Swackhamer committee.

So strong had the feeling become by this morning that a prominent Democrat declared the signs pointed to the filing of a straight party ticket tonight in spite of the nominating committee's action.

Several old-line party men have registered their protest against this action to Mr. Conroy, it is said, and it is known that J. V. N. Willis, for one, spoke plainly to the fusion candidate-elect this morning. Mr. Willis is understood to have estimated Mr. Conroy's chances of election on a mixed ticket as about equal to those of a snowball in a place not on the map.

Among the party men the tendency to hold Mr. Swachamer to account for the whole affair increased every hour, until he was generally credited with the whole responsibility.

A member of his own committee—not James Daly, who was supposed yesterday to have been the only committee man at the conference to object to the course adopted—spoke bitterly of Mr. Swackhamer's leadership to a Daily Press reporter last night.

"He is the most vacillating man I ever had dealings with," he said. "He isn't sure of his own opinions from one minute to another. That man hasn't backbone enough to enjoy good health."

Another prominent Democrat was not so charitable in his estimate of the former assemblyman. He accused him of working a deal.

"The 'little black man' in the borough muddle," he said bluntly, "is that, in the event of the Citizens' movement being successful, S. S. Swackhamer is booked for borough counsel and Isaac P. Runyon for borough clerk."

The Republicans are naturally delighted with the dissension in the camp of the enemy. They are not afraid of anything the Cits may do, and an out-and-out split in the Democratic ranks contains only the promise of complete success for Mayor Smalley and his fellow candidates.

Drake College to Open.

On Tuesday, September 5, the Drake Business College, of 112-114 East Front street, will open its doors to the public to inspect its handsome and well equipped departments. This is one of the chain of six up-to-date schools that the Drake College has opened during the past 21 years. During this period they have been training young men and women for the business world. That they have met the demands of the public is evinced by the fact that they now have 10,000 students in positions.

Special Car for Knights.

The local Knights of Pythias will travel to the field day celebration of the order at Newark, on Monday, by special trolley. The car will leave the North Avenue depot at 7:30 o'clock. The party will include members of Perseverance and Unity Lodges and Crescent Company, No. 13, their wives and their girl friends. The order will parade on Broad street, and the competitive drills between the Uniformed Rank commands will be held in Belleville Park.

Rebekahs Visit Elizabeth.

A large delegation of members from Friendship Lodge, Daughters of Rebekah, journeyed to Elizabeth last night to pay a fraternal visit to a sister lodge. The trip was made by trolley and the Elizabeth lodge entertained the visitors with a programme of vocal and instrumental music, followed by refreshments.

Miss Connolly Buried.

Funeral services over the body of Miss Marie Veronica Connolly were held at St. Mary's church this morning at 9:30. Rev. Father Delahanty officiated. The interment was made at St. Mary's cemetery. The pallbearers were John and James Flynn, David Doyle, P. Connolly and Jule and Felix Parent.

ROBINSON'S DEPARTURE

It is Regretted By Hotel Keeper Leary and Others Who Trusted Him.

A GLIB TALKER

Claimed to Be Internal Revenue Inspector and Spent Good Part of His Time Sampling Wet Goods.

James Robinson, who claimed Washington as his home, registered at the Hotel Iroquois a week ago, and from all accounts he thoroughly enjoyed himself here among his newly-made friends. He left the hotel yesterday morning at 7 o'clock, and in his room was found a dress suit case with very little in it. His sudden disappearance at once gave rise to many rumors, and there are several Plainfielders who are now looking for him.

Mr. Robinson came here representing himself as an internal revenue inspector, and judging from his actions he was thoroughly posted on the subject of good liquors and the laws governing its sale. He inspected the liquors at the Iroquois and at several other places in the city, and soon after his arrival he found many friends. He made himself solid with Proprietor Jerome W. Leary by telling him that he knew many of his relatives and friends down East, where Mr. Leary formerly lived. He claimed to know Frank Linke, and to a chance acquaintance at the hotel he referred to many of his friends whom he had met abroad. Mr. Robinson talks several languages, and this helped him to gain a good foothold into various circles, and he appeared to be meeting friends every little while, all of which strengthened the belief of others in him.

During the week he got Chris. Glockler to cash a $20 check for him, but there are no funds to meet it, and at his request Mr. Leary gave him one of his own blank checks, which he filled out, but for what amount is not known. Mr. Leary, who later became suspicious, went to his bank and stopped payment on the check should it be presented with his name. Up to yesterday afternoon the check had not been returned to the bank. There was another check which found its way to the bank at Bound Brook, but it was not honored.

While in town Mr. Robinson tried to purchase less than a quart of liquor at a wholesale place, but was not successful. Although it is not believed that Mr. Robinson is an internal revenue inspector, inquiry will be made concerning him and an effort made to find him. Those who met him while here say that he was a delightful talker and polished in his manner. He owes Mr. Leary for a week's board and $3 borrowed money, and the hotel proprietor considers himself lucky that it is not a larger amount.

THE CLOSING SERVICE.

Interesting Programme Arranged for Netherwood Home Tomorrow.

The closing service at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. It will be an out-door service, led by G. E. Hall. An unusually pleasing programme has been arranged, including short talks by several friends identified with this work; also short, interesting reports regarding the summer's work. Music will be a feature of the service, including vocal solos, selections by a chorus choir and cornet solo.

Miss Sara Curry and the children of the Home will also take part in the service. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Wants Money Stake.

Manager Mullen, of the Florodora nine, has received a reply to his challenge from Captain Townley, of the firemen. Townley says he will play against the Florodoras for a stake of twenty-five dollars. Manager Mullen says he is willing to put up ten dollars if the redshirts will pitch a bonafide fireman, and not Phil Smith.

Miss Carson's Birthday Party.

Miss Edna Carson, of the borough, entertained about twenty-five of her friends at a birthday party Thursday night. The evening was spent pleasantly with games and music. At the close a supper was served. Miss Carson received a handsome new piano from her father and many ornamental gifts from her friends.

Funeral of Mrs. Winn.

The funeral of Mrs. Charles R. Winn was held from her late home on Linden avenue, this morning. It was conducted by Evangelist Robert Love. Interment was made in the cemetery at Millington.

Nothing Doing.

There was a police board meeting last night, but aside from approving the bills, no other business was transacted.

FINAL CONCERT PLEASES

PARKER MAKES HIT

Band music and fireworks, no matter whether they be of the ten cent or the twenty-five cent variety, are popular with the city and borough people. The fact was demonstrated at Concert Park last night when Ben LaVere's last big programme of the season was witnessed by just as large a crowd as gathered at any time during the year, though it cost everyone a quarter to go on the stand. The bustling leader of the band had promised that the finale would be a grand affair and it certainly was. The music was "all the goods" and the pyrotechnic display exceeded anything seen locally in years.

The instrumental numbers of the music end of the affair were all new and they were all good. Louis Anderson gathered rounds of applause for his cornet solos and the band as a whole outdid itself in giving the popular descriptive, "Going to the Hunt." Three vocalists had been announced but "Billy" Murray was kept away because of a cold and only Nick Parker and Eddie Weston appeared. Parker is a newcomer locally but no singer who has been here this season made a more instantaneous hit. As a balladist he is a top-notcher and his rendition of "Every Little Bit Helps" showed that he can do coon shouting with any of them. If Ben LaVere has another series next year and doesn't have Parker at every concert he will never be forgiven. Eddie Weston was right on his job too, and beside rendering the numbers allotted him, very obligingly filled in for "Billy" Murray. He gave a new waltz song, "Starlight," that is sure to be whistled for weeks to come.

The fireworks comprised eighteen set pieces, many of them of entirely new designs. An American flag that blazed for several minutes in a wealth of color, roused the crowd's patriotic fervor and the entire stand stood up and cheered while the band played appropriate airs.

There was a wealth of aerial affairs also that revealed lots of pretty designs and emitted not a few terrific explosions. The end came with a grand jamboree, in which bombs burst and rockets and sizzlers flew about to demonstrate the fall of Port Arthur or the seismic disturbance that worried Portsmouth shortly after the peace treaty was agreed upon.

Altogether, Ben LaVere gave the people what they wanted, and everybody went away from Concert Park fully confident that they had gotten their money's worth.

WILLIE TOOK THEATRE TICKET

As Collateral for a Debt, He Alleges, but Judge Doubts.

Willie Peel, fourteen years old, was arrested last night for taking a twenty-five cent ticket to the theatre away from thirteen-year-old Charles Fay. Willie told Judge Runyon this morning that he was only collecting collateral for a debt.

"He owed me fifteen cents, and said he wouldn't pay up, an' I took the ticket away from him."

Charles denied all knowledge of a debt.

"Sure, he owes it to me," insisted Willie. "I lent him a dime at the swimmin' pool an' he promised to gimme fifteen cents."

Charles refused to admit that there was a shadow of a debt, and Judge Runyon decided that there was no palliation at all for Willie's brigandage.

"Willie," he said, "you come here oftener than a boy should, and not for merely boyish pranks. I know that every cent counts at your home, but I'll make this thing cost you a dollar."

Willie was forced to sit in the coop until his mother ransomed him. She took him out by the ear.

They Had Naylor's Music.

Albert Naylor's orchestra furnished the music for the Coachmen's Association picnic, of Somerville, at Finderne picnic grounds, yesterday.

MURDER SUSPECT FREED

OPPOSITE OF BAD

Henry Pierce, Victim of Suspicious Circumstances and His Own Caution, is Honest Workingman.

Henry Pierce, colored, twenty-five years old, was arrested while at work in the Pond Tool Works foundry yesterday, upon suspicion of being a fugitive murderer from Haverstraw, N. Y. The suspicion faded away by court time this morning, and Henry was released after a brief hearing before Judge Runyon to cover the formalities of the case.

The murder was that of a police officer, who was taking part in a general disarmament of the big negro colony in Haverstraw. One of the negroes shot his officer dead as he approached him to search for weapons. This was on August 19.

Pierce was working in a Haverstraw brickyard at the time. He has a wife in this city, and has been in the habit of coming to see her every two or three weeks. When he heard of the shooting he decided it was time for all colored men to get out. He feared a general uprising against the blacks.

He reached town the next day. A few days later he got work in the Pond shop. He was known to have come from Haverstraw and made some reference to the murder. Other negroes began to spread the story that he was the murderer, and it reached the ears of the police.

Sergeant Frederickson and Roundsman Flynn went after him yesterday morning. He made no attempt to escape, and told his story simply. The sergeant put him through the third degree and could wring nothing incriminating out of him. Chief Kiely was sent for, and he tried his brand of third degree with no better success.

An attempt to reach Haverstraw by telephone failed on account of some kink in the wire, and the Chief wired the New York officers to communicate with him in regard to the case. They wired back that a telephone message might be looked for today.

Chief Kiely didn't wait for the message. He had been investigating Pierce's story at this end, and he learned enough to convince him that the man was a little more than honest. He was highly spoken of at the foundry and his wife said he was a good deal better as a husband than any other negro she ever heard of.

Pierce was arraigned before Judge Runyon as soon as the city court opened. The magistrate listened to his story without interruption, and told him courteously, after it was ended, that he might go.

"I would jus' like you gentlemen to know one thing," said Pierce as he picked up his hat; "I knows you all have money but I'd be willin' to pay for it. I wishes you would write to Gates county, Carolina, to Sunbury, and get some of my recommendations. They sayed I was afraid to go back to Haverstraw, but I'm goin' back tomorrow to see some frien's I lef' there. There's nothin' against me there."

INCENDIARY FIRE AT RIVERSIDE PARK

A fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin, destroyed the refreshment building and damaged the dancing pavilion at Riverside Park early yesterday morning. The early discovery of the fire by a trolley man and the quick work of Edward H. Radel, who lives directly opposite, and a bucket brigade, saved the dancing pavilion from entire ruin and also kept the flames away from the theatre. Charles L. May, of the firm of Glatt & May, the lessees of the park, thinks that someone who is jealous of this firm's success is responsible for the fire, and offers a reward of $100 for the conviction of the firebug.

There was no insurance on any part of the burned buildings. The refreshment building had been erected by Mrs. Rose Bowman, of Burnet street, New Brunswick, and is said to have cost $600. It was well stocked and had a soda fountain in it. The loss to Mrs. Bowman is estimated at $2,000. The dancing pavilion was damaged to the extent of $1,800.

Miss Annie Ryan, who has been sojourning in Europe for a year, has returned to her home in North Plainfield.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Business was practically suspended yesterday when many of the boroughites attended the Stanbery-Harrison hearing. Robert Pierce, who usually holds the Bible when witnesses are sworn in, refused to do so in the case of Abner Coriell, Jr., who assaulted him on Thursday.

The local team is playing today against Clinton Avenue in one of the last games of the season. The battery for Dunellen is Smith and Nelson, while Clinton Avenue's lineup shows a big change from its last appearance here.

There was very little business to be brought up at the regular meeting of the fire department Thursday night. What was transacted was of a routine nature only.

Jack Boyle, who has been in the employ of George Huff for the past year, resigned yesterday to take a position at the Aluminum Press Works.

William Wilson, of Lambertsville, who has been the guest of C. Starker for the past few weeks, returned to his home yesterday.

Ziba Osmun has recovered from a long siege of rheumatism. He is again driving the stage from Dunellen to New Market.

The boys' choir of St. John's church is now ready for the fall work, after two months of rehearsing.

Dunellen will be well represented at the grocerymen's excursion to Coney Island on Labor Day.

Abner Coriell, Sr., lies critically ill at his home with a complication of troubles.

Grace Gordon, of Elizabeth, is visiting her brother, P. Gordon.

The land around Hotel Carney is being regraded.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Mrs. W. S. Corey, who has been spending several weeks in the Berlin mountains, returned home yesterday feeling very much refreshed. Mrs. Corey has had a very delightful time visiting her many old friends in Berlin, Renssalaer county, New York.

The Cuban Giants, of Westfield, are playing the locals this afternoon. The Danbsters and the Westfield team are holding a peace conference at Recreation Park.

Service tomorrow at the Baptist church will be at the usual hours; at the close of the morning sermon the monthly communion will be held.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Stiliger, of Brooklyn, are visiting Mr. Stiliger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stiliger, of Front street.

Robert Walpole, who has been visiting relatives in town for two weeks, has returned to his home in Bristol, Conn.

Labor Day, the last of the summer holidays, comes Monday. The day will be generally observed in town as a holiday.

The township committee met in the town rooms last night. Only the regular routine business was transacted.

Naylor's orchestra will furnish music for the dancing at Rapp's pavilion tonight and Labor Day night.

Mrs. J. Moore-Smith, of Glasgow, Scotland, mother of Rev. T. Moore-Smith, of the Baptist church, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Minnie and Mr. Smith's oldest boy, Alexandra, sailed yesterday for America.

The new rural free delivery, which started yesterday, was gladly welcomed by the residents at Glenside Park, Berkeley Heights and the other territory covered.

Plainfield's last band concert and fireworks display of the season, which was held last night, was, as usual, well attended by the residents from here.

Rev. Fenton E. Bury, M. A., of the Irish Home Misisonary and Trinity College, Dublin, will preach at both services at the Baptist church tomorrow.

Mrs. William Hull and daughter, Miss Mattie, have returned from a stay with friends at North Branch.

Rev. Mr. Richard will lead the weekly prayer and praise service at the Methodist church tonight.

Miss Alyea and Miss Parse, both of Newark, were the guests yesterday of Mrs. George L. Dunn.

Freddie Clark has returned from a two weeks' stay with his aunt, Mrs. Carl Peterson, of Newark.

Howard D. White, who has been spending two months at Carlisle, Pa., has returned.

Henry Guerrier has taken a position with the Westfield Improvement Association.

GIRL'S LONG TRIP.

Made Journey from Russia to Trenton Unaccompanied.

Reabey Marovich, aged fifteen, arrived at Trenton on Wednesday night from Russia, from which place she traveled alone to the residence of her uncle, Max Bernstein, 190 South Broad street.

The long journey was a remarkable one for a person of her age, but she did not mind it in the least and had little difficulty in finding her destination.

When she left her home a tag was fastened to the waist she wore, and one, made of muslin, was sewed fast to her clothing, in case the other became lost.

Her father and two brothers, with whom she lived, drove her to a railway station, and then the girl's long journey was begun. After riding on railway trains for several days she arrived at Hamburg, where she was placed on an ocean liner bound for this country.

She traveled second class and carried with her two large packages, which contained her bedding, and a sum of money. She spent twelve days on the sea and arrived in this country last Tuesday. She was seasick for two days.

Arriving at the Clinton street depot, trainmen read the message written on the tag and placed her in a cab. The cab driver had some little difficulty in understanding where she wanted to go. He notified Patrolman Jacob Walters, who took her to the home of her uncle, Max Dernstein.

LAKE EXCURSION.

The beauty spot of New Jersey is Lake Hoptacong, and one who visits the place is charmed with the diversified entertainment afforded. The surroundings are delightful in every respect and a day spent in the rarified mountain air of the Jersey foothills will do wonders for the tourist. There are ample facilities for fishing and boating and one who enjoys the rambles in wooded paths and the quietness of the natural pines, to him Lake Hoptacong is the gem of places. Tomorrow the New Jersey Central is going to run one of its famous low priced and popular excursions to the Lake. Round trip $1.00, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m. The run is made in three hours, and the entire day can be spent in delightful enjoyment.

Labor Day Excursions—Lehigh Valley Railroad.

Delightful trips are announced by Lehigh Valley Railroad to Niagara Falls and Toronto. Tickets to Niagara Falls will be sold at One Way Fare plus $1.00 for round trip; on sale Sept. 2d and 3d, good for return until Sept. 4th. To Toronto at One Way Fare plus $1.00; on sale Sept. 2d and 3d, good for return until Sept. 10th, good going and returning on all trains except the Black Diamond Express.

Mr. and Mrs. William Holmes, of West Front street, have returned from Lake Champlain, where they have been spending their vacation.

Miss Elizabeth Day, cashier at Roth & Co.'s market on East Front street, will return next week from her vacation. During her absence her sister has been filling her place.

HUNTERS ARE OUT.

Wild Fowl Season Begun at Daybreak Yesterday.

Hunters were out in force yesterday, all over the State, in search of snipe, reedbirds and railbirds, duck, geese, brant and water wild fowl, the open season for which began at daybreak. There is practically no change in the State game laws so far as this game is concerned, and hunting will be permitted for the balance of the year. The open season for upland plover began August 1, and will continue for one month longer. These birds can be legally taken throughout New Jersey only in August and September.

Every indication points to a big hunting season throughout the State this year. Reports from points along the coast show an exceptional large number of fowl, while the marshes are filled with reedbirds and other small game. Woodcock, which were permitted killed during July, cannot legally be taken until October, while the season for hare, rabbit, quail, partridge, grouse, English or ringnecked pheasant, gray, black and fox squirrels does not open until November 10. The season for shore birds, surf or bay snipe opened May 1, and they can be legally taken for the balance of the year.

With the exception of quail, which has been scarce, New Jersey can boast of an abundance of game, and many gunners from neighboring States are afforded much sport. The $10.50 license fee required of non-residents does not apply to gunning for water wild fowl, snipe, marsh or mud hen.

Much credit is due to State fish and game commissioners for their work in protecting the various game birds, and every effort will be made on the part of the various game wardens and their deputies to see that the laws are not violated.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

Give the Daabsters liberal support and root long and loud for them.

Umpires Merity and Henning have ordered suits of armor, which they will wear today for the first.

"Mike" Leonard has regained his old-time form and will be in the game today from start to finish.

Westfield may pad up, but Plainfield will be there wth her same line-up, with a ten to one shot that she will win.

There will be no game on Crescent Oval Monday morning, but in the afternoon the Pirates will be here for a performance.

It is a disappointment to the Westfield fans that they cannot win more games, but reverses are often blessings in disguise.

As the Daabsters will not play in the morning, they should be in the pink of condition for the Labor Day afternoon game.

Lightweight boxing gloves will be distributed at Recreation Park today for the benefit of those who want extra protection.

A man will be able to take his best girl to Recreation Park today and enjoy the contest. A pink tea will be served afterward.

The Daabsters are playing just as good a game as any of the major or minor league clubs, and the fans should appreciate it by their support.

Special trolleys will be run from this city to Westfield this afternoon, commencing at 2 o'clock, returning immediately after the game.

Harry McCormick has failed to make a run, a hit or have a put out or assist and did not make an error in Wednesday's game between York and Altoona.

The remaining games between Plainfield and Westfield will be called sessions of the "peace conference." Both sides have waived the indemnity clause.

Manager Denman gives his word of honor that there will no trouble at Recreation Park today, and all lovers of baseball can attend the game without the slightest fear.

Word comes from Westfield that today's contest will be a victory for the Pirates. If this be true, the Daabsters will have to wait until Labor Day afternoon to clinch the pennant.

The sooner that players learn that Umpire Merity will not stand for abusive language, the better it will be for them. For further reference inquire of Harry McCormick, formerly of Westfield.

In planning your Labor Day pleasures, don't forget the baseball game on Crescent Oval in the afternoon between Plainfield and Westfield for the county championship. It will be a contest well worth going miles to see.

Captain Dave Driscoll is spending the week at Prospect House, Shelter Island Heights, N. Y., where he says that it is not quite so noisy as on Crescent Oval. "Dave" will be on hand today to help win the contest. test.

It is too bad that George Schaefer, sporting editor of the Westfield Leader, is so biased in his account of last Saturday's game. He holds Waller blameless for his act of throwing the ball at Merity, and says that "it was Merity's rank decision in calling Kiernan safe at home, when he was actually caught five feet from the plate." Again, Mr. Schaefer says that the series will be played out as scheduled, no matter if Westfield doesn't win any other than the game fairly won at Plainfield August 5.

THE DAY OF OUTINGS.

The one pleasure which the American public thoroughly enjoys is its outings. Low priced and at popular places and where there may be unrestrained enjoyment in out-of-door sports.

Around New York there are many popular resorts, but perhaps the most popular for holiday excursions is Mauch Chunk, in the mountains of Pennsylvania. The journey is delightful and passes through an interesting country, through the farm lands of New Jersey and then into that busy section of the Keystone State, which bristles with industries which are renowned the world over. Mauch Chunk is high in the mountains and the exhilarating atmosphere is a tonic for the hived-up city man. The chief feature of the trip to Mauch Chunk is to make the journey over the Switchback railroad, which is a gravity road some eighteen miles in length. The tourist is carried at a rapid rate to the inclines of Mts. Pisgah and Jefferson, over which the cars are lifted by mammoth mechanical devices, only to continue the romantic journey to the end, ever fascinating and thrilling.

On Labor Day the New Jersey Central will run one of its popular priced excursions to Mauch Chunk, the rate for the round trip to be $1.50, and special train will leave Plainfield at 9:20 a. m.; returning train will leave Mauch Chunk at 5:30 p. m. This is a trip worth taking, and to miss it will be doing yourself an injustice.

OLD STYLE ONES THAT CAUSE WRECKS TO BE REPLACED.

Another important move to reduce train wrecks and increase the safety of transportation, both of passengers and freight, will be made by the Pennsylvania Railroad. All old-type freight cars about 12,000 in all, are to be broken up and the salvage is to be used toward defraying the expense for new, improved steel cars.

These old cars, which are much weaker in construction than the heavy cars now the standard on all first-class railroads, are a constant source of wrecks, in which many are crushed between the heavy steel cars.

Conference on the matter and concerning the new cars, which must be bought to replace the old ones, was held yesterday between Charles E. Pugh, second vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, and D. F. Crawford, general superintendent of motive power of the Western lines.

White not yet definitely decided, it is probable that 8,000 cars, costing about $8,000,000, will be ordered now. This year the Pennsylvania has received 11,340 new cars.

Orders Handsome House Built.

J. D. Phillips has commissioned H. H. Hoffman, the contracting builder, to erect a handsome, modern residence on Denmark road. The structure will be two-story and attic, containing nine rooms and two bathrooms. It will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000. The plans for the house were drawn by F. L. Lancaster.

Grant Avenue, between West Eighth Street and Sherman Avenue.
East Seventh Street, between Richmond Street and Woodland Avenue, including house connections, and including appurtenances of said sewerage system in connection therewith;—the streets and parts of street in which the same were so made and constructed and the location and dimensions of the several lots, tracts and parcels of land and real estate so assessed being delineated on a certain set of Maps numbered A 1, A 2, A 3, A 4, and B 1. Sewer Extension Assessment Maps, dated August 1st, 1905,—and attested by the signatures of said Commissioners, and filed in the office of the Collector of Taxes, August 1st, 1905.

And it was ordered by said Common Council that said Common Council will proceed to consider, review, alter, ratify and confirm the said Report and Assessments at a meeting of said Common Council to be held at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., on Tuesday, the 5th day of September, 1905, at 8 o'clock p. m., at which meeting all persons interested in or affected by said improvements on account of which said assessments were made, will be given ample opportunity to be heard upon the subject of said assessments.

The character of the work and improvement for which said assessments have been made is shown by the foregoing, and in general is the construction of said sewers and appurtenances (including house connections) and said system of sewerage and appurtenances; and the streets and avenues or particular sections thereof which are included in said assessments are those hereinabove particularly set forth.

In Chancery of New Jersey.

To David Arthur, Jr., and Mrs. David Arthur, Jr., his wife:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein John F. McIntyre is complainant and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, demur or answer to the complainants bill on or before the sixteenth day of October next, or in default thereof, such decree will be made against you as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by David Arthur, Jr., to the complainant on lands in the Borough of North Plainfield, Somerset County, New Jersey, said mortgage dated June 11, 1900, and registered in the Clerk's office of Somerset County, in Book (V No. 4) of Mortgages for said County, on page 157, etc.

And you David Arthur, Jr., are made a defendant because you claim to own an interest in said mortgaged lands.

And you Mrs. David Arthur, Jr., are made a defendant because you are the wife of David Arthur, Jr., above named, and because you claim or may claim an inchoate right of dower in and to said mortgaged lands.

AMUSEMENTS

That happy jumble of frivolity, "Finnigan's Ball," will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre this afternoon and tonight. This popular offering for several seasons has been delighting theatregoers generally. It was first produced by Murray and Mack, who scored an instantaneous success, and it proved to be a wonderful money maker for them. This season Edwin Franklin has secured it from them and is presenting it with a company of 20 people headed by Edward F. Niner and H. B. Riggs. The skit has been carefully rehearsed and produced under the direction of Chas. A. Murray, of Murray and Mack.

"Running for Office," considered by many the best musical play Geo. M. Cohan has yet written and produced, will be presented at the Plainfield theatre Labor Day, afternoon and night, and is sure to prove one of the big theatrical events of the year. All of Mr. Cohan's plays are now immensely popular. It was Mr. Cohan who wrote and produced the phenomenal successes" Little Johnny Jones" and "The Governor's Son." This season's company presenting "Running for Office" was personally rehearsed by Mr. Cohan. It will be seen here with the same mammoth production and presented by the same great company of fifty people that has made it one of the leading attractions in the largest cities. The play is full of typical Cohan song hits and Manager Counihan believes it will prove the peer of any attraction that has yet held the boards at his handsome house of amusement. The costumes are "stunning," the girls the prettiest and most graceful of any on the stage and as an incentive to good work, Mr. Cohan will come to Plainfield for the sole purpose of witnessing the production. The seat sale for both matinee and night is now on.

Luna Park continues the Mecca of the Coney Island crowds, and, if present indications go for aught, September will be one of the biggest months in the history of this great seaside resort. Unusual preparations are being made in connection with the big Mardi Gras jubilee, which is scheduled to continue for five days commencing September 19. During this period the Island will be treated to a series of bewildering pageants in which all of the various shows will participate. Thompson and Dundy are taking a personal interest in the management of the affair, which is of itself a sufficient guarantee that it will rival the Mardi Gras at New Orleans, a magnet which attracts thousands of visitors from all over the world to the Crescent City every year. Naturally, Luna Park will be the very heart of these immense displays. There will be added attractions in the free circus hippodrome, while thousands will visit the ever-popular "Fire and Flames" and "A Trip to the Moon," the success of which seems destined to be everlasting, is certain to attract the usual big crowds.

George Ade's quaint comedy, "The County Chairman," which will be presented for a week at the Grand Opera House beginning Monday matinee, (Labor Day) Sept. 4, evidently has no rivals in the esteem of the public for its tour is one long triumph attested by crowded houses which approve with heartiest laughter the many delicious drolleries, well drawn types and pictorial features of the play. "The County Chairman" needs no introduction to patrons of the Grand as it appeals especially to lovers of light comedy, and the graphic and cleverly portrayed characters which Mr. Ade has transcribed from nature, furnishes a fund of merriment to the playgoer who appreciates clean cut and truthfully painted humanity. Essentially American in tone, "The County Chairman" bids fair to become a classic, and in these days of meritricious productions and inane horse play, the interpretation by the original company, including Maclyn Arbuckle, Willis P. Sweatman, Florence Smythe, Luella Smith, Cyril Raymond, Martha Conway, Edwin Chapman, Christine Blessing, E. R. Phillips, Charles Fisher, W. J. Gross and other capable comedians, leaves nothing to be desired.

Boy of Sixteen Said to Be Bigamist.

Binghamton, N. Y., Sept. 2.—Lestershire, a suburb of this city, has developed an embryo Johann Hoch in the person of Bert Allen, a sixteen-year-old youth, for whom the authorities are now looking. Allen came to Lestershire a year ago and obtained employment in the shoe factory. Three weeks ago he met Ethel Williams, fourteen years old, at a merry-go-round, and they fell in love. On Friday, August 18, the couple were married by Rev. John A. Davis. Later it developed that Bessie Allen, of Scranton, Pa., had been in the village several days, endeavoring to get track of her husband. Allen was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Ingerson on his wedding day for non-support of his first wife, but was discharged on his promise to take care of her, the authorities not being aware of the second marriage. It developed that Allen married his first wife when he was thirteen, she being sixteen. Now he has disappeared, and when last seen was on his way to Philadelphia. His wives fear that he has committed suicide, as he was very despondent over the disclosures.

Miss Bertrude Townley, of Grandview avenue, has returned after a visit with relatives in the country.

Monday being a legal holiday The Daily Press will not be issued on that date.

Notwithstanding that Plainfield is a city of trees, we print the following from the Trenton State Gazette. There are some long stretches of glare on our streets; let property owners profit by the following suggestion:

"The season of the year for tree planting is here and property owners ought to beautify their lots by setting out shade trees on them. Trees are inexpensive. Any person who is able to own a house can afford to set a tree out in front of it which will grow to be a comfort and a pleasure within a short space of time. Tree planting is encouraged in Newark by a commission appointed by the mayor. Its support costs the city a few thousand dollars a year, but the improvement in the appearance of the streets that the commission has made is worth all that it has cost."

The justice decided that the discharge of the jury was the only action to take under the circumstances.

It is said that the man referred to by the foreman rode on Motorman Stoller's car the day of the accident, and that he claims to have seen Harrison driving fast, as the motorman swore. If he had an opinion formed when he went into the box, he is liable to punishment under the law, but Lawyer Hetfield said last night that no action would be taken. His name is known.

It is known that only one ballot was taken by the jury. The vote went ten to two for the plaintiff from the beginning and stayed that way.

Preparations have been made for another trial. The new hearing is set for September 21.

"We will fight this thing to a finish," said Mr. Hetfield last night.

BOROUGH COUNCIL HAS A DULL SESSION

PRACTICALLY NO BUSINESS AT REGULAR MONTHLY MEETING.

Next to nothing happened at the monthly meeting of the Borough Council last night. The body has rarely held a duller session, even in the heart of summer.

To begin with there was barely a quorum present, and the meeting was twenty minutes late in starting. Scarcely more than ten minutes sufficed to transact all the business. Councilmen VanArsdale, Arnold and Krewson and the Mayor were present.

An invitation to attend a fair to be held for the benefit of the building fund was received from the Saengerbund. The organization asked the Mayor and the whole Honorable Council to attend the affair some night, preferably the opening night, October 9, and make some speeches.

Councilman VanArsdale, to whom the communication was referred, made a motion later to accept the invitation, and set the first night as the date of the visit.

"I can go that night," he said, "how about the rest of you?"

"I'll go with you," said the Mayor promptly. "The only thing about it is that I'm a candidate, and candidates aren't supposed to make speeches.

"Is there any objection to this from the Citizens' party?" he asked Mr. Krewson.

"I guess not," responded the lone representative of the Cits, after brief consideration.

"Then the motion goes through unanimously."

Brooks Carson was appointed to a vacancy in the fire department as call man. The appointment was confirmed, and Carson was sworn in immediately after the session.

For the street committee, Councilman Arnold reported that general street work had cost the borough $155.80 during the month of August. Fifteen dollars and fifty cents was spent for crushed stone for Somerset street.

Nobody was sent to the county jail from the borough during August. Councilman VanArsdale's report for the police committee disclosed that interesting fact. The other features of the report were: Seventeen arrests; two suspensions of sentence; and $101 in fines.

Adjournment was taken with a hurry-up vote. After the meeting the administration lawmakers went to the theatre. They only missed part of the first act.

MET AT HUSBAND'S GRAVE; ENGAGEMENT FOLLOWS

HAPPY ROMANCE THAT READS STRANGER THAN FICTION.

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 2.—The marriage tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock of Guisto Farrara, an Italian sculptor, and Mrs. Felicite Arienta, will happily end a romance stranger than fiction. Two weeks ago today for the first time in forty years the two met, at the grave of the husband of Mrs. Arienta. Farrara had agreed to carve in the Arienta monument in bass-relief the likeness of Mr. Arienta, never suspecting that the widow was his playmate in the sunny country district near Leghorn, Italy, where both were born.

Farrara, when nine years old, left Leghorn to go with his older brother Annibal, also a sculptor, to Lyons, France, to study, leaving behind Felicite Arienta, four years old.

Farrara made rapid strides in sculpture, and was soon in the employ of the French government. Later he came to this country. Two of his most popular works are the offering of the State of Pennsylvania to the Gettysburg negroes, an allegorical figure, "The Defence of the Stars and Stripes," a figure surmounted by an eagle eleven feet from tip to tip of the outstretched wings, and the statue of George Washington in Scranton, Pa.

Two months ago Farrara agreed to come to this city to do some work for a local monument dealer. The fact that he was in this city became known among the Italian residents after a short time, and Mrs. Arienta, not recalling the little playmate of her native land, through an agent, negotiated for the work she wished done on her husband's monument.

Two weeks ago today she met Farrara while he was measuring her husband's monument, and after a few moments' conversation was surprised and overjoyed to learn that he was none other than her playmate of forty years ago. The pleasure was mutual. Farrara had not married, and Mrs. Arienta had no relatives in this section. Her home since her husband's death had been in one of the local hotels. After a long conversation beside the grave of her husband Mrs. Arienta and Farrara parted with the understanding that they should meet often during the stay of the artist in this city. Two days after they first met their engagement was announced.

The marriage tomorrow will be celebrated by the Rev. Father Gaetano Ceruti, pastor of the Church of the Holy Rosary, assisted by four visiting priests. The matrons of honor will be Mrs. Louise Marl, wife of a New York importer and real estate dealer, whose summer home is at Stamford, Conn., and Mrs. James J. Sexton, through whose husband the two met. Annibal Farrara, brother of the bridegroom, and Frank Lanza, a banker, of New York City, will attend Mr. Farrara.

Farrara has suspended work on the Arienta monument pending the wedding festivities, but says that on his return from the wedding tour he will resume it at once. He has decided to remain in Bridgeport permanently.

TURKEYS START A FEUD.

Costly Holiday Birds Strayed, Were Killed and Caused Much Trouble.

Moorestown, Sept. 2—When Humphrey Harvey's turkeys strayed upon the farm of George Kern, his neighbor, they never knew what a lot of turmoil they were about to stir up and how much they were going to cost the county of Burlington. Kern didn't want turkey in his, so he killed two of the festive birds just to teach the others to keep off. Harvey wanted redress for the loss of the fowls, which promised to be costly holiday gems, and he brought suit to recover $200 damages.

The suit was heard Monday night before Justice of the Peace Pettit and a jury, and it grew so warm that at times there were prospects of bloodshed. The jury did not think that dead turkeys were worth so much as $100 apiece, but fixed the price at $3 each, for which the owner got judgment. Kern may appeal, and the feud is on.

At the conclusion of the stormy trial John Kern, father of the defendant, accused George Thorn, one of the witnesses for the plaintiff, of lying while under oath.

Thorn resented the imputation and there was a mix-up, in which blows were struck and serious trouble was averted only by cool heads. Thorn had the elder Kern held on a charge of assault, and he will have to appear at the September term of court.

TO WASH GLASSES.

Never put heavy, elaborately cut-glass into very hot water. The depth of the cutting makes it dangerous to expose the glass to the sudden expansion caused by the plunge into the hot water. Rinse in tepid water to which has been added a little ammonia, and clean the irregular surfaces with a soft brush. It also is unsafe to turn ice into a cut-glass dish unless it has been gradually chilled in the icebox.

Cracked cut-glass can frequently be preserved to a useful old age by the skillful insertion of a few rivets. These will not be noticeable and can be supplied at any crockery store.

ROCKEFELLER'S SON TO DIRECT HIS GIFTS

OIL KING'S HEIR SUGGESTS SYSTEM FOR MAKING BEQUESTS.

New York, Sept. 2.—Hereafter all gifts from John D. Rockefeller will be given with regard to a system originated by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., from personal European observations made by the latter. Young Mr. Rockefeller has conferred with his father on the matter, and gained the multi-millionaire's consent to his modern ideas.

It is said that Mr. Rockefeller, while in Europe last winter, was greatly impressed by large gifts of money made for the public good by wealthy Europeans. After returning to New York, he spoke to his father about making similar contributions here. The oil king agreed with his son, and will follow the young man's advice in the matter of all future charitable bequests.

It is also hinted that the new contributions of the Rockefellers for educational and other purposes this year will so far surpass those they have heretofore made that the announcement of them will startle the country.

TROLLEY OFFICIALS SEEK MISSING MORTORMAN

DISAPPEARED AFTER WRECK ON THE FAST LINE TUESDAY.

The officials of the Trenton and New Brunswick fast line have detectives searching for William Stoetelmyer, the motorman who had charge of the work car which collided with a New York express trolley at the Dayton trestle Tuesday afternoon, as he has disappeared.

Stoetelmyer, it is claimed, became frightened after he saw the injured and debris of the wreck, and ran away. His whereabouts are not known.

Stoetelmyer received an injury to his left ankle as the result of jumping from his car when he saw that a collision could not be averted. Immediately after the damage had been done the motorman went across the fields to the farm house of Albert Messeroll, and was from there driven to Plainsboro, where he telephoned a report of the accident to the headquarters in Trenton. From Plainsboro, it was believed, Stoetelmyer went to his home.

Officials of the company are of the opinion that he went to New Brunswick, where he took a train.

Stoetelmyer was a green hand in the service of the company, he only having been employed about three weeks as motorman.

NOTICE!

"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James, Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J. FOR THE GENTLER SEX

COOKING WITHOUT HEAT.

The government has been experimenting with a scheme that every housewife ought to know about, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

This is a process of cooking without fire or any of its substitutes—gas, electricity or oil.

The sole heating process used is that generated by a big box of hay. The article to be cooked is first boiled five or six minutes on the stove, in the ordinary manner, then covered tightly, buried in the hay box, and allowed to remain there two hours, more or less, according to the time found necessary for its thorough cooking.

It takes rice just two hours to cook to a delicious flakey consistency by this method. Macaroni requires an hour and ten minutes. An Irish stew, with meat and potatoes, takes two hours. Beans need the same length of time.

After the five minutes' boiling on the gas stove the latter can be turned off, all the balance being accomplished by the hay box. The saving in heat and expense is at once apparent. Consider also the convenience of this method. The picnic dinner can be cooked in the wagon while on the way to the picnic; the Sunday vegetables in the carriage while on the way to church.

There is no danger of burning or scorching the food cooked by this method, so that for the housewife who wants to put her supper on and then get busy about something else or take a nap or pay a visit, the hay box commends itself as a veritable godsend.

It looks as if the time may come when the family cook stove will cease to be the unholy fetich Charlotte Perkins Gilman says it is—when its place will be taken by the silent, heatless, inconspicuous, labor-saving and economical box of hay. The government's experiments were made with an old trunk filled with hay and kept tightly closed. It is the purpose of the official who has the experiments in charge to make the same trial with powdered cork and corrugated paper instead of hay.

Apple Custard.

Pare and core medium-sized apples and steam them until they are tender, then press through a colander. For the custard allow for each apple one tablespoonful of syrup, one-quarter of a pint of milk, one egg and one-half teaspoonful of butter. While the apple is hot add the butter, the yolks of the eggs, the sugar and the milk, beaten to a custard. Pour this mixture into buttered baking cups and bake in a pan of hot water for twenty minutes. Have ready the beaten whites of the eggs, sweetened. Heap these on top of the custards, dust with powdered sugar and brown for a moment in a hot oven. Serve cold from the cups.

Peach Roll.

Pare and cut up fine half a dozen peaches and sweeten them liberally. Mix together one pint of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt and one small tablespoonful of butter. Mix with sweet milk until it can be handled just comfortably. Roll out, spread it with the sliced peaches and roll it up, pinching the ends to give it a long, narrow shape. Lay this in a deep baking dish, sift flour over it lightly, dust with pulverized sugar and add a few bits of butter and a cup of boiling water. Cover with a lid and bake for thirty minutes. Remove the lid and brown for five minutes. Serve hot from the pudding dish. The water, flour, sugar and butter, together with the peach juice, will have formed all the sauce necessary.

Mixed Fruit Pudding.

Peel and core enough tart apples to fill a deep baking pan. Fit them in snugly and fill in the holes left by the cores with seedless raisins and bits of shredded citron and lemon peel. Dust them with sugar. Pour over them half a cupful of water and bake in a slow oven until perfectly tender. Remove them from the oven, sprinkle lightly with bread crumbs, dust with sugar and bake ten minutes longer. Serve with the following sauce:

Beat together in a stewpan one tablespoonful of flour and one-half cupful of sugar. Pour over this a cup of boiling water and bring to a boil. Remove from the fire and pour this slowly over one egg well beaten. Flavor with a dash of lemon. Pour over the baked fruit and serve immediately.

ADVICE TO GIRLS.

Be a living example of your preachings.

Have the courage of your convictions.

Have superior and not inferior friends. We are judged by our company.

Your instincts are rarely at fault. If you are instinctively antagonized toward some things don't be persuaded against your will.

Bring an open mind toward all opinions.

Judge for yourself and be certain that your judgment is built on firm ground.

If you have made an error and recognize it, submit graciously. Don't try to convince your listeners in spite of the error.

Be deeply sympathetic and unselfish if you wish to be truly popular.

IN THE BISHOP'S CARRIAGE

By MIRIAM MICHELSON

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company).

CHAPTER XI.

"DON'T you think you'd better get out of this?" I asked Obermuller, as he came into the station a few minutes after I got there.

"No."

"I do."

"Because?"

"Because it won't do you any good to have your name mixed up with a thing like this."

"But it might do you some good."

I didn't answer for a minute after that. I sat in my chair, my eyes bent on the floor. I counted the cracks between the chair and the floor of the office where the chief was busy with another case. I counted them six times, back and forth, till my eyes were clear and my voice was steady.

"You're awfully good," I said, looking up at him as he stood by me. "You're the best fellow I ever knew. I didn't know men could be so good to women. . . . But you'd better go—please. It'll be bad enough when the papers get hold of this, without having them lump you in with a bad lot like me."

He put his hand on my shoulder and gave it a quick little shake.

"Don't say that about yourself. You're not a bad lot."

"But—you saw the purse."

"Yes. I saw it. But it hasn't proved anything to me but this: you're innocent, Nance, or you're crazy. If it's the first, I want to stand by you, little girl. If it's the second—good God! I've got to stand by you harder than ever."

Can you see me sitting there, Mag, in the bright, bare little room, with its electric lights, still in my white dress and big white hat, my pretty jacket fallen on the floor beside me? I could feel the sharp blue eyes of that detective Morris feeding on my miserable face. But I could feel, too, a warmth like wine poured into me from that big fellow's voice.

I put my hand up to him and he took it.

"If I'm innocent and can prove it, Fred Obermuller, I'll get even with you for—for this."

"Do you want to do something for me now?"

"Do I?"

"Well, if you want to help me, don't sit there looking like the criminal ghost of the girl I know."

The blood rushed to my face. Nance Olden, a sniveling coward! Me, showing the white feather—me, whimpering like a whipped puppy—me—Nance Olden!

"You know," I smiled up at him, "I never did enjoy getting caught."

"Hush! But that's better. . . . Tell me now—"

A buzzer sounded. The blue-eyed detective got up and came over to me.

"Chief's ready," he said. "This way."

They stopped Obermuller at the door. But he pushed past them.

"I want to say just a word to you, chief," he said. "You remember me. I'm Obermuller, of the Vaudeville. If you'll send those fellows out and let me speak to you just a moment, I'll leave you alone with Miss Olden."

The chief nodded to the blue-eyed [illegible] and he and the other fellow went out and shut the door behind them.

"I want simply to call your attention to the absurdity and unreasonableness of this thing," Obermuller said, leaning up against the chief's desk, while he threw out his left hand with that big open gesture of his, "and to ask you to bear in mind, no matter what appearances may be, that Miss Olden is the most talented girl on the stage to-day; that in a very short time she will be at the top; that just now she is not suffering for lack of money; that she's not a high-roller, but a determined, hard-working little grind, and that if she did feel like taking a plunge, she knows that she could get all she wants from me even—"

"Even if you can't pay salaries when they're due, Obermuller." The chief grinned under his white mustache.

"Even though the Trust is pushing me to the wall; going to such lengths that they're liable criminally as well as civilly, if I could only get my hands on proof of their rascality. It's true I can't pay salaries always when they're due, but I can still raise a few hundred to help a friend. And Miss Olden is a friend of mine. If you can prove that she took this money, you prove only that she's gone mad, but you don't—"

"All right, Obermuller. You're not the lawyer for the defense. That'll come later—if it does come. I'll be glad to bear in mind all you've said, and much that you haven't."

"Thank you. Good night. . . . I'll wait for you, Nance, outside."

"I'm going to ask you a lot of questions, Miss Olden," the old chief said, when we were alone. "Sit here, please. Morris tells me you've got more nerve than any woman that's ever come before me, so I needn't bother to reassure you. You don't look like a girl that's easily frightened. I have heard how you danced in the lobby of the Manhattan, how you guyed him at your flat, and were getting lunch and having a regular picnic of a time when—"

"When he found that purse."

"Exactly. Now, why did you do all that?"

"Why? Because I felt like it. I felt gay and excited and—"

"Not dreaming that that purse was sure to be found?"

"Not dreaming that there was such a purse in existence except from the detective's say-so, and never fancying for an instant that it would be found in my flat."

"Hm!" He looked at me from under his heavy, wrinkled old lids. "You don't get nice eyes from looking on the nasty things in this world, Mag."

"Why," I cried, "what kind of a girl could cut up like that when she was on the very edge of discovery?"

"A very smart girl—an actress; a good one; a clever thief who's used to bluffing. Of course," he added, softly, "you won't misunderstand me. I'm simply suggesting the different kinds of girl that could have done what you did. But, if you don't mind, I'll do the questioning. Nance Olden," he turned suddenly on me, his manner changed and threatening, "what has become of that $300?"

"Mr. Chief, you know just as much about that as I do."

I threw up my head and looked him full in the face. It was over now—all the shivering and trembling and fearing. Nance Olden's not a coward when she's fighting for her freedom; and fighting alone without any sympathizing friend to weaken her.

He returned the look with interest.

"I may know," he said, insinuatingly.

"Possibly." I shrugged my shoulders.

No, it wasn't put on. There never yet was a man who bullied me that didn't rouse the fighter in me. I swore to myself that this old thief-catcher shouldn't rattle me.

"Doesn't it occur to you that under the circumstances a full confession might be the very best thing for you? I shouldn't wonder if these people would be inclined to be lenient with you if you'd return the money. Doesn't it occur—"

"I MAY KNOW MORE."

STATE GEOLOGIST IS LOOKING OVER FORESTS

MAJORITY OF TRACTS OFFERED HIM ARE UNFIT FOR PRESERVES.

State Geologist Henry B. Kummel, acting for the State Forestry Commission, is actively prosecuting the work of preparing for the establishment of State forest preserves under the plan outlined by Governor Stokes in his inaugural address and embodied in the act passed by the Legislature last winter.

Following the organization of the commission several weeks ago, it was announced that the State was ready to purchase tracts of forest lands under an appropriation of $14,000, made by the Legislature, and offers of all sorts of forest lands were made to the commission. Professor Kummel has been busy the past two or three weeks investigating these offers, and has been assisted by Dr. John Gifford, of Princeton, formerly forester at Cornell University, and F. R. Meier, a consulting forester, of Mahwah, Bergen county.

Professor Kummel stated yesterday in an interview that most of the tracts tendered are utterly unfit for the purpose of forest preserves. Most of those offering to sell, he said, seemed to have the idea that they could unload on the State any kind of forest lands at a fancy price. Many of the tracts offered, when investigated, proved to be small detached forests surrounded by improved farm lands.

A few tracts have been found, however, that are adapted to the purpose for which the State wants them, that is, for permanent State forest reservations. One of these is a tract of 1,600 acres in Cumberland county, near the Cape May county line. This is assessed at $3 an acre, but the owner has offered it to the State for $2 an acre.

The tracts that have been found suitable by Professor Kummel and his assistants will be recommended to the State commission, and it is expected the commissioners will arrange to purchase them. Action is likely to be taken in a short time and the work of establishing the preserves will then be undertaken.

Professor Kummel stated that although the law creating the commission empowered it to employ whatever assistants may be needed, it is not likely that a State forester will be appointed for some time. He said the commissioners would employ consulting foresters until the new department is thoroughly established.

CURSE FULFILLED.

Hoped Girl Would Have Six Pairs of Twins—She Has.

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 2.—When Mr. and Mrs. Allen C. Deppe, of Hickory Run, at the age of forty years, became the parents of twenty-three children, upon the arrival of their sixth pair of twins last week, there was fulfilled an extraordinary curse.

A little more than twenty years ago Mrs. Deppe was Miss Elizabeth Searfass, and was living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Searfass, at Albrightsville. She was engaged to the son of a neighboring farmer when Allen Deppe appeared. After a short acquaintance, lasting only a few weeks, Deppe and Miss Searfass eloped and were married.

The bride's parents and the neighbors, with whom Deppe had made himself popular, took the elopement in good part and counted it a joke on the other fellow. The jilted fiance, however, was terribly disappointed. Instead of congratulating the bride he uttered an imprecation, wishing she would become the mother of the largest family ever known, including six pairs of twins.

CHINA HIRES AMERICANS.

United States Army Officers Will Teach Orientals How to Shoot.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Two officers of the United States army who have resigned their commissions expect to serve under the dragon flag of China. They are to receive high rank in return for introducing Western ideas into the antiquated military system of the Celestial Empire. The two officers are First Lieutenant Henry L. Harris and Second Lieutenant Morton Russell, both of the Twenty-second Infantry. They were stationed, up to the time of their resignation, at Camp Keithley, Mindinao, P. I. Harris will be a colonel, Russell a major, in the Chinese army; the former at $7,000, the latter at $5,000 a year. The negotiations of the Peking government for their services were carried on through Consul-General Su, at Manila. It is said that at least half a dozen Americans who held commissions with the scouts in the Philippines have been tempted to throw their fortunes with the empire of the East.

Battleship New Jersey.

Trenton, Sept. 2.—Adjutant-General Brientnall has received a letter from the Secretary of the Navy advising him that the battleship New Jersey will probably be ready to be put in commission on April 1, 1906. This will give ample time for the completion of the $10,000 silver service which the State will present to the battleship about the time of its commission. Governor Stokes wishes the service completed in time to have it placed on exhibition at some place in the State before it goes to the battleship.

The losing teams in the American League Thursday made a total of two whole runs.

Westfield will be accompanied by a big band of rooters on Monday, when the team comes here. It is a case of win or die.

"Kid" Nichols, now of the Philadelphia Nationals, still has the freest, easiest movement of any pitcher in the business.

George Wiltse, of the Giants, always plays a fine fielding game, but his work on Thursday was a little better than usual.

The Labor Day afternoon game will be called at 3:45 o'clock. Be on hand early for a good seat. There will be no morning contest.

Don't forget the game at Crescent Oval Monday afternoon between Plainfield and Westfield. The contest will be a hot one throughout.

Support Manager Daab and his fine team by attending the game on Monday and show your appreciation of their efforts to give the town the best ball it ever had.

While such a thing is highly improbable, Westfield says that it intends to win the next four games from Plainfield and tie the series, and to accomplish this feat the management will engage several new players.

Summit, leaders in the Lackawanna League, will try conclusions with Westfield Monday morning. The result will be watched with interest, as Plainfield has three games scheduled with the league team. Linderman and Farmer will oppose Westfield.

Joe McGinnity, the "Iron Man," will accompany his team, the All Nationals, to Elizabethport tomorrow and face the Stars. It will be McGinnity against "Red" Waller, and a fine game is assured. Arthur Devlin, of the Giants, is expected to play with the visitors.

DENMAN'S SUGGESTION FOR A PENNANT DESIGN

HAS A VIVID IDEA AS TO HOW THE RAG SHOULD LOOK.

Charlie Denman, otherwise known as "The Dove of Peace," has some rosy ideas regarding the design for the pennant to be presented to the winner of the Plainfield-Westfield series, and this is the way he describes it:

"The body should be of bright red—in fact, the most brilliant hue obtainable—denoting the gory fields on which the victories have been fought. In the centre a large ball surrounded by a broad band of black, signifying that it is dead, to celebrate victory No. 2. On the side next the halyards should be life size portraits of umpires Merity and Henning standing over home plate, with 'Happy Pete' Kiernan and Micky Flynn sliding for the plate, Henning with his hands outstretched showing Flynn is relegated to the rear, and Merity, standing over Kiernan, who waves a miniature pennant bearing the legend, 'Safe at home, the victory's won.' The tail piece could represent a Chinese dragon, with Wall and his bat and Waller and his lead ball and other foreign devils on the Westfield team floating around in space chasing ten apples, with Captain Mallen holding a bright rosy ripe one in his hand, to denote the victory won.

"In the centre the words, 'Champions 1905,' with the following quotation: 'The team ought to go to Cuba.' Of course there are dissenters who will not agree to this, but suggestions have been made that the phrase ought to refer to Merity, and the country should be a little farther off, so there would be no danger of his returning to inflict the public with his self-made and partisan decisions.

"These hints are all that have occurred to our baseball fiend to date, but as the games progress further embellishments may be added."

LARGE GATHERING AT PASTOR'S FUNERAL

MANY PASTORS SPEAK OVER BIER OF REV. SCOTT WALLACE.

There was a great outpouring of colored people at the funeral services of the late Rev. Scott Wallace, held at the Calvary Baptist church, of which he was pastor, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and included among those present were colored ministers of the same denomination from all parts of the State, also the other colored churches in this city. The services lasted for over two hours, during which many ministers took part, speaking of the life and character and good work of the departed pastor. Rev. Dr. E. E. Jackson, pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, was master of ceremonies and introduced the various speakers.

There was a very large display of floral tributes from the various societies in the Calvary Baptist church, the Mt. Olive Baptist church and other colored churches. These comprised pillows, wreaths and cut flowers which covered and surrounded the casket.

All of the societies of the Calvary Baptist church attended the service in a body, and led by Mrs. Lulu Scott and Mrs. Martha Rogers, as staff-bearers, marched to the grave afterward. There were also flower-bearers, selected from among the men of the congregation.

During the services the regular choir sang a number of hymns, favorites of the departed pastor, and several appropriates anthems were sung.

After Rev. Dr. Jackson read the obituary notice and conducted the opening exercises, addresses were made by the following ministers:

Rev. E. D. Samuels, East Orange; Rev. J. W. Mitchell, Plainfield; Rev. Mr. Anderson, Hackensack; Rev. Mr. Elliott, Newark; Rev. Mr. Roberts, New Brunswick; Rev. P. T. Morris, Belmar, and Rev. Mr. Ashley, Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, this city.

Each one dwelt at some length on the earnest labors of Pastor Wallace and referred to the results attained through the purchase of a desirable site and erection of such a commodious house of worship. They spoke of his ability as a preacher to deliver the Gospel, and as a pastor, working zealously among the members of his congregation and always striving to do good.

It was announced that Rev Dr. Graham, of Richmond, Va., Pastor Wallace's former pastor, would at some future time, preach an appropriate sermon. It was impossible for him to attend the services yesterday.

Among other ministers present were Rev. F. D. Tildon, Bethel chapel; Rev. R. A. Bolden, Rev. W. H. Wallace, Asbury Park; Rev. J. W. Hamlin, Red Bank; Rev. Mr. Taylor, Elizabeth; Rev. W. S. Smith, Jersey City; Rev. Mr. Lawrence, Union Baptist church, Elizabeth; Rev. R. W. Winn, Newark; Rev. R. A. Motley, Jersey City; Rev. Mr. Morris, Morristown; Rev. J. H. Bailey, Somerville; Rev. George Cragger, East Orange, and Rev. G. W. Foster, Bloomfield.

At the grave Rev. Dr. Jackson was again in charge and the burial service of the church was followed, in which several ministers took part. Three pall-bearers were selected from the Calvary Baptist church, and five from the Mt. Olive Baptist church, as follows:

Spencer Conway, Patrick Reed, Scipio Wellington, Calvary Baptist church; William Phillips, Nathan Pollard, William Gordon, Daniel Brown, and John Seay, Mt. Olive Baptist church. The interment was in the Baptist cemetery on Plainfield avenue.

The evening service at the Crescent Avenue church will be resumed tomorrdw.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck will occupy his pulpit tomorrow at Trinity Reformed church at both services.

Sergeant Pearsall, of Company K, will speak at Reform Hall tomorrow at 4:15 and W. F. Richards will render harmonica solos.

William Graham will lead the Epworth League meeting in Grace M. E. church tomorrow night; subject, "The Abundant Life."

The children of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home entertain their friends at the Home this afternoon with recitations and songs.

The First Baptist church choir will return on Sunday, September 10, and will hold its first rehearsal the Saturday night before. There will be no change in the voices.

A. C. Boughton, assistant superintendent of the Greene Avenue Baptist Sunday school, of Brooklyn, will give a talk upon the lesson at the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday school tomorrow morning at 9:45.

Rev. Mr. Richards, a student at Drew Theological Seminary, and the supply at the M. E. church, Scotch Plains, will speak at the Plainfield Rescue Mission tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mr. Richards is a talented and interesting speaker.

The congregation of the Calvary Baptist church will soon hold a meeting to discuss the matter of securing a successor to the late Rev. Scott Wallace. As yet no one has been thought of for the place, and the officers will probably have supplies for awhile.

Dr. Parsons, of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, has returned from his vacation in the Adirondacks and Thousand Islands and will occupy his pulpit tomorrow. Grace church has been very fortunate in being one of the first churches to secure the New Methodist Hymnal which will be used in all the services of tomorrow.

Mr. Sidney W. Dunning, assistant superintendent of the Congregational Sunday school, has sent out this week to all members of the school attractive souvenir postal cards containing a picture of the church, of his own skillful workmanship, and giving notice of the Sunday school service at 2:45 tomorrow afternoon. This will set aside the earlier notice given to the papers. The school will meet at the afternoon hour. The morning service will be held at 10:30.

TENNIS AT ELIZABETH.

Briggs and Long, of the Bronx Club, Make the Best Showing.

In the fourth day's play of the annual open tournament of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association on the courts of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club, the excellent playing yesterday caused much excitement among the spectators. The courts were especially adapted to fast play.

Plainfield was well represented in the second round of the men's doubles championship contest. H. Carter and Robert Lovell, of the Plainfield Country Club, were defeated in two close sets by F. V. and L. H. Ferris, of Jersey City, scores, 6—4, 6—2. O. H. Fleming and T. M. Day, Jr., were badly outclassed in their match with E. A. Basch and W. Mac Arthur, of Passaic, being beaten, 6—1, 6—0. The most brilliant match of the day was between C. H. Briggs and M. H. Long, of the Plainfield Bronx Club, against a pair from Elizabeth. In the first set the Plainfielders were defeated but after that they braced and took the next two sets, score, 5—7, 6—3, 6—4. This team from the Bronx Club has made the best showing of any of the teams entered in the tourneys.

On account of Monday being a holiday, Howell Division, Sons of Temperance, will meet Tuesday night instead of Monday night. There will be nomination of officers and the election will be held on Monday night, September 25.

—The contract case of Leichtentritt against Lippencott, which was to have been tried before Justice David Smalley this morning, was adjourned until Friday, September 8, at 10 o'clock.

DAAB DETERMINED TO TAKE NEXT FOUR GAMES

WILL STRENGTHEN HIS TEAM WITH NATIONAL LEAGUERS.

While more than usual interest is centered in the contest between Plainfield and Westfield at Recreation Park today for the county championship, an equal interest is being manifested in the game between these teams scheduled for Monday afternoon on Crescent Oval. The results of these two contests will decide the series of ten games, although there are two besides them to be played.

These teams are so evenly matched that it has been nip and tuck as to the winner. While Manager Denman admits that Plainfield has the strongest aggregation, he now proposes to strengthen up with National Leaguers and, if possible, take the next four contests, thus making the series a tie. He feels confident of doing this, although it must be confessed that it seems highly improbable. At any rate, the Denmanites are not going to be easy game and they will fight to the last ditch. If they win today's game there will be double interest in Monday's game, and even if they don't, every local fan will want to see the Daabsters rub it in good and hard.

That is the cry now. Every supporter of the local team is anxious to see it win every game possible from Westfield, and that they are making good progress in that direction is shown by the fact that they have won five of the six games played. If they can possibly prevent it they will not let Westfield have another game. That is the desire of Manager Daab and every member of the team. If you cannot attend today's game at Westfield, by all means see the one at Crescent Oval on Monday afternoon. But you should witness both contests and cheer the locals on to victory.

The locals will present their regular lineup, with Dalton on second base. Either Deegan or Tyler will be slated to occupy the box, and as both are crack twirlers the game should be safe for Plainfield. This will be the lineup for the locals:

The Westfield lineup will be known when the team appears on the diamond.

IGNORING KIELY, COUNCILMEN RAID GOFF'S HOTEL

Proprietor Arrested For Illegal Liquor Selling and Held For Grand Jury.

WAIVED EXAMINATION

Without a hint to Chief Kiely or any of the men at headquarters, Chairman W. S. Tyler, of the police committee, raided John Goff's hotel, West Front street, near Clinton avenue, Sunday night, for evidence of illegal liquor selling. Goff's hotel was built two years ago, under the impression that a license would be easy to secure, and an elaborately fitted barroom takes up one-half of the lower floor. In this barroom the councilman and his raiding party found sixteen men drinking. Evidence enough to hold Goff for the Grand Jury was gathered.

Councilman Bullock, an Elizabeth justice, an Elizabeth constable and Patrolman Vanderweg helped Mr. Tyler make the raid. It hit the place with the unexpectedness of a thunderclap from a cloudless sky, and not a straw impeded the progress of the raiders from start to finish.

Knowledge of their intentions to raid were purposely withheld from the police by Mr. Tyler and his fellow councilman and committee member. Evidence was quietly gathered with the aid of a special officer in Mr. Tyler's confidence, and when the councilmen decided that the time for action had come the assistance of Justice Kelly and Constable Terry, of Elizabeth, was enlisted.

The justice, with papers ready for filling in, and the constable came into town Sunday night shortly after 8 o'clock. They were met by Mr. Tyler and Mr. Bullock with two carriages. In one of the carriages were an axe, a crowbar and a sledge hammer. As it turned out, there was no need to use the tools, but had there been no other way of gaining an entrance to the place, force would have been resorted to.

As soon as the Elizabethans were taken in the vehicles the party proceeded to Goff's place. On the way down Officer Vanderweg was picked up from his beat. Mr. Tyler had him remove his helmet and cover his brass buttons, so that no hint of the party's character might be given to chance observers.

The raiders reached Goff's at 9:10. The special officer in the case had given Mr. Bullock the signal ring used by the house, and he stepped to the door and pushed the bell. The door was unlocked, and without waiting for an answer Mr. Bullock stepped inside the hall, followed by the others. The door leading to the barroom from the hall opens outward, and he stepped up close to it on the left side.

Goff himself opened the door. As it swung outward Mr. Bullock shoved his foot inside and flung it open. He sprang inside before the astonished proprietor could collect his wits, and the rest of the party crowded in on his heels. Men were scattered about the tables, card playing and drinking. Mr. Bullock sprang to a table and snatched up a bottle of beer. A man at another table was just putting down a half-emptied glass of whiskey. Mr. Bullock snatched that also. He tasted the contents of both bottle and glass to fortify himself for testifying in court. The whiskey he poured into a vial brought for the purpose.

The councilmen demanded the names of every man present. The first two approached gave obviously fictitious names, and Mr. Bullock promptly knocked the seriousness of the affair into the heads of those present.

"This is not gallery play, my friends," he said sternly. "This is business. You will either give me your right names or take a ride in the patrol wagon to the station house."

He got the names. Sixteen in all were collected. Goff was the only one placed under arrest, and the names gathered were not given out.

Justice Kelly made out the papers against Goff, and the hotelkeeper was arraigned at once. He waived examination and was held for the Grand Jury. A bondsman was furnished without delay.

Councilman Bullock was seen in regard to the raid by a Daily Press reporter yesterday afternoon.

"Was it designed to keep the police entirely in ignorance of the raid?" he was asked.

"What was the use of going to police headquarters?" was the reply.

DAVID POPE A SUICIDE

Made Despondent By Ill Health Shoots Himself in the Mouth,

LIVED TWENTY MINUTES

Was Sixty Years Old and Had Resided in Plainfield Nearly All His Life—Leaves Widow and Son.

Despondent over continued ill-health, which caused him to become morbid, David Pope, a well known resident, shot and killed himself at his home on North avenue yesterday morning about 9 o'clock. He lived about twenty minutes after committing the deed, but never regained consciousness. His deep groans attracted the attention of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. E. R. Pope, who, with her husband, had come from Schnectady, N. Y., to spend Labor Day, and she called Mrs. Pope, saying that she believed that Mr. Pope had shot himself. Mr. Pope's son was summoned and he called Dr. D. C. Adams, but before the physician arrived Mr. Pope expired. He had used a revolver, placing the muzzle in his mouth. The bullet took an upward course and came out of the side of the head.

Soon after Mr. Pope died County Physician F. W. Westcott was summoned. He viewed the body and gave a burial permit. Later when Mr. Westcott was questioned about the case he refused to give any information, stating that he had nothing to say.

The intimate friends of Mr. Pope have noticed of late that he was far from being well, and he was detained at home considerable. He had not been at the tax collector's office, where he was employed, since last week Tuesday, although he had been about the house at times since then. He had been in bed during the past few days, and it was only last Sunday that Dr. Adams attended him. The pistol with which he took his life was in a bureau drawer, and he left his bed, got the firearm and returned to bed before committing the deed.

Mr. Pope was about sixty years of age. He was born at Dunellen, where he spent his boyhood days. When a young man he came to this city and occupied various positions. For several years he was employed in the office of the tax collector, being an assistant to former collectors Elias H. Bird, James Martin, Frank H. Smith and the present incumbent, Robert L. Lee. He would assist with the clerical duties and help the assessors in their work. It was also a part of his duties to deliver the tax bills about the city. He was of a quiet and genial disposition and enjoyed a large acquaintance.

The deceased served in the Confederate army in Georgia during the Civil War, having been conscripted while in business in Atlanta, but deserted before the war was over.

Mr. Pope was for many years a member of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 28, F. and A. M., and a Masonic service will be held at the grave, following the service at the house.

Besides a widow he is survived by a son, E. R. Pope, and three brothers, A. D. Pope, James C. Pope and Howard A. Pope, and several nephews.

The funeral services will be held from the late home tomorrow afternoon, and Rev. Gorge B. Shaw, of the Seventh-day Baptist church, will officiate.

NETHERWOOD CAMP CLOSES.

Final Service Put Over Because of the Rain.

Rain interfered with the closing exercises at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp Sunday, and they were postponed indefinitely. There is a possibility that they will be held next Sunday, the decision being left with the committee on religious work.

The children, with the exception of twelve or more, were taken to New York by Miss Curry yesterday. The work is to continue at the Little Missionary Home, 93 St. Marks place, where Plainfielders will always be made welcome.

Fire Alarm in a Tangle.

The fire alarm and electric light wires became crossed at Madison avenue and West Second street, Saturday night, as a result of the storm, and it caused the frequent tooting of the gong. Until the electricians removed the cause, the neighborhood enjoyed a pyrotechnic display, the electric wires shooting forth balls of fire. As a result of the trouble three electric coils at fire headquarters were burned out.

BURGLAR'S BOLD ACT

Chloroformed Young Woman Who Discovered Him Entering Hillside Avenue House.

SENSELESS 3 HOURS

Intruder Departed Hurriedly Without Securing Any Booty—Police Working on the Case.

By the quick use of chloroform, a burglar who was discovered in the house of Maybury B. Miller, at 202 Hillside avenue, early this morning, made his escape before an alarm could be raised. He left so hurriedly that he didn't have time to gather any swag.

The burglar was detected by Miss Edna Phole, of Passaic, a trained nurse. One of Mr. Maybury's children is ill, and Miss Phole is attending it. Last night, on account of dampness in the plaster of her room upstairs, Miss Phole's bed was made up in the parlor. At 2 o'clock in the morning she was awakened by a noise at the parlor window. She looked up and saw the screen go up slowly. A man's form dropped noiselessly into the room.

Miss Phole sat up affrightedly and opened her mouth to scream. The man caught sight of her in the dim light at the same instant and sprang to the bedside. He clapped a hand over her mouth and nostrils and Miss Phole sank back without a sound. The hand had held a folded cloth soaked with chloroform.

Without waiting to see whether the chloroform was acting or not, the burglar slipped quickly away. As Miss Phole lapsed into unconsciousness she heard the dining room door open. Then her senses left her.

She recovered consciousness at 5 o'clock. Nobody in the house heard the burglar, and she had lain in the grip of the anaesthetic until its effects wore off. She awoke on the floor, although her last recollection was of sinking back in bed. She probably fell from the couch in her struggle against the effects of the drug.

Miss Phole aroused the family and a search for traces of the burglar's work was made. Nothing was missing. The burglar made his escape through the kitchen door. There was a light in the upper part of the house when he entered, and he evidently decided, when he saw Miss Phole in the parlor, that something was wrong in the house and members of the household might come upon him at any minute.

The police were notified this morning. Roundsman Flynn went over the burglar's trail, but could get no inspiration for a chase. The police think the job was attempted by a "hobo gun," one of a gentry that sandwiches burglary and strong-arm work with tramping.

STATE PRISON FOR PASCO.

Italian Boy Who Shot William Stilger Gets Two Years.

John Pasco, aged seventeen years, who entered a plea of guilty to shooting William Stilger, of Dunellen, several weeks ago, as the result of a quarrel over a division of work at Rajotti's brickyard, was sentenced on Saturday by Judge Strong, of New Brunswick, to two years in State Prison.

The boy quarrelled with Stilger and the former alleged that his fellow-workman struck him. Afterward he went to a nearby barn, secured a revolver, and fired wnen but a few feet away. The lad afterward escaped, and was arrested in North Plainfield. Judge Strong thought the boy intended to kill Stilger and said that there was no provocation for any such display of temper. At the time of the trouble, the boy's father refused to furnish bail.

Grocers' Excursion Abandoned.

The weather conditions were responsible for the abandonment of the eighteenth annual excursion of the Plainfield Grocers' Association to Coney Island, scheduled for yesterday. At an early hour the Iron Steamboat Company, which had arranged to take the excursionists from Jersey City to the Island, telegraphed the officers of the association that on account of the high and turbulent tide the steamboats would not be allowed to make a landing at the Island. The outing was immediately called off.

Death of Theo. Ingraham.

Theo. Ingraham, aged thirty-four years, died Sunday at the home of his brother, George Ingraham, at Oak Tree. He was unmarried. The funeral was held this morning and interment was made in the Plainfield avenue cemetery.

PRIMARY TICKETS FILED

Regular Republicans, Independents and Democrats Hand in Nominees.

CAMPAIGN NOW ON

Contest for Councilmanic Honors in the Third Ward—Fight Certain in the First.

The Republicans and Democrats filed their primary tickets with City Clerk James T. MacMurray on Saturday night, according to law, and from now on the campaign will be bitterly contested where the "regular" Republicans are to be opposed by independent movements. In the First ward four delegates express themselves as being in favor of Ernest R. Ackerman for State Senator and for Dr. A. W. Anderson for councilman at large, while William Starr Bullock will oppose the "machine" nominee, W. L. Gloak, for ward councilman. This is sure to result in a lively fight, for every effort will be made to defeat Mr. Bullock, while the latter's friends will endeavor to keep him in the Common Council. It is probably in the First and Fourth wards that the "machine" is the strongest, and it will do its utmost to win out and regain control of the Common Council. The Democrats make no nominee for Common Council in the First and Second wards, while in the Third ward John W. Connors is nominated, and in the Fourth ward Fred Endress has been chosen for the nomination. In several instances the Democrats have failed to entirely fill out their ticket.

In the Second ward there will be a contest between Theodore D. Wilson, the present councilman, and Daniel F. Ginna, who has been chosen by the "regulars" to oppose him. However, Mr. Wilson and his friends promise to make it interesting. It is the opinion of the "machine" that Mr. Wilson's delegates will not be strong enough to secure his nomination.

In the Third ward J. Stephen Higham has not been mentioned to succeed himself as member of the Common Council at large, and it is understood that Joseph M. Shellabarger will be the choice of the "regulars." The Democrats in the Third ward have selected John W. Connors to stand for the councilmanic nomination, and in the Fourth ward they have selected Fred Endress, the butcher, to make the run.

The only independent opposition to the "regulars" in the Fourth ward is shown in the selection of delegates who favor the nomination of Robert L. Lee for tax collector, but according to the wise ones, Mr. Lee will have the time of his life in securing the plum.

The primaries will be held Tuesday afternoon and night, September 12, from 1 to 9 o'clock, and it is then that the real fight for supremacy will be made, and in the meantime there is sure to be some hustling on both sides.

Republican Primary Ticket.

First Ward.

Delegates County Convention—Amos Andrews, George A. Ballantyne, Uzal B. Crane, W. E. Dunn, E. B. Maynard, Caspar Stadele, Seely Edsall, Thomas MacDonald, Charles E. Russell, George W. Taylor (last four named for E. R. Ackerman for State Senator).

Delegates City Convention—Alvah C. Carey, W. J. Douglass, W. E. Dunn, Henry Hansen, Sandford J. Robinson, Herbert Templin, S. P. T. Wilbur, Edward Caldwell, Isaac B. Hill, John H. Rowland, William Symons (last four named for A. W. Anderson for councilman at large).

Member Common Council (vote for one)—William Starr Bullock, William L. Gloak; justice of the peace, John J. Kriney; constable, Peter V. Weaver; members county committee, Amos Andrews, James F. Buckle; members city committee, Horace G. Adams, James F. Buckle, W. C. Chamberlain, W. E. Dunn, Dr. O. L. Jenkins, Clarence L. Murphy.

Second Ward.

Delegates County Convention—Charles H. Hand, Dr. VanD. Hedges, Robert A. Meeker, Ralph Miner, F. L. Montgomery, William N. Runyon.

Delegates to City Convention—Dr. T. S. Davis, T. M. Day, Jr., Julius E. Erickson, George H. Goddard, F. E. Hammann, John E. Keely, Fred Kling, Leander N. Lovell, Charles B. Morse, James P. Murray, Edward Willis.

THIERS AGAINST CONROY

Borough Middle-of-the-Road Democrats Oppose Swackhamer's Choice.

GAME MADE PLAIN

Two Democratic candidates for the mayoralty nomination were filed with the primary election petitions in North Plainfield, exactly as The Daily Press forecasted Saturday afternoon. The Swackhamer committee named W. J. Conroy, as it was expected to do, and the Democrats who distrusted the action of the Swackhamer body in flirting with the Citizens named Dr. Charles R. Thiers. A hot fight between the middle-of-the-road party men and the fusionists is looked for at the primary as the matter stands. There is a possibility, however, according to some of those interested, that Conroy will vacate the ticket rather than face a fight.

In the Republican camp a contest over the delegates to the county convention was put on the cards. Mayor Smalley is unopposed for the mayoralty nomination.

Charles R. Thiers.

The manner in which the Swackhamer committee filed its petitions confirmed the stories of fusion agreements that were published in The Daily Press Friday and Saturday. The petitions named no councilmanic candidates, although two justices of the peace and a commissioner of appeals was named in addition to Mr. Conroy for mayor. From the hour the conference between Swackhamer's committee and the Cits was held last Thursday, the middle-of-the-road Democrats insisted that it was the game to allow the Citizens—that is, the disaffected Republicans—to name the councilmen. They could not get Swackhamer to acknowledge this, and up to the last minute available for filing the petitions he is said to have assured his fellow Democrats of the straight-ticket persuasion that he would "file an absolutely straight ticket."

D. J. Carney and the others who were marshaling the middle-of-the-roadsters refused to take his statement at face value, and steps were completed for placing a complete ticket of undoubted and uncrossed Democracy in the field.

The middle-of-the-road ticket is as follows: For mayor, Charles R. Thiers; for council, First district, Charles E. Emmons; Second district, Frank Mobus; for delegates to county convention, F. V. Conover and W. J. Ricketts.

The Swackhamer committee ticket: For mayor, W. J. Conroy; for justices of the peace, W. E. Mattison and D. D. Smalley; for commissioner of appeal, George Kirch.

The regular Republican ticket is as follows: For mayor, Newton B. Smalley; for council, First district, Clifford A. McGee; Second district, Edward P. T. Smith; for commissioner of appeals, J. P. Emmons; for justices of the peace, Abram B. King, S. Clark Mundy and Thomas H. Snape; for delegates to the county convention, George F. Brown, James K. Arnold, A. H. Dundon, A. G. Hooley, W. Wallace Coriell, L. B. Woolston, Brooks Carson and A. E. Giddis.

The independent Republicans named these eight for the county convention: Charles Place, W. G. Debele, E. A. Overton, Edmund Rushmore, Robert Clark, Jr., J. H. Cooley, J. H. Schenck and W. Edward Cranston.

Mr. Swackhamer will now have to explain to his fellow Democrats why councilmanic candidates were not nominated. Those who have been reading the signs since the conference say the Citizens are now to endorse Conroy and name two Republicans, or "safe," councilmanic nominees. That is, if Conroy sticks. What the Cits will do if Conroy withdraws is problematical.

GOLDEN EAGLES MEET

Delegate Proposition and Referendum Voted Down at Annual Session.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The twenty-second annual session of the Grand Castle of New Jersey, Knights of the Golden Eagle, convened at Trenton yesterday in the hall of Mercer Castle, Ribsam building, with one of the largest attendances the Grand Castle has ever known. In the election of officers 214 votes were cast.

Grand Chief Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, of the borough, presided. The work of the lodge was continued until 7 o'clock last evening, with a recess for dinner. The session will probably adjourn today.

Propositions to amend the constitution, by making it a delegate body and providing for the annual election of Grand Castle officers in the local castles, were both defeated after earnest arguments.

The annual election of officers was attended by some spirited contests. There were five candidates for the post of grand high priest, three for grand sir herald, two for grand keeper of the exchequer, and two for grand second guardsman. The election resulted as follows:

Sitting past grand chief, Dr. J. H. Buchanan, Plainfield; grand chief, T. C. Schanck, Passaic; grand vice chief, William B. Kirby, Bridgeton; grand high priest, Adam Q. Bloom, Trenton; grand keeper of exchequer, Halstead Wainwright, Farmingdale; grand master of records, A. E. Cook, Trenton; grand sir herald, Oscar M. Condit, Asbury Park; grand first guardsman, Robert M. Marks, Manasquan; grand second guardsman, H. H. Bartlett, Bordentown; grand trustee, F. A. Buren, Cramer Hill; grand trustee (for unexpired term of A. Q. Bloom, resigned), Robert M. Coffman, Camden.

The election of a representative to the Supreme Castle of the United States, which meets in Detroit next month, was laid over until today. The retiring grand chief, Dr. Buchanan, who is very popular in the order, will be elected without opposition.

Supreme Chief James H. Livingstone, M. D., of Baltimore; Supreme Master of Records A. C. Lyttle, of Philadelphia; Past Grand Chief of Pennsylvania Fred W. Anton, Philadelphia, and the lieutenant general of the military branch, Harry P. Reinicke, of Philadelphia, paid the Grand Castle a visit yesterday and were called upon for addresses. Supreme Chief Livingstone installed the newly elected officers this morning.

The initiatory steps were taken toward forming a "Castle of Protection" for aged and infirm members, and it was voted to hold a "Castle of Sorrow" this morning on the death of Grand Hight Priest Dr. George W. Chamberlain, of New Egypt, who died suddenly last July.

The year has been a prosperous one for the order. The membership in New Jersey, June 30, was 7,119. The number of sick brothers relieved was 491; widowed families relieved, 2; brothers buried, 34; wives buried, 22. The total fund of the seventy-two castles is $108,585.89, an increase of $1,142.69 over last report.

Petit Jurymen.

Plainfielders on the petit jury, drawn this morning, are as follows: Cyrus F. Boice, Israel D. Ten Eyck, Frank M. Dunham, Norman K. Barnes, Augustus G. Jenkins, Uzal B. Crane. Fanwood township jurymen are Charles Ball and George W. Scudder.

OVERFLOWING STREAMS DID MUCH DAMAGE

North Plainfield Was Hit Hard By Sunday's Heavy Downpour.

HOUSE FLOATED OFF

Live Stock Swept Away and Many Chickens Drowned—Herman's Dam Broke—Trolley Service Crippled.

North Plainfield was hit hard by Sunday's heavy rainfall. This side of the brook got its share of trouble and damage, but escaped unscathed in comparison with what happened to the borough and the section about the Notch.

In an hour and a half 3.70 inches of rain fell. An inch an hour is a good, healthy fall, and both Stony brook and Green brook were totally unprepared to handle so much business on short notice. Both of them jumped their banks and tried hard to spread water over everything in the two municipalities. Herman's dam broke while the rush was at its height, and Stony brook was more successful. It floated a house and three bridges away, not to mention a cow, two calves, a pony and uncounted chickens. Practically all the damage done by Green brook was confined to washouts of macadam gutters and top dressing. The surface water did a lot of that damage without the aid of the brook in the Netherwood section.

The trolley service was crippled, and the fire alarm systems on both sides of the brook were kinked. The Central Railroad had some trouble with water in the Fanwood cut. The telephone service escaped.

Pounded by the rushing waters, Herman's dam broke like a thing of straw toward the close of the afternoon, loosing a torrent that flooded the vicinity worse than at any time in many years. A small house on Dr. Cooley's property, tenanted by a colored family, was lifted from its foundations and swept toward the brook. Trees on the bank stopped its progress just as it seemed doomed to slide into the stream. The tenants were scared, but unhurt. The house was totally wrecked, and the contents practically destroyed or carried away.

Three bridges spanning the brook were carried from their foundations, two leading off Somerset street and one on Grove street. They settled not far from the foundations. Herman's bridge and Dr. Cooley's bridge were carried off, and a wooden culvert at Greenbrook road and Grove street was lifted out and smashed. The bridge on upper Grove street was badly wrecked. The water swirled up over the floor of the big iron bridge on Greenbrook road, but the structure was put there to withstand that sort of thing, and held to its foundations.

Part of Bilyeu's blacksmith shop, on Somerset street, was smashed in by the water, and Dr. Cooley's windmill went by the board. It floated downstream to J. F. Wilson's place, where it lodged over the brook, turning the course of the flow.

The water struck the Washington Park section with flow scarcely diminished. J. F. Wilson's place was badly damaged, fences and trees falling and sidewalks lifting. Chickens and stock suffered. A. E. Faber alone lost ninety fowls. A pony belonging to E. S. Hooley and one of George Dupee's cows were swept from their feet by the flood and carried down stream. They were rescued with a good deal of difficulty.

All along the course of the brook and in the lowlands streets and cellars suffered severely. Cellars between Grove street and Greenbrook road were converted into interior ponds, with an average depth of two

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Rain interfered with the baseball games scheduled for the locals on both Saturday and yesterday. The game scheduled for Saturday was with the Clinton Avenue nine in one of the last contests of the series. Heavy rain prevented the double-header between the locals and the Roselle nine at Roselle yesterday. A big crowd of rooters was ready to accompany the local team yesterday to Roselle and the calling off of the games was a great disappointment.

The storm in its severest form visited Dunellen late Sunday afternoon and did not completely let up until yesterday noon. Everything was flooded and among the losses there was a large number of chickens. All the roads bear evidence to the heavy downfall and it will be many days before the damage will be repaired.

Robert L. Pierce and Adolph Steengrafe have been drawn by Sheriff William Carman to serve at the September term of the Middlesex county courts as petit jurors.

The abandonment of the Plainfield Grocers' Association excursion yesterday was a great disappointment to many Dunellenites who had planned to go.

The successor of Principal Nichols, of the New Market school, J. Hilser, of Pennsylvania, will report today for duty.

The regular meeting of the trustees of the Methodist church will be held tonight.

The election boards started this morning on a house-to-house canvass of voters.

Mrs. Lawrence Leary and children have been visiting friends in Long Island.

Mrs. Ernestine Herlich was the guest of relatives in New York last week.

There will be a regular meeting of the Board of Education tonight.

Miss Amy Lievers, of Quakertown, spent last week at A. G. Nelson's.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

As a prelude to the morning sermon at the Baptist church Sunday, Rev. T. Moore-Smith spoke of the great struggle between Russia and Japan, which has ended in peace through the mediation of President Roosevelt. His great work as a man and diplomat at this critical time had placed America among the leaders, if not at the head of the nations of the world, and had made Roosevelt the man of the nour, both in America and Europe.

School opened this morning at 9 o'clock with a good attendance, although the enrollment will not be complete for a week or two, as some are not back from the summer vacation yet. Miss Osgood, who resigned her position as teacher to accept a better one, has consented to take charge of her old class for a few days, until Principal Howard D. White selects her successor.

Rev. Fenton E. Bury, M. A., of the Irish Baptist Home Mission Association, preached at the Baptist church Sunday at both services. Mr. Bury gave two interesting addresses upon the struggles of the smaller Baptist churches in Ireland and of the work the Home Mission Association is doing. A collection to aid the work was taken.

The appearence of a company of militia in town Saturday night at 8 o'clock, gave the quieter residents of the town a shock, as it is seldom Scotch Plains witnesses such a sight. The company was from Newark and was on its way to Murray Hill for a two weeks' encampment.

The rain Saturday afternoon prevented the ball game between the locals and Cuban Giants, of Westfield. The two teams may play this Saturday. No games were scheduled for Labor Day, so the local fans were obliged to depend upon the out-of-town games for exctiement.

F. A. Morse and family, of Garwood, have taken up their residence in the borough. Mr. Morse is identified with the Central N. J. Land Improvement Co.

Mrs. Louis B. Coddington, of the borough, is spending several days with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Kalloway, at Stelton, N. J.

John Alberts purchased the Allen property Saturday afternoon at the sale held to close the estate. The purchase price was $1,700.

The registry board met today to organize and begin the yearly canvass for voters.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

A Detriment to the Community.

May the fact soon become generally recognized that, not only morally offensive, but also inartistic and gaudy bills are a detriment to the community and an annoyance to beach paraders.—Asbury Park Journal.

Campers Getting Themselves Disliked

There are not a few people discussing the advisability of continuing the custom of permitting campers on the beach front in this city. It may be said in this connection, however, that the campers should not be blamed for all misbehavior.—Ocean City Reporter.

Go and Rubber!

Hunter Cornell is hustling these days to keep his head above the sea of green truck, peaches, watermelons and cantaloupes coming in continually. He sells great quantities of stuff every day. His advertisement speaks of rubbers. You will have to go to the store to find out what that means.—Vineland Journal.

Cannot Expect Too Much.

The Cape May Herald says that Assemblyman Hildreth will be renominated at the coming primaries for a third term. Mr. Hildreth was one of the strong members and his return will be a good thing for Cape May and for the House, but the Herald's idea that he will be a candidate for Speaker is a little off. Camden will get the Presidency of the Senate, and South Jersey cannot expect to get both presiding officers.—Jersey City Journal.

Results Would Be Beneficial.

Commissioner of Charities and Corrections Wight made a good suggestion in his address to the Federation of Labor a few days ago when he recommended that convicts in penal institutions be made to work and their earnings turned over to their families. To carry the proposition out so that it would work satisfactorily to everybody concerned, would required considerable thought, but if it could be put into effect the general results would be good.—Trenton State Gazette.

Not a Creditable Showing.

Of the entire number of inhabitants of the city of Elizabeth, 60,509, no less than 17,737, according to the census, are unable to read. These include children under five years or age, but there are only 7,039 in this classification. Allowing that there are 3,000 children between 5 and 8 years, which figure errs in excess, if at all, there still remains 12.5 per cent. of the population above 8 years which cannot read any language. Not altogether a creditable showing for a community.—Hoboken Observer.

Defensible and Commendable.

The Public Service Corporation, in refusing to sell the advertising space in its cars, advising the onlooker to vote for Colby, on the ground that the advertisements are political and, therefore, objectionable, seems to be in an entirely defensible position. It is possible that the rule may result in a considerable loss of revenue, but it certainly is the public gain to be free from adjurations to vote for "Bill" Smith, or "don't vote for John Jones," whenever one sits down to enjoy a ride for which he has paid a nickel.—Trenton True American.

Mercer's Bad Record.

Thirty-five murders within sixteen years is a startling record for Mercer county. Eighteen of the homicides occurred during the last ten years. The increase in the past few years has doubtless been largely due to the great increase in population in the county. There have been five murderers executed out of twenty-eight convictions since Mercer county was organized nearly seventy years ago, and four of the hangings took place since 1894. There is not much to be found in these figures to create a sentiment hereabouts in favor of the abolition of capital punishment.—Trenton Times.

A Freak Apple.

Many persons have stopped in front of the Sunbeam office to see a freak apple on exhibition in the front window. It is a large, perfectly formed twin apple, with two distinct blossoms and stems. One is much larger than the other and from the stem of the larger apple the smaller one has grown, both apples showing that two blossoms were formed and developed into fruit. Both hung from the limb by one stem, but there are two stems there, a very unusual fact. The apple was grown and presented to the Sunbeam by Mr. J. H. Ritchie, of Quinton township.—Salem Sunbeam.

Light Pack of Tomatoes.

During the past week about all the canning factories in Salem county have been put in operation, although in several of them very few tomatoes have been packed because of the difficulty experienced in getting the fruit. As was stated in the Standard and Jerseyman last week, the acreage in tomatoes in Salem county this year is not more than half what it usually is. This same condition is said to prevail in Delaware and Maryland, and as those two States, together with New Jersey, pack almost three-fourths of the canned tomatoes in the country, it can be seen that there will be a light pack this year.—Salem Standard and South Jerseyman.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. McGee, of Orchard place, the borough, have returned from Mouse Island, Me.

Charles A. Dixon, one of the most enthusiastic fans, has announced his retirement from baseball, owing to poor health. His presence will be greatly missed at the remaining games.

The New London Day says that "Warry" MacLaughlin, who is pitching for the New London team, has earned his graduation into faster company. "Warry" has been making a great record in the Connecticut State League, this year, despite the wretched support given him.

The dates have been arranged by Manager Daab and the management of the Summit team, of the Lackawanna League, for the three contests for the county championship to be played on Crescent Oval. The first game will be played on Saturday, September 23, following the last game in the Westfield series, and the other two games will follow on Saturdays, September 30 and October 7. There are many familiar faces on the Summit team, including Linderman, Farmer, Cruizus, Richardson and Reinacher. These three games will also be county championship contests. Dover, who was scheduled for a game here on September 23, will be given another date.

PERSONAL.

Harold Nelson, of East Fifth street, left Monday for a two weeks' stay at Washington, D. C.

Arthur B. Caleen, of Orchard place, has been visiting at Niagara Falls and Montreal, Canada.

Mrs. P. M. French and daughter, Miss Harriet French, of Somerset street, are home from Ocean Grove.

Mrs. Thomas S. Caleen and daughter, Helen, of Orchard place, are slowly recovering from a severe attack of dysentery.

Miss Goldie Wollenberg and niece, Pauline, of Paterson, were the guests of I. M. Rubenstein, of East Seventh street, over Labor Day.

Francis Anderson, of East Second street, in company with Fred VanAuken, of the Annapolis Naval Academy, left Friday on a two weeks' stay in Northern New York State.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Saunders, of Rockview avenue, who have been abroad this summer, have returned to New York, where they will remain until October. They will then return to their home in the borough.

William Scott, formerly of this city, but now of Canada, is a guest at the home of Raymond McVoy, of East Front street. Mr. Scott left here two years ago to live in Pennsylvania and had not been heard from until his return at this time.

Plainfield, N. J., September 5, 1905.

Atlanta's merchants and manufacturers are organizing with a view to exploiting the advantages of their city as a railroad and commercial centre. Naturally they propose to apply to the movement the same methods by which their individual successes have been attained. Atlanta is to be advertised in the newspapers. Seven full page "ads," one week apart, are to be printed in all the principal papers of the South. Such enterprise speaks for itself. Increased prosperity will follow upon its heels as closely as a train of cars follows the locomotive by which it is pulled.

In summing up the raid on the Goff place by Councilmen Tyler and Bullock there are two sides of the affair to be taken into consideration. It may have been a play to the voters as those not in favor of the independent movement are proclaiming from the housetops and whether it will aid in the planned demolition of the ring remains to be seen. On the other hand it shows the Plainfield people more than has anything else in years the extent of the illegal liquor traffic which heretofore more than one official has belittled, perhaps for reasons best known to themselves. Sixteen men were found in Goff's hotel and residents assert this is a small number in comparison to the crowds that have been flocking there at all times. When this can go on day in and day out, either the police are sadly afflicted with blindness or else, as the raiders assert, they have been giving protection to the place on instructions from "men higher up." The whole occurrence on its face narrows down to the bare fact that an explanation is due from Chief Kiely. He is the head of the department that is maintained by the city to preserve law and order and when two members of the Common Council, who are not in town during the day and who have their personal affairs to attend to, can discover evidence that he knows nothing of or doesn't want to know it, reveals a sad state of affairs. An instance of this nature occurred in connection with the Sunday baseball games at Elizabeth two years ago which went along without police interference, and which finally received attention from the Grand Jury. When this body was charged, Judge VanSyckle declared the officials responsible for allowing the contests to continue to be guilty of misfeasance in office and everyone was open to indictment. Chief Kiely is a servant of the Plainfield people; not of any political boss or bosses and it remains for the Common Council to determine whether or not he has performed the duties he took his oath to do when placed in his present position. Messrs. Tyler and Bullock, irrespective of the cry of "grandstand play," are entitled to credit for what they did and it is the hope of all law-abiding citizens that they continue raiding whenever and wherever they deem it necessary.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Gathering to Be Held in Somerset County September 13.

Somerville, Sept. 5.—The forty-sixth annual convention of the Somerset County Sunday School Association will be held in the First Reformed church here Wednesday, September 13. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Addresses will be made by Rev. Dr. William S. Cranmer, pastor of the church; former Prosecutor James L. Griggs, president of the New Jersey State Sunday School Association; Rev. M. E. Snyder, Ph. D., president of the State Home Department Council; Rev. E. N. Crasto, Rev. E. M. Fergusson, Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlburt, Miss Josephine Baldwin, Rev. Isaac W. Gowen and others.

There will be numerous conferences and an election of officers.

Freight Trains Crash.

Three trainmen were hurt yesterday in a freight wreck on the Philadelphia and Reading Railway at Pennington. The injured, all of whom live in Jersey City, are Thomas Lukens, conductor; Alfred Clay, brakeman, and Frank N. Dengally, engineer. The freight trains had been in collision and were piled up when a fast Jersey City freight train came along. It dashed into the pile, but was not wrecked. The injured men were part of the crew of the fast freight. A misplaced signal is said to have caused the accident.

PLAINFIELDER VICTIM OF MUCH MARRIED WOMAN

MRS. FERREST ADMITS SHE HAS SEVEN HUSBANDS LIVING.

Milton Barnes, formerly of this city, where he is believed to have a wife, is a prominent figure in the case of Mrs. Florence Ferrest, of Paterson, who was arraigned before Justice Abe Cohen, of that city, on Saturday night, on a charge of bigamy. Mrs. Ferrest admitted that she has seven husbands living, including Milton Barnes, to whom she was married on August 7, 1904, after a short courtship.

The ceremony took place at the Clinton Street Dutch Reformed church, Paterson, the Rev. William Decker tying the nuptial knot. After four weeks of married life she disappeared and Barnes has not been seen since. She will give no reason for her desertion of Barnes.

Two months later she married Charles Abner, a farmer living near Paterson. Barnes was the son of Gideon Barnes, and lived here for several years. For some time past he was employed as a silk weaver in one of the Paterson mills.

Mrs. Ferrest is about forty years old and is very attractive. She was held in $1,000 bail and committed to jail in default of it.

Miss Bright a Patroness.

Mrs. Osborne W. Bright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus D. Shepard, of "The Gables," Fanwood, is one of the patronesses for a charmingly original entertainment termed "a moonlight fantisque," to be given on the evening of Saturday, September 9, at Rock Hall, the residence of Mrs. James A. Hewlett, of Lawrence, L. I. The entertainment is in aid of the Church Charity Foundation.

Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mont., recommended Ely's Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement, "It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed."—Rev. Francis W. Poole, Pastor Central Pres. Church, Helena, Mont.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts., or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., New York.

Elston M. French, of Somerset street, who has been abroad all summer, arrived home yesterday.

"TOBACCO KING" DUKE SEEKING A DIVORCE

FINDS MARRIED LIFE A FAILURE AFTER NINE MONTHS.

Trenton, Sept. 5.—James B. Duke, master of the world's tobacco industry, has found married life a failure after only nine months and has sued his wife for divorce. His wife was Mrs. Lillian N. McCredy, a rich widow, who became his bride in Camden November 19, last.

Duke has begun suit in the Chancery Court here, naming Frank T. Huntoon, of New York, as co-respondent. The "Tobacco King" is forty-eight years old and his wife forty.

According to affidavits made by Duke, who has just returned from Europe, Mrs. Duke and Huntoon were very friendly in February of this year, and have met each other every month since at Mrs. Duke's home, in this city, and various other places.

Huntoon is the president of a mineral water company. He is well known as a man about town.

The marriage of the Dukes was romantic. The millionaire bachelor and Mrs. McCredy went to Philadelphia from New York November 28, last, and the next day were wed at the home of James J. Seal, a cousin of the bride, at 217 Cooper street, Camden. There were only twenty guests. They spent their honeymoon in Europe.

Mr. Duke has a magnificent estate of 2,000 acres at Somerville. He has spent $1,000,000 beautifying it. Even the stables are models of luxury and oil paintings hang on the walls, while costly rugs are hung as partitions between the stalls. Three hundred men are employed on the estate.

Death of Elmer Bishop.

Elmer Bishop, aged forty years, died yesterday at his home in Carlton avenue, from pulmonary troubles. He had been a resident of this city about a month, having moved here from Washington. He was a brother-in-law of Captain Curtis, who occupies the adjoining property on Carlton avenue. Mr. Bishop is survived by a wife. The funeral services will be held from the home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, will officiate.

Dog Poisoner Busy.

The wholesale poisoning of dogs in the neighborhood of West Front street and Grant avenue has aroused the owners. During the past week several valuable canines have been put out of the way, and investigation has shown the liberal distribution of poisons in various yards. The police have been notified and will attend to the case.

Mrs. A. W. Anderson and young daughter, Mary, of East Second street, are now at Belmar. The health of little Mary is improving.

POINTS FOR THE PUBLIC FROM THE POSTOFFICE

CARELESSNESS OF SENDERS HINDERS THE EMPLOYES.

There are many things in connection with the postoffice management with which it would be well for the people to become familiar, especially business men and all having large and important correspondence. As a general rule the public seems disposed to be a bit careless regarding the mail facilities, leaving a large part of the business to the postal authorities in happy-go-lucky fashion. That the government does not do business in any but an iron bound way is daily exemplified at every first class postoffice in the country. In this city there are hundreds of instances where the rules cut off mail matter.

Mailing cards are a source of annoyance to the department. A large portion of the population seems to think they will go without stamps. Mailing cards without stamps affixed in the upper right hand corner will not go further than the postoffice. It is a habit largely prevalent to write a message on the address side of these cards. Such writing is prohibited, and cards with anything but the address, or "if not delivered," etc., in the upper left hand corner, will be held up subject to additional postage. As many as fifty of these mailing cards are held up every day for the above reasons, and senders would confer a favor by remembering the rules of the department.

Another source of trouble is the way some people deposit mail at the local office. The slots are properly lettered, and if the mail is put into the right slot it is promptly handled. If not it is delayed and the sender wonders why he does not receive an answer sooner. This occurs in the morning and at night more than at any other time of the day, because in the morning the city delivery is gotten out of the way before the foreign mail is touched. Mixed in the foreign mail after the city delivery has gone out is often found matter for local delivery, which should have been put into the local slot. At night the reverse is the case. Foreign mail is attended to and sorted out while the local mail is left until the next morning. It is often found that mail intended for foreign delivery has been dumped in with the local mail, and has by that means missed a half day.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. H. K. Carroll and daughters, of Westervelt avenue, are home from their summer outing.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

BEAUTY HINTS.

An excellent skin food well commended for removing freckles is compounded from one ounce of clarified mutton tallow, lanolin and cocoanut-oil, heated with two ounces of oil of sweet almonds. Beat until smooth, adding one ounce of extract of witch-hazel and one teaspoonful of benzoin.

The skin of the face can be strengthened and whitened with this lotion, said to be favored by Sarah Bernhardt: Two ounces each of spirits of ammonia and camphor, five ounces of sea salt and half a pint of alcohol added to sufficient boiling water to make a quart. Pour into a bottle and thoroughly shake before using—the bottle, not yourself. This lotion, well rubbed into the skin every day, is said to be very soothing to nerves, and so doubly beautifying.

For a pallid skin apply, daily, equal portions of liquid ammonia and glycerine mixed with double the quantity of water. Eat good rare beef, drink the native red wine of your country and spend as many hours on horseback in the canons as you possibly can. There's nothing like good air to color the cheeks and give one an appetite for nourishing food.

It is safer to bathe too much than not enough, and there is nothing better for the complexion than a daily bath; that is, an all-over bath taken in the morning. Use cold water if you can stand it, or tepid—never hot—and apply the flesh brush vigorously until the body glows. The warm bath for cleanliness should be taken two or three times a week, using pure soap, and avoiding draughts for at least an hour afterward. Be careful of your diet. Salted nuts, pickles and chocolate creams are all good in their place, but indulgence in them shows very quickly in the complexion. Do not use all the formulas given for face washes and bleaches, at least not within ten days. Begin with some simple remedy, eat sanely, sleep soundly, and keep out of doors all you can, walking in the sunshine whenever you get a chance and find some vital interest in life.

The following lotion will refine and whiten the skin and is a pleasant change from the benzoin preparations: Four ounces of rose-water, one ounce of pure oxide of zinc, one dram of glycerine and fifteen drops of essence of roses. You will find it essentially the same as one of the expensive lotions. Florida water is composed of one ounce each of oil of bergamot and tincture of benzoin, with one quart of alcohol added to soft water to make any strength desired.—The Pilgrim.

WELL TO KNOW.

Boiled cauliflower will be much whiter if placed in the saucepan head down, to insure their submersion.

A good way of cleaning oilcloth is to sponge it well with skim milk, as it brightens and preserves the color, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

A cooking thermometer is nowadays an essential possession of the up-to-date cook, and these handy little registering instruments are to be had in most housefurnishing shops.

Okra may be cooked until it is tender and then be sliced and served with a white sauce and used as a vegetable, or it may be covered with French dressing and do duty as a salad It also may be added to the vegetable salad mixture.

During the season of autumn house parties it is incumbent on a hostess to perform her duties of hospitality with the utmost urbanity. It is no longer a question of being amiable for a few hours to people invited to dinner, or to an evening party. Every moment must be devoted to promoting the comfort, pleasure and satisfaction of her visitors.

JONES' RELIC FOUND.

Trenton Man Discovers Roster of His Ship's Crew.

John S. Spencer, deputy revenue collector, when he took charge of his new home at 344 South Warren street, Trenton, discovered a relic of John Paul Jones hidden in a cupboard in the rear room of the second floor. It consisted of a copy of the roll of the officers, seamen and marines who served on board the Bon Homme Richard, commanded by Commodore Jones, in her cruise made in 1779, with the volunteer prisoners included.

It was copied in 1843 from the original roll made by Lieutenant James Bayard Stafford by his only daughter, Miss Sarah Smith Stafford. Lieutenant Stafford was a recaptured American prisoner and compiled the roll the next day after an engagement.

The roster shows that John Paul Jones had 229 men under him. Sixty-three of them were officers and petty officers, sixty-seven were seamen, fifty-five seamen, forty-three boys, and seven servants and cooks. It also shows the rank, nativity and nationality of the men. Whether they were wounded or killed during the engagement was also recorded.

Mr. Spencer bought the house on South Warren street from the estate of Samuel Stafford. Until nineteen years ago it was occupied by Asher Coryell. Before then it was the home of Miss Stafford, who was very patriotic and took great pride in collecting Revolutionary relics of all kinds.

When the War Cloud Rests.

Coincident with peace between Japan and Russia comes the news of harmony among Union county Republicans, as the result of William N. Runyon's withdrawal from the field as a Senatorial candidate. As Hudson county had already been harmonized, the only spot where now rests a war cloud of portentous dimensions is Essex. Why doesn't Major Lentz follow the magnanimous examples set by Dickinson, Runyon and the Mikado?—Newark News.

The Kind They Like.

"People want air the worst way," said a paper not far away. What's the matter with inviting them for a stroll along the Passaic?—Paterson Guardian.

Knew He Had the Coin.

Not only has the river been stolen from Paterson, but New Yorkers have gone so far as to rob a Silk City bartender. The thieves may next time be expected to tackle a brewery. —Newark News.

The Real Test.

"Will a lonely dog follow you?" asks a college professor, testing his students' fitness for the higher life. A lonely dog will follow anybody. The real test is, will a dog that is not lonely make friends with you? If he will, there is hope for you.—New Brunswick Times.

NOTICE!

"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James, Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J Signed, July 12, 1905: Mrs. C. LAWS OF TAXATION ISSUED IN PAMPHLET

ARE NOW BEING DISTRIBUTED BY THE STATE BOAYD.

A 28-page pamphlet entitled "Laws Affecting Taxation, Passed by the Legislature During the Session of 1905," has just been issued, and is being circulated among the taxing officials of the State by the State Board of Taxation.

It includes the pamphlet laws as follows: "Chapter 4, approved February 15, 1905, concerning the levying of taxes in certain municipalities; chapter 45, approved March 22, 1905, an act to provide for the appointment, term of office and salary of assessors in certain cities in this State, and prescribing their duties; chapter 67, approved March 29, 1905, abolishing the old State Board of Taxation and creating in lieu thereof a board for the equalization, revision, review and enforcement of tax assessments; chapter 63, approved March 31, 1905, an act to amend the general act and providing a maximum tax rate."

The maximum rate provided is $1.70 per $100 of valuation in cities having a population of over 50,000, and $1.50 per $100 in all other cities and towns and townships. This rate may be exceeded whenever the governing body of a municipality resolves to do so and the resolution is approved by a majority of the legal voters at a general election next preceding the fixing of the tax rate.

Chapter 91, approved April 3, 1905. This was Assembly bill No. 1, introduced by Mr. Duffield, the Republican leader of the House, as a sop to the public demand for a change in the method of taxing the railroads. It provides for the taxing of the second class property of the railroads at local rates for the benefit of the respective municipalities in which they are found.

Chapter 107, approved April 6, 1905, concerning the collection of unpaid taxes and assessments; chapter 116, approved April 6, 1905, amending the general tax act; chapter 161, approved April 17, 1905, providing that mortgages on exempted property shall be exempted from taxation; chapter 201, approved April 28, 1905, amending the Martin act for the collection of unpaid taxes; chapter 211, approved April 28, 1905, affecting the taxation of bank stock.

Chapter 234, approved May 11, 1905, a supplement to the general tax act. This is the bill introduced by Assemblyman Buck, of Millville, the home of Governor Stokes, and provides that the taxation of bank stock shall not be at a greater rate than is levied upon the moneyed capital in this State.

Chapter 243, approved May 11, 1905, repealing certain acts and sections referring to mutual loan and building associations; chapter 251, approved June 2, 1905, and chapter 255, approved the same day, both amending the Martin act.

THE STORM'S HAVOC

feet. All the roadways in the flood district were badly washed out. Somerset street was so deep under water above Regent street that Stonewall Jackson drove a thriving business carting people over the lakelet that stretched across the street.

Up in Washington Valley Stony brook backed up over its banks and invaded houses along its course. The water struck Hippolyte Texier's house, opposite the brook in the Notch, so suddenly that Leonce Texier, one of the sons, and Joseph Robinson, of this city, a guest, were compelled to carry Mrs. Texier and the girls in the family out on their backs. The lower floor was almost awash before the family could turn around.

One of the minor storm results in the borough was a kink in the fire alarm. Box 153 was burned out by lightning Sunday afternoon, and the bell pounded spasmodically until after nightfall. The break was repaired yesterday morning.

On this side of the line there was plenty of water, but comparatively little damage. What damage was done was confined almost wholly to the macadam of the streets, although cellars were invaded and backyards along Green brook disappeared under the muddy overflow. Old-timers say the brook was never higher than it appeared Sunday afternoon.

The stream jumped its banks at about 4:30 o'clock. The rain had ceased a half hour before, and the surface water on the streets was beginning to disappear when the brook, which had been gathering volume steadily, leaped clear of its bounds and did its best to wash the city away. Torrents of water rushed down Farragut road, Netherwood avenue and Richmond street, putting them and the low-lying streets to the south under water knee high. Cedar brook did not seem to rise so high in proportion, but the Netherwood section disappeared under water with its usual facility in the face of a heavy rain.

Until late at night communication with Netherwood from the north was cut off except at the expense of much wetting, everywhere below Prospect avenue. Netherwood was badly gutted by the little torrents that swept through it, and Richmond street, between Second and Fifth streets, got its usual dose. Cellars along Richmond street were badly flooded. The water that drained through the Central railroad cut at Fanwood washed down into North avenue and did a good deal of damage to the roadway. Overflow from the brook did damage to the West End streets along the stream.

Water collected in deep pools under all the railroad bridges. Under the Washington street bridge a number of small boys went in swimming, and suffered no discomfort at all as to depth. The waters went down rapidly in the streets, although they kept rushing tumultuously down the brook. Crowds gathered on the bridges to see the stream glorying in its new-found strength early in the afternoon and watched until after dark.

Street Commissioner Gavett and his men were out Sunday afternoon as soon as the water threatened to become obstreperous. They have been setting things right since and expect to be busy at it for at least three days more. Mr. Gavett says a good deal of the top dressing and small stone washed from the roadways will be recovered and the expense attendant on street repairs will not be great.

The trolley service was full of trouble as soon as the "Richmond street cut" filled. There was trouble enough at Grant avenue and Somerset street, but Richmond street's flood blocked the main line and made the officials rush around hurriedly and say impolite things to one another. From 4:30 o'clock until nearly 10 o'clock at night the service in the city was practically suspended.

One break in the alarm system bothered the fire department. It was caused by a cross from an electric light wire, pressed down by the weight of wet branches.

The Central railroad was temporarily held up by the torrent that rushed through Fanwood cut. When the waters went down train service was resumed, and a gang of men hustled through repairs where the roadbed was washed out. The P. S. C. service between Bound Brook and Dunellen was shut off by washouts until yesterday morning.

Marsh's iron bridge, within ten feet of the dam near the stone quarry, at Scotch Plains, was almost completely wrecked by the high water. The flood washed away the abutments and allowed the structure to tumble into a huge mash of iron. North of Scotch Plains on the Springfield road there were no signs of a heavy rain.

TOM HANNA SLATED.

Regular Republicans Said to Favor Him for Tax Collector.

It is reported today semi-officially that Thomas Hanna, now deputy warden at the county jail, Elizabeth, will be the choice of the "regular" Republicans for the position of tax collector to succeed the present incumbent, Robert L. Lee. He is known to be in harmony with the Republican leaders and to have kept well in touch with local affairs.

It now seems to be well-known that Collector Lee is opposed by the "machine and it is likely to do all in its power to defeat him for the nomination.

Borough Fire Alarm Suffered.

The borough electricians were kept busy the greater part of yesterday replacing and repairing broken fire alarm wires. The alarm wire on Craig place, which was broken and grounded, caused the firemen quite some trouble. Wires at box 132, Westervelt and Manning avenues, were badly twisted and broken. During the lightning storm box 153, at Giraud and Willow avenues, was burned out and it took a few hours' work to get it in order again. Breaks in the wires were the cause of the borough fire bell ringing through the day.

Attended Junior Flag Raising.

Representatives from Franklin, Somerset and Franklin Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., went to Cranford, yesterday afternoon to join with the Cranford Council in a celebration attendant upon the raising of a flag over the new public school building at Cranford. Various councils from all parts of the county were present and the exercises were very interesting.

Charles A. Dixon, of West Fifth street, who has been at Hainesburg, Sussex county, during the past three weeks, returned home this morning, greatly improved in health.

NEW DATES FOR THE REMAINING BALL GAMES

MANAGER DAAB ALSO DECLARES OFF SERIES WITH SUMMIT.

On account of the rain on Saturday and yesterday, which caused a postponement of the Plainfield-Westfield games for the county championship, Managers Daab and Denman will now arrange other dates for the remaining four games. Of course, the next game will be played at Westfield on Saturday, as scheduled, and the other three contests will be arranged in order.

It was impossible to play at Crescent Oval yesterday, half the field being covered with water nearly waist deep, while the diamond was washed out. Conditions almost as bad prevailed at Recreation Park, and at noon the game was declared off. By this arrangement the Plainfield-Summit series is now off indefinitely, Managers Daab and Murphy being unable to agree on later dates. Mr. Daab and Captain Driscoll were here yesterday and visited the oval. The rain also interfered with the Hoboken-Giants game at Hoboken on Sunday. Umpire Merity, Turner, Cregan and Leonard were among those who came here yesterday afternoon.

NO COURT TODAY.

Batch of Offenders Will Be Sentenced Tomorrow.

A number of cases of intoxication and disorderly conduct were caught in the police net between Saturday and yesterday, and the lockup was well occupied this morning. As City Judge Runyon was out of town all cases were put off until tomorrow morning. Except as otherwise stated the following persons were arrested for being drunk and disorderly:

John Kiley, arrested by Patrolman Kelly, Watchung and North avenues; Albert Stawk and John Rogers, arrested by Patrolman Martin at Watchung avenue and East Second street; Simon Champagine, arrested by Roundsman Higgins on West Front street; Stephen Perrine, arrested by Patrolman Overbaugh at Front and Grove streets; Alfred Sanderson, arrested by Patrolman Myers at Park avenue and Second street; Elizabeth Cardon, arrested by Patrolman Payne on Cottage place; Santia Yauts, causing general disturbance by discharging firearm, arrested by Patrolman Kelly on Lake street; Michael Cipplie and Leonardo Rice, carrying concealed weapons, arrested by Roundsman Flynn and Doorman McCue on Watchung avenue; Walter Jones, carrying concealed weapons, arrested by Patrolman Flynn on West Second street; John Blythman, drunk and disorderly, arrested by Roundsman Flynn on Park avenue.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The regular meeting of the Christian and Missionary Alliance will be held Friday evening, September 8, at 8 o'clock, in the W. C. T. U. rooms, Madison avenue. Miss Cromwell will be in charge.

The Eldorado Restaurant.

"Uncle Jesse" Hetfield, who has conducted a lunch counter and fruit store at the trolley station on Watchung avenue, has rented the large store one door east of his present location, No. 112, and will hereafter devote his whole attention to the restaurant business. "Uncle Jesse" has the happy faculty of being able to please everybody who deals with him and his latest venture as a restaurant keeper will no doubt meet with success.

New Date for Postponed Game.

Owing to the postponement of the game on Saturday between Plainfield and Westfield, that contest, one of the ten for the county championship, will have to be played on another date. Managers Daab and Denman will get together and decide this soon. Both teams were at Westfield on Saturday, but the rain and poor condition of the grounds prevented an exhibition.

John Sullivan a Benedict.

John Sullivan, of the Hotel Iroquois, and Miss Anieda Gepprich, of New York, were married in St. Francis' Xavier church, in Sixteenth street, New York, Sunday afternoon. J. W. Drayton, of this city, was the best man, and Miss Walker, of New York, was the bridesmaid. The couple will live in this city.

St. Gabriel's Opens Tomorrow.

St. Gabriel's academy will open for the fall term tomorrow. During the coming year, special attention is to be paid to the painting and vocal and instrumental classes.

Chief Weiss' Vacation.

Chief Marshal Weiss, of the borough police force, started on his two-week annual vacation on Sunday. Marshal Joseph Flack will be acting-chief in his absence.

A. J. Winckler is critically ill at his home on Park place.

Dr. F. C. Ard, of Park avenue, returned today from his annual vacation.

—Professor O'Reilly's dancing class will resume for the fall term in the Taylor building, North and Park avenues, tomorrow night.

MAN SWEPT A MILE BY ANGRY TORRENT

YOUNG NEARLY DROWNED IN GREEN BROOK, TRYING TO SAVE BOAT.

While the crowd of sightseers were watching the swirling torrent sweep over Tier's dam at Watchung avenue Sunday afternoon a rowboat floated into view in the center of the current. It was a good looking boat and much comment greeted its plunge over the dam.

"It's a shame a rowboat like that should be all smashed up," commiserated the watchers. Lee Young, forty years old, a mason, was one of them.

"I can get that boat," said Young. I'll go in and pull it ashore and paint it up. It'll make a nice boat when I get through with it."

He took off his shoes and stockings and plunged into the eddying stream. Young never reached the boat. The waters seized hold of him and flung him forward as if he was a wooden shaving.

He gave up his salvage scheme right away and tried to get back to shore. He found that it was a good deal easier to get in than to get out. He had a hard struggle to keep his head up, and floating logs and driftwood and things threatened to bump him senseless every minute.

He was swept out of sight of the shouting crowd in a minute. It didn't look as if he could live through it, and reports of his death were immediately circulated. His shoes were taken to police headquarters, and his drowning was entered on the record.

But he did go through it. He held himself up until Giraud avenue was reached, where the current slackened enough to enable him to make the shore, exhausted but unhurt. A little later he went to police headquarters and claimed his shoes. He had been taking something to ward off the effects of the chill and refused to regard his experience as anything but a joke.

Record Attendance at Theatre.

Every seat for the performance at the New Plainfield theatre last night, was sold out at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It was the biggest attendance yet noted while "Running for Office" was the best play the city has enjoyed since long before Music Hall closed. The company was capable and the chorus brought recollections of Broadway's best. Manager Counihan deserved the patronage that was accorded him.

Wins a Scholarship.

Louis Mann Willis, son of Edward Willis, of South avenue, won the free scholarship at the Plainfield Business College, making the nearest guess to the nmber of beans in a jar at the grocery store of S. Scheuer & Co., on West Front street. He guessed 1,498, which was within fifty-two of the correct number. There were 1,550 beans in all in the jar.

His Foot Lacerated by Glass.

Harry Henry, aged thirteen years, of Jackson avenue, the borough, stepped on a quantity of broken glass yesterday, receiving a lacerated wound of the foot. He was taken to the hospital, where he will remain for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gaston Tunison have returned from their honeymoon, and are now residing with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Leek, of East Fifth street.

SALOON LIMITATION PASSED OVER MAYOR'S VETO

Councilman Tyler's "Quarantine" Ordinance Carried Again By Vote of 6 to 4.

MR. TYLER'S IDEA

Chief Executive's Objections to the Measure Met By Answer From Its Sponsor.

Keeping his promise, Mayor James F. Buckle vetoed the "quarantine ordinance," which was recently adopted and provides that the sale of liquor shall be restricted to the business section and at the September meeting of the Common Council last night he presented his objections to the ordinance. Later when Mr. Tyler sought to have the ordinance passed over the Mayor's head, Councilman Gloak moved to amend the motion by having the ordinance referred to the corporation counsel for a written opinion, as suggested by Mr. Buckle. This amendment was lost by a vote of seven to three, Councilmen Bullock, Hibbard, Higham, Murphy, Tyler, Wilson and Daniel voting in the negative, and Councilmen Gloak, Frank DeW. Randolph and Tolles voting in the affirmative.

Then Mr. Tyler's motion to pass the ordinance over the veto was taken and Councilmen Bullock, Hibbard, Higham, Murphy, Tyler and Wilson voted in favor, while Councilmen Gloak, Frank DeW. Randolph, Tolles and Daniel voted against it.

After Mayor Buckle presented his objections, Mr. Tyler moved that the same be spread in full on the journal and minutes of the Common Council, as prescribed by ordinance, announcing that it was his intention to move that the ordinance be passed over the veto, it being absolutely necessary that some affirmative or negative action be taken at this meeting. Mr. Tyler took exception to Mr. Gloak's amendment, stating that he had no power to amend, and in regard to obtaining the opinion of the corporation counsel, he said that he had gone over the ordinance with Mr. Marsh, spending many hours with him, and that it was drafted in Mr. Marsh's office and he said that it was unnecessary to refer the ordinance to him.

The full text of Mayor Buckle's objections to the passage of the ordinance follows:

To the Common Council of the City of Plainfield:

Gentlemen—Herewith I return, with my objections, the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to amend the ordinance entitled 'An ordinance to license inns and taverns, and to regulate and prohibit the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors,' approved February 10, 1902, as amended," which ordinance was adopted by your honorable body, August 7, 1905, and presented to me August 8.

My objections are as follows:

"First. I am advised that the proposed ordinance would be, to say the least, of doubtful legality, and might result in serious legal complications and expensive litigation.

"It has been said that two other cities in other States than New Jersey have adopted such ordinances. But, I am advised that such cities doubtless have charter provision different from ours, which may legally justify their action.

"Certainly the legality of the proposed ordinance should be passed upon by our corporation counsel, and his opinion placed on record before final action is taken.

"Second. Even if it were established that Plainfield has lawful authority to enact such an ordinance, I still think it objectionable for many reasons, a few of which I will mention.

"The proposed ordinance attempts to confine licensed places within extremely narrow limits, and to prevent future Councils from even considering any application for a license outside of that district, while I am, and have always been opposed to granting licenses in residential sections of our city, as my record will show, have always been exceedingly conservative on the question of licensing any new place. Yet I firmly believe that it is the duty of the Council to receive every application which may come regularly before it from any part of the city, and to give each application consideration separately. In my view the Council is bound to exercise its best judgment and sound discretion in every instance, granting such applications as may seem to it should be granted, and refusing all others. The proposed ordinance seeks to prevent the Council from exercising such discretion, except within a single district, which includes perhaps less than one-fiftieth part of our municipality.

"It is stated on the best authority that negotiations for the sale of the Netherwood hotel property have about been concluded. It is further stated that the purchaser intends spending large sums of money upon the property and making it a first-class hotel open all the year. If this be true, the proposed ordinance would not only prevent the granting to that hotel any kind of a liquor license, but would prevent the Common Council from even considering the question at all.

"No matter how many nor how good the reasons, nor how unanimous the sentiment in favor of some form of license, the hands of the Council would be tied and it could not exercise either the power or the duty which the Legislature has reposed in it, namely to hear and determine whether the application should, under all these circumstances be granted or refused.

"Third. A few years ago it was decided by the voters of the city, by a substantial majority, that the present system of liquor license was satisfactory. So far as I know there has been no issue on the subject submitted to the people since, and if public sentiment on the subject has undergone any radical change we have no proof of it.

"Ever since the city charter was granted the Common Council has granted or refused licenses in its discretion. This body has always been free to exercise the

PETER M. DEMAREST DEAD

WAS 81 YEARS OLD

Leaves Widow and Three Children —Body to Be Brought Here for Interment.

A telegram received in Plainfield last evening, conveyed to relatives and friends in the city and borough word of the death of Peter M. Demarest, for many years one of the leading local business men and a resident until May, 1903. His demise occurred at the home of his son, Albert W. Demarest, of Syracuse, N. Y., at 3:30 yesterday afternoon, and was due to a third paralytic stroke which affected him Saturday. The body will be brought to Plainfield and interred in the family plot at Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Demarest was born at Passaic eighty-one years ago and when a young man engaged in the grocery business. Retiring from this field he became a ship chandler and later conducted a "Yankee notion" house on Canal street, New York. He disposed of his interests to engage in the grocery business in this city in 1879. He opened a store in the old Stillman block on West Front street and his trade increased so rapidly he was forced to move to larger quarters in what is now the Marsh building on Park avenue. He was a thorough, practical business man and at one time his establishment was the largest and most up-to-date grocery house in the city. He retired from the field five years ago and lived quietly with his daughter, Mrs. P. Newton Drake, of Somerset street. At the request of his son, Albert, he and his wife went to Syracuse to live two years ago and they had been there since that time.

Though a wide-awake citizen, Mr. Demarest never held public office but was an enthusiastic member of the Masonic order, at the time of his death being a member of Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., and Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T. He was also a member of Trinity Reformed church and an exempt fireman, having been connected with Zephyr Company. He and Mrs. Demarest, who survives him, were devoted to each other and their fifty-seventh wedding anniversary was observed quietly last New Year's eve. Their golden wedding anniversary was celebrated at their home in the borough and was a brilliant affair.

Besides his widow there are surviving him, two daughters, Mrs. Frank A. Church, of East Orange, and Mrs. P. Newton Drake, of the borough, and one son, Albert W. Demarest, of Syracuse. There are also six grandsons and one granddaughter, Miss Elsie Drake, of the borough. A third daughter, Mrs. S. L. Fraser, died at her home in Chicago a year ago last March and the body was brought to Plainfield for interment.

WILL MEET AT CASINO.

Muhlenberg Governors Accepts Offer From Maze Edwards.

Meetings of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will be held in future at the Casino, instead of the library. The privilege of using the Casino was tendered to the Board at its regular meeting last night, in a communication from Maze Edwards, the lessee.

The Board accepted the offer with thanks. The members expressed high appreciation of Mr. Edwards' action.

The report of the medical staff of the hospital for August was as follows: Remaining from previous month, 30; admitted, 59; total, 89; discharged, cured, 54; improved, 2; not improved, 2; died, 1; remaining, 30; hospital days, 934; operations, 38; dispensary, patients treated, 52; visits of patients, 130; operations, 6.

Entertained Old Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Stephany, of Summit avenue, enjoyed a visit from their old time friends, Mr. and Mrs. D. Basch and their son and daughter, of New York and London, last night. Mr. Mortimer, another visitor, entertained with English operatic airs on the piano; Henry Stephany gave phonograph selections and August Stephany rendered mandolin solos. A supper was served in conclusion.

Mrs. Harrison Dead.

Mrs. Anamelia Harrison, wife of George Harrison, aged fifty-four years, died last night at her home near New Dover, from heart trouble. The funeral services will be held from the New Dover church on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

COUNCIL'S ROUTINE WORK

Large Budget of Minor Matters Disposed of at Last Night's Meeting.

SEVERAL PETITIONS

Chairman Bullock Reports Progress in East End Fire House Project—West End Wants Another School.

Besides the several important matters taken up by the Common Council at the September meeting last night, there was a large budget of matters of less importance. Building Inspector Doane reported the granting of twenty-three permits during August. Mayor Buckle appointed S. D. Frazee and F. L. Ingram to vacancies in the call system of the fire department. Corporation Counsel Marsh gave an opinion regarding Mrs. Mary Skillman's request to have Midway avenue graded, stating that the avenue in question was formerly on the line of the New Jersey Central, and that there is no ordinance which will provide for the grading. He advised that the matter rests with the judgment of the Common Council.

A communication was received from the Board of Assessors notifying the Common Council of the death of David S. Pope, an assistant in the office of Tax Collector Lee, and recommending that Frank M. Dunham be appointed to the position, stating that he has knowledge of the work of the office and was willing to accept it at the same salary. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

A communication was received from Margaret A. Burke, who sustained injuries at Grant avenue and West Fourth street, where the streets were being graded, informing the Common Council that she would settle with the city for $32. Later Mr. Tolles offered a resolution accepting the offer and authorizing the drawing of a warrant in payment. The settlement is to be approved by the corporation counsel.

Other resolutions offered by Mr. Tolles, which were adopted, transferred $1,000 from the general to the fire fund, confirmed the report of the sewer commissioners on assesments for benefits and damages and provided for the borrowing of $8,000 in connection with sewer improvements now in progress.

In repsonse to a request from Contractor C. M. Meeker, who is macadamizing certain streets in the west end of the city, an extension of time was granted to him to November 15, to complete the work.

Mr. Bullock, chairman of the fire and buildings committee, reported progress in the proposed matter of securing a fire house in the east end of the city, and as to the petition from Chief Doane, asking for the Common Council's co-operation in the organization of a pension association, he stated that the association had organized by electing Chief Doane chairman; Captain James Daly, secretary, and Assistant Andrew B. Jennings as treasurer. Mr. Bullock also reported on the petition of residents for a hydrant at Woodland avenue and Central street, and moved that the same be granted, adding that the committee had had the matter under consideration.

A resolution by Mr. Bullock rescinded the resolution previously adopted appropriating $150 as expenses for Street Commissioner Gavett for his trip to Toledo, Ohio, which he did not take owing to the illness of an assistant.

For the purpose of considering in private the plans of the Mono Investing Company, which seeks permission to build a storage house on Fillmore avenue, a twenty-five minute recess was taken, but nothing was accomplished. The matter will come up at another meeting.

On motions offered by Mr. Murphy a light was ordered placed at Randolph road and Madison avenue, and another at Leland avenue and East Seventh street.

In new business Mr. Tolles offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing for an appropriation of $1,000 on account of sewer work. Mr. Wilson presented the contract between the city and Richardson & Gaston, who have the contract for the sewer work at the sewage farm, stating that it has been approved by the corporation counsel, and he moved that the original contract be filed with the city clerk and a copy filed at Elizabeth, which was done.

On motion by Mr. Wilson, the ordinance providing for the Richmond street storm sewer was placed on third reading and adopted. He then introduced the matter relative to the widening of Sycamore street, stating that it had been impossible to make an amicable agreement with the interested property owners. In view of this, George J. Tobin, H. W. Marshall and Armstrong Mulford were appointed commissioners to assess

BURGLAR DISAPPOINTED

Found Nothing He Wanted After Prowling All Through House.

WAS LUCKY, AT THAT

Women of Family Next Door Heard Him Break In, But Were Afraid to Start Investigation.

Sometime about 9 o'clock Monday night the family of Charles W. Eoff, of 113 Crescent avenue, heard the crash of breaking glass from the house of James W. Jackson, next door. The Jackson house has been vacant since June, when the family went to the country. Mrs. Eoff and the servants knew that something was wrong, but Mr. Eoff was not at home and the family feared to investigate. For some reason they failed to notify the police of the occurrence.

Mr. Eoff, who had been out of town, arrived home last night. Mrs. Eoff told him of the noise, and he immediately went over to the Jackson place. He found a cellar window smashed, and plenty of evidence that somebody had forced an entrance. Mr. Eoff telephoned his discovery to the home of L. M. French, of Craig place, a friend of Mr. Jackson. It happened that Mr. Jackson had arrived in town yesterday morning and was staying at the Frenchs. He hurried to his house, after notifying the police.

Mr. Jackson, Sergeant Frederickson and Roundsman Flynn went over the house together. They found the trail of the burglar all through the place, but as far as Mr. Jackson could see, not a thing was missing. All the silver was in a safe deposit vault. The thief very evidently searched for things of value in compact form, and held to a determination not to be burdened with clothing, pictures or things of that character. There was considerable clothing in sight.

The thief smashed open two doors, in the kitchen and butler's pantry to make his way upstairs. He seemed to have been a considerate robber, because he forced nothing else and did no further damage, although his disappointment over the absence of valuables of the sort he wanted must have been keen. He opened all the bureau drawers and closets he could reach, unrolled the furniture covers and shifted mantel ornaments, apparently in a search for keys to strong-boxes or desks. He left a new chisel, with which the forcing of the window and locks was done, behind him.

Sergeant Frederickson said this morning that pursuit of the thief was almost hopeless. He left no clues and too much time had elapsed between the crime and the notification of the officers. If Mrs. Eoff had telephoned the police when she heard the crash Monday night the thief would have been caught red-handed.

SEEKS BENEFIT OF NEW HOSPITAL TAX

MUHLENBERG ASKS THAT PEOPLE BE ALLOWED TO VOTE ON IT.

The Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, wishing to take advantage of the new State law which gives cities of Plainfield's class an opportunity of deciding whether they want to be taxed a minimum amount each year for the maintenance of the hospital, communicated with the Common Council at the September meeting, last night, requesting that a referendum clause be attached to the ballots at the next election.

Intimation of this action was published in The Daily Press a month ago, it being learned that the Board of Governors proposed to take advantage of the new law with the consent of the city. In order to do this the permission of the Common Council must be obtained first and that body can authorize the referendum clause.

The Common Council now appropriates $1,500 a year for the care of the indigent poor, and it is for this purpose that the Board of Governors seek to secure a revenue from a general tax, which it intimates would amount to one-third of a mill on each taxpayer.

It was decided to refer the matter to the finance committee, with the idea of taking it up at the October meeting. This will give the Common Council time to authorize the referendum if it decides best.

—The canning season is now at its height, and Neuman Brothers are meeting the demands for peaches with the very best quality of white and yellow fruit. The prices are 65 cents, 75 cents, 85 cents and $1.00.

ORDER NEW QUARANTINE

Cerebro-Spinal Meningitis Classified as Contagious.

HEALTH BOARD'S WORK

House-to-House Sanitary Inspection of 531 Dwellings in August—Record for August.

During the month of August there were but few cases of contagious diseases reported, according to the reports submitted at the September meeting of the Board of Health yesterday, there being seven in all, with one death from diphtheria. The source of infection could not be learned. At present there are but two cases of contagious disease under quarantine.

Recent observations have shown that the bacilli of cerebro-spinal meningitis is found in the nasal secretions of infected persons, and the Board of Health has classified this disease as among those contagious. In the future this disease will be reported by the physician, quarantined and the premises disinfected.

On September 1 the house to house inspection was stopped, but during August 531 houses were inspected, with the following results:

Total number of houses inspected, 531; privy vaults found, 334; cesspools found, 266; privy vaults which required cleaning, 139; cesspools which required cleaning, 41; abandoned privy vaults not properly filled, 29; abandoned cesspools not properly filled, 17; driven wells found, 168; dug wells found, 4; defective plumbing systems found, 16; unsanitary cellars found, 11; chicken yards found, 90; privy vaults too near well, 33; cesspools too near well, 39; houses apparently overcrowded, 1; accumulations of garbage, 15; accumulations of ashes, 9; accumulations of ashes mixed with garbage, 15; accumulations of manure, 12; accumulations of manure mixed with garbage, 1.

The inspection during the month covered the territory bounded by South Second street, Grant avenue, West Fifth street and Clinton avenue, also South avenue, Woodland avenue, Watchung avenue and East Seventh street. Because of the delay of the plumbers in doing their work, we shall be obliged to discontinue any further house to house inspection during the year.

During August there were reported four marriages, twenty-five births, four still births and thirty-five deaths, a total of sixty-five in all.

QUORUM ELUDED TWO FAITHFUL MEMBERS

SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS MAKE FUTILE TELEPHONIC HUNT FOR COLLEAGUES.

Lack of a quorum compelled the postponement of the regular meeting of the Board of Education last night for the second time this month. It was decided to put the meeting off originally from Monday night to last night, on account of the holiday. Last night only two of the members appeared.

They were Charles F. Abbott and E. M. Cave. Superintendent Maxson and Clerk Clark were present also. After waiting for the appearance of one of their colleagues, to complete the quorum, for twenty minutes beyond the regular time for opening, the two faithful members began a telephonic hunt for the absentees. Within five minutes they discovered that all the rest of the board were out of town.

They tried to reach Dr. J. B. Probasco, president of the board, first. They learned that he had left for a month's stay in Maine early in the evening. That was the first the members had heard of the president's trip. L. N. Lovell, who has been staying in Massachusetts, was unable to get back to town on account of the floods. From F. T. Woodhull's house came the information that he had come down from his cottage at Lake Hoptacong Monday night, under the impression that a meeting was to have been held then, and went back after discovering that no session was slated. There is something of a joke on Mr. Woodhull in this, because it was at his suggestion that the meeting was put off from Monday night to last night.

When the last telephone message was received, Mr. Abbott, who ranks Mr. Cave in seniority of service, gave a sigh of resignation.

"I guess we'll have to put the meeting off for another week," he said, and the clerk was so instructed.

Schools Open Tuesday.

The public schools of the city and borough will reopen on Tuesday morning, September 11.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP ELECTION ON SEPT. 26

MR. LEE IS A CANDIDATE

Official Announces That He Will Run Independently For Collectorship.

SUPPORT PROMISED

Says That His Only Offense is That His Brother-in-law Does as He Likes in Council—Aggressive Fight Ahead.

"I want you to announce for me," said Tax Collector Robert L. Lee to a representative of The Daily Press, "that I am a candidate to succeed myself as collector." Mr. Lee, it is said, will be turned down for nomination by the Republicans because of his having displeased the machine. Consequently his declaration that he will become a candidate independently makes the political situation all the more interesting.

In the interview, Collector Lee said that he will seek an independent nomination and will lay his case before the people. He declared that his only offense had been that he happens to have a brother-in-law, meaning Councilman J. Stephen Higham, who has acted contrary to the machine's wishes. Mr. Lee disavows any responsibility for Councilman Higham's course and adds that he has not tried to influence him in any way.

It is reliably reported that Thomas Hanna, late supervisor of census statistics, will be the organization's candidate for the office, but this cannot be confirmed. That an aggressive campaign will be waged can be forecasted from the work being done by the Independent clubs in the city.

Last night the Fourth Ward Republican Club, at a meeting held at the home of Edward Beekman, in Oxford place, passed an important resolution in this connection. It instructed its delegations, if elected, to support Mr. Lee's candidacy both within and without the convention. In addition it pledged the assistance of all its members to the same end.

The club will hold another meeting at Mr. Beekman's tonight to take further steps in the interest of Collector Lee's campaign.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Ben Mumford Gives Phonographic Party.

In celebration of the anniversary of his birthday, yesterday, Benjamin Mumford, of Arlington avenue, assisted by his daughter, Miss Mary Mumford, entertained a few friends, which is his annual custom. This year Mr. Mumford entertained a small company of friends, including Chief and Mrs. T. O. Doane, Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus O. Doane, Jr., and Hervey K. Doane. A feature of the affair was a phonograph concert, given by Mr. Mumford on his fine machine, and a elaborate supper.

During the evening Mr. Mumford related his experiences as a member of the old New York Volunteer Fire Department, which was listened to with a great deal of interest. Mr. Mumford received the congratulations of all for many happy returns of the day.

MARTIN ACT SALE.

Borough Buys in Six of the Properties.

The sale of properties belonging to delinquent taxpayers in North Plainfield was held yesterday, at the office of Tax Collector George F. Brown. Only six properties were left to be sold, and all were bought in by the borough. There were forty names advertised for the delinquent tax list of 1904, and all but six paid up. Following is the list of properties sold yesterday:

Margaret M. Currie, Westervelt avenue, $81.39; E. J. Fourd, Grove street, $14.20; O. K. Land Company, Pearl street, $31.32; H. S. Pond, Willow avenue, $85.37; Gustaf Ruppert, Steiner place, $11.75; R. A. Seaman, Rock avenue, $7.12.

Festival Postponed.

Because of the arrangements that have to be made for the special meeting of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, Odd Ladies, on Monday, September 11, the peach festival that was to have been held last night by members of the lodge was indefinitely postponed. Mrs. Mary Simpson, instructor of Odd Ladies, of Boston, will pay an official visit to the local order on Monday night.

Boards of Registry Busy.

The members of the boards of election and registry in the city and borough started yesterday their work of making a house to house canvass of the voters.

City Control of Water Plant to Be Decided at Polls.

COMMON COUNCIL ACTS

Polls to Be Open from 11 in the Morning Until 7 at Night —One Dissenting Vote.

Following up previous action relative to the city acquiring its own water works, Councilman Higham, chairman of the Public Affairs committee, offered a resolution at the September meeting of the Common Council last night which provides for a special election to be held on Tuesday, September 26, when the citizens of Plainfield will be given an opportunity to vote in favor or against the proposed plan of having a municipal form of water supply.

The resolution which was adopted does not necessarily pledge the city to purchase the Plainfield Water Company's plant or any other, should the vote favor the plan, but it gives the city the right to acquire by purchase or condemnation proceedings or by establishing its own plant, a water supply.

Mr. Higham made extended remarks concerning the matter, explaining it in detail. The election will be held on September 26, at the usual polling places. The polls will be open from 11 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock at night, and the resolution provides that notice of the election must be advertised six days prior to the election.

On the vote on the resolution all the members present but President Daniel voted in favor.

Three years ago the question of acquiring the plant of the Plainfield Water Supply Company was before the Common Council for consideration, but when the time arrived to renew the lease for another term of ten years, the city took that course and nothing more was heard of the matter, until a few weeks ago when Mr. Higham introduced it.

Many persons cannot quite understand the move at this time as the Plainfield Water Supply Company's lease has seven years yet to run. However, a favorable vote on the question would not compell the city to purchase the local plant. As for condemnation proceedings, it is stated that the city would only have the right to condemn the pipes, and would have no control over the plant or the selling of water to various towns between this city and Elizabeth, which according to the provisions of the charter granting it a right, it can do.

CAPT. MARTIN MAKES A PERFECT SCORE

BUT LOSES MATCH AT SEA GIRT ON ANOTHER RANGE.

Capt. W. B. Martin, head of Company K, made a perfect score on the 600-yard range at Sea Girt yesterday morning, in the inspectors' match. He shot fifty out of a possible fifty, the only score of the kind made on the range since it was opened two weeks ago.

Despite this brilliant shooting, however, he lost the match. Lieut. Casey, of the Seventy-first Regiment, New York, who made forty-seven at 600 yards, scored forty-eight at 800 yards, and Capt. Martin was unable to score more than forty at the longer range. He finished even with two others for second place in the totals at ninety. Both the other ninety men scored better than he did, of course, on the 800-yard range.

The inspectors' match is open to inspectors and former inspectors of rifle practice. Capt. Martin is considered one of the best shots in the country. His comparative fluke at the 800-yard range is a surprise and a disappointment to his company.

W. C. T. U. Meeting.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the rooms on Madison avenue. This will be the last meeting before the annual session.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

All the schools in this vicinity and in Piscataway township reopened yesterday morning with larger enrollments than in previous years. There were 241 pupils on the enrollment list at the Whittier school, an increase of about twenty over last term. There were no changes in the list of teachers, all the familiar faces appearing in their accustomed places. The interior of the building has an entirely new appearance. All the walls and ceilings of the various rooms are improved by new coats of paint, green shades for the most part, and all the woodwork has undergone repairs. Even the flag pole has been repainted and the ball on top of it regilded. At the opening of school, after the pupils had assembled in the main room, Rev. W. W. Casselberry, of the Presbyterian church, spoke. He welcomed the young men and women back to their studies and encouraged them to strive to advance in their work, and by so doing to advance themselves later in life.

Funeral services over the body of William Cobb, aged seventy-four, of New Market, who died of Bright's disease and heart trouble, were held from his boarding house at New Market yesterday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. W. W. Casselberry, of the Dunellen Presbyterian church, officiated. Interment was made today at Cedar Grove cemetery, Flushing, N. Y. The deceased leaves two daughters, Mrs. J. Woods, of Brooklyn, and Miss Alice Cobbs, of New Market. Mr. Cobbs had been a resident of Dunellen for only about four months.

A horse belonging to Paul Reusch and driven by the owner was attacked by a dog said to belong to the Aluminum Press Company officials near the trolley loop yesterday. The canine sank its teeth in the animal's legs and tore them so Dr. Knott had to be summoned from Plainfield.

Rev. George Mooney, of the Monroe Avenue church, Plainfield, will lead the evangelistic service at the Methodist church tomorrow evening. Holy communion will be celebrated this coming Sunday, Rev. S. K. Doolittle, the regular pastor, officiating.

Charles Doolittle, of Dunellen, and Walter Nelson, of New Market, are preparing to return to their studies at Rutgers on September 20.

Mrs. J. Crandall and son, of Ashaway, R. I., returned home Monday after a week's stay with Mrs. W. H. Carmen.

Joseph Pignett has resigned his position with the L. & G. Works, and is now working for George Voehl.

Ellis Carmen resigned his position with John Young, the butcher, on Saturday, to return to school.

Mr. Close, of New York, was a visitor at Madam Cottrelly's, his daughter, last week.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The rainfall during the past few days was the heaviest in fifteen years and resulted in much damage, besides wrecking Marsh's bridge near the stone quarry on Union avenue. This structure cost $1,000 and was supposed to be an especially strong one. During Sunday afternoon there was three feet of water in front of A. D. Shepard's home, "The Gables," and the lowlands were all inundated. Trolley cars were also held up for several hours. It is now up to the freeholders of Union and Somerset counties to arrange for the reconstruction of the bridge on Union avenue and it will probably be attended to at once.

The gypsy encampment has been in hard luck since pitching their tents on Front street. Hardly a day without rain, and on Sunday at one time it looked as though they would be flooded out, as the field was changed into a miniature lake.

Seeley's Paper Mill, which has suffered much in the past from freshets, was more fortunate with Sunday's flood. Not over $50 damage was done. This was principally to the bridge and foundations of the buildings.

Mrs. Jacob Shackleton and daughter, Miss Selima, who have been spending two weeks with relatives and friends at Hackettstown and other parts of Warren county, have returned home.

The local ball team and a team from Plainfield managed to play a scrub game of baseball Monday afternoon.

Daniel O'Reilly, of New York, spent Labor Day with Mr. and Mrs. John Alberts, of Westfield avenue.

Mrs. A. L. Frentz and daughter, Miss Jennie, have returned from a week's stay at Asbury Park.

Fanwood B. E. Co. holds its regular monthly meeting tonight in the company rooms.

The Misses Meyers have returned from their two weeks' stay at Asbury Park.

William E. Knight and family, of the borough, are at Atlantic City.

AMUSEMENTS

A big feature and a taking one with pretty nearly all classes of theatregoers is the old plantation songs and pastimes by genuine negroes, such as existed in the old South on the big plantations in ante-bellum times. 'Twas in the evening, when the day's work in the cotton fields was done, and massa had gone to bed—in the darkened days of slavery—that the dusky toilers were wont to gather around their humble huts and there hold high jollity under the pale light of the moon. Almost true to nature and tradition is the plantation scenes presented by Manager Washburn, of the Stetson Company, in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which is booked to appear at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night. All the old melodies are sung in that rich plaintive voice so peculiar to the Southern darkey. Songs that our daddies sang when they went to war, and songs that our mothers hummed as they rocked the babies to sleep. "The Old Folks at Home," "Suwanee River," "Picking Cotton," and Stephen Foster's never-dying melodies will all be rendered by a large contingent of genuine plantation darkies, male and female. A Mississippi landing, with the arrival of a cotton boat and the manner of its unloading, also genuine buck and wing dancing, will be shown.

Vance & Sullivan's new realistic and sensational melodrama, "Lighthouse by the Sea," which will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Saturday afternoon and night, is said to contain a story that is absorbingly interesting, and to present several features of a striking novelty, and to contain strong climaxes admirably worked up. The play deals with life around a Government lighthouse on the New England coast, and considerable scope is given for elaborate scenic opportunities. Notable among the scenes is one in which is depicted a terrific electric storm at sea off "Devil's Rock" lighthouse, and the rescue of a floundering ship by a young girl, at the peril of her life. The ingenious mechanical devices used in this scene are said to rival anything shown on the stage up to the present time. A carefully selected company of players are said to interpret the several characters.

New York's most phenomenal success, "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast," will at last be seen on-tour, and will be presented for the first time in this city at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast," and what travellers are wont to style, a tremendous Drury Lane spectacular production, is a fairy extravaganza which delights the young and brings back to the parents those days when these very tales possessed indescribable charms. "Beauty and the Beast" is not a pantomime; it is, an extravaganza with a coherent plot gorgeously set and presented by a well chosen company. It is not so awfully English, as it has been strictly Americanized. It is, of course, the oft told fairy story or rather two fairy stories with which every one is, or should be familiar, "The Sleeping Beauty" and "Beauty and the Beast." The Drury Lane book was made by Messrs. Arthur Collins and J. H. Good, and they have so interwoven the two fairy stories, that underlying the spectacle, is the old and always interesting motive of the conflict between good and evil; the powers of good being represented by the Queen of the fairies and her court, while the witch and her imps and demons are the powers of evil, over which the good finally triumphs. While "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" is represented as the greatest spectacular achievment of the English and American stage, the story is not smothered. Some idea of the magnitude of the extravaganza may be gathered from the statement that "Ben Hur" with all its spectacular effects, is just a romantic drama, and not a spectacle when compared with "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast."

ARCANUM CUTS FEES.

Older Members Pay Half Down; Balance from Benefits.

Put-In-Bay, Ohio, Sept. 6.—The following statement concerning the final determination of the Royal Arcanum convention was authorized yesterday by Supreme Secretary Robson:

"An amendment was adopted providing that members more than sixty-five years old must pay only one-half of their assessments, and that the remainder may be charged against their certificates, deduction to be made when the benefits are paid.

"An amendment was also adopted for the reinstatement without medical examination of members suspended since June 1, if they apply for reinstatement before November 1. The proposition to create a fraternal fund by annual contributions of 25 cents from each member, to be used in payments of assessments of aged members, was referred to an executive committee with power to procure the necessary State legislation, the proposition being contrary to the laws of the State of Massachusetts.

"The laws were amended striking out option 'D' by a very decided vote. We also made options 'B' and 'C' applicable to the present membership only, and restricted new members to a selection between the regular rates and option 'A'."

THE HOLIDAY AT THE LOCAL GOLF COURSES

COUNTRY CLUB MEMBERS OUT BUT PARKS UNABLE TO PLAY.

While the members of the Plainfield Country Club had planned a large time for Labor Day, marking the opening of the fall season, the weather largely interferred with some of the events and the field was not as large as expected. During the morning the attendance was rather light, but in the afternoon, after the rain, a larger number ventured out. In addition to the several golf events, a number of dinner parties were given in the evening, followed by a dance. Music was furnished by Harry Batton's orchestra. Those giving dinners included E. B. Shoemaker, C. A. Rice, F. H. Martin, I. C. Pierson, L. N. Lovell, J. V. Beekman, T. E. Stockton, E. R. Ackerman Harold Serrell, Henry A. McGee, William Hamilton and J. F. Raymond.

Among the events on the course was the play for the Golf Committee cup. The first honors were won by Morris J. Dumont, while Howard Huntington and E. E. Iremonger finished second and third. The scores:

Morris J. Dumont, 80, 5—75; Howard Huntington, 92, 15—77; E. E. Iremonger, 94, 11—83; William Brown, 107, 18—85; C. A. Stover 96, 10—86; Arthur Murphy, 95, 5—90.

Morris J. Dumont also won the Labor Day cup, with a net score of 75. The scores: Morris J. Dumont, 80, 5—75; C. A. Stover, 92, 10—82; E. E. Iremonger, 94, 11—83; C. B. Andrews, 100, 13—87; W. L. Glenney, 86, plus 2—88; W. B. Tyler, 107, 17—90; Arthur Murphy, 95, 5—90.

Another event was the play for the Men's Handicap cup, thirty-six holes. Each player was given his regular club handicap, and he could play eighteen holes in the morning and the other half in the afternoon or all at one time. E. E. Iremonger won the cup with a net score of 166, his handicap being 11. C. A. Stover, with a handicap of 10, finished second with a score of 168; E. B. Shoemaker, with a handicap plus 1, was third with a score of 182; W. B. Tyler, with a handicap of 17, was next with a score of 180, while C. B. Andrews, with a handicap of 13, was last with a score of 184.

Again the play went by default at the Park Golf Club Monday. It was not due to the lack of enthusiasm of the members, but the condition of the course as a result of the heavy rain. The course was soaked through and through and some parts of it was almost impassable. In the morning six players ventured out and in the afternoon there were three, but not one posted his score. Undoubtedly play will be resumed on Saturday, if the weathed permits.

Notwithstanding that the golf course at the Plainfield Country Club was well filled with golfers Saturday afternoon, but five contestants posted their scores for the golf committee cup. Howard Huntington, with a net score of 77, won the first three points, while Robert Abbott and E. A. Cruikshank divided the remaining points, with a tie score of 78, and each receiving 1 1-2 points. Among those on the course were many who have just returned from their vacation, and from now on it is expected that there will be more interest in the game. The rain during the early part of the day affected the morning attendance, but after 1 o'clock there was a big field. These scores were posted:

Howard Huntington, 92, 15—77; Robert Abbott, 76 plus 2—78; E. A. Cruikshank, 92, 14—78; Charles A. Stover, 91, 19—81; E. B. Shoemaker, 86, plus 1—87.

The rainy weather kept the members away from the Park Golf Club on Saturday, and again the play in the weekly competition went by default.

A BLAZE OF BEAUTY.

The Valley of the Lehigh is one of the most delightful places of refuge at this sweltering time of year. The name alone is enough to conjure up—if not an invigorating mountain breeze—at least a vision of grand mountain scenery. Not only is it an ideal country for a summer vacation, but it repays a hundred-fold the time given to the most fleeting visit. Many points of supreme interest, in fact, are within the reach of a single day's excursion from New York. Notable among these is Mauch Chunk.

Both from historic interest, this being the place where anthracite coal was first discovered and mined in the United States, and on account of the wonders of the natural scenery, Mauch Chunk is one of the most remarkable localities in Eastern America. The whole trip is charming in the highest degree. First one traverses the beautiful rolling country of Western New Jersey, studded with splendid groves and picturesque old farm buildings. Beyond Easton the railroad runs along beside the Lehigh River and the old canal and the scenery becomes more varied and striking. At last Mauch Chunk is reached, where it lies hidden in the heart of the hills.

The feature of greatest interest at Mauch Chunk is the old "Switchback Railroad." Built in early times to bring the product of the mines down to the barges, it has of late years been used solely for the recreation of visitors. It affords a thrilling ride. From the summit of a mountain commanding a view of the wide region bounded by distant mountain ranges, the car starts gradually until, gaining speed from its own momentum, it rushes along wildly, through the forests, by old mines and mining settlements, across high pasture lands, and along the hillsides, until at last the circuit of eighteen miles is completed and the car has returned safely to the foot of the mountain whence it started.

The New Jersey Central will run a popular Excursion to Mauch Chunk on September 10. Round trip $1.50. Special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m., and there is sufficient time at Mauch Chunk for a day of rare enjoyment. 9-6-4

TENNIS.

A club tournament for men's singles, championship, tennis, will begin Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Plainfield Country Club. Entries will close Friday night at 6 o'clock with T. M. Day, Jr., chairman of the tennis committee, 740 Carlton avenue. Telephone 353-R. George P. Mellick offers a cup to the winner and the club will also put up a cup for the runner-up.

There were no Plainfielders left in any of the fourneys for the East Jersey championships, which were played for five days on the courts of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club, and ended Monday, in the final play. The last to stay in the play from this city were Miss Sarah Schuyler and T. M. Day, Jr., of the Plainfield Country Club, and Monroe Long and C. H. Briggs, of the Bronx Club, and they were put out Saturday only after game and uphill contests on soggy and heavy courts. Long and Briggs were entered in the men's doubles, and after winning two matches were defeated in the third round by Runyon and S. L. Smith, of Bayonne, 6—2, 6—4. The winners of the tournament in mixed doubles were G. A. Lyon and Carl Behr, of Yale, who defeated Smith and Runyon, of Bayonne, the conquerors of Briggs and Long, 6—4, 6—4, 6—1. Behr also won the championship in singles from F. C. Anderson, the title holder, scores 2—6, 6—2, 6—4, 6—4. The Plainfielders in the mixed doubles, Miss Sarah Schuyler and T. M. Day, Jr., made a good showing in this tournament. Winning their first two matches easily, they were defeated in the semi-finals in a hard contest by Miss Bradley and Miller, of Roselle, scores 9—7, 6—3. The tournament was an all-round success, although the rain interfered the last few days. Many from this city were entered, and they all made good showings, as a rule. All the cities from the eastern part of the State were represented, and the play throughout was fast.

TRENTON STATE FAIR.

Preliminary arrangements for the exhibition of the Inter-State Fair which will be held at Trenton, September 25, 26, 27, 28 and 29, are already fully matured, and at recent meetings of the Board of Directors of the Association plans were decided upon for several new features and extensive improvements to the grounds and buildings.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors held early in the present month a resolution was passed which is intended to prevent the wholesale scalping of tickets which has been so generally complained of in the past. The scheme to foil the scalpers provides that all tickets for every day of the exhibition, except one section each for Wednesday and Thursday, for the grand stand, shall be disposed of by the mail order method. This sale will open September 9 and will close September 14. No letter for tickets mailed before September 9 will be honored by the agent in charge of the selling, George Bower, to whom the orders are sent. Each letter must be accompanied by cash or its guaranteed equivalent.

Not more than six tickets will be reserved for one person. The choice of seats will be determined according to the priority of the postmark on the letter. If several letters are postmarked at the same time, the seats will be distributed as the letters are opened and without consideration of the writer.

Any tickets which may be left unsold in the mail order system will be placed on sale at the Fair grounds the day for which they are issued.

The sections in the grand stand reserved for Wednesday and Thursday will be placed on sale at the grounds at 9 o'clock Wednesday and Thursday mornings. This plan was adopted that those living outside of Trenton may have an opportunity to get good seats as late as the day they attend the fair.

The Directors also decided to change the price of seats for Big Thursday. On that day only the grand stand chairs will cost $1 each, and those in the club house section will be sold for $2. This rule was also adopted as a check to speculators. The prices other days will be 50 cents for the grand stand and $1 for the club house.

The auction sale of boxes will take place Thursday afternoon, September 14, at 2 o'clock at the grounds. The sale of booth and dining privileges will be held at the grounds the afternoon of Saturday, September 9, at 2 o'clock.

FOR ALLENTOWN FAIR.

The Allentown Fair is by all odds one of the most unique exhibitions of the country. Its attendance is simply enormous, and why, you ask? Everything is complete to the minutest detail. The entertainments are exceptionally fine. The live stock show has no equal. The fruit and vegetable exhibits are among the finest procurable, and with the genuine good time always found at Allentown, there is no reason why the fair should not be popular. On the days of the fair the New Jersey Central will sell reduced rate tickets to Allentown and special trains will be run from various points. 9-6 e o d

Plainfield, N. J., September 6, 1905.

Do not neglect to exercise your privilege as a taxpayer in voting at the primaries which are set for Tuesday next. It is essential to good government, not only in Plainfield, but everywhere in the State, that the voters exercise care and discretion in selecting candidates for office. Go to the polls yourself, and see that your neighbor is there also.

If the report be true that the persons using the public streets for the removal of the Schanz saloon building from its present location on Park avenue around to West Second street intend to do the work only by day, some action should be taken by the authorities. In all fairness, it is but proper to issue such a permit, but the privilege should not be abused. The interruption of traffic in the heart of the business section is a serious matter, and therefore the building should be moved along as speedily as possible. It will be admitted that there is no good reason why the work should not be done by night as well as by day, and this suggestion is made to those in authority.

BRIDGE BUILDING TIME LIMIT IS TOO SHORT

SO NO ACTION IS TAKEN ON WEST END AVENUE STRUCTURE.

The joint committee from the Union and Somerset county Boards of Freeholders met at the Hotel Iroquois yesterday afternoon for the purpose of receiving bids for the construction of the proposed new bridge over Green brook on West End avenue. After a discussion of the matter the representatives of the various contractors who intended to bid for the work stated that it would be impossible for them to agree to complete the work by November 1, according to the terms of the contract. It was shown to the satisfaction of the freeholders that, as drafted, the contract could not be executed as to the time limit, and the meeting was adjourned for two weeks at the same time and place.

The freeholders, in the meantime, will probably make a few slight alterations in the plans to meet present trade conditions. The representatives of the contractors stated that should the time limit of the contract be exacted it would compel them to pay more money for materials, and consequently would exceed the appropriation of $7,500 made by the freeholders of the two counties.

COUNCILMANIC HEARINGS.

Interested Parties Fail to Appear.

Prior to taking up the regular business at the September meeting of the Common Council, last night, there were several public hearings, but not in a single instance was there a citizen to speak for or against the matter under consideration. These hearings referred to ordinances which call for the opening and laying out of Stebbins place, the widening of Park avenue, between Second street and the railroad, and the widening of Sycamore street.

The report of the sewer commissioners, J. W. Murray, Jr., S. P. T. Wilbur and Robert A. Meeker, who have been assessing benefits and damages for the extension of the sanitary sewer through streets and avenues already published, was received, and Mr. Tolles offered affidavits and proof of publication in The Daily Press and Courier-News. After the presentation of the report a public hearing was granted, but no one appeared for or against the confirmation of the report, and the Common Council confirmed it.

Why Council Was Delayed.

President Leslie M. Daniel, of the Common Council, unwillingly delayed the calling of the meeting last night for three-quarters of an hour. He had been at Ocean City attending a reunion of his class at the Plainfield High school, fifteen members having been gotten together, and he left Ocean City in time, as he thought, to reach home by 7:30 o'clock. When he got to Atlantic City he learned that the train he intended to take had been taken off September 1, and he was obliged to take a train on the Pennsylvania Railroad, which brought him here nearly an hour late.

PASSED OVER MAYOR'S VETO

power and duty devolved upon it by law, without arbitrary restrictions, and has been free to consider the welfare, the needs and the desires of every portion of our people and of our territory. Councils of the past have shown that they were worthy of the trust reposed in them. They did not find it desirable to tie their own hands in order to prevent themselves from doing wrong. Nor do I for a moment, believe that the present Council needs any such restriction. Who then, does the proposed ordinance seek to bind? Surely Councils of the future should be given credit for equal honesty and intelligence, until they prove themselves less worthy than their predecessors.

"At least until our citizens express some desire that such a change should be made it seems to me that no such radical step should be attempted.

"(Signed) JAMES F. BUCKLE, "Mayor."

August 16, 1905.

It was after Mr. Tyler made a move to have the ordinance passed over the Mayor's head, that Mr. Gloak offered his amendment, and at his request, President Daniel allowed Mr. Tyler to address the Common Council relative to the objections offered by the Mayor. Mr. Tyler spoke as follows:

Mr. President:

In advocating the adoption of the ordinance to which the Mayor's message makes reference, notwithstanding the objections of his honor, the Mayor, I desire to express my regret that a matter of such simplicity should have aroused so much official antagonism. The police committee in recommending the measure had in mind the success of similar measures in other places of the United States, and desired to make trial in Plainfield of what, so far as we could discover, had been one of the most helpful methods of regulating the liquor traffic in smaller cities. The unwillingness of the Mayor that the experiment should be tried in Plainfield is difficult for me to account for.

As to the Mayor's first objection to the effect that the ordinance is of doubtful legality and should be submitted to the corporation counsel, I would merely say that the matter was not only carefully gone over with the corporation counsel, but that the form and exact words were approved by him as they stand today. I am very strongly of the impression that this was made clear to the members of the Council at the time of the adoption of the ordinance on its second reading. The corporation counsel and I did so much work on it together that his changes and corrections and his final approval of the present form of the measure are very vivid in my recollection.

As to the Mayor's objections classed as "second," the statement that the proposed ordinance "attempts to confine licensed places within extremely narrow limits," I would merely call attention to the fact that they are identically the same limits, and identically the same saloons are allowed to continue in business, under the new ordinance as have existed for many years past in the city. I merely desire to avoid a possible inference which might be drawn from the Mayor's way of putting it, that the new ordinance if enacted into law will have the effect of limiting the number or location of saloons any further than they are today or have been substantially for many years past. Saloons not only can remain identically as they are, but special provision is made in the ordinance so as to raise no issue whatever on that point. The object of the ordinance is deeper and more far-reaching than this.

As to the Mayor's statement that the ordinance "attempts to prevent future Councils from even considering any application for licenses outside that district," I must simply take issue with the Mayor upon this statement as a fact. It does not prevent future Councils from doing anything they please, provided they will take the method of procedure which is required in the case of all ordinances. Any future Council has the same power to repeal this ordinance that we have to pass it. It is only a Council which approves of the ordinance adopted by this Council that need be guided by the rule which we desire to establish by the ordinance. The impression of the Mayor that the ordinance is an attempt to bind future Councils in any way whatever is simply a wrong impression. This Council has believed, in adopting this ordinance, that some definite established rule of precedure or "rule of order" as it were with respect to the granting of liquor licenses would tend to help us meet the question more wisely and beneficially for the interests of the city. A majority of us have been agreed that no matter what the character of a particular applicant might be there are certain portions of the city where there is not only no need of any saloons, but positive benefit from keeping them out, without injury by so doing to any man, or to any section of the city, either that section or any other section; and to put the converse of the proposition, the whole city should not be condemned to suffer the injuries of the liquor business, because there was one particular section which had to so suffer anyway. The present status of the saloon business in Plainfield has remained substantially unchanged for many years. Two years ago there was an effort started which developed increasing animosity and persistence, to turn upside down its established policy that there should be no more saloons in the residence districts. The chief object of the new ordinance is to bring clearly before the people the issue which is involved and to establish permanently as a working rule of order, so to speak, of the Common Council that the liquor advocates will either have to abide by this long established policy of keeping things where they are, or else, if they are going to upset this policy, and make a new departure, and increase the number of saloons in the outlying portions of our city in search of a new sphere of the saloon influence, as it has been their determined purpose during the past two years, they shall not be allowed to do so by merely having an application brought up of an individual whom people do not know, and whom they can discuss upon the alleged merits of the man himself, and not of the great issue which is involved, namely, whether any man is good enough as a saloonkeeper to make us willing as a city to depart from this policy which has worked so well for so many years in keeping things where they are. I desire to reiterate again and again the falsity of the impression which the opponents of this ordinance seem to be determined shall prevail in the minds of the people that the new ordinance aims at reducing the number of licensed places in any part of the city, either within or without the area named. It is simply an expression of our determination to keep things where they are, and to prevent the liquor advocates from getting the increase and growth of their business which they so constantly hunger after. We want to put this principle into such established form as an ordinance that the people generally, who are not so familiar with the tricks and methods resorted to by these people to get what they want, will understand at least one thing that if the liquor advocates don't want any more saloons than they have now, and don't want to spread over any more territory than they occupy at the present, they will never need to repeal this ordinance and therefore when the people hear in the future that an ordinance repealing this ordinance is brought up on first and second reading, they will be warned that it must mean the desire on the part of somebody to get rid of the obstacle standing in his way to do that very thing, and that there must be somebody who wants to put aside the barrier of this principle which has worked so well for so many years. Gentlemen we are not cutting down the liquor business at all. We simply want things to remain where they are and this is the only object of this ordinance.

Let us consider the so-called building ordinance establishing limits in the city, within which wooden buildings may not be constructed. Why should not the Mayor's argument apply equally to this ordinance, when he says that he "firmly believes that it is the duty of the Council to receive every application which may come regularly before it from any part of the city and to give each application consideration separately?" Why if it is wrong for us not to consider the application of John Smith for a saloon license in a residential portion of the city separately by itself, is it not also wrong for us by a similar ordinance to say that we will not consider the application of a similar John Smith for the right to construct a wooden building in a similar location? If the public good is advanced by establishing an ordinance that certain portions of the city shall have no wooden buildings in them, why may not the public good be similarly advanced by establishing a similar rule that no saloons shall be located in certain portions of the city?

The real question, gentlemen, is whether or not the public good is conserved by the principle embodied in the ordinance and which is the issue which it has been almost impossible to get our opponents to meet fairly and squarely with us. The question is do we want more saloons than we have or do we not want them. Is the precedent of many years standing with us substantially excluding saloons from the residence portion of our city a good precedent or not? If it is why do the liquor dealers make an outcry against our placing the principle in the permanent form of an ordinance? We don't limit them any more than they are limited at present.

The Mayor's argument with respect to the pending negotiations for the sale of the Netherwood hotel property are somewhat threadbare. I do not mean to be disrespectful, but it seems to me that I have heard every time the discussion of this ordinance has been before the Council, now more than a year, that the negotiations for the sale of that property were just about to be consummated. However that may be, I desire to avoid an impression which might arise from the Mayor's message when he says "no matter how many or how good the reasons, nor how unanimous the sentiment in favor of some form of license, the hands of the Council would be tied, and it could not exercise even the power or duty which the Legislature has reposed in it." Of course the Mayor cannot mean that no future Council can amend this ordinance by inserting just such a provision as it was my first thought to insert. The Council could also repeal it. But by this means the public will know. Is not that a safeguard?

As to the remarks of the Mayor under the third title of his message that "a few short years ago it was decided by the voters of this city by a substantial majority that the present system of liquor license was satisfactory," if that is so why does His Honor oppose our sincere effort through this ordinance to make permanent the most essential and important feature in all the present system, for if I am right in my belief, in regard to public sentiment in Plainfield, on the subject of the liquor business here there is no one point for which the people will stand more strenuously than that the saloons shall not get into the residence districts of our city, and I think that the Mayor's remarks earlier in his message with respect to his own views on this subject admit that the principle of keeping the saloons where they are and not allowing them to spread into the residence district of the city, is and was quite as close to the hearts of the people as any other for which they voted at the time to which the Mayor refers.

At the conclusion of Mr. Tyler's remarks, the vote on the amendment was taken and lost, and the vote on the passage of the ordinance was taken and carried. The ordinance will be advertised for ten days, according to the city charter, and will then be in effect.

GOES SOUTH AS A LAWYER AND AS A DELEGATE

WM. NEWCORN WILL LOOK UP BIG LAND CLAIM IN TENNESSEE.

William Newcorn will go to Nashville, Tenn., this afternoon as one of the eight representatives of New Jersey to the great council of the Improved Order of Red Men. Mr. Newcorn is a past great sachem of the order.

After attending to the convention business Mr. Newcorn will go to Knoxville to establish the title of A. T. Slauson, of East Ninth street, to valuable Tennessee lands. Mr. Newcorn has been advised by Wright & Wright, who represent him in Tennessee, that the property is undoubtedly bedded with coal and worth a good deal.

There is no doubt of Mr. Slauson's ownership, it is claimed, but lack of attention to the property has resulted in complications that must be straightened out. Several squatters have settled on the lands and some of the property has been sold for taxes. It is expected that ten or twelve land suits will have to be instituted.

benefits and damages. Mr. Tolles raised the question as to whether Mr. Tobin could serve on the commission, as he understood he was more or less an interested property owner.

Mr. Wilson stated that Mr. Tobin did not own property within a half-block of the street, but it was decided to lay the matter over until tonight, to which time the Common Council adjourned, on Mr. Tolles' motion, to take up the matter regarding the work of the tax assessors.

Jacob Kriney, of West Front street, presented a petition containing 400 signatures of property owners, asking that a new public school be built on or near West Front street and Clinton avenue. The matter was referred to the public affairs committee.

The Plainfield Water Supply Company informed the Common Council that four hydrants, as ordered, have been located. One of these has been placed on Park avenue, between North avenue and Fourth street. Harry G. Atwater, who recently purchased a lot on the E. E. Gulick tract of land on Randolph road, asked the Common Council to separate it from the other land, as he desires to pay the taxes on the same. The matter was referred to the finance commitee.

Miss Rose Brady, of Liberty street, returned yesterday from a week's stay at Asbury Park.

LONG LIST OF CASES FOR THE CITY JUDGE

ACCUMULATION OF THREE DAYS IN POLICE COURT THIS MORNING.

All the police court cases that have been accumulating since Saturday night, made extra numerous by the Labor Day crop of drunks, came before Judge Runyon in one string this morning. It was one of the largest lists the court has turned out in some time.

Walter Jones, colored, an old offender, noted for his line of peculiar and home-made words, was arraigned for threatening to cut Benjamin Monroe, also colored, with a razor, Saturday night. Monroe testified against Jones when the latter was arraigned for stealing chickens two months ago. Monroe threw Jones down and turned him over to Officer Flynn. Jones denied any desire to cut Monroe and pleaded, in his own peculiar way, for leniency. He promised to go South to live. Judge Runyon was good natured and made it $5 or 20 days. Jones paid. He has been out of jail only nine days.

Leonardo Ricci and Michael Cipelli, accused of drunkenness and disorder, were fined $5 or 20 days. They were arrested, while fighting, by Roundsman Flynn and Doorman McCue. Two ugly looking knives were taken from them.

Elizabeth Vardon, who is known to the police from past offences, was sentenced to 60 days in jail for drunkenness.

John Blytheman, a cigarmaker, charged with drunkenness and disorder, was released under suspended sentence. Santa Yarri, same charge, escaped the same way, as did Simon Champagne and Stephen Perrine, both charged with intoxication.

John Kiely, charged with drunkenness and disorder, was fined $5 or 20 days.

Alfred Sanderson, same charge, was fined $10 or 20 days.

Albert Stauch and John Rogin, Poles, were fined $3 or 10 days for fighting, while drunk, on the street.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION PLANS WORK

PROMINENT SPEAKERS OF THE EAST TO ADDRESS THE MEETINGS.

The executive committee from the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union decided last night to postpone the first congress of the Union from September 14 to Thursday, September 21, when it will be held at Faith chapel, as another meeting of Endeavorers will be held at the chapel on the former date and prominent speakers from New York will be present. The attendance will be limited to two members from each society.

It is expected that every one of the twelve societies in the Union will be represented at the congress as the names of the delegates have been forwarded to the secretary. Committees will be appointed at that time by the executive committee.

Three open meetings will be held during the fall, winter and spring, the first of which will be held in October and will be in charge of the prayer meeting committee. The second meeting will be in January and the missionary committee will have charge and the election of officers and other important business will be considered at the May meeting. Important speakers will be at each meeting.

GAS WRECKS A STORE; PLAINFIELDER INJURED

LINCOLN S. GILES BADLY BURNED IN ACCIDENT AT WESTFIELD.

An explosion of gas in the cellar of Patrick Trainor's grocery store at Broad and Elm streets, Westfield, last night, wrecked the building and seriously injured Lincoln S. Giles, of 242 East Second street, this city. The front and rear of the structure were blown out and debris was hurled into the streets. The damage is placed at $6,000. Giles was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital suffering from severe burns about the arms and legs.

The injured man has been employed as a clerk at the store and last evening at 6 o'clock went into the cellar to get a tub of butter. He struck a light while still on the stairway and the explosion followed immediately. The side wall appeared to have been holding the gas as it escaped from a pipe and one section of it was demolished. Other clerks in the store who escaped with a few bruises hurried to Giles' assistance and carried him to the outer air. The ambulance was summoned from Plainfield and he was received at the hospital at 8 o'clock.

It was said by the physicians today that his condition had improved but slightly over night. He is forty years old and married.

"Equally delightful to the bibliophile, the anthropologist, (if given to banshees), and the child."

HOW TO TELL CHARACTER.

The eyes are generally believed to be the windows of the soul, and as such denote our character. A clear, steady eye usually denotes an upright, moral being. A shifting, unsteady glance reveals the unmoral person. These signs can almost invariably be depended upon.

It is claimed by many that the voice is a more reliable index to character than the eye. An authority upon the matter said that a common face may be found in a cultured person, but a common voice never. Our speech designates our breeding. A fine modulated voice cannot be acquired, but must be inherent. The vulgar usually have loud, coarse voices; they may by training modulate them to some degree, but they can never perfect them. They may try to imitate the voices of others, but by that they only vulgarize themselves. A well bred person is natural; affectation is seen through easily.

The voice, therefore, may be said to be a handicap in the path of the vulgar; something which distinguishes him from his well bred brethren, but which he cannot acquire. Faulty speech, errors in language, society overlooks in this moneyed era, but the articulation will soon denote the character of the individual.

Not an Honorable Thing to Do.

Since the beginning of our political system it has been deemed not honorable for members of one political party to participate in the primary election of the party with which he has not affiliated, and the rules of which he did not expect to abide, and the candidates of which he did not expect to support at the election. So far as we know, no penalty is incurred by members of one party taking part in and aiding friends in another party to secure nomination for public office, even though he have no idea of casting his ballot for that friend in the general election, but from the date of the division of the American electorate into parties, it has been deemed an honorable thing to do, and thoughtful men rarely are guilty of this breach of this phase of what may be called political etiquette.—Gloucester County Democrat.

NOTICE!

"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James, Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J. FOR THE GENTLER SEX

FASHION WHIMS.

Suspenders now worn so universally have been elaborated by hand embroidery.

The new veils have finished edges, either scalloped, buttonholed or bound with narrow ribbon.

One of the newest veils has a border of red cherries with two of them on each cheek.

To be well shod is a necessity in these times of the prevalent short skirts.

The latest walking skirts are either umbrella or bell shaped.

Most coats have the open neck and vest effect.

Collar, cuffs and revers of striped silk are found on many of the newest coats.

The deep lace collar is still in vogue.

Many of the walking hats this fall will be of felt adorned with a simple velvet bow.

Brown is becoming somewhat passe.

PRESERVING HINTS.

Jellies are of a finer flavor when the sugar is not boiled long with the juice.

Make not more than a quart at a time, and never, if possible, make it on a damp day.

Roll the tumblers in hot water and let them stand in a pan of hot water one inch deep when filling.

If the jelly is perfectly skimmed it is not necessary to strain it just before filling the glasses.

Fill each glass full to the brim.

Set away in a dry place—never carry to a damp cellar.

After making, let stand a few days in a warm place; then cover with a soft paper, cut to fit the inside of the glass, and over that pour melted paraffin.

In all cases where the juice must be pressed, strain it the second time through a finer cloth than the one first used.

Fruit jars may be preserved from cracking if, before filling, they are stood upon a folded towel, soaked in hot water.

Jelly bags for straining the cooked fruit must always be scrupulously clean, with absolutely no flavor of soapsuds remaining in them.

Nearly all jellies are improved in flavor by adding the juice of a lemon to each pint.

If the sugar is heated before being added to the juice it will result in better jelly.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

GIRLS WHO DON'T SUCCEED.

The girl who takes up work as a temporary occupation with her mind on the state of matrimony.

The girl who expects to begin at the top instead of slowly climbing there.

The girl who makes excuses for herself when a boy's pride would come to his aid and help him to overcome the difficulty which she tries to evade.

The girl who airs her grievances to others until she makes a nuisance of herself.

The girl who thinks she is entitled to privileges not granted to her brother.

The girl who is not thorough and conscientious about her work.

The girl who keeps her eye on the clock fearful that she may give her employer a moment or two overtime.

The girl who is always doleful and down on her luck.

The girl who spends her nights at parties and arrives at the office in the morning weary and out of humor.

The girl who expects to carry on a flirtation or two coincidentally with her work.

The girl who tells everyone she doesn't have to work, but is only doing it to make extra pocket money.

The girl who talks over her employer's business outside of the office.

The girl who criticises everything and everybody.

The girl who looks upon work as drudgery and has a grudge against fate for forcing her to do it.

The girl who fails to remain womanly and affects mannish qualities.

The girl who never is on time.

The girl who depends on favoritism to advance her instead of good, honest endeavor.

The girl who constantly "soldiers" and plays sick.

The girl who is indifferent and listless and cannot even assume an interest in her occupation.

The girl who lacks courage and self-respect.

The girl who feels herself above her position and does not even condescend to fill it adequately.

The girl who cannot be honest with herself and expects a greater money compensation than the work would be worth if done by someone else.

The girl who tells you all the wonderful things she can do, but never gets right down to doing anything at all.—New York World.

IN THE BISHOP'S CARRIAGE

By MIRIAM MICHELSON

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company).

"It might occur to me if I had anything to confess—about this purse."

"How long since you've seen Mrs. Edward Ramsay?" He rushed the question at me.

I jumped.

"How do you know I've ever seen her?"

"I do know you have."

"I don't believe you."

"Thank you, neither do I believe you, which is more to the point. Come, answer the question: how long is it since you have seen the lady?"

I looked at him. And then I looked at my glove, and slowly pulled the fingers inside out, and then—then I giggled. Suddenly it came to me—that silly, little insane dodge of mine in the bishop's carriage that day; the girl who had lost her name; and the use all that affair might be to me if ever—

"I'll tell you if you'll let me think a minute," I said, sweetly. "It—it must be all of 15 months."

"Ah! You see I did know that you've met the lady. If you're wise you'll draw deductions as to other things I know that you don't think I do. . . . And where did you see her?"

"In her own home."

"Called there," he sneered, "alone?"

"No," I said, very gently. "I went there, to the best of my recollection, with the bishop—yes, it was the bishop, Bishop Van Wagenen."

"Indeed!"

I could see that he didn't believe a word I was saying, which made me happily eager to tell him more.

"Yes, we drove up to the square one afternoon in the bishop's carriage—the fat, plum-colored one, you know. We had tea there—at least, I did. I was to have spent the night, but—"

"That's enough of that."

I chuckled. Yes, Mag Monahan, I was enjoying myself. I was having a run for my money, even if it was the last run I was to have.

"So it's 15 months since you've seen Mrs. Ramsay, eh?"

"Yes."

He turned on me with a roar.

"And yet it's only a week since you saw her at Mrs. Gates'."

"Oh, no."

"No? Take care!"

"That night at Mrs. Gates' it was dark, you know, in the front room. I didn't see Mrs. Ramsay that night. I didn't know she was there at all till—"

"Till?"

"Till later I was told."

"Who told you?"

"Her husband."

He threw down his pencil.

"Look here, this is no lark, young woman, and you needn't trouble yourself to weave any more fairy tales. Mr. Ramsay is in a—he's very ill. His own wife hasn't seen him since that night, so you see you're lying uselessly."

"Really! So Edward didn't go back to Mrs. Gates' that night. Tut! tut! After his telephone message, too!"

"Now, assuming your innocence of the theft, Miss Olden, what is your theory; how do you account for the presence of that purse in your flat?"

"Now, you've hit the part of it that really puzzles me. How do you account for it; what is your theory?"

He got to his feet, pushing his chair back sharply.

"My theory, if you want to know it, is that you stole the purse; that your friend Obermuller believes you did; that you got away with the three hundred, or hid it away, and—"

"And what a stupid thief I must be, then, to leave the empty purse under my lounge!"

"How do you know it was empty?" he demanded, sharply.

"You said so. . . . Well, you gave me to understand that it was, then. What difference does it make? It would be a still stupider thief who'd leave a full purse instead of an empty one under his own lounge."

"Yes; and you're not stupid, Miss Olden."

"Thank you. I'm sorry I can't say as much for you."

I couldn't help it. He was such a stupid. The idea of telling me that Fred Obermuller believed me guilty! The idea of thinking me such a fool as to believe that! Such men as that make criminals. They're so fat-witted you positively ache—they so tempt you to pull the wool over their eyes. O, Mag, if the Lord had only made men cleverer, there'd be fewer Nancy Oldens.

The chief blew a blast at his speaking tube that made his purple cheeks seem about to burst. My shoulders shoook as I watched him, he was so wrathy.

And I was still laughing when I followed the detective out into the waiting room, where Obermuller was pacing the floor. At the sight of my smiling face he came rushing to me.

"Nance!" he cried.

"Orders are, Morris," came in a bellow from the chief at the door, "that no further communication be allowed between the prisoner and—"

Phew! All the pertness leaked out of me. Oh, Mag, I don't like that word. It stings—it binds—it cuts.

I don't know what I looked like then: I wasn't thinking of me. I was watching Obermuller's face. It seemed to grow old and thin and haggard before my eyes, as the blood drained out of it. He turned with an exclamation to the chief and—

And just then there came a long ring at the telephone.

Why did I stand there? O, Mag, when you're on your way to the place I was bound for, when you know that before you'll set foot in this same bright room again, the hounds in half a dozen cities will have scratched clean every hiding place you've had, when your every act will be known and—and—oh, then, you wait, Mag, you wait for anything—anything in the world; even a telephone call that may only be bringing in another wretch like yourself; bound, like yourself, for the Tombs.

The chief himself went to answer it.

"Yes—what?" he growled. "Well, tell Long Distance to get busy. What's that? St. Francis—that's the jag ward, isn't it? Who is it? Who? Ramsay!"

I caught Obermuller's hand.

"I don't hear you," the chief roared. "Oh—yes? Yes, we've got the thief, but the money—no, we haven't got the money. The deuce you say! Took it yourself? Out of your wife's purse—yes. . . . Yes. But we've got the— What? Don't remember where you—"

"Steady, Nance," whispered Obermuller, grabbing my other hand.

I tried to stand steady, but everything swayed and I couldn't hear the rest of what the chief was saying, though all my life seemed condensed into a listening. But I did hear when he jammed the receiver on the hook and faced us.

"Well, they've got the money. Ramsay took the purse himself, thinking it wasn't safe there under the spread where any servant might be tempted who chanced to uncover it. You'll admit the thing looked shady. The reason Mrs. Ramsay didn't know of it is because the old man's just come to his senses in a hospital and been notified that the purse was missing."

"I want to apologize to you, chief," I mumbled.

"For thinking me stupid? Oh, we were both—"

"No, for thinking me not stupid. I am stupid—stupid—stupid. The old fellow I told you about, Mr. O., and the way I telephoned him out of the flat that night—it was—"

"Ramsay!"

I nodded, and then crumbled to the floor.

It was then that they sent for you, Mag.

Why didn't I tell it straight at the first, you dear old Mag? Because I didn't know the straight of it, then, myself. I was so heavy-witted I never once thought of Edward. He must have taken the bills out of the purse and then crammed them in his pocket while he was waiting there on the lounge and I was pretending to telephone and—

But it's best as it is—oh, so best! Think, Mag. Two people who knew her—who knew her, mind—believed in Nancy Olden, in spite of appearances: Obermuller, while we were in the thick of it, and you, you dear girl, while I was telling you of it.

INDEPENDENT GUN CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL SHOOT

SUMMER NIGHT FESTIVAL FOLLOWS ON THE GROUNDS.

With over two hundred visitors in attendance, the annual Labor Day shoot of the Independent Gun Club was held Monday, and the new shooting grounds on Maple avenue were formally opened. Owing to the heavy downfall of rain the shoot was not begun until 2 o'clock, while it was planned to start at 8 o'clock in the morning. Dinner at the up-to-date club house was served before the activities were commenced by Mrs. M. Menzenbach, and an elaborate supper followed the sport at night. The event of the year, the King's shoot, was won by George Kaeding, who will hold the title for the year. About forty men participated in the sport.

The committee in charge of arrangements for the day was Henry Haurand, captain; Dr. F. B. Leonard, Matthias Menzenbach and F. S. Seabocker. Christian Stoeckle was in charge of the rifle range and Louis Van Dyke of the traps. The summary of the day's events and winners follows:

Yearly contest for rifle range, first class, C. W. Leonard; second class, Edward Sebring, and third class, Rudolf Spiegel. Gold medals as prizes.

Yearly trap contest, first class: First prize, C. W. Leonard; second prize, Den Gavin; second class: First prize, Charles Jensen; second prize, John Doty. Medals as prizes.

Annual Labor Day prize shoot, first, Christian Stoeckler; second, C. W. Leonard; third, Adolph Barre, and ten other winners of prizes in merchandise and sportsmen's articles.

Trap shotting contest of fifteen targets, handicap; winners, with handicaps—George Kaeding, Charles Jensen, L. M. Van Dyke, John Doty; William Pearson, D. F. Leonard, A. Barre, F. S. Seabocker, H. Haurand, H. Sebring, H. Dreier, William C. Krausse and John Wirth. Scratch winners, C. W. Leonard and Den Gavin.

Merchandise shoot for all comers, two events of 10 shots each—First event, C. W. Leonard, first; George Voehl, second; Charles Jensen, third. Event two, C. W. Leonard, first; F. S. Seabocker, second; Louis W. Van Dyke, third.

Awards were made after all the contests were ended. Over one hundred dollars in prizes was distributed and a "summer's night festival" was enjoyed on the grounds.

SEPTEMBER STARTS OFF WITH A RECORD RAINFALL

TOTAL ALREADY AS MUCH AS FELL DURING ALL OF AUGUST.

The first four days of September have made a record in rainfall, being almost as much as during the entire month of August. There was no rain on the first day, but the other three more than made up for it. On the second day the fall was 0.35 inches, the third 4.90 inches and Monday it was .77 inches, a total of 5.02 inches for three days. The average rainfall for the four days in thirteen years was 0.56 inches. In the rainfall on Sunday 3.70 inches fell in one and a half hours.

This is the record of the weather for August:

Highest temperatures, 90 degrees, dates, 11, 13, 24; lowest temperature, 51, dates 17, 18; normal temperature for month, 72.8; mean temperature for month, 71.1; deficiency from normal, 1.7 degrees; mean maximum temperature, 80.4; mean minimum temperature, 61.8; greatest daily range, 28, date, 3; total rainfall for the month, 7.63 inches; normal rainfall, 5.03 inches; excess above normal, 2.60 inches; greatest rainfall in twenty-four hours, 2.89 inches, dates, 15-16; number of rainy days, thirteen; number days clear, eight; party cloudy, fourteen; cloudy, nine; dates of thunderstorms, 8, 10, 13, 15, 16, 24, 25, 29, 30, 31; total rainfall for the summer, 18.59 inches; normal rainfall for the summer, 15.02 inches; excess rainfall above the normal, 3.57 inches; heavy rainfalls for August of other years were as follows:

1893, amount, 7.32 inches; 1897, 5.49 inches; 1901, 10.19 inches; 1903, 6.87 inches; 1904, 10.45 inches.

Gives Offense.

County Register George F. DeCamp, of Essex county, reminds one of the old fashioned, kicking flintlock rifles, that were as disastrous to the man behind as to the object in front. In a recent interview he said: "Why, if a man is not indorsed by the county committee in Essex county, he has no show whatever; and Colby will not be indorsed, you may depend on that." The statement has given offense not only to the Colby followers, but to the organization men as well. It is the truth that hurts.—Trenton Times.

The fans are hungry for baseball.

On to Westfield for Saturday for another victory. That is the cry of the fans.

"Lake" Mumford was waist deep with water. Another substantial reason for a change of the grounds.

The Plainfield-Summit games are now off indefinitely and those dates will have to be reserved for Westfield.

"Dude" McCormick, of the Holyoke team, was engaged to play second base for Westfield on Saturday and Sunday.

Tyler, the Columbia College twirler, will be with the team on Saturday. Dalton has recovered from his injuries and will be ready to cover second base.

A more disappointed lot of fans would be hard to find than those in this city on Saturday and Monday. A record-breaking crowd is expected on Saturday.

MINISTER APPLAUDS COUNCILMEN'S RAID

REV. GEORGE MOONEY EXPRESSES ESTEEM FOR TYLER AND BULLOCK.

Rev. George Mooney, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, applauds the action of Councilmen Tyler and Bullock in making a raid on Goff's place over the head of Chief Kiely. He has sent the following letter to this paper:

Editor The Daily Press:

No more refreshing news item has recently appeared in the columns of your valued paper than that of the Sunday night raid in the West End. For some time past there have been persistent rumors concerning the flagrant violation of the liquor laws in this part of Plainfield, but there has seemed to be no redress. Councilmen Bullock and Tyler have risen to the emergency, have executed their work masterfully and have thereby entrenched themselves in the esteem of law-abiding citizens. Let the good work go on.

CONROY WILL TAKE HIS CHANCES AT PRIMARY

DECLARES HE WILL NOT WITHDRAW IN A WRITTEN STATEMENT.

There will be a contest over the Democratic mayoralty nomination at the North Plainfield primary. Although two Democratic candidates, W. J. Conroy and Dr. Thiers, were named Saturday night in the petitions filed, it has been reported that Mr. Conroy would resign, but he came out this morning with a flat-footed declaration of his intention to stick to the course laid out by the fusionist party men and take whatever the issue of battle may give him.

His denial of the resignation rumors was embodied in a written statement, as follows:

Editor The Daily Press:

Notwithstanding all reports to the contrary, I am a candidate for the mayoralty nomination of the Democratic party, having been selected by the duly delegated committee. My name will go before the party voters at the primary, and if my friends so desire I shall be the party's nominee.

WM. J. CONROY.

Business College Opens.

With a prospective enrollment of over one hundred and eighty pupils, one of the six branches of the Drake Business School opened the doors of its handsomely furnished school on East Front street yesterday. Among the scholars attending the classes there are some from Westfield, Dunellen, Somerville, Raritan, Cranford, Summit and Plainfield. The school has a corps of five teachers. Everything in commercial bookkeeping, typewriting and stenography is taught by instructors from the Jersey City Drake Training School, with Charles Ricker, representative of the school here, in charge.

Made Their Own Boat.

Fred A. Kirch, of West Front street, and Wilbert Bentliff, of Duer street, have just completed the building of a gasolene auto boat, and a very successful trial was held at New Market yesterday. The machinery worked perfectly and high speed was maintained. The boat is sixteen feet long and is thoroughly equipped. Today the young men left on a pleasure trip in their boat for Cape May.

Won Tennis Tourney.

In the final round of the junior mixed doubles yesterday Miss Edith Mellick and Tom Day defeated Sidney Gough and Miss Florence Stuart in a match of three full sets that were well fought. Score, 6—4, 3—6, 7—5.

DISCUSSION OF RAID ALL OVER THE CITY

CHIEF AND POLITICIANS WON'T TALK FOR PUBLICATION—GOFF'S DEFENSE.

Few occurrences, political or otherwise, have occasioned more talk about town than the raid on John Goff's hotel by Councilmen Tyler and Bullock, of the police board. The raid is regarded by some as a pure political move, and the discussion largely turns on the expected effect on both the primaries and the November election.

The personages chiefly concerned are not doing much talking, however—at least not where they can be heard by the casual hearer. Chief Kiely refuses to make any comment, and Mr. McCardell had nothing to say to a Daily Press reported who spoke to him this morning. J. T. MacMurray, who is regarded as the acknowledged, if not the titular, head of the "regular" organization, said he couldn't see that any reference had been made to him by either Mr. Bullock or Mr. Tyler.

"I do not see that a reference to me is to be even inferred from what Mr. Tyler and Mr. Bullock said to the reporters. I read the accounts in last night's papers carefully, and I could not detect anything that might be interpreted as a reference to me."

Goff was reported this morning to have hired Edward Nugent, counsel for the Rising Sun Brewing Co., to defend him. It was also reported that William Newcorn, who is one of the Fourth ward leaders, had been retained to assist Mr. Nugent in the case. Mr. Newcorn refused to deny or affirm the report of his retention.

It was said by a man who declared his information to come from an authoritative source, that Goff's defense will be that his barroom was the headquarters of a club, and that everyone of those detected drinking and card playing were members of the club.

VACATION DAYS.

Former Assemblyman and Mrs. S. S. Swackhamer, of Summit avenue, left today for Ocean Grove, where they will remain for three weeks.

Among the Plainfield guests recently arrived at Femley Farm, Lebanon, N. J., are Mrs. Flanders, of West Seventh street; Miss Wenzer, of Grove street, and Mrs. John B. Probasco, of East Front street.

Negro Hurt in Runaway.

Warren Davis, colored, a driver employed by George Cole, a liveryman, of West Second street, lost control of his horse while driving a hack down East Fourth street at 7:30 o'clock Monday night, and was painfully hurt in a crash that ended the resulting runaway. The smash-up occurred at Watchung avenue, when the runaway struck a carriage driven by Tucker Johnson, colored, in which Harry Coward was riding. The runaway turned and the carriage crashed against the curb. Davis was thrown out and cut his head in several places. He was taken home in the patrol wagon. The Cole carriage was damaged considerably.

Local Real Estate Transfers.

Japs Denounce Treaty.

Tokio, Sept. 6.—The first turbulence attendant upon the popular anger over the terms of peace arranged with Russia took place yesterday. A mass meeting to protest against the action of the Government was held at Hibiya Park, and although the metropolitan police closed the gates and kept the crowds moving the authorities, after a protest had been made, permitted the meeting.

Representative to Grand Castle.

Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, of Duer street, the retiring grand chief of the Grand Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, was elected a representative to the Supreme Castle at the closing session held in Trenton yesterday. The Supreme Castle will meet at Detroit in October.

SELLS VALUABLE TRACT

Mrs. D. W. Rogers Disposes of West Second Street Property.

PURCHASER UNKNOWN

Plot of 100 Feet Frontage and 154 Feet Depth—Said to Be Worth $18,000.

An important realty deal in the business section was effected yesterday by Albert Lederer, the real estate broker, when he sold the well-known property at West Second street and Madison avenue, owned by Mrs. David W. Rogers, having a frontage of 100 feet on West Second street and a depth on Madison avenue of 154 feet. The property includes the residence property occupied by Mr. and Mrs. David W. Rogers on West Second street and the four story building on the corner, occupied by James Clawson, the grocer; Fred Ivamy, the seafood dealer, and several families on the upper floors, also the barber shop on Madison avenue.

The site is considered one of the best and most valuable in the city. The owner has held the property at $18,000 and it is believed that the consideration was that in the deal. The new owner does not want his name divulged and is withholding it for the present.

It is said to be his intention to improve the corner property within a short time and transform it into a business block. The plans will be prepared soon and operations will then follow.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers have occupied their present home for thirty-seven years, and will remain there for the present.

In connection with this deal another one was made recently by Mr. Lederer whereby Dr. Marcus L. Clawson, of Park avenue, has purchased the property on Madison avenue where the old Alert Hose Company fire-house now stands. This is one of the landmarks of the city. It is Dr. Clawson's plan to make an important change in this property.

It is the opinion of many persons that it is only a question of time when West Second street as far as Madison avenue will become a solid business block and one of the centres of trade.

COMPANY K'S RECORD IN SEA GIRT MATCH

FINISHES TWENTY-FIVE POINTS BEHIND THE WINNING TEAM.

At the company team match at Sea Girt, on the 200 and 500-yard ranges, Company K finished rather far down the list, although not so many points behind the winners. The winning score was 306, made by a Washington company, and Company K scored 281.

HIGHAM IN RACE.

Candidate to Succeed Himself in Council.

J. Stephen Higham will be a candidate to succeed himself in the Common Council at the primaries to be held on Tuesday. The impression that he was out of the race was gained by the report that Joseph M. Shellabarger would be the nominee for member at large from that ward.

It was the intention of Councilman Leslie M. Daniel to retire at the end of his present term, and in case he had done so, it was the plan to make Mr. Higham the ward candidate and Mr. Shellabarger the nominee at large, but when Mr. Daniel decided to be a candidate for re-election, it is understood that Mr. Shellabarger stepped aside in favor of Mr. Higham.

The friends of the latter have chosen delegates whom they believe favor Mr. Higham for another term and will vote for him. They claim that he is entitled to another year in the Common Council and will work hard to that end.

Swackhamer at the Shore.

S. S. Swackhamer has gone to Asbury Park. He will be back in time for the primary election to help make W. J. Conroy the Democratic candidate for mayor.

WORKING HIS GAME

Bogus Revenue Inspector Turns Up In Newark Now.

HIS SCHEME HERE

Also Heard From In New Brunswick—Warning Served On Liquor Men.

Because of several complaints made by local liquor dealers, who reported to Chief Deputy Collector Newton H. Porter, of the Internal Revenue office, Newark, that a man, passing as an internal revenue inspector, with an office in the Federal building in Manhattan, had succeeded in making a number of "touches," Chief Porter has instructed liquor dealers in the future to demand that men so masquerading shall exhibit credentials and badge of office before having any dealings with them whatever.

The man complained about is James Robinson, who spent a week at the Hotel Iroquois, leaving an unpaid board bill and trying to pass several checks. He was successful in one case, Christian Gloeckler, of Front and Somerset streets, cashing a forged check, bearing the name of a Bound Brook man. The check was for $30. After cashing it Gloeckler, becoming suspicious, went to Bound Brook, and to his great joy received the cash. Before he left the bank, however, he was called back and the cashier demanded the return of the money, as the check was fraudulent.

Robinson has recently been working his schemes in Newark and vicinity, for many saloonkeepers there have also complained. The local police have been unable to get any trace of Robinson.

The man is evidently known in New Brunswick, where the Home News describes him as Sailor Okes, and alleged naval hero, who defrauded a woman and robbed a boarder of his money. The News says that altogether, as a revenue inspector, Sailor Okes appears to have surpassed his achievements in New Brunswick as a naval hero.

YOUNG MEYER ESCAPES CONSEQUENCES OF THEFT

JUDGE VAIL RELEASES HIM FOR FAMILYS' SAKE—SENTENCE DAY.

Among those arraigned for sentence before Judge Vail in the Court of Special Sessions in Elizabeth yesterday morning was Ferdinand Meyer, of Duer street, arrested for stealing several razors and $6.80 from R. J. Shaw, the West Front street druggist. The court learned that Meyer had returned one of the razors—he sold the others—and the money and released him on account of his wife and child, who are dependent on him for support

Louis Bernard and Henry Roberts, who were arrested early in August for robbing the poor boxes in St. Patrick's church, Elizabeth, on pleading guilty to the offense took occasion to remind the court that they had never been arrested before. They were sentenced to the State Reformatory.

Thomas McNamara, of Elizabeth, was guilty accroding to his own plea of having committed an assault and battery on Bridget O'Brien. He escaped with ten days in jail.

A like sentence was meted out to William Johnson, of Rahway, who on August 4 stole a hat and box of sardines.

A sentence of ten days in jail was also meted out to Michael Reilly, who on August 21 stole several chickens in Linden township.

John Mendler, of Cranford, a lineman in the employ of the Western Union Telegraph Company, who pleaded guilty to having robbed a roommate of $4.85, was sentenced to ten days in jail, the stolen money having been returned.

Frank Carnisky, 15 years old, who appears to have a penchant for robbing gas meters, was turned over to the custody of the Probation Officer.

Robert Moore, of Fanwood, who pleaded guilty to having on July 30 committed an assault and battery on his wife, Annie, was remanded for sentence until Wednesday next.

Hennessy Pleads Guilty.

James P. Hennessy, thirty-seven years old, of Morristown, who confessed to the theft of $44,000 from his employer, J. Hewitt Morgan, which peculations, he said, he had lost in a poolroom in New York, pleaded guilty to two indictments charging forgery in the second degree yesterday morning before Judge Newburger, in Part 2 of the Court of General Sessions, in New York. He was remanded for two weeks for sentence.

SCHOOL ELECTION A TIE

SURPRISING RESULT

Balloting Was Cut Up On Two Propositions, But a Deadlock Grew Out of the Mix-up.

The school election at New Market to decide for or against the erection of a four-room, $12,500 structure in the village and the purchase of an addition to the old school lot, resulted in a tie vote. One hundred and ninety-six ballots were cast, and ninety-eight for and ninety-eight against each proposition. The voting was cut up, some favoring the school and opposing the purchase of land, and vice versa, and it was somewhat remarkable that the balloting should result in a clean tie, as it did.

The new school proposition has been hanging fire since early in the spring, and the result of the election last night means another delay of at least a month.

Last night's meeting was almost as lively as the one in April, when South Plainfield and East Bound Brook ranged themselves against New Market on the $20,000 schoolhouse proposition At that time the New Marketers won out, but the attorney general nullified the vote on a technicality. Because of the rancorous opposition to the $20,000 school at that election the school board decided to reduce the appropriation.

The reduction led to a lot of protest and discussion among the New Marketers at the meeting. They voted pretty solidly against the cheaper school, and are rejoicing today because it was blocked.

The meeting opened at 7 o'clock, but voting did not begin until nearly 9. Heated discussion took up the interim.

As soon as the meeting opened for business, C. E. Kelly, one of the leading Democratic politicians of the township, opened the assault on the $12,500 building. The board had told the taxpayers in April that New Market needed a $20,000 building, he said, and he held that the proposition, having been carried by popular vote and being nullified only on a technicality, should be resubmitted to the people along with the new proposition.

Stanley Day immediately presented a resolution to adjourn the meeting and have the proposition for the $20,000 school resubmitted. A yea and nay vote sounded so even that a ballot was called for. The resolution was lost, 108 to 56.

Following this a general discussion raged until 8:50, when voting began. The need of a $20,000 building in New Market was the most hotly contested point, and the South Plainfielders continued to insist that the sum was too high to spend on a school in New Market.

The balloting went on for an hour, the legal time. The announcement of the result astonished the voters, but the New Marketers allowed their surprise to be swallowed up in rejoicing.

Just as soon as the vote was presented Mr. Kelly notified the trustees that he would prepare and present a petition to them calling for the submission of the $20,000 proposition along with the $12,500 one at the next election.

The proposition to purchase new land will be presented again. It is proposed to buy sixty feet adjoining the present lot to secure necessary width for the new institution. The lot has a depth of 200 feet.

H. J. Piddington was chairman of the meeting, and F. O. Nelson was secretary. P. W. Voorhees and R. L. Pierce were tellers and J. E. Kelly secretary of the count.

Cops' New Revolver Handicaps.

New handicap lists have been prepared in the monthly revolver shooting contests of the police force. Marked improvement in the shooting of the men has been perceptible since the contests began. The September competition will begin this afternoon on the range of the Plainfield Gun Club. Pipes will be the prizes offered this month.

Lineup for Saturday's Game.

Manager Denman says that his lineup for Saturday will be the same as heretofore, except that James Robertson will play right field, and "Dude" McCormick will cover shortstop. Flynn will play second base, as before. The Westfield team is confident of victory on Saturday and will make the effort of its life to win.

New Hobokenite.

George E. Firstbrook, formerly of the Courier-News staff, went to Hoboken Tuesday, to take his place on the staff on Mr. Daab's weekly "Inquirer." For the present at least, Mr. Firstbrook will make his home in Hoboken.

POLICE CHIEF EXPLAINS ON MAYOR'S ORDER

Mr. Buckle Seeks to Know Why Police Did Not Make Raid on John Goff's Place.

AND KIELY TELLS HIM

Head of Department Says That He Was Following Instructions of Prosecutor and Corporation Counsel.

Following the sensational raid by Councilmen Tyler and Bullock on Goff's place Sunday night, Mayor Buckle called on Chief of Police Kiely for an official explanation why he had not raided the establishment himself. The Mayor's letter and Chief Kiely's official reply follows:

Mayor's Office,
Plainfield, N. J.
Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 5, 1905.
Patrick S. Kiely, Esq.,
Chief of Police,
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir:

I am informed that the hotel of John J. Goff, on West Front street, was entered last Sunday evening by Messrs. Tyler and Bullock, of the Police Committee, and that much was discovered therein which seems to point to the fact that Goff was selling liquor illegally.

This mode of procedure is so unusual as to excite wonderment in the minds of many as to why laymen members of the Common Council should have been called upon to do that which properly should have come within the province of yourself and the force under your charge.

I therefore request you to inform me what reasons you can give for your failure to have your officers apprehend the alleged violation of law by Mr. Goff, and hereby notify you that I shall make the same public.

Yours truly,
J. F. BUCKLE,
Mayor.

Hon. James F. Buckle,
Mayor of the City of Plainfield,

Dear Sir:

I am in receipt of your esteemed favor of this date, inquiring as to the failure of the police of this city to apprehend John J. Goff for selling liquor without a license, and calling attention to the fact that Messrs. Tyler and Bullock unaided, have seemingly done that which the police could not or would not do.

In reply I beg to state that I have been engaged in collecting evidence against Mr. Goff for some months past and have fully expected to present the same before the October Grand Jury. In this case as in every one of like character which I have ever undertaken I have proceeded along lines laid down by Mr. English, the county prosecutor, and Mr. Marsh, the corporation counsel. They have advised me that all work of this character should be carried on with no public mention whatever, and the evidence so collected be given in the first instance to the Grand Jury, their idea as well as my own being that in this way witnesses are in nowise liable to be spirited away before the hearing and the ends of justice thereby defeated, and further that no chance is thus given for wire pulling, political and otherwise, in behalf of the violators of the law. The evidence in cases of this sort is never easy to obtain, and takes much time and careful preparation, as there is a vast difference between evidence which merely seems suspicious and evidence which will absolutely convict. I have been fully confident of obtaining a complete case against Mr. Goff before October and believe my expectations would have been altogether realized had I been allowed to proceed without interruption. The patrolmen under my charge will bear me out when I say that I have at all times ordered them to do their whole duty without fear or favor, and especially in the Goff case have I been anxious to secure complete evidence both because of my suspicions and because I have known that the Police Board considered the place a "speak easy."

If in any way I have failed it is simply in the failure to make public my mode of proceedure and I have believed that the advice of Mr. English and Mr. Marsh fully warranted me in acting as I have done.

If you so desire, I shall be willing and glad to tell you everything I have done in the Goff matter from the very beginning, and am confident that I can justify myself in each and every particular.

Trusting that this communication gives you the information you desire, I am,

Yours respectfully.

NEW SCHOOL IS A MODEL

Somerset Street Structure Ready For Pupils on Tuesday.

FINELY EQUIPPED

Corps of Teachers Announced—Many New Ones On the List.

Everything is about ready at the Somerset school, both in the old and new buildings, for the opening of the fall term of 1905 on Tuesday. The old building presents a better aspect within, it having been renovated with paint and wall paper. The floors have been reoiled and repairs have been made wherever they were found necessary.

The interior of the new building is a model of up-to-date school equipment. All modern appliances have been installed, both in the way of furniture and furnishings, even to the newest type drinking basins. In the new building there are fourteen rooms, all situated so as to give the greatest amount of light possible. Newly equipped store rooms for books and fine typewriting rooms have been put in. Today almost all the benches and desks have been placed and by Saturday everything will have been completed.

The new tower clock and all its parts have already arrived. The clock system is a Waterbury standard electric, and besides furnishing time to people on the outside of the school, a clock connected with the main system in the tower will be hung in each class room. The small clocks are of oak, corresponding to all the furnishings of the building. The four faces of the clock have already been placed in the tower. They are of red painted iron, and they will have ground glass backgrounds. The fancy work on the faces will be painted white, while the hands will correspond. The works will be fitted in tomorrow or the next day, but it is not expected that the clock will be in good running order for some time, as it will take a great amount of regulation.

There are fourteen rooms in the new building, consequently there will be more classes, and more new teachers needed.

Following is a list of new teachers who will be at the Somerset school this year:

Preparatory department, Miss Margaret Speidell, of Rome, N. Y., graduate of Albany Normal College; teached for four years at Canajoharie and Rome.

Grammar department, Lillian R. Eldredge, of Norwich, N. Y., graduate of Brockport, N. Y., Normal school, teacher at the English H. S., Great Neck, L. I. She will teach English and History. Miss Margaret Hudson, of Rouse's Point, N. Y. graduate of the Plattsburg, N. Y., Normal school, teacher for some time at Sayville, L. I. She will teach mathematics. Miss Edith Neile, of Wayland, N. Y., graduate of the Genesseo, N. Y., Normal school, teacher at Irvington, N. J., for several years. She will teach seventh grade work.

Ungraded classes—Mabel L. Bogardus, of Katskill, N. Y., graduate of New Paltz, N. Y., Normal school, teacher for six years at Madison, N. J.

Primary department, Edna L. Dampman, of Mt. Pleasant, N. J., graduate of Trenton Normal school, teacher for two years at Garfield, N. J.

Kindergarten in the Watchung school, Adele Miln, of New York City, teacher for five years in the Somerville schools, five years as principal of the New York City playgrounds, graduate of the New York Normal College and the Ellman Kindergarten Training school, of New York City.

Woodwork shop and mechanical drawing department, Linton B. Crandell, graduate of Alfred University, three years training in the manual training department at Alfred as foreman of the workshop, teacher also in the Ashaway, R. I., high school.

Special teacher of music, Herbert Lloyd, of Bound Brook, supervisor of music at the Bound Brook public school and organist and choir leader of the First Presbyterian church of Bound Brook.

Elizabeth Claypoole, for many years a teacher in the Somerset school, until 1904, returns as general substitute and assistant in the superintendent's office.

Alice L. Martin, of Plainfield, is to be assistant kindergarten teacher in Watchung school; graduate of N. P. H. S., teacher in Somerset and Bergen county for two years.

Henry C. Krebs, new supervisory principal, home at 23 Fairview avenue, graduate of Kutztown, Pa., Normal school, and post-graduate there for two years; he held chair in mathematics at Kutztown. For a number of years he was superintendent of the public schools at Egg Harbor,

M'CARDELL'S CHALLENGE

Calls on Councilman Bullock For Proof of Allegations.

SAYS "GET BUSY"

Declares That Candidate Is Trying to Make Capital Through the Goff Raid.

Andrew McCardell, declared by anti-organization Republicans to be a political boss, answers Councilman Bullock's declaration that he runs the police department. At his request the following letter is published:

Editor, The Daily Press:

My name has been so prominently mentioned in connection with last Sunday's raid at Goff's place, and such unwarranted insinuations and charges are made that I feel it but justice to myself to reply.

In one interview William Starr Bullock is quoted as saying "The police committee does not run the department; Andrew McCardell runs it."

I desire to deny this charge emphatically and unequivocally. Never have I even attempted to dictate the policy of the police department, and I defy Mr. Bullock, or any one else, to cite a single instance which will bear him out in his statement. I never have and never will endeavor to protect violators of the law; and with reference to the case of Goff, in no way have I ever tried to tie Chief Kiely's hands, or prevent him from doing his whole duty. I will say furthermore that, if the police department has been protecting him in any way in selling liquor illegally, those responsible should be held strictly accountable.

If Mr. Bullock or his friends desire to go further in this matter and endeavor to prove me a protector of law-breakers, let them get busy without delay; the sooner the better. I shall welcome their overtures, and Mr. Bullock is welcome to all the political capital he can make out of the proceeding. I say this because it is my earnest belief that this sensational raid of Sunday night was engineered at this particular time for no other purpose than to bolster up Bullock's chances of a renomination to the Council. If the Board of Police has had, as is claimed, knowledge for months of the conditions at Goff's, why have the members waited to do the Carrie Nation act until just before the primaries? Or having waited so long, might they not have waited a few days longer?

The attempt to influence voters in favor of the chief raiders is so apparent that further comment at this time seems unnecessary.

Yours truly,
ANDREW McCARDELL.

THIEF CLEANED OUT BOARDER'S WARDROBE

SURPRISE FOR W. H. WEBSTER ON HIS LATE RETURN HOME.

When W. H. Webster, who lives at Mrs. Waldorf's boarding house, 134 Crescent avenue, went to his wardrobe after coming home late Tuesday night, he stared in astonishment at bare hooks and shelves. When Mr. Webster went out the wardrobe was full of expensive clothes. After rubbing his eyes to assure himself that the bareness was not illusory, Mr. Webster looked around the room for some explanation. He found it in a half-open window screen. Mr. Webster's room is on the first floor and the window opens directly on the porch.

Mr. Webster reported the robbery to the housekeeper. It was the first intimation that anyone in the house had of an intrusion. The thief found entrance very easy, the screen not being even locked, and he made no sound that anybody heard. A dog belonging to one of the boarders barked near midnight and it is supposed he heard the thief, and frightened him away. No other room but Mr. Webster's was entered.

The police were notified yesterday and Detective McCarthy was put on the case. He found the usual lack of clues, but Mr. Webster's clothes are believed to be lying in some tramp's cache.

—Don't put off canning peaches. The season is now at its height, and Neuman Brothers have a better display of fruit than ever before. The quality is just as good as the prices are low.

J. H. Case, of Duer street, will spend the rest of September on upper Chateaugay Lake in the Adirondacks.

NO QUORUM AT COUNCIL

Matters For Consideration Delayed Because of Members' Absence.

ONLY FOUR PRESENT

Councilmen Daniel, Tolles, Bullock and Higham the Only Ones to Answer Roll Call.

President Daniel, and Councilmen Tolles, Bullock and Higham being the only members present the proposed adjourned meeting of the Common Council could not be held last night. It is possible, however, that a special meeting will be called within a short time to take action on several matters under consideration.

Among the matters that were to have been brought up was a petition of the Mono Investment Company for permission to erect a storage warehouse on Fillmore avenue. This was presented Monday night and held over until an opinion could be obtained from the corporation counsel. It is understood that Mr. Marsh has said that the plans and specifications for the building comply with the law and that the permission may safely be granted.

Another matter to be decided was the communication of the Board of Assessors regarding the death of David S. Pope, assistant in the office of Tax Collector Robert L. Lee, and recommending the appointment of Frank M. Dunham. It is believed that Mr. Dunham will be selected.

It was also intended to report on an opinion of the corporation counsel as to the legality of George J. Tobin serving as a commissioner in the matter of the proposed widening of Sycamore street, owing to the fact that he owns property in the neighborhood. It is said that Mr. Tobin will be unable to serve and another man will be secured to take his place.

After President Daniel declared no session, Spencer Conway, of the Calvary Baptist church, who was present, was given an audience by the four members relative to the assessment for taxes on the church. According to law the church is free from taxation, but there was a change in the title temporarily, an outside party holding it. It was during this time that the assessment was made, yet as a matter of fact the members of the church still retained their property. The matter is now in the hands of the corporation counsel from whom an opinion is expected soon.

RAIN DAMAGED HOTEL; LESSEE MAY SUE OWNER

Suit for $1,000 or more against his landlady is threatened by Henry Windham, of the Hotel Waldorf, as a result of Sunday's rainfall. Leaks in the hotel roof let in so much of the rain that heavy damage was done. The building is owned by Miss Rose Caspar.

Mr. Windham estimates the damage at not less than $1,000. The rain came into the building in several big streams. So much water gained access that stock and fixtures on the street floor suffered almost as heavily as those on the upper floors. The handsomely appointed bar parlor looked as if a flood had swept through it. The ceiling and walls were spoiled and expensive mirrors on the sidewalls were ruined. The trickling water, Mr. Windham says, loosened the silver backing so that it will all peil off. Many boxes of cigars, expensive brands among them, were damaged.

Mr. Windham declares the landlady is responsible and must make the damage good or contest a suit. He says he told Miss Caspar of the condition of the roof several weeks ago, and that her failure to repair it makes her liable for all the damage done.

Elmer Bishop Buried.

The funeral services of Elmer Bishop were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late home in Carlton avenue. Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, officiated. There was a large attendance of neighbors and friends and there were many floral tributes. The interment was in Hillside and the pallbearers were Emil and William Messersmith, Floyd Fuller and William Bohl.

Cop Gym Class Reopening.

Arrangements are being made for the reorganization of the police gymnasium training class. Physical Director Boardman, of the Y. M. C. A., will see Chief Kiely this week to fix upon a date for resuming class work.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Another one of the intended improvements at the loop, which will make the place more attractive, was completed yesterday. The land within the loop was badly washed away by the recent rain storm, especially where the new gas main has been newly laid. Employes of the railroad company were today engaged in filling the damaged place up with two loads of heavy cinders, which are intended to make a more solid footing during inclement weather. The waiting and lunch room, too, are improved by a double coat of paint of colonial yellow color.

The horse belonging to Paul Reusch, which was bitten Tuesday by a bulldog at the Aluminum Press Works, was reported to be in the same condition as yesterday, suffering from nine deep bites. Dr. Knott, of Plainfield, will make a thorough examination of the wounds today to try and see if any germs of serious disease have set in. The dog will not probably be shot unless the horse is injured fatally. However, a suit will probably be instituted against the owner of the dog for damages.

While driving along the trolley track yesterday morning at about 9:30, a wagon belonging to Wesley Blaine, a farmer in the borough, was hit in the rear by a car. The backboard was smashed. The accident happened in front of Giles' blacksmith shop.

John Peters and Charles Wyhuskey returned yesterday from a three days' fishing trip at Lake Hoptacong. They reported the fishing good and said, as others have said, that they caught a fine batch, but gave them away.

William G. Holton Lodge, No. 55, Jr. O. U. A. M., held a regular meeting Tuesday night. Only routine business was carried out, followed by a sociable time.

S. Gulick's place is greatly improved in appearance by the addition of a new platform in front and by a first coat of white paint on the entire building.

A party composed of Fred Haynes, Walter Vliet, Charles Vail, Albert Giddes and Edward Herlich were at Atlantic City over Labor Day.

Miss Myrtle Smith has returned from a stay at Hampton Junction, as has her brother Charles from a week's sojourn at Newark.

Mrs. Mary Jaggers and Miss Anna Hetfield made a week's sojourn last week with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hetfield at Greenbrook.

James Manning is fast improving from injuries and bruises sustained last week in a fall from the hay loft of his barn.

Mrs. S. Hubbard and family will move on Thursday to a house which she rented on Somerset street, Plainfield.

Mrs. James Manning, who was taken suddenly and seriously ill last week, is reported as improving.

Mrs. Charles Mosher, of New York, was the guest of her cousin, Mrs. G. W. Churchill, last week.

Mrs. Mary Rutherford has returned from a stay at Bar Harbor, Me., with friends.

Louis Starker has returned to Yale to again take up the study of medicine.

Russell Runyon has returned from a week's stay with his aunt in Philadelphia.

W. Shively and family have returned from a week's stay at Bloomsbury.

Mrs. Lawrence Leary and children visited friends on Long Island last week.

Mrs. A. Gano and son Le Mar are the guests of Mrs. William Shively.

Joseph Fisher has returned from a visit with relatives at Lebanon.

The condition of Mrs. E. Maurer is now regarded as serious.

Henry Kirchner spent Tuesday visiting at Philadelphia.

Mrs. M. Hill has purchased a new Jersey cow.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Schmidt, of Westfield avenue, have changed their residence from the Cook house to one of Henry C. Meyer's new cottages on the same avenue.

The enrollment at the public school is near the 200 mark. When the scholars all return from their vacations this mark will be passed.

The encampment of gypsies that has been camping on the vacant lot near the hotel, folded their tents and left town yesterday.

Miss Minnie Hosinger, who has been enjoying a two weeks' vacation, has returned to her position at Hill & Shupp's.

Charles Ball has been drawn as a member of the petit jury for the October term of court.

Thomas Farrell, of Garwood, has been visiting Jacob Shackleton, of Park avenue.

Mrs. William H. Lee has been entertaining Metuchen friends over Labor Day.

Fanwood B. E. Co. held its monthly meeting last night in the company rooms.

Gene Paff has returned from a visit with friends in Brooklyn.

Mrs. John Lyndall is visiting Brooklyn friends.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Owing to the high water over the road at Samptown Sunday evening four church attendants of that place had to be carried over the obstruction on the shoulders of another in order to return home. It is said that the unusual overflow was caused by a break in Holly's dam near Park avenue.

Mrs. George Harrison, of Oak Tree, after a long illness, died Tuesday evening.

Mrs. J. A. Cubberley is visiting friends at Hamilton Square and Mercerville.

The house to house canvass of legal voters was begun yesterday.

Henry Teeple is entertaining relatives from out of town.

PERSONAL.

Arthur Aalholm, of Second place, has returned from a stay at the shore.

Miss Ada Van Horn, of Putnam avenue, has returned from a stay at Bath Beach.

Miss Estelle Brooks has been spending several days with friends in Bound Brook.

Miss Florence Schooley, of Elizabeth, has returned home after a visit to relatives here.

Miss Margaret Goddard, of East Ninth street, is spending a few days at East Hampton, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. John Linbarger, of Brooklyn, have returned home after an extended visit to relatives in this city.

Miss Clara Weber, of East Third street, has been entertaining a cousin from New York for the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. William Maher, of Trenton, are visiting their son, Thomas J. Maher, of Arlington place.

Mrs. J. Van Deventer and family, of Woodland avenue, returned yesterday from a month's stay at Beach Haven.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Williams, of East Front street, have returned to their home from a visit at Wykertown, N. J.

Mrs. F. E. Smith and children have returned to their home in West Fourth street, after a pleasant stay at Ocean Grove.

S. E. Fisher and family, of Washington avenue, have returned from their summer home in Sullivan county, New York State.

Miss Emily Duvier, of West Fifth street, has returned home after a three weeks' stay with relatives in Jersey City Heights.

Rev. F. E. Whiteside, of East Norwich, L. I., is visiting at the home of Mrs. Whiteside's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Hockridge.

Richard Ball, of West Front street, has returned from a two weeks' stay at Rockaway Beach, for the benefit of his health.

Kerro Knox, of Williams College, who has spent a part of his vacation in Wayne, Pa., has returned to his home on Rockview avenue.

William Doud, of Duer street, and Edward Bennett, of Westervelt avenue, returned yesterday after a two weeks' stay at Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haurand, of Elmwood place, who are at the hospital under treatment for typhoid fever, are reported as being slightly improved.

Edward Mosher, Jr., of Elmwood place, has returned from Asbury Park, where he went to regain health and strength following an attack of typhoid fever.

Berthold Audsley, of Lowerre, New York, formerly of Grove street, is stopping for a time at the home of his brother, Maurice Audsley, of Westervelt avenue.

Corporal and Mrs. Richard Overland, of Vermont, are visiting the former's parents on West Fourth street. Mrs. Overland was formerly Miss Florence Harlow, of Burlington, Vt.

Councilman Charles C. Randolph, of Albert street, who has been out of town for several days, was unable to return home in time for the September meeting of the Common Council last night.

Frank La Chance, of Brooklyn, who is known to a number of Plainfielders, has been appointed to a position in the New York Custom House. Mr. La Chance is a former honorary member of the Criterion Club.

FOOTBALL FANS ARE BEGINNING TO LIVEN UP

GRIDIRON TALK WILL NOW BE HEARD —PROBABLE TEAMS.

Football talk is beginning to be heard in the city. Although baseball is still lively and scarcely moribund, it is not early for football enthusiasts to begin their annual "look over the field." It takes something over a month and a half to get candidates together and shape up a team, and if the athletes of the gridiron who hope to get teams going by the beginning of the approaching season start preparation for the game within a week or two the middle of October will find them hardly ready for the fray.

Fog envelopes the outlook at this stage and predictions as to teams must be hedged with "ifs" and "maybes." There are good chances that an Alis eleven will again take the field. Roy Phillips is looked to for the rallying cry of the old star combination. There is heavy material enough in sight to encourage him in organization. Clifford Smith and George McVoy are beginning to size up their old mates and some new material for a re-formation of the O. F. C. eleven. They are talking of making the team heavy enough to go up against anything. "We are tired of being called a junior eleven," says George.

All three of the schools, Plainfield High School, North Plainfield High School, and Leal's, will probably have teams in the field. Definite knowledge of their intentions will be obtained when the schools reopen next week. About the first thing the boys will do is to hold football meetings.

Lawyer William G. DeMeza is walking slowly and painfully, the result of an abcess in the foot. The gathering grew out of a splinter that pierced his foot a week ago.

AMUSEMENTS

Manager Counihan has made arrangements to present the original Stetson production of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the New Plainfield theatre Friday afternoon and evening. The wonderful popularity of Harriet Beecher Stowe's masterpiece all over the United States for the past forty years has led to its production by all kinds of managers with all kinds of actors, good, bad and indifferent. There is magic in the name of Uncle Tom and its capacity to draw the public to see it is phenomenal. This, as pretty much all theatregoers are aware, has been fully taken advantage of by a horde of irresponsibles and a production by them, at once "wild and wooly" has been too often the result. When produced with a proper dramatic cast, coupled with proper scenic and mechanical equipment, no such story of American life, prior to the great crisis in our national affairs, has ever been penned. For twenty years, the Stetson production has been the leading one, steadily advancing each season with the wonderful stride of progress. The rolling stock parade feature, the scenic investment, the choruses have been steadily added to, while the musical and dramatic roles have been placed in the hands of artists of reputation. Special scenery by Seavey is carried for every scene depicted. A corps of colored singers, cakewalkers, dancers and fieldhands from the cotton belt lend realism to the plantation scenes. A train of railroad cars, specially constructed, is required in the transportation of this mammoth company, while the street demonstration is said to excel anything yet seen in the theatrical world.

In the "Lighthouse by the Sea," which will receive its first presentation in this city Saturday afternoon and evening, at the New Plainfield theatre, the spectacular sensational climax at the end of the third act, is said to be one of the most thrilling scenes ever produced on the stage. While a heavy electrical storm is raging at sea off "Devil's Rock" Lighthouse, the villians attempt to bring about a shipwreck by extinguishing the lighthouse signal, and demolishing the stairs leading to the light, to prevent it from being restored. A young girl makes a perilous journey by walking a wire from a flag staff on the rocks, to the top of the lighthouse, and restores the signal in time to avert the catastrophe.

The one and only spectacular Drury Lane Christmas pantomime now touring the larger cities of the country after its successful run at the Broadway theatre, New York, is announced to appear at the New Plainfield theatre Monday night. "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" has certainly scored a phenomenal success and the manner in which throngs have turned out to witness it is the best proof possible of the merits of this gorgeous entertainment. It is a show which is up-to-date in every respect, and by the blending of the two popular legends of fairyland and the clever witticisms it is almost a continuous laugh. The three acts of the spectacle contains some of the most notable scenes ever attempted on an American stage, and fairyland it seems could be no more beautiful than it will be presented in this great production. Especially brilliant is the transformation which brings the second act to a climax. This represents the different seasons of the year, and the backgrounds are in perfect harmony with the host of beautiful girls, who make up the ballet and whose graceful evolutions are so fascinating.

One of the most remarkable demonstrations ever witnessed in any theatre was that at the reopening of the New York Hippodrome, when during a brief intermission, a large portrait of President Roosevelt, draped in the National colors and flanked by the flags of Japan and Russia, was lowered from the top of the proscenium, the orchestra in the meantime playing "The Star Spangled Banner." In an instant, the great audience, men, women and children, were on their feet cheering wildly. For ten minutes the ovation continued to be renewed when John W. Gates, from his seat in an upper right hand box, rose and shouted, "What's the matter with Roosevelt?" "He's all right," came the thundering response, which must have found echo in Oyster Bay. The "act" was not on the programme. It was the idea of Frederic Thompson, of Thompson & Dundy, the manager of the Hippodrome, and not arranged for until an hour before the doors were opened.

Edna May, the American girl, is at Daly's theatre with a complete company from London and a number of French dancers selected from various Parisian musical companies. This is Charles Frohman's first production this season. She is seen in "The Catch of the Season," a musical play which was produced in London by Charles Frohman over 300 nights ago and which is still a current success at the Vaudeville theatre in the British Capitol. Miss May's English company numbers 70 artists and it includes Farren Soutar, son of Nellie Farren, who has been leading comedienne of the musical plays on the Strand. Fred Wright, Jr., of "The School Girl" success of last season; Fred Kay, who appeared in New York originally in "The Gaiety Girl" and who has since been the leading character comedian at Daly's theatre, London; Talleur Andrews, who was the chief tenor of "The School Girl" company last season; Maud Milton, a representative English actress, who has played with Sir Henry Irving and other legitimate stars; Jane May; the three Gaiety dancers, Margaret Fraser, Bert Sinden and Vivian Vowles, and a number of representative stage beauties. Besides these there is a large number of specially engaged ensemble dancers.

POINTS FOR THE BUYERS

Don't get worried if your electric bell won't ring. Call in W. H. Pope, North avenue.

Have you a carriage repair job? Give it to W. J. Conroy, of Somerset street. It will be done right.

Good carpenter work is done by Louis Beck, South avenue. He is an artisan of skill and experience.

Are any electric wires broken in your house? If so, consult E. A. Craig, East Front street, expert electrician.

Charles F. Stahl, the carpenter, on Somerset street, will do any work you have in his line quickly and reasonably.

J. Hervey Doane, the Park avenue jeweler, is showing a fine line of silverware, jewelry, diamonds, watches and clocks.

W. S. Terhune & Son, of North avenue, can quote you attractive prices for desirable real estate, for sale or to lease.

Clean picked coal of free-burning qualities is always in the bins of John Johnson, South avenue. Orders promptly handled.

A perfect hard water soap is on sale at P. B. Hodge's pharmacy, East Front street. Useful to a high degree in city water.

Charles Conover & Co., of Elmwood place, are now ready to make contracts for painting and papering. All work guaranteed.

It is wrong to let a watch go until dirt clogs it into stopping. Have William Brown, Watchung avenue, clean yours regularly.

Art and perfection in bread, cake and confectionery are highly exemplified at D. Demolli & Company's store, West Front street.

For shoes that always look and wear well and that are low in price go to Morris Abrams' store in West Front street. His stock is one of the largest in the State.

It is now time to put away the straw hat that you have worn this summer and don one of U. B. Crane's new fall and winter derbies or soft hats. Prices reasonable.

Good shoes at prices that appeal to everyone can be found at A. E. & A. L. Giddes, West Front street. Shoes for winter, with some heaviness and strength have already been received.

The meat trust may do its worst and make us all suffer, but the last retailer to offer a poorer meat to his customers or raise his prices is Fred Endress. His market on West Front street, is the mecca of wise meat buyers.

When you buy fresh and salt meats and fish you want the best every time, and if you trade with Roth & Co., of East Front street, there will never be any question about it. Besides the quality being the highest the prices are very reasonable.

When you want up-to-date clothing, the kind that fits and wears well and is moderate in cost go to M. Weinberger's store on West Front street. His stock of men's and boys' clothing always looks right and represents the best manufacture. A full line of men's furnishings is always in stock.

Those who have bought shoes at M. C. VanArsdale's store, East Front street, know that it is the best place in the city for bargains and good values in footwear. Styles are always new and right at VanArsdale's store. Prices never vary without the purchaser getting something out of the variation.

Why pay more for a line of inferior goods, when you can get the best procurable at lowest possible prices at I. H. Boehm's, West Front street. Fall styles for the coming season have already been received, and if you are looking for bargains you can find them in the sale of summer goods, now going on at Boehm's at reduced prices.

Instead of always borrowing your neighbors' pans and kettle a wiser plan would be to go to the Gayle Hardware Company's store and purchase them from a large and complete stock. The company also handles refrigerators, woodenware, clothes baskets, wash tubs, wringers and lots of other things to be found in a first-class hardware store.

True Story of the Plunger.

The true story of the President and the Plunger will be told next Sunday in the New York Sunday World. There is also a timely signed article by Dare-Devil Nelson, the Plunger's commander, on the "Future of Submarines." There is also an advance page of gowns that will be shown at the Dressmakers' Show that every woman ought to see. There are two good short fiction stories and a dozen striking features. Buy next Sunday's New York Sunday World.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

The Russel Sage Ratio.

Russell Sage says he hopes to live to be 100 and see Missouri Pacific at 200. Russell has always been looking for two for one.—Elizabeth Times.

Motor Clubs Organizing.

The motor-car clubs of this State have completed their organization and will join the American Automobile Association of America. The Automobile Club, of Hudson county, is fully represented, and has taken an active part in the preliminary proceedings. The New Jersey movement will, it is expected, through its wealthy membership and influence, greatly strengthen the national body. —Hoboken Observer.

Political Power of the Communter.

It will be interesting in the next few years to watch the politics of this State in its relation to the commuter vote. Northern New Jersey, great as it is, will become more and more a sister of New York city, while to the South, Philadelphia bids fair to exert a decided influence. Here in Bergen county the power of the commuter vote is well known to and respected by the far-seeing politician.—Hackensack Record.

Must Get Relief at Trenton.

It is now the duty of yachting and fishing interests of this resort to get together and urge their representatives in the Legislature to secure the passage of a law that will effectually protect the food fish of these waters from the depredations of the menhaden "pirates." With the influence at their command this should not be a difficult thing to accomplish, especially as they will be supported by the hotel men and all interests concerning the entertainment of the resort's patrons.—Atlantic City Press.

Boss Rule.

Boss rule is in reality a myth. The man who tries to place collars on the necks of his followers soon finds that the dog is bigger than the man. The American people have independence. It will be interesting in the next few years to watch the politics of this State in its relation to the "commuter vote." Northern New Jersey, great as it is, will become more and more a sister of New York City, while to the south, Philadelphia bids fair to exert a decided influence. Here in Bergen county the power of the "commuter vote" is well known to and respected by the farseeing politician.—Hackensack Republican.

Riches and Immorality.

Evidence in support of the postulate announced by some sociologists, that the possession of great wealth more often mars than makes for marital happiness, is furnished by the experience of James B. Duke, the multi-millionaire head of the Tobacco Trust. Only nine months after his marriage, in this city, to a woman who was credited with having a million or two in her own right, he goes into court applying for divorce and accusing his wife of gross immorality. Temptations to marital fidelity apparently are greater in the circles of the very rich than among those who are content with an income that supplies the average comforts of life. —Camden Post-Telegram.

Negro's Park.

Negroes of Essex county are to have a recreation park of their own at Bloomfield, and a company for that purpose has just been incorporated with a capital of $75,000, one-half of which has been paid up. The place is to be fitted up with a bicycle track, baseball field and other amusement features. Recently suits were instituted under the Civil Rights act by several negroes against the proprietors of an amusement park in the county for excluding them on account, as they alleged, of their color, and these are still pending in the courts. White people—if any there are—who desire to visit the new park, will be admitted upon purchasing tickets, provided they behave themselves as well as the colored patrons are expected to do —Hudson Observer.

Rifle Practice Necessary.

New Jersey comes out of the national rifle tournament at Sea Girt sixth in the list of winners. New York led the contest. It is not strange that the New Jersey marksmen did no better than their scores indicate. They were pitted against representatives of States that encourage rifle shooting and give it the consideration that it deserves. For years the State Gazette has contended that rifle practice is one of the most important features of national guard work. It is all very well for the men to be able to march in line and to maneuver with a quickness and precision that calls forth praise from the regimental officers and spectators, but when it comes to active service, the man who is able to hit what he shoots at is the effective soldier. The State of New Jersey has been unwarrantedly indifferent to this fact and has neglected to appropriate sufficient money to enable the military authorities to give the national guardsmen sufficient practice at the ranges to qualify them as sharpshooters. Those who have become expert at target shooting have brought themselves up to that point by continuing practice through the year on private ranges at their own expense. This is not the case in other States, and especially is rifle practice encouraged in the State of New York, which fact accounts for the excellence of the marksmanship of the teams that have come from that quarter to the Sea Girt range during the past three years.—Trenton State Gazette.

SCHOOL DAYS NEAR

BOYS ARE GETTING READY

"Oh, I'm going to get a new suit—I feel more like going to school now," said a youngster within the writer's hearing. Worth thinking about parents. It may be something of a mistake to start the children off to school with half-worn-out clothes, as many do. It doesn't cost much these days to fit them out spic and span and make them feel fresh and fit for their new battles with the books. See how easy it is to outfit the little fellows:

Boys' Double-Breasted Suits in 8 to 16 year sizes; Children's Russian Suits in 3 to 6 year sizes; that ought to sell at 4.00 and 4.50; just 200 of them to go at only $2.95

Boys' Norfolk and Double-Breasted Suits in 8 to 16 year sizes; in a variety of styles that will delight the most particular parent; suits that would readily bring 5.00 and 6.00 in any store—especially in the "cheap" stores; here at 3.95

Young Men's Suits; 15 to 19 year sizes; all good patterns; single and double-breasted styles; worth 9.00 and 10.00; to be sold at $6.95

Boys' Wool Pants, Boys' King Blouses, Boys' White Shirts, Boys' Colored Shirts, Boys' Alpine Hats, Values $1.00 to $1.50 75c

Boys' Wool Pants, Blouses and Shirts and Eton Caps; were 75c and more; now 49 cents

"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James, Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J. SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

If possible Manager Denman will have "Dude" McCormick to cover second base on Saturday.

Captain Driscoll assures the fans that that pennant will come to Plainfield this year, and "Dave" is a good prophet.

For the purpose of doing as well as Billy Beck, "Willie" Deegan is anxious to pitch a no-hit game against Westfield.

This is the time of the year that the fans pick the all-star teams, and the names of Mathewson and Keeler appear in the lineup.

It will be a love-feast on Saturday at Recreation Park. No quarrels, fighting or scrapping. Why, it will be just like a church festival.

Those who engaged boxing gloves for Saturday's contest at Westfield can leave them home. The game will be played according to kid-glove fashion.

It is said that Manager Denman has promised each member of the Westfield team a house and lot if they win the next four games and he will let them select the site.

No game in over a week has made the fans anxious for Saturday's contest with Westfield, and as the Denmanites already claim victory the local fans will have to wait another week to clinch that pennant.

Here is a play that came up recently in the West. The fans may figure it out for themselves. A student of Wendell Phillips' High School says: "In the course of a game in which I played in a country town a foul fly was batted near the players' bench. The manager cries to the catcher, who is after the ball, to get out of the game, and tells another catcher, who is sitting on the bench, to get into the game. The man on the bench stands up and catches the ball, then goes in and finishes the game as catcher, the first catcher retiring. The umpire called the batter out."

"Frank Chance deserves as much credit for my victory in the twenty-inning game as I do myself," said Pitcher Edward Reulbach after his great victory over Philadelphia. "I followed his instructions by a series of signs, and was thus enabled to serve the opposing batsmen the kind of balls they did not want. I attribute most of my success as a National League pitcher to the constant coaching I have received from Manager Chance. I regard him not only as the greatest ball player in the world, but think he possesses remarkable executive ability. Every man on the Chicago team is not only an ardent admirer of Chance, but would fight for him. Incidentally it was the slashing hit to center field made by Chance that won the game for Chicago."

GOLF.

"I would like to know where the ordinary golfer gets a chance when it comes to open tournament play?" said a well known amateur last night. He went on to cite incidents where players of mediocre ability had no opportunity to win after being classified in certain divisions. A case in point, he said, was the recent open tournament at Deal. Out of the 120 odd starters in the eighteen hole medal play qualifying round the contestants were divided into four sixteens. These preliminary stroke rounds are supposed to sift the wheat from the chaff, and in that way bring about well-contested rounds at match play, besides affording a greater number of players a chance to try for prizes. The same thing happened at Deal that occurs at other open tourneys—good players, though unaccountably poor scoring, failed to make their proper divisions. For instance, there was Pierre Proal in the fourth set, when a few weeks ago he was fighting it out in the final with Jerome D. Travers for the chief cup in the Apawamis event. With Proal in was simply a case of his having an off day in the medal play round. A little later he got the feel of his clubs and his opponents were easily brushed aside. The uncertainty of medal play is ever liable to result in a slip up such as has just been cited, but of course it rarely happens in such a pronounced manner as in the Proal case. Repetitions of the Deal situation are liable to happen at any time, however, and it is not likely they will cease so long as the present conditions prevail. There is a select score system that if put into general use would do away with this erratic scoring. The select score is nothing more or less than a double qualifying round boiled into one. For instance, every player goes thirty-six holes in the qualifying round, and at the conclusion takes his best score for each hole. It is quite unlikely that a golfer would make a mess of the same hole twice in succession. Findlay S. Douglas at Ekwanok, the morning play of the qualifying round, got into trouble and took 8 at a short hole, while at the same place in the afternoon he recorded 2. With the select score prevailing the best players would qualify in the first flight with more certainty. It would also prove doubly attractive by giving the players a chance to play against their own bogey. They would try for a uniform card the first round and then go out in the afternoon to beat certain holes with true match play abandon.

Plainfield, N. J., September 7, 1905.

If, from a legal standpoint, the saloon district ordinance "won't hold water," it won't hold liquor.

The present State primary law declares that any citizen offering his ballot at a primary shall declare that he affiliated with the Democratic or Republican party at the last election, and that it is his intention to vote with the Democrats or Republicans, as the case may be, at the next election. Now comes the query, how can the Citizens' party of North Plainfield, who openly declare that they don't intend to vote the borough Republican ticket, take any part in the regular Republican primary?

Because of the unanimous selection of Mayor Newton B. Smalley as a candidate to succeed himself, the Newark Evening News seems to think that all is lovely in the Republican ranks in North Plainfield. This is not the case, for there is still disaffection and the division is largely responsible, if not altogether so, for the existence of the Citizens' party. It is true, however, that Mr. Smalley has been signally honored and that the nomination will seek the man. Speaking of the alleged political harmony, the Newark News says:

"Harmony is becoming epidemic in this State. Following hard upon the restoration of the warmest relations between Mayor Fagan and Leader Dickinson in Hudson county, comes the abandonment of City Judge Runyon's Senatorial aspirations and the burial of many hatchets in Union county. And now the Democrats of Somerset county seem to be really hankering after the renomination of Senator Childs, and the Republicans will accept no other candidate than Colonel Frelinghuysen. But most astonishing of all is the cessation of hostilities in North Plainfield. For years this borough has suffered, actually suffered, from the fight between the supporters and the enemies of Mayor Smalley. Public school interests, temperance interests, fire department interests, and even personal interests, were made subservient to the varying successes of the pro-Smalley and anti-Smalley factions. Finally, in the interests of harmony, and of his own individual affairs, Mayor Smalley announced that, upon the expiration of his term of office, nothing could induce him to become a candidate for re-election. But, mark you now, at a meeting held only a few days ago—which Mayor Smalley did not attend—not a citizen of North Plainfield could be found who would accept nomination on the Republican ticket, and practically the whole meeting went to Mayor Smalley and begged him to run again. And, in the interests of harmony, Mayor Smalley took pity on them and accepted. Even North Plainfield has yielded to the epidemic of harmony."

DRYDEN WILL HAVE CLEAR ROAD TO SENATE

OPPOSITION FROM FORMER GOV. MURPHY NOT TAKEN SERIOUSLY.

To those who know the inside of things politically and the sentiment of the Republican party in New Jersey, says a despatch from Trenton, the talk of former Governor Murphy as a candidate for the United States Senatorship to succeed Senator Dryden is not considered seriously.

In the first place, Senator Dryden is popular with the rank and file of the party, as well as with the few who are recognized as the State leaders. The former Governor offended many of his friends while in office.

Members of the Legislature, who now flock to Governor Stokes' room to discuss their measures, seldom went to see Murphy. His defense of the trusts in his annual messages was also looked upon as bad politics.

Senator Dryden was widely known as a financier, and not as a politician, when he was elected to the United States Senate. Since that time he has become well acquainted with the various county leaders, to whom he is at all times approachable.

He is looked upon as one of the most conservative and influential men in the United States Senate, and is an indefatigable as well as a successful worker in the interest of his native State.

RECEIVER FOR R. A.

First Council In the Order Takes Radical Action.

Boston, Sept. 7.—At a meeting Tuesday night of Alpha Council, No. 1, the parent lodge of the Royal Arcanum, it was voted to request S. W. Reynolds, chairman of the committee of fifteen which represents the protests of every lodge in Massachusetts, to ask the committee to take action with regard to making a plan for a receivership for the Royal Arcanum.

The vote was taken midst impressive silence.

Alpha Lodge was the first lodge of the Royal Arcanum to be formed and its members have always been considered among the most conservative in the order. It has only after gravest deliberation in which the action of the Supreme Council at Put-in-Bay was carefully considered in all its phases that the vote was taken.

This action will undoubtedly be endorsed by every other lodge in this jurisdiction and probably sounds the death knell of the order.

Should receivership proceedings be asked for in this State similar steps will probably be taken in other States.

HAS WIRELESS TELEPHONE.

Young San Francisco Inventor Believes He Has Solved Mystery.

Chicago, Sept. 7.—A dispatch to The Tribune from San Francisco says:

Francis J. McCarty, a seventeen-year-old San Francisco boy, seems to have demonstrated the application of wireless telegraphy to the telephone. Yesterday, at Ocean Beach, on home made instruments, he was able to carry the words of a song for one mile, so they were heard distinctly at the other end of the circuit. For several months the boy has been working on his invention, on which he hopes to get a patent. His apparatus is a secret. In the basement of the Cliff House, in front of his apparatus, he sang a half dozen songs, and newspaper men and others at his receiving station, a full mile away, heard the words as distinctly as if they came over an ordinary telephone wire.

JERSEY TOMATOES IN COURT.

New York Company Claims Jersey Farmers' Crops.

Trenton, Sept. 7—Three suits were commenced in the Court of Chancery Tuesday by the Fort Stanwix Canning Company, of New York State, against South Jersey Farmers, charging them with breach of contracts to furnish tomatoes for canning at the company's factory in Greenwich township, Cumberland county. The defendants are George Loew, Frank H. Cook and George E. Jones, of the same township.

In each case Vice Chancellor Bergen made an order directing the defendants to show cause September 12 why an injunction should not be issued restraining them from selling their crops to anotner packer.

The company charges that after contracting to sell their tomatoes to it, the defendants are planning to sell them elsewhere. The contract price, the company says, was $7 per ton.

A similar suit was commenced by Curtice Brothers' Company, of Rochester, N. Y., operating a canning factory at Woodstown, against James E. Catts, of Salem county, but in this instance no order was made.

The Misses Marion and Ida Englehart, of Grandview avenue, have returned after visiting relatives in New Rochelle.

Mrs. Annie Howes and Miss Annie Muir, of Brooklyn, have returned home after a visit with Mrs. W. G. Hockridge, of Grant avenue.

ANDERSON'S PLATFORM

Independent Councilmanic Candidate Tells Where He Stands.

BUT THREE ISSUES.

Favors High License, Saloon Quarantine and Municipal Ownership of Water Works.

Dr. A. W. Anderson, who will run as an Independent for Common Council in the First ward, has sent the following letter to this paper:

Editor, The Daily Press:

Upon returning to the city of Plainfield after a two weeks' absence, I find that my name has been mentioned by the First Ward Republican Club for councilmanic honors. Appreciating fully the courtesy shown me, I desire to express my thanks to the members of the club for their confidence in me in this open letter to you.

In return for this compliment I wish to take this opportunity of stating to the club and to the public at large the stand I take on the questions now agitating the public mind. I think every man who desires the suffrage of the people should come out boldly and state definitely and exactly for what principles he stands, and what his course of action will be should he be the choice of the community for any public office.

There are now three questions before the people of this city, which have been temporarily settled, but which will arise for reconsideration should a majority of the next Council be controlled by the local "machine." I wish to state my standing on those questions, viz.: First, high license; second, restriction of saloons, and third, the municipal control of the water supply.

The fee of $1,000 which the present Council has passed for the minimum license fee has my hearty approval, and should not be reduced.

The passing of the ordinance restricting the selling of liquor in certain districts and the keeping of saloons out of the residential sections of our city has also my hearty approval. This ordinance will certainly be rescinded by the next Council if the "machine" can get sufficient number of votes to do so. I stand by the ordinance with my whole heart.

The municipal ownership of the water supply. This question is now in abeyance, but will undoubtedly come before the people before long. I believe absolutely that the city should own and conduct its own water supply. I cannot go into this matter fully at present writing, but I take the stand I do on the ground that I believe the water can be supplied to the public at least at half the present cost and still have revenue to pay interest on the cost of the plant and a surplus besides.

This is my position on these questions. Adding to this I would say that our city should be governed honestly, economically and in justice to all without fear or favor.

Respectfully,
ANSON WILLIS ANDERSON.

ELIZABETH PYTHIANS PROTEST DRILL AWARD

DISSATISFIED WITH JUDGING OF LABOR DAY COMPETITION.

Unity Company, Knights of Pythias, of Elizabeth, at a special meeting Wednesday night in Turn hall, by a unanimous vote decided to send a written protest to Brigadier-General Hitchcock objecting to the award of first prize to Palestine Company, of Jersey City, in the competition drill which was held at the annual Pythian Field Day exercises at Hillside Park in Newark Labor Day. Unity Company was awarded third prize.

There were three companies of the uniform ranks in the competitive military drill, which was a feature of the field exercises, following the parade during the morning. They were Palestine, of Jersey City; Freehold, of Freehold, and Unity of Elizabeth. Each one of them was given thirty minutes in which to go through a stipulated set of military maneuvers, consisting of marching, countermarching, various formations and calisthenics. Three judges, Major George Smith, of Manhattan; Captain J. A. Wignall, of Bridgeport, and Major J. H. Deskin, of Brooklyn, followed the competing company about the field and determined the comparative excellence of the drills on a point system. More than 1,000 persons watched the Pythians go through their evolutions.

The drill over, Major Smith announced to Brigadier General William E. Hitchcock that the judges had decided in favor of Palestine Company for first place, with 535 points. Freehold Company was awarded second place with 525 points, and Unity Company third with 514 points. In announcing the decision of the judges, Major Smith said:

"The judges were unanimous in considering Unity Company's drill the best of the three, but the fact that the captain omitted four movements caused a deduction of points, which placed them third. It was agreed upon before the drill began that Palestine Company, of Jersey City, be allowed to compete with only fifteen instead of sixteen men in the company; therefore we did not discount any points on this account."

Brigadier General Hitchcock then presented the captains of the three competing companies with checks of $50, $30 and $20, respectively. Captain Bill, of Jersey City; Captain Davis, of Freehold, and Captain Frederick, of Elizabeth, were the recipients.

When the members of Unity Company learned of the decision there was a furor. The local knights decided that they had known of no agreement by which Palestine Company was to be permitted to drill with one man less than the other companies. Their protest was made before the judges and the brigadier general. The latter assured the malcontents that justice had been exercised in the decision.

The $20 check will be returned to the grand council without further ado. Captain Frederick joined his men in the protest, but no action was taken by the brigadier general to annul the judges' decision.

"Horrid" Post Cards from Asbury.

Postoffice Inspector Cortelyou has more than fifty postal cards seized at the Jersey City postoffice, and is making an investigation with a view to ascertaining who the senders were and proceeding against them for violating the law. It is said many Richard Roe and John Doe warrants have been issued, and arrests are expected. The objectionable cards were mailed from summer resorts, principally Asbury Park. Few are signed. Hundreds of the cards have been confiscated.

Misses Lulu Beekman and May Koller have returned after spending some time in the Pocono Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Ely have just returned from a pleasant outing in the Catskill Mountains. While there they stopped at the Vista.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Sept. 10: "What is Practical Christianity?"—Jas. ii, 14-26.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

"As the body apart from the spirit is dead, even so faith apart from works is dead."

There are various views as to what constitutes real religion. Some make the all important thing to be what is believed. The doctrines held must be right or one cannot be saved, they think. Creeds are with them the test of one's religious character.

Another view is from the emotional side of the nature and places emphasis on how one feels toward God and things of righteousness. This runs through all grades from fanatical ecstasy to the depths of purest devotional affection. Stress is laid on the fact that all actions derive moral value not from the outward form of the deed, but from the inner motive or intention of the doer.

Some give scant recognition to either matters of belief or heart devotion and put the whole of religion in the doing of works of mercy to the needy. All grades and shades of helpfulness are recognized in some ways and with varying valuations. Some would not dare pass the tin cup in the hand of a blind beggar without putting a coin in it any more than some others would sit at table with thirteen or see the new moon over the left shoulder.

There is an element of truth in each of these three classes of opinions. But neither one is the whole truth. Overemphasis of either may be dangerous error, since a half truth is often the blackest of lies.

James calls attention to the fact that our doing and saying must correspond to be genuine. Sympathy that is exhausted in weeping and never helps to dry the tears of others is of little use to any one. The charity that covers a multitude of sins is not the kind that is dumb when a wrong should be exposed and punished, but is gentle when an error has been discovered and gives all assistance to get the erring one back into the right way.

It is true that words and feelings which do not pass into acts accomplish no substantial work for others, but it is equally true that no gifts can do the highest good unless they are bestowed with discrimination and accompanied with deep interest in the welfare of the one on whom they are bestowed. Not alms, but a friend, is the great need of nearly every one who is in any need. If thou wilt give me aught that thou hast, give me thyself or else give me naught.

But no one truly gives from the heart desire to benefit another unless he has arrived at some conception of his relation to the one whom he would befriend. He may never have put his belief into the form of words, but he has got hold of a truth that is shaping his life and is in effect the most essential of creeds.

What is practical Christianity? It is to see with the clearest possible vision things as they really are, see them in some sort as God sees them, not so widely and deeply and fully, to be sure—that were impossible to man—but to see them correctly, so far as human sight goes, and with ever increasing clearness of vision, and at the same time to feel the relation of things to oneself and their relations to each other—in fact, to be affected in soul by their varying phases, to feel tears when others suffer and to feel the shouting inside one's own self when they achieve success.

Besides and beyond all this, it is to throw all the strength into the lifting of every weight and carrying every burden that comes by duty to be done, and doing it gladly as the natural thing to do.

Is this all? No, by no means.

All this can be done and the deepest and best still be left out. The real center of all lies in the deep inner consciousness of personal fellowship with Jesus Christ in His age long task of lifting this world into companionship with Himself and God the Father.

The essential thing is the abiding inner comradeship with Him who is the Son of man and so the Son of God. Whoever has this comes to know and feel and do the works of God. The eternal life dwells in him and works out through him.

Such a one does not live so much by rules of morality and outward law as by the ever unfolding inner life. He does not defraud in business and even up things by great gifts to benevolent causes. In all his ways he seeks to know and do God's will, whether it is business, home life, society, church or politics.

Can a man live thus? Many professing Christians do not, but if one will be a true Christian this is the path for him to tread. It is straight, but it is the only true track. Better take it, whether any one else does or not. Christ went this way, and we know it leads home.

Living by God's Will.

The one and only law of life that sets a man free from all the forces that blight and destroy is the will of God. Show me a man who lives for one day wholly in word and thought and deed in the will of God and I will show you a man who is antedating heaven and who for that day reaches the plane of life which is at once broadest, freest and gladdest.—Campbell Morgan.

A Prayer.

Grant us, O Lord, the grace to bear
The little pricking thorn,
The hasty word that seems unfair,
The twang of truths well worn,
The jest that makes our weakness plain,
The daring plan o'erturned,
The careless touch upon our pain,
The slight we have not earned,
The rasp of care, dear Lord, today,
Lest all these fretting things
Make needless grief, oh, give us, pray,
The heart that trusts and sings.
—Scranton Tribune.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 10.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—What is practical Christianity?—Jas. ii, 14-26.

In discussing the topic which we have before us it is well to remember that there is no such thing as practical Christianity separate and apart from doctrinal Christianity. On this point many people have been confused, and many are still so even today. To some Christianity is faith only and to others it is works only. But both of these classes make a serious mistake. There can be no Christian faith unless it inspires Christian work, nor can there be Christian work unless it is based upon faith. Christianity may be said to be composed of two principal parts—faith and work, or doctrine and practice. Practical Christianity is always based upon doctrinal Christianity. We do because we believe. Mere doing is not Christianity, nor is mere believing. Christianity is believing and doing.

Practical Christianity properly understood includes several important factors. (1) It stands for a consistent Christian life. The man who professes to have faith must live in accordance with that confession or he proves thereby that he is not a Christian. He must be honest, upright, sober, virtuous in his dealings with men and faithful to all the duties which he owes to God. Honesty alone does not make a Christian, but the Christian must be honest or his claim to Christianity is a false claim. The moralist is not necessarily a Christian, but the Christian must always be moral. The difference is that Christian morality must be based upon faith in Christ and inspired by Him. (2) Practical Christianity is philanthropic in character. A Christian must not only lead a clean personal life, but he must "love his neighbor as himself." He must be willing to "do unto others as he would have others do unto him." He must have a sympathetic heart for all in need and when able extend to them a helping hand. Christianity in actual practice is never selfish, but always most unselfish. Christ came not "to be ministered unto, but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many," and the disciple must follow the example of his Master. No matter how much religion a man may claim to have, if he refuses to help the needy he has no religion, doctrinal or any other kind. The man who truly believes will not say to those in want, "Depart in peace; be ye warmed and filled," but instead he will give what is necessary to bring about what he desires. Christ practiced the doctrines of His religion. So must every Christian. Faith without works is dead, and so is work without faith. Faith and works make a Christian.

A Japanese Endeavorer.

Rev. J. H. Pettee, D. D., is treasurer of the Japan Christian Endeavor Union and English editor of the Endeavoror, the official Japanese publication. Christian Endeavorers in Japan owe a large debt to Dr. Pettee by reason of his untiring efforts. He came to Japan twenty-six years ago as an American board missionary and has resided in Okayama for twenty-five years. Besides his two offices as treasurer of the Japan Christian Endeavor Union and English editor of the Endeavorer, he himself superintends three Christian Endeavor societies of students and, with the help of Mrs. J. H. Pettee, who also herself superintends two Christian Endeavor societies of young girls, he makes his home a center of this movement for Christ and the church at Okayama. Dr. Pettee is also chairman this year of the Missionary Association of Central Japan, which holds its session at Osaka. Dr. Pettee and Dr. Clark were classmates.—T. Sawaya.

Comfort Ye One Another.

Try in your sorrow to comfort another. The sweet, comforting sound will re-echo back to yourself and gladden your own heart when you least expect it. When your Lord seems to call you nearer to Himself by a way that is difficult and painful to flesh and blood ought you not to rejoice in that difficulty, to be glad of that very pain, because it gives you the opportunity of proving to yourself and manifesting to Him that, whatsoever it may cost you, follow Him you will; that you care not how loud the storm is or how heavy if He is but walking on the water; you care not how hard the race is if He be but beckoning to you from the goal?

China's Progress.

The first society is reported in the rapidly growing mission work in Hunan province. A new society is reported at Shansi, the idea of it being brought from Peking by a military office, the head of the governor's bodyguard and a newly baptized convert of the English Baptist mission.—Rev. George W. Hinman.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

CAUSE OF FAMILY DESERTIONS.

It has been proven by statistics that the many family desertions are caused mostly by men. The ease-loving man, who thinks of his own comfort first, and who thinks he is justified in making arrangements to suit his own comfort during hard times, is the cause of most of the desertions, says the New York Tribune in discussing Miss Brandt's essay entitled "Family Desertion."

In almost two-thirds of the 386 cases in which explanations were available the reports of the charity workers indicate that the man was chiefly to blame. In about 12 per cent. the disruption seems to have been chiefly the wife's fault, and in 13 per cent. the man and woman appear to have been equally to blame. In almost 12 per cent. the immediate responsiblity is said to have lain in circumstances outside the control of both. In only three cases were the men found to be genuinely incapacitated for supporting their families—two by serious illness and one by the loss of his sight.

"These," says Miss Brandt, "are the only clear examples among the 574 cases of the 'hundreds and hundreds' of men who are popularly supposed to be driven to the desperate measure of relieving their wives and children of the disadvantage of their presence in order that the public shall see to it that they do not suffer."

The circumstances of desertion were in some cases extremely shocking. Twenty-two men left behind them sickness or death; in one house the baby had just died, in another one was dying; in two the children were ill, in two others both wife and children, and in sixteen the wife was seriously ill. One of these women was left dying of consumption, without food or care, and another, almost dead from abuse inflicted on her return from the hospital, where she had been undergoing a serious operation, was left alone in the house just after a dispossess notice had been served.

One hunderd men, almost a third of the whole number, left a short time before, or just after the birth of a child, and many were in the habit of doing this.

A striking feature of the statistics is the large amount of looseness they reveal in the marriage relation. This was found to be the most prominent element in the breaking up of the family in 110 cases. Fifty-three of the men left their wives for another woman, although one continued to make a weekly contribution to the original family, carrying it to them in person. Only seventeen women were accused of this particular fault, and in four of these cases the evidence was not sufficient to convict them.

Intemperance is not conspicuous among the causes of desertion, although 325 of the men and forty-three of the women were reported as "hard drinkers." This may have been because the intemperance was lost sight of in more serious faults.

Differences of religion are assigned in several cases as contributing causes to the disruption of the family. In one case the wife was a Salvation Army officer, and her husband grew weary of her active interest in his spiritual welfare.

The behavior of the deserted wives sustains the feeling of sympathy for them that is created by the statistics relative to the causes of desertion. Three hundred and twenty out of 574 had contributed something to the support of the family before desertion, and 236 went to work afterward, sometimes completely ruining their health thereby. One woman brought about the arrest and trial of her husband on the charge of bigamy. When he was sentenced to three years she felt square with him for all he had made her suffer. Another secured a divorce and an order for the payment to her of $7 a week alimony. Such vigorous measures were, however, exceptional. Patience and endurance seem to have been the usual role, and in about half the cases the families became more or less dependent on charity. In only forty-nine cases was the man compelled to resume complete or partial support of his family.

Of later history of the men little is known. Thirty-five were reunited to their families, and 200 were known to have had some communication with them after leaving home. Sometimes the children said that their father came to see them when their mother was away. One man returned just long enough to "enjoy the luxury of a fight." Another had the pleasing habit of breaking into the house periodically at night and threatening his wife.

Of a large proportion of the cases Miss Brandt believes that they go to form the floating, dependent population of the cities. "If the truth could be known," she says, "it would be found that many of the apparently unattached men who fill the free lodgings and make up the 'bread lines' are really deserting husbands, who create a double problem by leaving their families dependent at home and casting themselves on charity in some other place."

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Sampson and son Malcolm, of Westervelt avenue, have returned home from a few weeks' stay at Neversink, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lewin and daughters, of Watchung avenue, have returned home from Tafton, Pa., where they have been spending some time.

IN THE BISHOP'S CARRIAGE

By MIRIAM MICHELSON

CHAPTER XII.

WHEN Obermuller sent for me I thought he wanted to see me about that play he's writing in which I'm to star—when the pigs begin to fly.

Funniest thing in the world about that man, Mag. He knows he can't get bookings for any play on earth; that if he did they'd be canceled and any old excuse thrown at him, as soon as Tausig heard of it and could put on the screws. He knows that there isn't an unwatched hole in theatrical America through which he can crawl and pull me and the play in after him. And yet he just can't let go working on it. He loves it, Mag; he loves it as Molly loved that child of hers that kept her nursing it all the years of its life, and left her feeling that the world had been robbed of everything there was for a woman to do when it died.

Obermuller has told me all the plot. In fact, he's worked it out on me. I know it as it is, as he wanted it to be, and as it's going to be. He tells me he's built it up about me; that it will fit me as never a comedy fitted a player yet, and that we'll make such a hit—the play and I together—that . . .

And then he remembers that there's no chance; not the ghost of one; and he falls to swearing at the Trust.

"Don't you think, Mr. O.," I said, as he began again when I came into his office, "that it might be as well to quit cursing the syndicate till you've got something new to say or something different to rail about? It seems to me a man's likely to get daffy if he keeps harping on—"

"Oh, I've got it all right, Nance, be sure of that! I've got something different to say of them and something new to swear about. They've done me up; that's all. Just as they've fixed Iringer and Gaffney and Howison."

"THEY'VE DONE ME UP."

"Tell me."

He threw out his arms and then let them fall to his side.

"Oh, it's easy," he cried, "so easy that I never thought of it. They've just bought the Vaudeville out of hand and served notice on me that when my lease expires next month they'll not be able to renew it, 'unfortunately!' That's all. No; not quite. In order to kill all hope of a new plan in me they've just let it go to be understood that any man or woman that works for Obermuller needn't come round to them at any future time."

"Phew! A blacklist."

"Not anything so tangible. It's just a hint, you know, but it works all right. It works like—"

"What are you going to do; what can you do?"

"Shoot Tausig or myself, or both of us."

"Nonsense!"

"Yes, of course, it's nonsense, or rather it's only what I'd like to do. . . . But that's not the question. Never mind about me. It's what are you going to do?"

He looked straight at me, waiting. But I didn't answer. I was thinking.

"You don't realize, Nance, what those fellows are capable of. When Gaffney told me, before he gave up and went west, that there was a genuine signed conspiracy among them to crush out us independents, I laughed at him. 'It's a dream, Gaffney,' I said. 'Forget it.' 'It's no dream, as you'll find out when your turn comes in time,' he shouted. 'It's a fact, and what's more Iringer once taxed Tausig to his face with it; told him he knew there was such a document in existence, signed by the great Tausig himself, by Heffelfinger, of the Pacific circuit; by Dixon, of Chicago, and Weinstock, of New Orleans, binding themselves to force us fellows to the wall, and specifying the per cent. of profit each one of 'em should get on any increase of business; to blacklist every man and woman that worked for us; to buy up our debts and even bring false attachments, when—"

"Now, weren't there enough real debts to satisfy 'em? They're hard to please, if you haven't creditors enough to suit 'em!"

He looked grim, but he didn't speak.

"I don't believe it, anyway, Mr. O.; and 'tisn't good for you to keep thinking about just one thing. You'll land where Iringer did, if you don't look out. How did he know about it, anyway?"

"There was a leak in Tausig's office. Iringer used to be in with them, and he had it from a clerk who—but never mind that. It's the blacklisting I'm talking about now. Gray's just been in to see me, to let me know that she quits at the end of the season. And his Lordship, too, of course. You're not burdened with a contract, Nance. Perhaps you'd better think it over seriously for a day or two and decide if it wouldn't be best—"

"I don't have to," I interrupted then.

"Nance!" he cried, jumping up, as though he'd been relieved of half his troubles.

"I don't have to think it over," I went on slowly, not looking at the hand he held out to me. "It doesn't take long to know that when you're between the devil and the deep sea, you'd better try the devil rather than be forced out into the wet."

"What?—you don't mean—"

I knew he was looking at me incredulously, but I just wouldn't meet his eyes.

"My staying with you will do you no good—" I was hurrying now to get it over with—"and it would do me a lot of harm. I think you're right, Mr. Obermuller; I'd better just go over to where it's warm. They'll be glad to get me and—and, to tell the truth, I'll be glad to get in with the syndicate, even if I can't make as good terms as I might have by selling that contract, which—like the famous conspiracy you're half mad about—never existed."

He sat down on the edge of the desk. I caught one glimpse of his face. It was black; that was enough for me. I turned to go.

"Ah, but it did, Miss Olden, it did!" he sneered.

"I won't believe it on the word of a man that's been in the lunatic asylum ever since he lost his theater."

"Perhaps you'll believe it on mine."

I jumped. "On yours!"

"Didn't that little bully, when he lost his temper that day at the Van Twiller, when we had our last fight—didn't he pull a paper out of his box and shake it in my face, and—"

"But—you could have them arrested for conspiracy and—"

"And the proof of it could be destroyed and then—but I can't see how this interests you."

"No—no," I said, thoughtfully. "I only happened to lump it in with the contract we haven't—you and I. And as there's no contract, why there's no need of my waiting till the end of the season."

"Do you mean to say you'd—you'd—"

"If 'twere done, 'twere better it'd be done quickly," I said, Macbethically.

He looked at me. Sitting there on his desk, his clenched fist on his knee, he looked for a moment as though he was about to fly at me. Then all of a sudden he slipped into his chair, leaned back and laughed.

JEWISH HOLIDAY SEASON SOON HERE

OPENS WITH ROSH HASHONAH OR NEW YEAR ON SEPT. 29.

People of the Jewish faith all over the world are awaiting the approach of the holiday season, which will begin September 29, with Rosh Hashonah, or the New Year, and terminate with the Feast of Tabernacles. Ten days after the opening of the New Year occurs the Day of Atonement, the most solemn of all the Jewish holidays. The days intervening between New Year and Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement, are known as days of repentance leading up to the solemn Kippur fast. Then comes the Soccoth festival, or Feast of Tabernacles, a harvest festival, which is a season of rejoicing and thanksgiving for the blessings of an abundant harvest. This brings to a conclusion the autumn festival season.

The New Year festival is one of solemn meaning to the pious Jew, and second only to the observance of the Day of Atonement. The festival is almost universally observed, and is the occasion of many family reunions. Business is generally suspended.

The biblical precept for Rosh Hashonah is found in numbers, xxix, 1, and reads as follows:

"And in the seventh month on the first day of the month ye shall have an holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work; it is a day of blowing the trumpets unto you."

The blowing of the shofar, or ram's horn, is a distinctive feature of the New Year's service. The sounding of the shofar, it is taught, is to make public proclamation that the Creator of the universe is the God of Israel; to admonish all to forsake their evil ways and return to him and repent, and to remind the people of Israel of the law given to them on Mount Sinai, during which, as found in the Bible, "The sound of the shofar was exceedingly loud." Among the reformed Jews a cornet takes the place of the ancient ram's horn.

A quaint custom among the very orthodox Jews is that known as Tashlich. They go to the riverside on the afternoon of the second day of the New Year festival, and empty their pockets and shake their garments over the water. This typifies the casting of the sins of the people into the sea.

VOORHEES HEAD.

Ex-Governor Chairman of Franchise Commission.

Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees has been elected chairman of the committee which was appointed by Governor Stokes to investigate the question of limited franchises for public utility corporations, at a meeting held by the committee.

It was decided at a meeting yesterday to consult the mayors of various cities and get their opinions on the subject and also learn what the other States have done in the line of limiting franchises.

Financiers will be asked as to the relative value, as investments, of unlimited franchises to determine what effect restrictive legislation might be expected to have in the development of the resources of the State.

The committee will also give a public hearing to assist it in its work.

The commission had a long conference with the Governor after its meeting.

SAVED TWO YOUNG WOMEN.

Girls Were Rowing on Lake Hopatcong When Boat Capsized.

Miss Laura P. Harper and Miss Jennie C. Perkins, of Newark, were saved Monday afternoon from drowning in Lake Hoptacong by Arthur Sanford and Raymond Tuttle, of Hoboken.

The young women are spending their vacation with relatives at Breezy Point and went on the lake for a row. In some way the boat capsized and both were thrown into the water.

Miss Perkins seized the boat and screamed for help, while her companion sank. Tuttle, a popular Stevens Institute athlete, was fishing with his friend and heard the cries for help. He and Sanford swiftly rowed to the upturned boat and with a few vigorous strokes brought both young women to shore. Miss Harper seriously suffered from swallowing considerable water.

The young men received many congratulations for their rescue.

Mrs. James T. MacMurray, of Sandford avenue, has returned from Ocean Grove, where she has been sojourning for a number of weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Minford, formerly of Watchung avenue, but late of New York, have returned here and are stopping at Truell Court for a time.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue, are expected home today from their summer outing, and Dr. Chambliss expects to take charge of the prayer meeting at the First Baptist church tonight.

SCHOOLS OPEN SEPT. 12.

Fall Sessions Announcement in Borough.

The schools in the borough will reopen for the fall and winter months on Tuesday morning, September 12. Pupils of the Grammar and High School departments will be in their rooms at 8:20 and those of the primary grades and kindergartents at 9 o'clock in the morning. The supervising principal will be in his office at the Somerset street school on Monday, September 11, between the hours of 9 and 12 o'clock in the morning, and from 2 to 4 o'clock in the afternoon to receive and classify new pupils.

A special examination will be held for pupils who failed to pass the High School entrance examination in arithmetic last June. Pupils will present themselves for this examination at 10 o'clock on Monday morning, September 11, in the High School rooms.

WANTS AN INJUNCTION.

Mr. Hooley Wished to Prevent Dam Being Rebuilt.

Because of the great amount of damage to his property by reason of the flood during the heavy rains of Saturday, Sunday and Monday, a large part of which he claims was due to the breaking of Herrmann's dam in the Notch, E. S. Hooley, of the borough, will apply to Chancellor Magie today for an injunction restraining Mr. Herrmann from rebuilding this dam.

This dam, which was about 150 feet long and ten feet high, held back a large body of water, and as soon as it gave way the water rushed like a river through the property before it, causing thousands of dollars' worth of damage.

Politicians to Play Baseball.

Elizabeth, Sept. 7.—The fourth annual baseball game between the Democrats and the Republicans here will be played Saturday on the Star grounds. A meeting will be held tonight for the purpose of making final arrangements and fixing batting orders. The other three games of the series will be played September 14 and 21. The Republicans won the pennant last year and also in 1903.

HAMILTON LOSES HIS JOB

Special Officer Who Aided In Goff Raid "Gets Notice" at the Safe Works.

EMPLOYES DEMAND

Asserted to Officials They Would Not Work With a "Squealer"—Councilman Bullock's Letter.

Though officials at the works would neither affirm or deny the report, it is stated on good authority today that Special Officer Peter Hamilton, who aided Councilmen Tyler and Bullock in their raid on Goff's hotel Sunday night, had been given notice that his services would no longer be needed at the Manganese Steel Safe Company's plant after tonight. It is also understood that his dismissal was demanded by other employes of the plant, who declared that they would not work with a "squealer." They held an indignation meeting yesterday and a petition to this effect was gotten up and signed for presentation to Superintendent Gesswein.

When a Daily Press reporter called the works on the telephone this noon, a Mr. White declared he know nothing about the affair. He said he would inquire about it, but when called later he would neither say yes or no as to whether Hamilton had been discharged.

Hamilton has been working at the plant since he was dropped from regular patrol duty a short time ago. He held Chief Kiely responsible for the police committee's refusal to have him confirmed, and his assistance in the Goff affair has been taken as a "get back." While previous to the raid he had held the sympathy of the men at the Manganese plant, they looked upon his action as stabbing friends in order to strike an enemy, and their outspoken opinion led to his notice of dismissal.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Peter Hamilton has lost his job.

So far as known no statement was made that his work was unsatisfactory or that business was dull in his department at the Safe Works.

Hamilton is a special officer. His connection with the Sunday night raid on John Goff's West Front street saloon was that of a policeman in the discharge of his duty.

Less than three days after this occurrence Hamilton is discharged from a position which he has held for months.

From another source, on the same day, Hamilton is told of a nice house in North Plainfield which he can rent at a reasonable figure, and is further assured that friendly influences are at work in an effort to secure his speedy appointment on the borough police force.

Judging from surface indications, a citizen might be pardoned for believing that powerful influences are at work in Plainfield decidedly inimical to law, order and good government.

WILLIAM S. BULLOCK.

Thieves Rob Freight House.

Whitehouse, Sept. 7.—For the second time within as many months the freight house of the New Jersey Central Railroad at Whitehouse Station was visited by burglars Tuesday night and thoroughly ransacked. The thieves affected an entrance by forcing a window. Shoes, condensed milk and other articles were strewn about and a quantity taken. It is not possible to determine just what the robbers did get. The thieves are believed to be a gang that has been operating successfully in this section for a long time.

Contracts Filed.

The following contracts have recently been filed with the county clerk at Elizabeth: James E. Goodwin, of Fanwood, with J. Sherwood & Brother, house at Goodman's Cross, $4,100; Joseph D. Phillips, Plainfield, with Henry H. Hoffman, house on Denmark road, $5,000; Roth & Co., Plainfield, with William C. Smith, barn on East Front street, $1,662.50; Mary E. Stutz, Plainfield, with Learing & Hoffman, house on West Third street, $1,350.

Mr. Demarest's Funeral.

The body of Peter M. Demarest, who died in Syracuse, N. Y., Tuesday, will arrive in Plainfield tonight. The funeral servicse will be held at the grave in Hillside cemetery tomorrow afternoon and will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck.

Manning Reunion.

The annual Manning family reunion was held yesterday at Chimney Rock, just back of Bound Brook. About twenty-five members of the family, all from this vicinity, were present and a good sociable time was enjoyed. Many Plainfielders were present.

—Michael F. Watson, of Grant avenue, is having a new double house erected on West Second street at a cost of $7,000. John McNally is doing the carpentering and Cormack Caulfield the mason work.

Miss Dorothy Clement, of Central avenue, has returned from a visit to friends in Brooklyn.

SUNDAY GOLF, MAYBE, AT COUNTRY CLUB

REPORT THAT FIGHT WILL BE MADE FOR IT.

There is a movement on foot, according to a well-founded rumor, to open the Plainfield Country Club and course on Sunday or a part of Sunday, for the informal play of golf. It will be remembered that this question was put to a vote at a meeting of the club held at the Casino some time ago and was defeated, but it is understood that a majority of the members now favor having the course and club open for at least a part of Sunday.

It is said that a special meeting of the club will be held soon when the members will be given an opportunity to vote on the question. This action, if taken, will be on the part of members other than officers. The officials of the club, it is said, will not be the ones to introduce the question or urge its adoption.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. and Mrs. L. R. Howard, of West Fifth street, have returned from Asbury Park.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue, returned home yesterday from their summer outing.

Commencing on Sunday, the Sunday school of Faith chapel will meet at 3 o'clock in the afternoon instead of the morning, as during the summer season.

Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, president of Union College, will occupy the pulpit of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church on Sunday. The offering at the morning service will be for missions in Mexico and South America.

The Sunday night services have been resumed at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, the pastor, will be in his pulpit on Sunday, September 17, and the Lord's Supper will be observed on Sunday, September 24.

SHRINERS' BIG DAY.

Plainfielders Attend Salaam Temple Celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Woolston were among those who attended the celebration given by Salaam Temple, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles Mystic Shrine, held in Olympic Park, Newark, yesterday afternoon and last night. They made the trip to and from Newark in Mr. Woolston's automobile, the eighteen miles each way being made in thirty minutes.

During the afternoon the Shriners engaged in games of all kinds, and in the evening there was a banquet, at which time 1,200 were seated at one time. This was followed with amusements of various kinds, including a performance of "Faust."

Big Production Coming.

Manager W. J. Counihan, of the New Plainfield theatre, was in New York yesterday, arranging for the appearance of several big productions at the local playhouse. Incidentally he viewed the performance of "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" and pronounces it to be one of the best he has ever seen. The company comprises ninety-six people, every one of whom will come direct from New York to Plainfield next Monday night. In addition it carries the Vassar Ladies' Orchestra, numbering twelve skilled women musicians.

Tennis at Country Club.

The annual tournament in women's singles at the Plainfield Country Club was started this morning. There were twelve entries, the greater part of the first round being completed this morning. The second round will be played this afternoon, the semi-finals tomorrow and the finals Saturday.

September Missionary Meeting.

The quarterly meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, was held yesterday afternoon in the lecture room of the church, Mrs. Chambliss presiding. The distribution of the programmes for the winter's study of Africa was commenced.

Want Enlarged Orchestra.

Leader Martin A. Korff, of the Y. M. C. A. orchestra, is seeking to enlarge the organization for the next season. It is hoped to make the orchestra the biggest and most successful organization of its kind the city has ever had. The first rehearsal will be held next Monday night.

Colby's New Auto.

A $11,000 automobile has been purchased by Everett Colby, the Essex Assemblyman, who is making a great campaign for the Senatorial nomination in defiance of the Essex County Republican Machine. Colby may intend to use it for campaign purposes.

Death of Mrs. Woodson.

Mrs. Elizabeth Woodson, colored, died this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Jones, of West Third street. The funeral will be held from Mount Olive Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

—Neuman Brothers keep pace with the canning season by offering the best peaches, white and yellow fruit, at prices lower than anywhere else in the city. Consignments received each day.

Miss Malvina P. Rittenhouse, of Lebanon, will teach the upper second grade, being a graduate of the Trenton Normal school. She taught last year in the Allendale, N. Y., schools.

Elizabeth K. Conkling will teach the lower second class. She is a graduate of the Trenton Normal school. For the past two years she has beeen teaching at Bound Brook and Flemington.

GILES' CONDITION CRITICAL.

Outcome of Injuries Received in Gas Explosion Still in Doubt.

The authorities at Muhlenberg Hospital today reported the condition of Lincoln S. Giles, of East Second street, injured in the terrific gas explosion at Trainor's grocery, Westfield, as being about the same as when first received at the institution. He is frightfully burned from head to foot and the physicians declare the outcome will be in doubt for a day or so yet. Giles' clothes were torn from his body by the force of the explosion and he was hurled upward from the cellar to the ground floor. His escape from instant death is considered little short of miraculous.

Milton Barkalew, of Duer street, the other Plainfielder injured in the accident, has fully recovered. He sustained sever cuts about the head from flying debris and suffered from shock.

Will Play the Rubber.

Andrew McCardell's Pond Tool Works baseball team will go to Elizabeth Saturday to play the third game with the team from the Singer shop. The locals will be accompanied by a large following of rooters. Both teams have one game to their credit, and they will bend every energy to get the "rubber."

COUNTY CONVENTION CALL

Chairman Smith, of Republican Committee, Issues the Formal Notice For Oct. 5.

JUST 142 DELEGATES

Threatened Disruption Has All Lifted and Only Fight Will be Over the Shrievalty Nomination.

County Chairman Frank H. Smith, of the Union County Republican Committee, has issued the formal call for the county convention which will take place at Elizabeth on October 5. It is to take place at Jacobs' theatre beginning at 3 o'clock, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the office of State senator, a candidate for the office of sheriff, three candidates for members of Assembly and a candidate for coroner. There are to be 142 delegates, of whom twenty-seven will be Plainfielders.

This convention is the one that was looked forward to with a great deal of interest some months ago when booms for different personages began to be fostered. Then the wise ones told their friends to keep an eye out for some fighting that would make things hum when the county seers gathered together in convention deliberations. It was freely prophesied by the ever-abundant individuals who claim to get things from the inside and to get them right, that the contest within the walls of the convention hall would be truly Homeric, and would send forth to the polls a divided Republican party, while gleeful county Democrats again culled victory from the factionalism of their opponents.

For a time the prophets seemed to be right. There were indications of a split that might promise the war of crimination between Elizabeth and Plainfield which spelled Democratic success. Then the bottom was taken out of this prospect by the voluntary retirement of City Judge William N. Runyon in favor of Ernest R. Ackerman for State senator. That was the first step in the direction of harmony and it was followed by others in the assembly and shrievalty race that brought complete harmony with but one exception. There are still three men who believe they should succeed Sheriff B. Frank Coriell and their contention may lead to the only ripple on the surface of the convention sea.

The aspirants are Captain Robert Kirkland, of Elizabeth; Emmor K. Adams, of Cranford, and Dr. Lawrence, of Summit. It is understood that the Summit delegation will not be solid for Lawrence and the other two are picking up hope from this dissension. At present the chances seem to be about even. There is a faint rumor to the effect that Rahway has been doing a little quiet work in connection with the shrievalty nomination and may come to the convention primed with a candidate.

The number of delegates to the convention have ben apportioned according to the election districts as follows:

Elizabeth, 62; Plainfield: First ward, 6; Second ward, 6; Third ward, 6; Fourth ward, 9; Rahway, 12; Summit, 8; Westfield, 8; Cranford, 5; Union township, 3; Clark, 1; Fanwood, 2; Linden, 1; New Providence, 1; Springfield, 1; Fanwood borough, 1; Garwood borough, 1; Linden borough, 1; Mountainside, 1; New Providence borough, 1; Roselle borough, 3; Roselle Park borough, 2.

TOMORROW'S GAME.

Westfield Strengthens Its Lineup for Championship Contest.

The seventh game for the county championship will be played at Recreation Park, tomorrow, between Plainfield and Westfield and the game will be of the red hot variety. Manager Denman has strengthened his aggregation. Jim Robinson, the former Fordham College star, has been secured to play right field. His position is first base, but as Joe Wahl is doing such good work there no change will be made. "Dude" McCormick, formerly of Holyoke, will play short stop. Flynn will be put back on second base. Of course, "Red" Waller will twirl and Cotter will be behind the rubber, and the rest of the lineup will be as of yore.

This will be the lineup:

Westfield—Bertwhistle, lf; Flynn 2b; Wahl, 1b; Mallen, cf; Barry, 3b; Robinson, rf; McCormick, ss; Cotter, c; Waller, p.

CHANGE BRIDGE PLANS TO HURRY THE WORK

Realizing that the proposed new bridge over Green brook on West End avenue could not be completed by November 1, according to the original plans, Frank J. Hubbard, civil engineer, has been authorized to make some changes in the design, which will not lessen the strength of the structure or change its attractiveness, but will make it possible to finish it on time.

It was originally planned to build an iron girder bridge, but after a conference with the contractors the freeholders were convinced that it would be impossible to get the girders and finish the bridge by the time limit. It was then decided that what is known as a iron plate bridge would answer every purpose, would allow the work to come within the appropriation of $7,500 and could be completed by November 1.

Mr. Hubbard is now engaged in changing the plans to meet the new conditions. This work will be completed in time for the meeting of the joint committee of freeholders on Tuesday afternoon, September 19, at 2:30 o'clock at the Hotel Iroquois.

The bridge will consist of two spans, as originally planned and will be 66-70 feet, and will be so constructed that the roadway can be extended to sixty-six feet, instead of fifty feet, eight feet being allowed at present on each side for walks. At the meeting to be held on September 19, bids will be received and the lowest bidder will receive the contract soon afterward so that the work of construction may be started as early as possible.

MEETINGS RESUMED BY Y. M. C. A. DIRECTORS

REPORTS FOR PAST TWO MONTHS RECEIVED—NEW SHOWERS ORDERED.

Preparation for the new year's work was begun by the board of directors of the Y. M. C. A. last night, when the first monthly meeting was held by that body since the summer suspension. Reports from all departments of the association were received, and a general discussion of the work to be accomplished in the next twelvemonth was held. Charles A. Boardman, the new physical director, was present, and Secretary Manning introduced him to the board.

Secretary Manning and Boys' Secretary Robbie made general reports on the work of the past two months. A. C. La Boyteaux reported for the religious work committee; Curtis M. Thorp for the boys' work committee, S. H. Tugwell for the membership committee, Nelson A. Runyon for the rooms committee, Dr. Norman H. Probasco for the physical work committee.

Among the minor bits of business transacted was the ordering of two new shower baths in the gymnasium. The new baths are to have improved valves for equalizing the flow of water and regulating the temperature.

An interesting period in the meeting was created by a report on the recent convention in New York by W. D. Murray, who is vice president of the international committee. Mr. Murray also spoke of his work at the secretarial conference at Silver Bay, N. Y., where he was one of the teachers.

Higham Favors New School.

In speaking of the lengthy petition received from Jacob Kriney, of West Front street, relative to a new public school in the Fourth ward, Councilman J. Stephen Higham, chairman of the public affairs committee, says that he hopes to make substantial progress in the matter this year. He says that the subject is not a new one to him, that he has been cognizant of the over-crowded condition of the Irving School which necessitated the lease of the Epworth House at Monroe Avenue M. E. church, and that there is an absolute need for another public school in the Fourth ward. Mr. Higham expects to report the petition back to the Common Council soon with a recommendation and he hopes that the new building will be a fact in the near future.

City Treasurer Obliging.

So that the employes who are on the city pay-roll might not be obliged to wait over the regular time and secure their monthly wages as usual, City Treasurer W. F. Arnold remained at the Common Council rooms Monday night to sign all of the bills after being audited by the councilmanic committee. It was after midnight when Mr. Arnold finished the work, but the city employes were able to get their money on Tuesday, as usual. This applied to all bills against the city, as well as for salaries.

REGULARS GET TOGETHER

Borough Good Government Club Reorganizes For the Coming Campaign.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Resolution Passed to Enforce Laws at the Coming Primaries—Many Names Added to Roster.

Preliminary campaign activity was commenced in earnest in the borough, last night, when the Good Government Club, the regular Republican organization, met in the headquarters on Somerset street, for the purpose of outlining plans for the coming primaries and election. Reorganization was first brought about by the election of Mayor N. B. Smalley as prseident; Alfred Tranchand, secretary, and W. W. Rowley, treasurer. A second meeting will be held tomorrow night and a further one Monday night, when an entertainment committee will conduct a smoker and provide for the welfare of the members. The club rooms will not be kept open until just previous to election.

The political situation in the borough was thoroughly discussed and remarks were made by Mayor Smalley, Charles A. Reed, Edwin S. Hooley and Clifford A. McGee, last named a councilmanic candidate from the First district. The gathering was exceptionally enthusiastic and and expressed opinion was that the Democratic and Citizens' dissensions boded good for the regulars. One of the most important matters brought up at the meeting was the determination to enforce the election laws at the coming primaries. A resolution was passed that challengers be appointed for the respective election districts and instructed to see that all persons offering to vote the Republican ticket intend to support the candidates on election day as required by law. The particular aim in this direction is to prevent the members of the Citizens' movement from taking a hand in a convention in which they do not propose to support its nominees.

There were over fifty voters at the meeting last night and the club's roster was afterward signed by the following:

J. R. Wilson, Edwin S. Hooley, George F. Brown, Thomas Doud, H. P. Greenwood, S. C. Mundy, M. C. VanArsdale, B. A. Paroubeck, John P. Emmons, Y. E. Mundy, Frank Schuck, W. W. Warnock, W. F. Williams, J. M. Smalley, A. McDonald, Edward P. T. Smith, Frank Rowley, H. A. Zimmerman, N. B. Smalley, W. M. F. Campbell, George Ball, D. W. King, William B. Emmons, E. H. Terry, H. F. Woolston, C. A. Reed.

CLAIMS PARK CLUB WALL ENCROACHES ON BROOK

COMMITTEE OF FREEHOLDERS APPOINTED TO INVESTIGATE.

At the September meeting of the Union county Board of Freeholders yesterday Freeholder William A. Westphal, of this city, informed the members that the Park Club is having a stone wall built along its property on Washington avenue, and that it encroaches twenty or twenty-five feet on the bed of Green brook. The stream makes a turn at this point, and there is a large area that is dry except during rain storms. The club's wall of logs has frequently been washed away and the stone wall is being put up with the idea of offering permanent resistance to the water. Director King, of the freeholders, appointed a committee, of which Mr. Westphal is chairman, to investigate the matter and report.

The bridge committee was also instructed to confer with the Somerset county Board of Freeholders relative to reconstructing the bridge near the stone quarry at Scotch Plains, which was wrecked during the recent flood.

Slept in Bad Place.

Robert Hart, very drunk and careless of consequences, lay down to sleep in front of a house on West Front street this noon. The house happened to be that of Roundsman Flynn, who was in bed at the time. Mrs. Flynn woke the roundsman up and he sent Hart to the station house in the patrol wagon.

NO OFFICIAL BALLOTS FOR INDEPENDENTS

Excitement in City Clerk's Office When J. T. MacMurray Quotes Law to C. L. Murphy

COUNCILMAN'S IRE UP

Anti-organization Men Fail to Give Notice and Lose Right to Procure Ballots—Candidate Attacks Clerk.

City Clerk James T. MacMurray refused the demand of Independent Republicans last night for a supply of official ballots, and as a result anti-organization men will be seriously handicapped at the primaries on Tuesday. Requests had been made by Councilmen Clarence Murphy and Theodore Wilson, as well as Collector Lee, two of whom are candidates for renomination, running as anti-machine men. According to the election laws, requisitions for official ballots made by any citizen must be honored by the city clerk on payment of the fee, provided they are made seven days before the primaries. Failure to give the notice in the required time robs the Independents of this privilege.

When Councilman Murphy asked City Clerk MacMurray last night for a quota of ballots, the latter declared that he had not received his request within the time limit and that he could not deliver them.

Mr. Murphy called on Councilman Wilson and Dr. A. W. Anderson, who were present, to witness that the ballots were not ready for distribution. The climax of the meeting between the leaders of the opposing forces was reached when Mr. Murphy said: "There is a power higher up who can fire you." Mr. MacMurray quickly retorted, "I know that, but you can't scare me."

At one stage of the discussion Mr. Murphy insinuated that there had been "graft" in the printing of the election ballots, but he apologized later for his remarks. The city clerk had told him that the ballots were $2.50 per thousand. "The newspaper told me that they are doing the work for $2.38 per thousand. Don't that look like graft?" he said.

"Do you mean to insinuate that I get anything out it?" was the quick answer of the city clerk. The apology was forthcoming.

Councilman Wilson had also made a request in writing for ballots, and he was also refused. On advice of his counsel, Charles A. Reed, City Clerk MacMurray answered the Second ward man's request by letter. It appears that the formal demands of Collector Lee and Councilman Murphy for tickets were in the shape of notices shoved in the clerk's desk and found there by him last night. Mr. Murphy claims that he visited the office Tuesday afternoon to deliver his formal request, but that no one was there and that he left his notice with the collector. The city clerk declares that he saw Mr. Murphy at the Common Council meeting Tuesday night, but that the latter did not mention his visit to the office.

When asked by a representative of The Daily Press today what course the Independents would pursue to get ballots, Mr. Murphy said: "We don't believe it necessary to seek the aid of the law. All we wish is that the voters know what the city clerk has done. If they think they can defeat us at the polls, why not give us a million ballots? As it is, they want to try and win this election on a technicality."

Collector Lee refused to say anything except that he would put the matter up to the delegates.

Mr. Mac Murray told a representative of The Daily Press today that Corporation Counsel Marsh had advised him that he was justified by the law in taking the position he had in the matter. He said, however, that inasmuch as Mr. Murphy declared he had attempted to file his application on Tuesday, he would supply him with the official ballots desired.

Following is the letter which Mr. MacMurray sent Councilman Wilson, a similar one having been delivered to Collector Lee:

Theodore D. Wilson, Esq.,
Plainfield, N. J.

Dear Sir:

I beg to acknowledge your notice dated September 7th, and delivered to me this day, enclosing a five-dollar bill, and requesting me as City Clerk to deliver to you two thousand (2,000) official ballots to be used at the primary election in the Second ward in the City of Plainfield, N. J., on Tuesday, September 12th, and to be apportioned as follows, viz.:

1,500 for the First district,
500 for the Second district,

I beg to call your attention to sec-

ADVOCATE SUNDAY GOLF

Prominent Men Sign Request For Special Meeting of Country Club,

TO VOTE ON IT

On September 19—An Amendment to the Constitution Proposed—Those Who Request Meeting.

As stated in yesterday's Daily Press, steps have been taken by the Plainfield Country Club to again consider the proposition to keep the golf course open Sunday afternoons for play. At the request of twenty-seven active members, a special meeting has been called for Tuesday evening, September 19, at the Casino, to vote on an amendment to Article IX of the club's constitution so that is reads as follows:

"Section 1. The use of alcoholic drinks in the clubhouse or on the grounds of the club is prohibited.

"Section 2. The clubhouse shall be closed on Sunday until 2 o'clock in the afternoon except for persons occupying rooms.

"Section 3. All play on the grounds of the club is prohibited on Sunday until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

"Section 4. Caddies shall not be allowed on the grounds of the club on Sunday. The object of this provision is to prohibit the employment for pay of any person as a caddie on Sunday, but it shall not be construed to prohibit members from caddying for each other. The caddie house shall be closed on Sunday."

It is necessary for only ten active members to make a request for a special meeting for a purpose of this nature but the one scheduled was called for by the following:

O. T. Waring, T. J. Mumford, J. C. Gilbert, A. E. Barclay, H. M. Stockton, M. S. Ackerman, O. G. Waring, William R. Cock, G. W. Endicott, Walter Gaston, Joseph W. Reinhart, A. F. H. Streuli, John Grierson, Charles A. Reed, Archibald Cox, Henry L. Hall, F. W. Butler, E. B. Shoemaker, Edward A. Cruikshank, Arthur L. Otterson, G. F. Earle, A. G. Hooley, Frederick H. Wills, W. T. Kaufman, Henry D. Hibbard, Edwin S. Hooley and G. G. Davidge.

The question of Sunday golf was discussed at length by the club two years ago and at that time was met with defeat when it was put to vote.

TROLLEY ATTACKS AUTO OF JUDGE CODINGTON

BUBBLE GETS WORST OF IT—JUDGE AVOIDS FRAY BY JUMPING.

Former City Judge W. A. Coddington's new touring car had its first tilt with a trolley cars yesterday afternoon, at Richmond and Second streets. The automobile got the worst of it. Judge Coddington got out of range of hostilities and damage by jumping.

The judge, with his chauffeur, was bowling down Richmond street on his way home from a short spin. He approached the Second street corner just as a trolley car was bearing down on the curve. The car came at the auto stiffened for the fray, and the Judge saw that a meeting was inevitable. He gave the machine his blessing and jumped. He landed safe.

The car crashed into the front of the auto with a whole-souled bump that smashed both lamps, ripped up the hood, and damaged the front springs. The chauffeur, who stuck to his post, was not hurt. The machine was not damaged badly enough to put it out of business, and Judge Coddington, after a courteous interchange of views with the motorman, drove on his way.

The Judge says it was all the motorman's fault. His machine was at a standstill on the curve, he says, and that he warned the trolley man of his presence by tooting his horn.

Bride's Uncle Officiated.

Miss Emma Virginia Hantsch, of New York city, and Alfred Evans Lucas, of Jersey City, were married at the home of the bride's uncle, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of West Front street, on Wednesday night. Dr. Schenck performed the ceremony in the presence of just the immediate relatives of the bridge and groom. The bride is quite well-known here, where she has visited many times. The groom is in business in Jersey City, and the couple will reside there after a wedding trip.

Temporary Pastor.

The members of the Calvary Baptist church have arranged with Rev. J. W. Mitchell, a retired clergyman, to become acting pastor of the church until a regular pastor is called. As yet no effort has been made to secure a successor to the late Rev. Scott Wallace.

RIVALRY BETWEEN TWO CRACK POLICE SHOTS

UNUSUAL INTEREST IN COPS' SEPTEMBER COMPETITION.

The cops began this revolver shooting for September on the Plainfield Gun Club's range yesterday afternoon. The months competition begins with a spirited rivalry for first honors between Detective McCarthy and Patrolman Overbaugh, the premier shots of the department.

McCarthy is a little better shot than Overbaugh, or, at any rate, his past scores are better. Overbaugh has gone into the competition determined to overhaul McCarthy and take first position from him. At yesterday's shoot he ran up close to the plain clothes man, but failed to pass him.

Out of a possible 250, McCarthy scored 189, and Overbaugh 156. Overbaugh got a handicap of eight. This is good shooting with a regulation service pistol. To score maximum with the ordinary pocket arm would be a remarkable thing, and due, as revolver shots look at these things, mainly to luck. Overbaugh is still in the running by a good deal and will make a strong effort to hang up a new record.

HEPTASOPHS HOLD A BIENNIAL CONVENTION

DISTRICT NO. 50 RE-ELECTED J. V. E. VANDERHOEF AS HEAD.

The biennial district convention of the Improved Order of Heptasophs was held in the Hotel Kensington last night. The convention comprised representatives from conclaves in District No. 50, which includes, besides this city, Newark, Orange, Trenton, Westfield, Elizabeth, Morristown and Asbury Park. Each conclave is entitled to one delegate, only past archons being eligible.

Only one item of business was transacted, the election of a district deputy archon and an alternate. By unanimous vote J. V. E. Vanderhoef, of this city, was re-elected as the deputy. Dr. Elmer Barwis, of Trenton, was chosen alternate.

The meeting was held in the hotel parlor. Six delegates were present in addition to Mr. Vanderhoef. They were Dr. Barwis, W. W. Sharkey, of Elizabeth Conclave, No. 241; W. B. Tonkins, Seaside Conclave, No. 281, Asbury Park; Thomas Devaney, Orange Conclave, No. 475; Charles A. Smith, Westfield, No. 515, and F. A. Trowbridge, No. 854.

After the convention Mr. Vanderhoef entertained the delegates and several visiting brethren at dinner in the hotel dining room. The menu was a delightful one, and two hours of much enjoyment was spent about the table.

Speeches were made by all the diners. Mr. Vanderhoef's work for the order was highly praised and expressions of high esteem for him personally were prominent features of the remarks. It was intimated that Mr. Vanderhoef was a possibility among the candidates for supreme archon. There is no doubt that District No. 50 would work for Mr. Vanderhoef's selection as head of the order with a very great deal of enthusiasm. Before the dinner party broke up a vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Vanderhoef for the entertainment.

It was announced at the close of the dinner that the district number had been changed from 44 to 50. The change does not affect the makeup of the district. No conclaves have been added or withdrawn.

W. D. Hann Dead.

William D. Hann, a well-known resident of Hunterdon county, and father of the late Letter-carrier Edward Hann, of this city, died on Wednesday at his home in Flemington after a long illness. He was eighty-three years old, and was also the father of George R. Hann, of Sergeantsville and Mrs. W. L. Julliard, of this city.

Endress Not a Candidate.

Fred Endress, the West Front street butcher, who was selected by the Democrats as their choice for member of the Common Council from the Fourth ward, has declined to allow his name to be used owing to pressure of business. He says that if he were elected he would be unable to give the required time to the office.

Stray Dogs Kill Fancy Fowls.

Two stray dogs wandering along Codington avenue, yesterday, entered the yard of Corra Ryno and attacked a flock of fancy chickens in an enclosure. Before they could be driven off, six of them had been killed by the canines and several others badly hurt. The fowls were valuable ones.

$3,000 FIRE IN BOROUGH

Home of Harold Hansen on Pearl Street All But Destroyed.

ORIGIN A MYSTERY

Occupant Ascribes It to Mice and Matches—Neighbors Save Furniture.

The home of Harold Hansen at 45 Pearl street was partially destroyed by a mysterious fire which broke out in the attic at 11 o'clock this morning. Before the flames were subdued, they had crept down to the second floor and the entire upper part of the structure will have to be rebuilt. The loss to house and furniture will aggregate at least $3,000, according to the estimate of the firemen.

Martin Hansen, a young son of the occupant, first noticed smoke pouring out of an attic window and quickly called his mother and neighbors. The flames were then beginning to burst through parts of the roof and by the time an alarm had been turned in by George Feller, the entire upper part of the building was blazing.

Neighbors set about saving furniture and a great deal of it was gotten out before the arrival of the firemen. The latter did good work and despite the gain the flames had upon them, they soon had them under control. Surrounding property was not injured in anyway.

When Mrs. Hansen was interviewed, she was unable to give any explanation as to how the fire started. She declared a quantity of clothing had been stored in the attic and that some one of the coats had contained matches that mice nibbled. Chief Woolston made an investigation but did not learn anything that would throw any light on the origin.

EDMUNDS ARRESTED AGAIN.

Man Who Deceived Metuchen Girl Must Answer Second Charge.

Lambert Edmunds, who was arrested two weeks ago after his wife had exposed him to Miss Annie Hubbell, of Metuchen, to whom he had engaged himself, in the guise of a single man, and obtained his release on bail, was rearrested this noon by the local police on a second charge preferred by Miss Hubbell. The latter is soon to become a mother.

The warrant was sworn out in Metuchen. A constable from that place turned it over to the police here this forenoon. Edmunds has been working for M. Armstrong. Detective McCarthy arrested him as he was on his way back to work from lunch. He will be arraigned before Justice Mosher this afternoon and turned over to the Metuchen officers.

CYCLIST INJURED.

Warner Philpitt Thrown From His Wheel by Collision With a Canine.

While riding his wheel along Mountain avenue at a high rate of speed, yesterday noon, Warner Philpitt, an employe of the tool room department at Potter's, collided with a large dog. He was thrown headlong from his machine and striking the macadam was rendered unconscious. He recovered quickly but is still very lame and badly bruised about the head and body. Mr. Philpitt is known as a fast rider and because of the pace he was setting, his wheel suffered badly from the collision.

He vowed vengeance on the dog but it had disappeared when he sent friends to look for it.

AWARD COURTHOUSE CONTRACT

Somerville Firm's Bid for $23,806 Accepted.

Richards & Gaston, of Somerville, were awarded the contract for the new Somerset county court house at a special meeting of the Somerset county Board of Freeholders yesterday. The bid of this firm was $23,806, the lowest according to the plans and specifications for the erection and construction of the jail, independent of iron, steel and cell work.

The contract for the cell work was awarded to the Pauly Jail Company, of St. Louis, at $22,000. There will be thirty-two cells in the new jail.

Fresh Air Home Closing.

The closing services will be held at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. There will be several short talks by friends of the Home and special music. Miss Sara Curry, the matron, will also speak. A cordial welcome is extended to all friends.

Borough Episcopalians' Call.

The parishioners of the Church of the Holy Cross have extended a call to Rev. A. L. Longley, rector of Trinity church, Asbury Park, and he now has the matter under consideration. An answer is expected from him in a few days.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Souvenir postal cards with Dunellen and New Market views on them will be on sale at Brakeley's pharmacy tomorrow. The pictures for them were taken by Paul Brakeley and Joseph Osgood, Jr.; the latter is a Plainfield boy. The views include the roundhouse, the station, the town hall, the bell tower, the postoffice, Lincoln School, Call office, Washington Rock, the stone crusher, New Market pond and the island opposite Vail's grove. The pictures have all shown up splendidly.

Owing to a scarcity of hemlock timber the building operations in this vicinity are at a standstill. Hemlock is almost impossible to get at any price, either here or in nearby places. Garretson & Gray are cleaned of their last stick and can get no more. The price has jumped $4 a thousand, and threatens to go higher. Even if the wood becomes more plentiful the price is apt to stay up. The cost of timber is getting so high that building operations threaten to become paralyzed.

The power boat built by Fred Kirch and Arthur Bentliff, of Plainfield, which has been tested on New Market pond for the past three days, was started on a cruise to Staten Island Sound today. The boat is a great success in every way. It interested New Market a good deal, and has started motor boat talk among the young men.

Mrs. W. C. Kinsey, wife of a former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, is visiting Mrs. Stephen Brown and other friends here. Rev. Mr. Kinsey is now located at North Situate, R. I., where he is at the head of an academy. He was pastor here thirteen years ago.

The trolley company has put a new rule regarding the stopping of cars for oncoming passengers into effect. Formerly the motorman would stop anywhere in response to an uplifted finger, but now stops are made at the "far" corners and in the middle of long blocks.

Although coal has advanced in Plainfield, the price has not gone up in the local yards. The dealers, however, are not hopeful of continuing this state of affairs very long.

The Dunellen A. C. will play the Glen Gardner team tomorrow afternoon in Glen Gardner. The team will take supper in a Glen Gardner hotel.

A moving picture show began a three-days' engagement at Apgar's Hall last night. A good-sized crowd of young people attended it.

The New Markets will play the Potter Press Works nine, of Plainfield, in the village tomorrow.

Henry S. Garretson spent yesterday in Woodbridge on business.

William Dealaman spent yesterday in New York on a business trip.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Everybody is hungry for baseball, so the game at Recreation Park tomorrow between Westfield and Plainfield, for the county championship, should be one of the largest attended games of the season.

The friends of Duncan Munroe, who has been ill for several months, are arranging to hold a benefit dance in Excelsior Hall on Thursday night, September 21.

Miss Anna Bruchman, of the Moody Schools, Northfield, Mass., has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bruchman, of Mountain avenue.

The Registry Board has finished the work of canvassing for the voters of the township. The Board meets again on Tuesday of next week in the town rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Thompson, of the borough, sailed on the Cunard Line, Monday, for a stay of several weeks in Europe.

The local ball team has a game scheduled for tomorrow afternoon with the East Ends, of Plainfield.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., met last night in the Library rooms. Two candidates were initiated.

Rev. T. Moore-Smith will lead the weekly prayer and praise service at the Baptist church tonight.

The Republican and Democratic primaries will be held Tuesday night in Excelsior Hall.

The work of repairing Park avenue from the trolley to the borough line is finished.

Frank Rapp has returned from a visit with Bound Brook friends.

Mrs. Thomas Walsh is spending a week at Asbury Park.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

During the last two weeks Camp 41, P. O. S. of A., has passed expressions of condolence with three families of beneficiaries in their afflictions in the loss of loved ones. The first was a resolution of sympathy with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tappen in the loss of their daughter; the second was a resolution of condolence with the family of Sylvester Randolph in their bereavement through his death, and last a resolution of condolence with George Harrison and family on account of the death of his wife and mother.

A large crowd from here attended the school mass meeting at New Market Wednesday, evening. The vote on the appropriation for a new building at New Market was 98 in favor of the proposition to spend $12,500, and 98 against it.

Miss Grace Terrill has been entertaining her cousins, the Misses Palmer, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Theodore VanPelt is entertaining her niece, Miss Ethel Thorne, of Long Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Newman are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter.

ALLENTOWN FAIR.

gives you all the benefits of a cash store, the convenience of a credit system and advantage that you cannot procure elsewhere.

We Make it Easy for Everybody to Dress Well.

We know you like to dress well. We know you like to dress your wife well. We know you love to see your children well dressed. Yet you are probably trying to do without new clothing and you are compelled to stay at home and so are your wife and children, because the conditions have forced your house expenses up and your income to dwindle down.

Do You Know that we sell better made clothing on credit for less money than you can buy the inferior qualities elsewhere for cash ?

and no argument is necessary therefore to prove our statement.

It is a well-known and positive fact that the customer must pay the middle-man's profits, including traveling and salesman expenses.

Hundreds Have Opened Accounts With Us,

realizing the worth of buying direct from the makers. Come in and talk the matter over with the manager and you will surely decide that you need not wait any longer. The terms will be made to suit your convenience and nothing is added to the cash price.

We Clothe the Whole Family on Credit.

AMUSEMENTS.

Among the attractions booked for the New Plainfield theatre next week are "The Honeymoon," with Miss Charlotte Burnett as the star, on Thursday, September 14, and "Happy Hooligan's Trip Around the World," on Friday, September 15.

A large audience is witnessing Stetson's original "Uncle Tom's Cabin" production at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and a advance sale of seats indicates a big house tonight. This company is without doubt, the best of the many of its kind on the road and the scenic mounting is without parallel, special cars being required to carry it. The specialties are given by a troupe of singers, dancers and instrumentalists.

The announcement that "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" will appear in this city, Monday night, brings to mind the fact that this attraction is really the first big English spectacle to ever visit America in its entirety. Furthermore, it has scored a bigger hit in this country than any spectacular production ever witnessed on this side of the pond, not excepting the original Kiralfy productions, which today would be small aggregations in comparison. For novel effects, gorgeous scenic display, dazzling costumes and myriads of colored lights, nothing has ever been seen to compare with this attraction. In the ballet of the "Four Seasons" scene 8,500 candle power is required for the lighting of this beautiful picture.

"Lighthouse by the Sea," a play in which it is said flights toward the pinnacle of melodrama are made with startling effect, will be seen for the first time in this city tomorrow afternoon and night at the New Plainfield theatre. The play is described as a sensational melodrama, with an abundance of thrilling climaxes, full of life and color, and with a plentifulness of good comedy running throughout. The story is said to have the right sort of material to please the elements of a popular-priced house, and appeals strongly to the lovers of the highly sensational. The play is sumptuously mounted, with mechanical effects that are original. The great electric storm off "Devil's Rock" lighthouse, where a shipwreck is averted by the thrilling feat of a young girl, is described as one of the most effective scenes ever staged.

FOR ALLENTOWN FAIR.

The Allentown Fair is by all odds one of the most unique exhibitions of the country. Its attendance is simply enormous, and why, you ask? Everything is complete to the minutest detail. The entertainments are exceptionally fine. The live stock show has no equal. The fruit and vegetable exhibits are among the finest procurable, and with the genuine good time always found at Allentown, there is no reason why the fair should not be popular. On the days of the fair the New Jersey Central will sell reduced rate tickets to Allentown and special trains will be run from various points. 9-6 e o d

NOTICE!

"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James, Asbury Ave., cor. Miller, Ocean Grove, N. J. Signed, July 12, 1905. SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

The Denmanie Dove of Peace has been "skun ten miles."

Mary had a little lamb once upon a time, as did Westfield a ball team.

"The Westfield pie is great; beats stewed prunes ten miles," quoth Ben Mumford.

Perhaps it is because "Boss" Merity has shown himself to be an excellent strike-breaker.

The Hoboken team will play the Royal Giants at St. George Cricket Grounds, Hoboken, on Sunday.

"Sammy" Swackhamer's little black man has failed to appear in the Plainfield-Westfield series as yet.

It is said that a Westfield fan has wagered a large sum of money that his team will win tomorrow's contest.

The next eastern excursion, which takes place Saturday, should cause at least another flutter in the enemy's camp.

How "Old Pal" Denman can stand the present run of affairs without even fainting is hard for the fans to digest.

Tyler, the Columbia College twirler, who has been pitching great ball at Plattsburg this summer, is said to be in fine condition.

Manager Denman has decided to keep Flynn on second base, as he has secured the services of "Dude" McCormick to cover short stop.

Go to Recreation Park tomorrow and cheer for the Daabsters. They are playing great ball and in Westfield have worthy opponents.

Two weeks without a game should result in a record-breaking attendance at Westfield tomorrow, and even a larger crowd here a week hence.

Plainfield, N. J., September 8, 1905.

In refusing to supply official ballots to the Independents for their use about the polls on Tuesday, City Clerk MacMurray is following the law to the letter, and no blame should be placed on him for the neglect or ignorance of others. The statute specifically sets forth that requests on the part of citizens for a supply of ballots must be delivered to the clerk seven days before the date of the primaries.

The irregularity in the papers filed with the city clerk naming Councilman Wilson as a candidate for nomination to succeed himself has been waived by failure of a protest within the required time. The primary law says that any ten men of a party can name one of the same political affiliation for nomination, but Mr. Wilson's mistake, according to lawyers, was in making himself one of the ten signers to his own petition. Two days are allowed for objections and inasmuch as the time expired on Tuesday, his paper is perfectly valid

MRS. SHERMAN INJURED.

Mrs. F. G. Sherman, of Westervelt avenue, wife of the superintendent of the Central Railroad telegraph department, was slightly injured in a runaway accident in Fanwood yesterday afternoon. Mrs. L. B. Van Camp, a neighbor, who was driving with her, was hurt herself in jumping from the carriage.

Mrs. Sherman was driving when the accident occurred. While crossing the railroad bridge above the Fanwood station, the horse was frightened by a tram and broke from Mrs. Sherman's control. As soon as the runaway started, Mrs. Van Camp jumped. She sprained her ankle and her shoulder. The horse ran the carriage against a fence and threw Mrs. Sherman out. She was cut about the legs. Both women were able to proceed home.

The horse broke loose from the carriage when it crashed into the fence, but was caught a short distance beyond. It was slightly cut. The carriage was damaged, but not badly.

Lawn Fete in Park.

Under the auspices of the Washington Park Juniors a successful lawn fete was held yesterday afternoon at the home or Louis Slocum, on Mercer avenue. The lawn was attractively decorated with American flags, bunting, and Japanese lanterns. The proceeds from the affair will be used to pay a deficit on the club's baseball uniforms purchased in June. The committee in charge comprised: Louis Slocum, Russell Conray and Walter Taylor.

Boys to Hold Corn Roast.

Under the guidance of Boys' Secretary Kenneth Robbie, members of the Y. M. C. A. will spend the day in the woods tomorrow. A corn roast will be a feature of the outing. Outdoor affairs of similar nature will be a feature of the fall work among the boys.

McLaughlin—Kellogg.

Miss Carrie M. Kellogg and John G. McLaughlin were married yesterday afternoon by Rev. Dr. Chambliss. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin left for an extended trip through the Great Lakes, after which they will reside in Plainfield.

Y. M. C. A. Gym Plans.

TENNIS AT COUNTRY CLUB.

Miss Mellick and Miss Schuyler Tomorrow in Finals.

Play was continued this morning at the Country Club in the women's championship singles. The play was fast all the time, every match being decided in two sets, with one exception, that of Miss Edith Mellick against Miss Ball, the former winning in three hard sets, furnishing the surprise of the morning. The finals will be played tomorrow morning on the championship court at 10 o'clock, between Miss Mellick and Miss Schuyler. Summary:

First round—Miss Elsie Burke beat Miss Dettwiller, 6—2, 6—2; Miss A. G. Ball beat Miss Hope Ivins, 8—6, 6—1; Miss Elsie Goddard beat Miss M. Pierson, 6—3, 6—2; Miss Hassell beat Miss Carolyn Martin, 6—4, 6—4; Miss Edith Mellick beat Miss H. Goddard, 6—4, 6—2; Miss Sarah Schuyler beat Miss Florence Stuart, 6—1, 6—3.

Second round—Miss A. Ball beat Miss E. Burke, 7—5, 6—3; Miss Hassell beat Miss Goddard, 6—3, 6—2; Miss Schuyler and Miss Edith Mellick drew byes.

Semi-finals—Miss Schuyler beat Miss Hassell, 6—1, 6—2; Miss Edith Mellick beat Miss Adelaide Ball, 2—6, 6—2, 6—4.

Halsey Out of Politics.

Charles H. K. Halsey, president of the Union County Trust Company, and a member of the Elizabeth city and county Republican committees, has announced his intention to retire from politics. He is the third member of the Republican city committee of Elizabeth and the county committee to announce his retirement during the past few weeks. The other two are Robert L. Patterson and Harry L. Staples. Everard K. Tucker is mentioned as Mr. Halsey's successor.

ALLURING BARGAINS

FOR SATURDAY'S THRIFTY SHOPPERS.

With 36 complete and newly stocked departments prepared to do an extraordinary amount of business tomorrow, we launch what is unquestionably the greatest bargain event in all Newark's history. We have planned, and we propose to make, not only this, but each succeeding Saturday, surpass anything ever before attempted: to make offerings that are so strong and complete in their money-saving chances that a regular Saturday's business will result.

Remember, these offerings are for Saturday only, and that every article of merchandise in our store is absolutely new and this season's productions. Numerous other bargain surprises are in store for those who take the trouble to visit each departm't. Don't fail to come tomorrow.

Ladies' Fall Waists and Suits at Almost Unbelievable Prices.

A finer and more extensive showing of new Fall Waists, Suits, Coats and Skirts than ours would indeed be hard to find. Another Bombshell

In the "competitors' camp," this time a noisier one than ever, shattering ALL previous price cuts to atoms! No store's got the courage to force prices down at SUCH a rate. NO store gives more generous credit helps! Try and see!

9.45 for Golden Oak Extension Tables—5 heavy fluted legs. $13.00 regularly.

4.95 for the White Enamel Iron Beds—brass trim—were $7.00.

4.98 for VELOUR COUCHES with best steel springs, and heavy fringe, (were $6.50.)

4.85 for Golden Oak Chiffoniers that were $6.00.

The Portland Range $15 up.

Rules the country because it's a leader in quality, construction and baking qualities! Nothing but finest materials from the heart of the iron regions EVER get into a "Portland"—nothing but the strongest guarantee EVER accompanies a "Portland" sale!

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

DRESS HINTS.

Don't put cost before cut. Corded silk won't cover a poor fit.

It is not so much the hat itself as the angle at which it is worn and the coiffure which it adorns that counts.

No woman who once tries the expedient of making a gown with two waists will ever abandon the practice.

Grosgrain belting ribbon is recommended by a home dressmaker as a foundation for collars. She says it will not break or wrinkle.

When new evening gowns are few and far between nothing is so useful as either black or white, which by change of flowers or trimming may be altered out of all knowledge.

If you wish to make a walking skirt just to clear the ground without looking too short, adopt the following plan: Measure the person from the waist to the ground, then deduct one and a half inches.

WEDDING SUPERSTITIONS.

A bride who finds a spider on her wedding dress may consider herself blessed.

The bride who dreams of fairies the night before her marriage will be thrice blessed.

If the wedding ring is dropped during the ceremony the bride may as well wish herself unborn, for she will always have ill-luck.

If the bridegroom carries a miniature horseshoe in his pocket he will always have good luck.

No bride or bridegroom should be given a telegram on the way to the church. It is positively a sign of evil.

Kiss a bride right after the ceremony and before the newly-made husband has a chance to do so, and you will have excellent luck throughout the year.

Should a bride perchance see a coffin while being driven to the railway station prior to departure upon her wedding tour, she should order the driver to turn back and start over again, or else she will surely meet with bad luck.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

JACOB KRINEY'S WORK

Active in Movement for New School in West End.

IS MUCH NEEDED

Irving School Inconveniently Distant for Many Children—Board Said to Favor Idea.

Jacob Kriney, of West Front street, is heading the movement to secure a new public school in the West End of the city. He is a public spirited citizen and many years ago when a resident of the borough, took an active part in municipal affairs, especially as a member of the school board, where he was instrumental in placing the finances of the school district on a firmer foundation.

Mr. Kriney was active in the early days as a volunteer fireman. After moving to this city he at once showed an interest in public affairs. It was largely through his efforts that the trolley was extended through the West End and the water company was induced to lay its mains. He is known among his friends as a "petitioner," for he has had more success in securing petitions and the desired objects than any other one man in the city.

Recently, Mr. Kriney was impressed with the idea that a new school is needed on or near West Front street and Clinton avenue to relieve the crowded conditions in the Irving School, and he started a petition. As a result he obtained the signatures of over 400 property-owners, using only the heads of the various homes he visited. When it was understood that two-fifths of the city population is now in the Fourth ward and there is only one public school there, the need of another one became apparent. At present children from various parts of the ward are compelled to travel a considerable distance to the Irving School, and it is especially inconvenient for those living on the west side of the railroad, being obliged to go through Grant or Clinton avenues.

A glance through the petition for the new school shows that a majority of the property-owners in the lower end of the ward favor the new school and they are determined to do all in their power to secure it. It is understood that members of the Board of Education are favorable to the idea, recognizing the crowded condition in the Irving School, which compelled the leasing of Epworth House, connected with Monroe Avenue M. E. church, as a place to take care of the overflow from the Irving School. Mr. Kriney's petition was referred to the public affairs committee and a favorable report is expected soon.

NO INDEPENDENT BALLOTS

tion 56 of the election law which provides that the City Clerk shall be notified in writing of demand for tickets, and furnished with the money to pay for the same, at least seven (7) days before the day of election. As your notice was not received until five days before election, I regret my inability to comply with your request.

The same law provides for violation of the provisions of said act, the Clerk shall be deemed guilty of misdemeanor and upon conviction shall, be punished by imprisonment for a term of not more than three years, or by a fine of not more than $3,000, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

You will readily see that I can hardly lay myself open to such economy. I herewith enclose the $5 which accompanied your order, and beg that you acknowledge receipt of same.

Yours truly,

WHITE RIBBONERS' MEET

W. C. T. U's. Annual Session to be Held Here on September 21.

THE PROGRAMME.

Meetings to be Held Morning, Afternoon and Night at the Congregational Church

Arrangements are complete fo the twenty-first annual convention of the Union County Women's Christian Temperance Union to be held on Thursday, September 21, in the Congregational church, this city. An unusually attractive programme has been prepared by the county officers, and a large attendance is expected from all parts of the county. Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, of this city, is the county president and will preside at the morning, afternoon and night sessions.

The morning session will begin at 10 o'clock with devotional exercises, after which there will be the appointment of committees, greeting by Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse, president of the local union, response by Miss Emma L. Starr, of Westfield; the president's address, annual reports of the corresponding secretary and treasurer, report of the credential committee, noontide prayer, followed by adjournment.

There will be a box luncheon served, and at 1 o'clock there will be a meeting of the executive committee, superintendents' meeting and resolution committee.

The afternoon session will open at 2 o'clock with a Bible reading by Mrs. May P. Sparks, of Bridgeport, and the minutes of the executive committee. Then will follow several reports on department of organization, as follows:

Loyal Temperance Legion, Miss May E. Howlett, Plainfield; work among foreigners, Mrs. L. Ussing, of Cranford; superintendents' reports, five minutes each; Preventive—Nonalcoholic Medication, Mrs. A. H. Plummer, of Cranford; Education—Scientific Temperance Instruction, Mrs. D. D. Irving, of Cranford; Sunday School Work, Mrs. F. R. Baker, of Westfield; Temperance Literature, Mrs. W. H. No Answer to Call.

No word has been received as yet from Rev. A. L. Longley, rector of Trinity church, Asbury Park, to whom a call was extended to become the rector of the Church of the Holy Cross. A vestryman of the North Plainfield church said today that he expected to hear from Mr. Longley within a week's time. He is now engaged in some special work at Asbury Park and it has been thought by some that he would be unwilling to give this up at present.

Gas Explosion Victim Improving.

Lincoln S. Giles, of East Second street, the victim of the gas explosion at Trainor's grocery store, Westfield, was reported as doing nicely at Muhlenberg Hospital today. Until yesterday it was thought his frightful burns would prove fatal but he has taken a turn for the better and the physicians believe he has good chances for recovery.

PLAINFIELD ELKS IN MINSTREL SHOW

FIRST ANNUAL BLACK FACE SHOW THIS WINTER.

Plans are now being perfected by Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., for the production of an "all-star" minstrel show to be given during the coming winter. The organization numbers many members who have talent, and they are to be gotten in shape by experienced artists, with the idea of surpassing anything of its kind seen in years. It is to be given for two nights at the New Plainfield theatre, and though it may not possibly be until January, a committee has already been appointed to arrange the necessary preliminary details. They will be supervised by City Judge William N. Runyon, whose proficiency in this respect is well known to the local public.

It has been the custom of the Elizabeth lodge of Elks to give a minstrel show each year, and they have come to be looked upon as the organization's greatest annual event. The Plainfielders intend to go them two or three better and will provide splendid costumes and effects.

COLORED BAPTISTS ARE IN CONVENTION

FIRST SESSION OF THE ORGANIZATION IS BEING HELD AT MONTCLAIR.

Nearly 150 negro Baptist ministers from all parts of the State are attending the first annual convention of the Afro-American Baptist Association, which is being held in Montclair. The morning session yesterday was taken up in discussing the growth of the negro Christian churches of this country, and the needs of the race.

The convention, which is being held in the Union Baptist church, in Portland place, was called to order by the Rev. Dr. George F. Morris, of Morristown, the president of the body.

Following the invocation and devotional services, which were conducted by the Revs. P. W. Ross, of Westfield; Kenny Harris, of Montclair; E. V. Horne, of Newark, and T. T. Turkes, of Newark, the election of the nomination committee was held. Those chosen were Dr. E. E. Jackson, of Plainfield; Dr. W. H. Lawrence, of Elizabeth, and Dr. J. H. Hanlin, of Red Bank. The committee will make its report this afternoon, and at that time the election of officers will take place.

The address of the morning was made by Dr. Morris, who spoke upon the growth of the association and its objects.

In his address Dr. Morris said that the growth of the negro church in New Jersey during the last year had been encouraging. "During the present month," said the Morristown pastor, "four cornerstones will be laid in different parts of the State.

"The negro Baptist church in this country has a representation of 2,110,000 souls. There are 16,500 churches and 16,000 ordained preachers."

HOPE BOYS' CLUB ELECTS.

Reports Presented Show Organization to be in Excellent Condition.

The Boys' Club, of Hope chapel, held its semi-annual meeting in the church parlors, last night, for the hearing of reports and the election of officers. The latter resulted as follows: President, James Kenney; vice president, Allen Snyder; secretary, Morris Hunter; treasurer, Frank Rimmer; entertainment committee, Peter Sweeney; membership, Harry Kenney; librarian, Clarence Horner. G. Herbert Condict, who organized the club, addressed the members and congratulated them on their success during the past twelve months. The organization has been growing steadily and the reports presented by the retiring officers show it to be in excellent condition every way.

After the meeting, the boys entertained their friends with a sketch entitled, "The Doctor's Assistant," Miss Bertha Jones acting as accompanist on the piano. Refreshments were served at the close by Mrs. Snyder, Mrs. Rimmer, Mrs. Sweeney and Mrs. Kenney.

Moses Bender Purchaser.

The purchaser of the Rogers property at West Second street and Madison avenue, as exclusively published in The Daily Press., is Moses Bender, of West Front street, who recently purchased another property in Somerset street, the borough. Mr. Bender will not improve the West Second street property at present, but it is said that he may decide to do so next spring.

PENNSY TO TOUCH HERE?

Report That Trenton Cutoff Line Will Run Through Plainfield.

MR. RAMSEY'S VISIT

P. R. R.'s Special Real Estate Agent at Work on Plan—Is He Securing Options?

In connection with the building of the new Trenton fast line cutoff from New Brunswick to Elizabeth, all sorts of rumors have been floating about as to what purpose it is to be put when completed, the general opinion being that either the Wabash or Pennsylvania railroads have it in mind for some scheme. Hitherto Plainfield has not been brought into the stories, but the presence in this city of William F. Ramsey, the Pennsy's special real estate agent in this section, has led to the rumor, according to the New Brunswick papers, that the great railroal intends getting a line through here.

Mr. Ramsey's duties are to secure options on real estate intended for rights of way and settle for property so acquired. He has come and gone periodically in his quiet way and has attracted no attention whatver except through a chance acquaintance with a fellow townsman. When the purport of his visit is developed Plainfield will have interesting news to tell.

Mr. Ramsey's special work in Pennsylvania has been in connection with the new freight cutoff from Marysville, above Harrisburg, down through Cumberland, York, Lancaster and Chester counties to Philadelphia. It is possible, so the wise ones are whispering, that he is working on a coal carrying line through Plainfield to reach St. George, S. I.

The new road now being constructed from New Brunswick to Elizabeth has 100-foot private right of way and is being laid with extra heavy steel rails well ballasted. People who have sold land for the line assert that the big railroads have an interest in it and that though it may be continued as a trolley line for some time, it will eventually be turned into an outlet for freight or coal.

ORPHANS' HOME FUND.

Local Foresters Contribute to Order's Charity.

Court Plainfield, Independent Order Foresters, at its meeting last night, decided to contribute its share toward the support of the orphans' home at Toronto, Can. According to the rules under which this home is supported and maintained each member in the order is to contribute one cent a month, or twelve cents a year, in addition to the regular dues. This small sum is willingly given by every member, and as a result a sufficient amount will be received to support the home, which nas already been completed.

Court Plainfield will contribute nearly $40 a year toward this object, as the membership is almost 400. Although Court Watchung is not quite so large in membership, it is expected that between $25 and $30 will be contributed by the Court.

A few changes in Court Plainfield's by-laws were made last night, but nothing of any great importance. It is quite likely that Court Plainfield may have a representative or two in the home at Toronto and this has had a tendency to increase the interest in the project.

WHAT HE IS.

Robert Hart Gets Description of His Make-up From Judge.

Robert Hart, who was arrested for sleeping off a jag in the gutter before Roundsman Flynn's house yesterday, was the mark for a stinging Runyonization in the city court today.

"You are a habitual drunkard," said Judge Runyon, when Hart was arraigned. "You have no more control over your appetite than the lowest drinker."

"I ain't a regular drunkard," protested Hart. "I don't look around for a saloon the first thing in the morning. I——"

"You are," interrupted the magistrate curtly. "But I am not going to punish you. You are not a vicious drunkard; you are just a pitiful old bum. I don't expect you ever to be better; you'll die a drunkard."

The judge devoted several minutes to a vivid and forceful analysis of Hart's moral and mental make-up. When the judge finished Hart was in such a hurry to get out that he forgot his hat.

Postpone a Fete.

At a meeting of the committee last evening the lawn fete to be held for the benefit of the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, on the lawn of O. T. Waring, on Park avenue, on Thursday, September 21, it was decided to postpone the affair until some time in May.

AUGUSTUS J. WINCKLER, OLD BOROUGHITE, DEAD

WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN SUCCUMBS TO RHEUMATISM.

Augustus J. Winckler, one of the best known residents of the borough and for many years a building contractor, died at his home on Park place at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He had been in ill health because of rheumatism and other complications and last month gastritis developed. He grew rapidly worse from this cause and it resulted in his death.

Mr. Winckler was seventy-two years old and had lived in North Plainfield the greater part of his life. He was a contracting mason and erected many of the buildings and residences on both sides of the brook. The original Somerset street school was put up by him and he rebuilt it after the destructive fire a few years ago. Many of the houses he built were for himself and he was regarded as the second largest taxpayer in the borough. He was a member of the Congregational church but belonged to no organizations.

Surviving him are one son, T. J. Winckler, of Asbury Park, and five daughters, all of whom reside in the city or borough. They are Mrs. William G. Debele, Mrs. Alonzo Weseman, and the Misses Estelle, Mary and Nellie Winckler.

The funeral will be held from his late home Monday afternoon at 2:30, and interment will be at Hillside cemetery.

NEW DIRECTOR CONFERS WITH HIS COMMITTEES

MR. BOARDMAN TALKS OVER Y. M. C. A. GYMNASIUM PLANS—RECEPTION.

Physical Director Charles A. Boardman, the new head of the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, held a conference with the physical work committee last night. General plans for advancing the work along all the lines laid down in the general policy of the association were discussed at length. The physical director's field includes spiritual work as well as athletics and gymnastics, and it is always the aim of the Y. M. C. A. to make the gymnasium a part of the work in bettering the moral as well as the physical well-being of young men. Bible classes as well as gymnasium classes were discussed with Mr. Boardman.

It was decided to start the boys' and young men's gym classes on September 19. The boys will begin in the afternoon and the men in the evening. The police class and the business men will resume the next day, the cops in the afternoon and the business men at night.

Mr. Boardman will get the basketball and gymnastic teams in shape as soon as he possibly can. The regular boys', young men's, cops' and business men's teams will be organized for the opening of the basketball season in strong combinations. There is better material at hand for all of them than was available last season, successful as it was.

Before Mr. Boardman was called in to confer with them, the committeemen voted to extend a reception to Mr. Boardman on September 18. The affair will be arranged with the assistance of the social work committee.

MR. DEMAREST'S FUNERAL.

Gathering of Relatives and Friends Attend the Service at Hillside.

In the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends, a funeral service was held yesterday afternoon at the graveside in Hillside cemetery over the body of Peter M. Demarest, who died at the home of his son, Albert Demarest, in Syracuse, N. Y. It was conducted by his former pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, of Trinity Reformed church. The floral tributes were numerous and included a handsome piece from Anchor Lodge, No. 149, F. and A. M., of which he was a member. Judge William N. Runyon was the representative pall bearer from the lodge.

Mrs. Demarest was unable to come to Plainfield to attend the funeral but will return to the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. Newton Drake, of Somerset street, as soon as her health permits.

Mrs. George Harrison Dead.

The funeral services of Mrs. George Harrison, of New Dover, were held in the church at that place, yesterday afternoon, there being a large attendanc of neighbors and friends. Rev. Mr. Cook officiate. The interment took place at New Doven.

Boys' Cabinet Meeting.

The cabinet of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. will hold its first meeting on Tuesday afternoon. The fall work in the junior department will be outlined.

BOY CONFIRMED THIEF

Ten-Year-Old David Friedman Natural Crook, Say Police.

REMANDED BY JUDGE

His Latest Robbery Leads to Effort to Have Him Put In Reform School—Companion Released.

David Friedman and Frank Green, both ten years old, were brought before Judge Runyon this morning for stealing five boxes of cigarettes from Fred Becker's cigar store early last night. The boys sneaked into the store and back of the showcase while Mr. Becker was in a rear room. The latter heard them and nabbed both of them by a sudden dash.

Both boys, despite their youth, are known to the police for past offenses of like nature. Green was arrested for stealing when he was scarcely more than five years old. Since that time he has kept out of the way of the police, and Friedman is regarded as much the worst of the two. It is said he is a natural crook, and always looking for an opportunity to take things. He has been under a charge of horse stealing before the juvenile court since two months ago, when he drove off with a rig from West Fourth street. He was caught putting the horse and carriage in his mother's barn on West Third street.

Green was released, but Judge Runyon remanded Friedman to arrange some disposition of the case that will keep the boy straight. An effort will be made to have him sent to the Reform School. If the matter is arranged he will have to be kept at headquarters until the commitment papers are made out, because he is too young to send to the county jail.

In turning Green over to his father, Judge Runyon ordered the latter to give him a thorough and complete thrashing.

"Judge," said Green, pere, "I want the officers told that Frank is to be arrested on sight any night he is caught on the street of fhgrbhmrz caught on the street after 8 o'clock."

"I will do it," said the judge, "but what he needs now is a good whaling." Frank went out sniffing.

THREE STORY BUILDING.

Plans for Park Avenue Structure Changed.

It is reported that Charles W. McCutchen, of the borough, has made extensive alterations to his original plans for the structure he proposes to erect on Park avenue, adjoining that of the Plainfield Trust Company, the chief of which is that he now expects to erect a three-story instead of a two-story building. The upper floors will probably be used for offices.

Mr. McCutchen's original intention about the first floor will not be changed. This will be reserved for several stores of good width and depth. It is also his idea to construct the building of stone and brick, which will harmonize with the Plainfield Trust Company building.

A. L. C. Marsh, who has prepared the plans for Mr. McCutchen, expects to have them completed and approved so that the construction work may be started as soon as the debris is cleared away from the property.

It is also understood that negotiations are now underway for a change in the ownership of the property adjoining that of Mr. McCutchen's, which was purchased by John G. McLaughlin, and that a modern structure will be erected there in place of the old dwellings which now stand on that site. Several interested parties have been looking at this property with a view of purchase, and a change is expected soon.

FIREPROOF CURTAIN READY.

Will Be Placed In New Theatre By Workmen Tonight.

After numerous delays occasioned by the non-arrival of materials, workmen will start tonight putting up the asbestos curtain for the New Plainfield theatre. It is a large affair and the job is one that will require the services of twenty skilled erectors. The curtain is for use in case of fire only and is intended to be lowered to cut off the flames from the auditorium in the event of a fire starting on the stage. All the scenery installed has already been made fireproof and nothing has been left undone by Manager Counihan that might add to the safety of his patrons.

Painters and decorators are still engaged in placing the finishing touches to the theatre but they will be completed inside of a week. After that the lodge rooms for the Elks and Eagles and the stores adjoining the main entrance will be given attention.

KEPT WEDDING SECRET NEARLY THREE YEARS

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM VAN EPS SPRING SURPRISE ON FRIENDS.

After keeping the fact a secret for nearly three years, William Plume Van Eps, of Westervelt avenue, and Miss Emma Louise Droll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Droll, of West Fifth street, have announced that they are man and wife. They were married at Passaic on January 14, 1903, by Rev. W. W. Pratt, pastor of the Baptist church. Only the necessary witnesses were in attendance. The facts were given out by the bride's parents today.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Van Eps are widely known throughout the city, the former especially from the fact that he is a skilled musician and an expert on the mandolin. Mrs. Van Eps has resided in Plainfield all her life and has a large circles of acquaintances. At present the young couple are making their home on Westervelt avenue.

PASTORS ARE HOME FROM THEIR VACATIONS

MINISTERS RETURN AFTER ENJOYING NEEDED REST.

Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, has returned from his vacation and will occupy his pulpit tomorrow as usual. The vested choir, under the direction of J. Edmund Skiff, organist and choirmaster, will also resume its work.

The choir of Trinity Reformed church held its first regular rehearsal since the vacation last night and will take part in the services tomorrow, when Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, the pastor, will occupy his pulpit.

Among the other pastors who have returned and who will occupy their pulpits tomorrow are Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church; Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, and Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope chapel.

During the coming week the rest of the pastors will be home and ready to take up their work for the fall and winter.

A WATER MAGNATE.

J. A. Staats the "John Kean" of Stanhope.

J. A. Staats, proprietor of the Hotel Kensington, who has during the past few years, been interested in water supplies, and who is prominent in the Watchung Spring Water Company, of this city, is preparing to supply the town of Stanhope, Sussex county, with water, having received the franchise from the Common Council in that place, but not until after a lively fight.

Mr. Staats owns valuable water rights in Sussex county, and he was willing to sell the water for the town consumption providing the people would pipe the town. Two special elections were held, and each time the proposition to bond the town for a few thousand dollars was lost by less than a dozen votes. After each election Mr. Staats appeared before the officials and asked for a franchise to operate a water works there, but each time was unsuccessful. Finally the authorities became exasperated, and gave Mr. Staats the franchise, and he is now getting ready to pipe the town. It is expected that Netcong may receive its water supply from the same source, that town being just over the line in Morris county.

STOLE UNDER ORDERS.

Charles Leonard Says His Employer Had Him Take Railroad's Coal.

Charles Leonard was arrested by Detective Lavalle, of the Central R. R. police force, last night for stealing coal from the cars on South Second street. Leonard was charged with throwing a quarter of a ton off the cars, but he told Judge Runyon this morning that he only got two bagsful.

Leonard said he took the coal under orders from Mrs. Burke, his employer. The railroad officer said he was sorry for the man, having learned that he worked for $4.50 a week and his board.

"Yes," said the magistrate, "the case, as it applies to you, Leonard, is not a bad one, but this coal stealing is too general to be connived at. If Mrs. Burke got you to do this thing, it is up to her to stand by you now. Ten dollars or twenty days."

Leonard's fine was paid.

Ex-Saloon Keeper to Speak.

Edward Hall, of Elizabeth, will be the speaker at the Salvation Army hall tomorrow afternoon. Mr. Hall is now an employe of the Singer works, Elizabethport. He was at one time a saloon keeper.

ACCUSE THE CITY CLERK

Independents Charge MacMurray With Unfairness and Fear.

WITHHOLDING BALLOTS

Express Belief that Voters Will Not Approve of His Course—The Resolutions.

In no unmeasured terms City Clerk James T. MacMurray, who is claimed by his political enemies in the Republican party to be a "boss" of the city, was denounced at a meeting of the Independent leaders last night. The session was a closed one and only those known to be anti-machine men were admitted. It took place in Central Hall, and all told there were fifty present representing the four wards.

In addition to scoring MacMurray for his refusal to grant the applications of Collector Lee and Councilman Wilson for official ballots and for his failure to have ballots for inspection and delivery within the time limit, other business of moment was transacted.

Candidates for councilmen at large, freeholder and collector were endorsed, all of whom are Independent Republicans arrayed against the regular organization. For councilmen at large, Dr. Anson W. Anderson, in the First; George P. Mellick, in the Second, and J. Stephen Higham, in the Third ward, were enthusiastically approved by the meeting. Endorsement was also given Collector Robert L. Lee and Freeholder J. Fred MacDonald for nomination and election.

Dr. Anderson was in the chair, and many of the prominent Independents made speeches. Some of the candidates absented themselves early to resume their hustle for votes. Notable among these was Councilman Wilson, who was scouring the Second ward until a late hour in the interests of his own candidacy. Mr. Wilson, it is said, feels sanguine of success.

These are the resolutions passed at the meeting:

"While it is freely admitted that Tax Collector Robert L. Lee and Councilman Theodore D. Wilson committed a technical error under the primary law, in delaying their formal request for ballots beyond the seven-day limit, we believe that City Clerk James T. MacMurray has also committed a technical error of the same kind, under the law, in not having the ballots at his office ready for inspection by 1 o'clock Thursday noon, September 7th, in compliance with the five-day provision of the statute, nor were the ballots ready for inspection by applying candidates as late as 9 o'clock of that day.

"The orders for ballots of Messrs. Lee and Wilson were in the hands of City Clerk MacMurray before the first lot of ballots ordered by the latter were ready for delivery by the printer, and their requests could easily have been granted. Therefore it is the belief of the Independent Republican voters of the city of Plainfield, as represented by a majority of the Independent delegates at this meeting on Friday evening, September 8, 1905, that the city clerk should, in all fairness, waive all technicalities and grant the requests for ballots above mentioned, for it should be understood, in this connection, that the type is set and will probably be kept standing until Tuesday evening next, and that the question of running thousands of ballots through the presses is only a matter of three or four hours' mechanical work.

"If City Clerk MacMurray desired to prevent a perfectly free and fair expression of opinion on the part of the voters of this city, he could hardly have taken a more certain course to that end.

"His refusal to deliver ballots upon the request of the Independent candidates is, to say the least, unfair, and indicates that he fears to go before the voters and meet the issue, but is only too glad to take every advantage to ensure the election of his followers to the Common Council. We believe the voters of the Republican party in this city will not endorse his position in the matter, and we desire that our sentiments, as above expressed, be given the widest publicity."

Councilman Clarence L. Murphy said today that City Clerk MacMurray has violated the provisions of the primary law in not having the official ballots ready for inspection on Thursday and again in not having them ready for delivery yesterday. "One man can vote only one ballot; why not let us have a bushel of ballots?" he added.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

This season our friend George Mallen is as harmless as a can of dynamite, and as picturesque as milady's pug with a throat-latch of ping ribbon.

A proverb: "A team that has made a killing for a time against one particular club, always expects that club to turn the tables and hand it to them."

Plainfield will play Westfield at Recreation Park this afternoon, and every fan wants to be there to see the fun.

Lost—a team that can win the county championship from Plainfield. Finder will please return to Manager Denman at Westfield.

It has been suggested that the team losing the county championship dine the winners. It is a safe bet that the winners would accept the honor.

So much time has elapsed since Plainfield and Westfield have met on the diamond that the players have buried the hatchet and all is forgiven.

The punch that Umpire Merity delivered to "Red" Waller, without cost, two Saturdays ago, is what "Conjunction" Jones calls the "Iptliiptus" shove.

Commencing at 2 o'clock this afternoon, special trolleys will be run from the Watchung avenue stand to Recreation Park, Westfield, every fifteen minutes.

Before the season closes it is expected that Manager Daab will have selected a new site for the baseball grounds for next season and arrangement made to enclose them.

It has been so long since Westfield won a game that it is not surprising that its supporters are a little discouraged. With it all they are game and will fight hard to the finish.

Providing this vicinity is not visited by another severe storm Crescent Oval will present its normal condition when Plainfield and Westfield meet on Saturday, September 16.

Jim Robertson, who will play right field for Westfield today, is the former Fordham College player who at one time covered first base for Westfield. He is a heavy hitter.

The Plainfield team will be accompanied by a big crowd of rooters to Recreation Park today to see the seventh contest in the series for the county championship. The game will be called at 4 o'clock.

Thanks to Manager Daab and his excellent team, Plainfield has enjoyed one of its best seasons in baseball, and every encouragement should be given them in their efforts. Greater success is assured for next season.

It is now an assured fact that the Giants will win the National League pennant, and the chances strongly favor the Philadelphia Americans as the winners in the American League. This will bring New York and Philadelphia together in the post-season series.

Cleveland Buys a Farm.

Sandwich, N. H., Sept. 9.—Former President Grover Cleveland, who with his family, has passed the last two summers in this village, has purchased two farms in the adjacent town of Tamworth, with the idea, it is understood, of making the estate his permanent summer home. The property is situated about a mile from the farm which Mr. Cleveland now occupies. The ice house on the Boyden place, where Mr. Cleveland has resided for two summers, was burned Wednesday. The loss was insignificant.

Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mont., recommended Ely's Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement, "It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed."—Rev. Francis W. Poole, Pastor Central Pres. church, Helena, Mont.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts., or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

Thomas Cardner, of Orange place, has been detained at home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Pope, of Schenectady, N. Y., are visiting relatives in the city and borough.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Probasco, of East Front street, have gone to the Mohegan Islands, Maine, for rest and recreation.

After an absence of several weeks from the city enjoying a vacation, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss will occupy his pulpit at the First Baptist church, tomorrow.

Corporation Notice.

Commissioners of Assessments' Report for Sewerage Construction on Consideration Before the Common Council, Plainfield, N. J.

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield N. J., held on Monday, the 7th day of August, 1905, there were presented and laid before the Common Council (the same having first been filed in the office of the City Clerk on the same day) the Report and Assessments of Robert A. Meeker, John W. Murray, Jr., and Samuel P. T. Wilbur, the Commissioners of Assessments for said City heretofore appointed under the Ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance to provide for the appointment of Commissioners of Assessment to assess damages and benefits under and by virtue of the Act entitled 'An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State,' approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto," which said Ordinance was approved February 8th, 1905, containing the assessments of damages and benefits or expenses, as the case may be, for the making and constructing of sewers and appurtenances (including house connections) under and by virtue of the Act of the Legislature entitled "An Act to provide for the drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and Ordinances and other proceedings of the Common Council had under said Acts of the Legislature, said report and assessments covering the whole of said system of sewerage and appurtenance already completed, (not covered by assessments heretofore made), and particularly in and through the following described streets and parts of streets, to wit:

North Avenue from Richmond Street to Leland Avenue.
Leland Avenue from North Avenue to South Avenue.

In Chancery of New Jersey.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein John F. McIntyre is complainant and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, demur or answer to the complainants bill on or before the sixteenth day of October next, or in default thereof, such decree will be made against you as the Chancellor shall think equitable and just.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by David Arthur, Jr., to the complainant on lands in the Borough of North Plainfield, Somerset County, New Jersey, said mortgage dated June 11, 1900, and registered in the Clerk's office of Somerset County, in Book (V No. 4) of Mortgages for said County, on page 137, etc.

And you David Arthur, Jr., are made a defendant because you claim to own an interest in said mortgaged lands.

And you Mrs. David Arthur, Jr., are made a defendant because you are the wife of David Arthur, Jr., above named, and because you claim or may claim an inchoate right of dower in and to said mortgaged lands.

Dated, August 15, 1905.

NOTICE!

"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply to Mr. and Mrs. James, Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J. AMUSEMENTS.

"Lighthouse by the Sea," which is claimed to be an unusually strong, exciting and well knit melodrama, will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre this afternoon and evening. The play is full of action, with situations and climaxes that follow in rapid succession, but do not jostle each other; nor are logic and intelligibility ever sacrificed to rapidity of movement. There is said to be no lack of scenic sensationalism, but even the biggest sensation—the escape from the rocks while at the mercy of the storm, of what is claimed to be the most real looking ship ever seen in melodrama, illustrates and helps the dramatic climax. The comedy is genuine, and being relevant to the action, and essential to the development of the plot, serves a useful dramatic purpose.

Numerous spectacular productions have been attempted by American theatrical managers, but not one from the days of Adam and Eve up to yesterday has ever been able to place before the world anything like in scenic magnitude and gorgeous splendor the equal to the ponderous Drury Lane Christmas pantomime, "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast," which will be presented for the first time in this city at the New Plainfield theatre Monday night. The entire production is transported throughout the country by a special train consisting of two day coaches, three Pullman sleepers and four baggage cars; the company is composed of 200 persons, including performers, working men, wardrobe women, etc., and the daily expenses would pay for ten ordinary companies. The management this season have assumed at an enormous expense and great responsibility the entire European production and will tour America in all the larger cities having a stage capacity where a production of this magnitude can be properly presented, and it will give playgoers the one chance of a lifetime to witness this really wonderful production. Among the performers are the cleverest comedians, singers and dancers and a host of chic and pretty girls, who make a gay ensemble behind the footlights. The cast includes Isabelle Underwood, Rose Sartella, Edith Arnold, Charles Saunders, Ralph Edwards, Harry Bliss and the Louvre Seminary Girls' Band, from France.

Ada Henry, of the "Happy Hooligan's Trip Around the World" company, which plays an engagement at the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night, is one of the best women chess players in the United States. The American champion, W. H. Pillsbury, has frequently played with her, and recently confided to a friend that Miss Henry has on more than one occasion forced him to draw in a queen's gambit. Miss Henry has made a great hit this season in "Happy Hooligan's Trip Around the World." Her work is of the most powerful nature, and she possesses an enthusiastic as well as a personal magnetism which makes her a warm favorite with her audiences.

Cheer up! "Checkers," that popular play of love and luck, will begin an engagement at the Grand on Monday evening, September 11th. This will be the ninth engagement of "Checkers" in New York City, a record for popularity achieved by no other play in the same time. The entire cast and production will be seen, except that Hans Robert, the clever juvenile whom the management has been so fortunate to secure, will play the title role. The career of "Checkers" has been an unbroken series of successes, and judging from the many inquiries at the box office, there is no doubt that its forthcoming engagement will duplicate its great success of the past two seasons. For the benefit of those who may possibly not have heard the story it may be briefly described as a picture of experiences of a manly, sportive young American with a nimble wit and a clean record, unblemished by even the slightest taint.

In all its history the New York theatre has never held such audiences as now gather there at every performance to witness Klaw & Erlanger's production of "The Ham Tree," in which the great delineators of negro character, McIntyre and Heath, are the center of interest. It is the biggest show at popular prices, ranging from 25 cents to $1, ever staged in America, and by long odds the funniest entertainment on earth. People laugh until they are exhausted and are glad indeed when the end of an act gives them a respite from mirthful convulsions. McIntyre and Heath play minstrels in the first act, standard minstrels in the second and an Indian rajah and ranee in the third. Their "conversation" in the second act would, as Josh Billings used to express it, make a horse laugh. Mr. McIntyre is the doleful one, while Mr. Heath is the hopeful—seeing hams growing on trees, rivers of beer, swamps of schweitzer and flocks of sausage flying through the air. This scene between these veteran comedians is admittedly the most humorous ever presented by any two performers. Seats for "The Ham Tree" may be ordered by mail. Letters should be addressed to Louis F. Werba, manager New York Theatre.

Surpassing the phenomenal success of last season, the New York Hippodrome has reopened with "A Yankee Circus on Mars," "The Raiders" and a score of foreign specialists, most of whom are from the Royal circuses of Europe and appearing for the first time in this country. The features of the mammoth performance are more than ever elaborate with the attendance day and night so large that the immense playhouse has been packed from orchestra to gallery. The gorgeous ballet, in the beautiful "Dance of the Hours," rounds out the great spectacle. The circus is entirely new and the performers will be seen in acts never seen before on this continent. Mlle. Renz, the most famous equestrienne in Europe, who has taught riding to the Princesses of the Austria and German courts, has duplicated the sensation she created in European capitals, and with her magnificent snow-white stallions, Mazeppa and Waneton, has become the talk of the town, because of her wonderful riding. With the Cottrell-Powells, a trio of bareback riders from England, with a reputation second to none, Mlle. Renz made her American debut at the Hippodrome. The same is true of the Kaufman bicycle troupe, a sextette of girls who are seen in a series of intricate and beautiful maneuvers.

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1905.

Judging from the recent investigations, there are many crooks serving time who should be able to draw from fifty to one hundred thousand dollars a year as head officers of insurance companies.

Plainfield's tax rate will not be announced officially until Tuesday when the county assessors meet, but from the facts and figures we have it can be taken for granted that the rate will not vary one point either way from what it is at present. The rate now is $2.52 and the chances are that it will remain the same for the coming year.

Were the measure before the Common Council providing for the adoption of the law allowing a tax of one-third of a mill for the benefit of a hospital now in effect, Muhlenberg would get approximately $3,400 for the coming year. This sum is less than what is now given the Public Library annually, but is considerably more than what the hospital has been receiving.

The impression which seems to exist in some quarters that the delegates to the various conventions to be voted for at the primary election next Tuesday are to be elected by districts is erroneous. The primary law as originally enacted called for the election by districts. The language of the section 16 of the original act read as follows:

"The persons receiving the highest number of votes for the position of delegate to any convention on any ticket of any political party at such primary election, to the extent of the number of delegates which the respective election districts are entitled to send to the said convention, shall be the duly elected delegates to such convention."

The Legislature of last year amended the primary law in several particulars, and section 16 was amended so as to substitute for the words "election district" the words "wards and townships and boroughs without wards." The ward is therefore the writ in Plainfield, and the delegates are to be eletced by the vote of the entire ward and not merely by the vote by the district.

The recent census report as to the present population of Plainfield and the numerical membership in the Common Council present a matter of considerable interest if the theory of strictly representative government is carried out to its logical conclusion. The census gives to Plainfield a population of 18,468. The Common Council has eleven members. There is therefore one member of the Common Council for every 1,679 of the population. On the basis of ward representation, the First ward with 3,566 of population would be entitled to 2 1-8 members of the Common Council; the Second ward with 4,291 of population would be entitled to 2 3-5 members; the Third ward with 3,695 of population to 2 1-5 members; the Fourth ward with 6,926 of population to 4 1-8 members. In other words, discarding the fractions under one-half, the First ward on the basis of population is entitled to 2 members; the Second ward to 3 members; the Third ward to 2 members, and the Fourth ward to 4 members. The Fourth ward with the quarantine ordinance aimed directly at it, with the recent raid, and with the various innuendoes indulged in regarding some of its leaders, has been getting more than its share of notoriety of late. Suppose the Fourth ward voters should take it into their heads to demand representation according to population and ask for two councilmen-at-large, in order that the ward could have its fair and rightful share in the discussion of public questions, would fair thinkers in other parts of the city consider them far wrong?

—The members of Company K will resume their drills and hold their first business meeting at the armory on Monday, September 18, and not the 11th, as previously stated.

SECRET TREATY MADE BY CZAR AND MIKADO

London, Sept. 9.—It is known perfectly well at the Japanese Legation here that a secret treaty has been made between the Czar of Russia and the Emperor of Japan, despite the usual diplomatic denials.

These facts concerning the treaty, the way by which it was reached and its purposes, can be stated on the highest authority.

The Kaiser advised the Czar to make the secret treaty when they met on their yachts Hohenzollern and Polar Star in the Baltic Sea.

The intermediaries in the negotiations were the Japanese Minister at London and the German Ambassador at St. Petersburg. King Edward helped the making of the treaty.

It provides that the Czar of Russia—the Czar, not the Empire—shall pay $500,000,000 indemnity to Japan in five years, less the amount which Russia will pay Japan for her care and maintenance of Russian prisoners of war, $100,000,000, as provided in the Treaty of Portsmouth.

It is reported also that Russia agrees in the treaty to give Japan a free hand in China, though this point is not so certain as the other.

The compact was made without the knowledge even of Baron Komura and Mr. Witte.

The Czar and the Emperor of Japan bound themselves solemnly to secrecy about the treaty.

Harry Thompson, of Belvidere avenue, returned yesterday from a summer's stay at Camp Nirvana, conducted by Lindsay Best, of the P. H. S. faculty.

Mrs. Stillman, of Texas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barlow, of Prospect place, has been detained here beyond the time of her visit because of the epidemic of yellow fever in the South along the line of the railroad over which she is compelled to travel. She was advised that she would be obliged to delay her return until the fever subsides.

TO SPEND $2,000,000

Jersey Central Road Plans Big Improvements.

AT ELIZABETH WHARFS

Port Avenue Pier Alone Will Cost $300,000—The Structure to be 1,000 Feet Long—Its Description.

"We are going to spend about half a million dollars in Elizabeth in the coming year," said General Manager Huntington, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, with an enthusiastic emphasis that gave promise of speedy action in the development of the great schemes planned for improvements in this vicinage by the Central Railroad Company.

A general outline of what the company intends to do has already been given, but there is much of detail of vast importance to local interests that has not yet been published, nor will it be until the company sees the way clar of all possible obstacles.

One week ago the New Jersey Dock and Bridge Building Company, with offices in the Dix building, Elizabeth, was notified of the acceptance of its plans and specifications for the building of a new pier at the foot of Port avenue and the granting of the contract for its construction to them.

The pier itself will cost $175,000, but other operations in connection with it will bring the total up to about $300,000.

The railroad company has between three and five thousand feet of shore front now at their disposal, and of this the dock company has built up about 3,000 feet, including several coal piers.

The new pier will be 1,000 feet long, with twelve coal chutes on each side for loading coal-carrying vessels, and a large chute to accommodate tugs and other steamers.

The pier will be sixty feet wide and 600 feet of its length will extend inland from the present water line.

The work of digging out the meadows for this distance at the foot of Port avenue is now progressing, and when the dredging is finished there will be slips with twenty-one feet of water at low tide on either side of the entire length of the pier. These slips will be each 125 feet wide. The government is also dredging a channel along Shooters Island to a depth of twenty-two feet. The pier will be built of what is known in the trade as creosote timber, which is practically indestructible by water.

"I wish I could tell you all that I know concerning the extent of the improvements planned," said a gentleman whose knowledge of railroad matters is unquestionable, "but you need not be surprised if $2,000,000 are spent in improvements hereabouts by the Central Railroad. I cannot say further than that just now. It would be a breach of confidence as well as injudicious."

"I'm not surprised," said another, "because the Central is making a great deal of money, and I have expected them to start in spending some of it."

"About thirty years ago Elizabethport was a great coal distributing centre, and the Central is going to bring all that business back here, and more with it. There is no reason in the world why it should not be so, and if the people of Elizabeth will only look ahead and try to see the advantages in store for them they will see the sense of grasping the opportunities opening up for them today."

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

DUNELLEN.

Grand mission at St. John's church, Dunellen, will open tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. All are invited to attend the lectures given by the Paulist Fathers of New York city. Mission exercises every day, both morning and evening. The mission will last one week. Lectures free to all. An interesting feature of the mission will be the "question box," and any question put into it at the door of the church, by those who attend, will be answered publicly each evening, in a clear and charitable manner. Only questions that pertain to religion, to the doctrines and practices of the Catholic church, to moral and spiritual affairs of general interest, will be answered. Every one, Catholic or non-Catholic, is free to ask questions. The questions should be written plainly and put into the "question box" at the door of the church. No signature is required. All are welcome. A splendid opportunity to hear what the Catholic church really teaches and what she does not teach, a charitable explanation of plain facts for fair minds, pertaining to the all-important question of eternal salvation.

The Sunday-school of the Presbyterian church will have a social Tuesday evening. Music and a report of his recent trip to Holland by Rev. W. W. Casselberry will furnish entertainment. Souvenirs will be presented to those who were present every Sunday during July and August, and refreshments will be served.

"Down and Out" Fire Escapes.

Trenton, Sept. 9.—The board of managers of the New Jersey State Hospital for the Insane, this city, is to endeavor to obtain from Governor Stokes a sanction of the "down and out" fire escapes which were so strongly condemned by Governor Murphy two years ago. The fire escapes are built after the plan of the "down and out" amusement slides and are said to be the best suited for asylums. Governor Murphy feared they would be dangerous for use by the patients, as when once started in them there can be no stopping until the bottom is reached. The asylum managers invited the Governor to test them and see that there was no danger of injury. The Governor declined. A similar invitation will be extended to Governor Stokes. The "slides" must be approved by the Governor and by the Department of hCarities and Corrections before the work can be done.

WARFARE ON MARRIAGES

Millions to be Spent on Dr. Herron's Colony Near Oak Tree.

HIS OWN DOCTRINES

Marriage Independent of Law—Believes Wedlock Should End When Love Ceases.

Eleven millions of dollars will be used for the promulgation of the doctrine of Professor George D. Herron, who recently established a rallying point for his followers near Oak Tree, one mile from Metuchen.

Professor Herron does not believe in the marriage relation, and came prominently before the public several years ago when he separated from his wife and four children at Grinnell, Iowa, and took as a partner Miss Carrie Rand, the daughter of Mrs. Caroline Rand, who inherited a fortune of more than $10,000,000 from her husband, the lumberman of that name.

The most sensational part of the separation of Professor Herron from his wife was the payment to that lady of $60,000 for her consent to the annulment of the marital bonds between them, against which he had so often preached. In the whole of these startling proceedings there has never been one word against or the slightest reflection made upon the character of Mrs. Herron.

The news of Professor Herron's coming into the possession of this $11,000,000 becomes public in a manner almost as startling as the preceding circumstances. About a fortnight ago when a train on the Pennsylvania Railroad stopped at Metuchen a group of persons alighted, one of whom carried an iron bound box. The party got into an open carriage and a country stage coach and was driven to "Elmwood Farm," where Professor Herron has built the rallying station for his followers.

The iron bound box was carried on the lap of one of the party in the open carriage. It contained the ashes of Mrs. Caroline Rand, who, some eight months ago, left New York with Professor Herron and her daughter for a trip abroad, and through whose death the professor comes into control of the Rand fortune, which, with the accumulations, is said to amount to something like $11,000,000. She had died in Europe, and her body had been cremated.

By her expressed wish her ashes had been brought over for burial at her old home in Burlington, Ia., by her daughter and Professor Herron. The couple were accompanied by the little son born to them about two years after the professor deserted his wife and children in order to make Miss Rand his "companion."

Others in the carriage and the stage were adherents of Professor Herron's doctrine, some of them prospective members of the colony he plans to establish near Metuchen. In the presence of his followers at Elmwood Farm, Professor Herron was to hold what he called the "real service" over the ashes of his benefactress, the final burial at Burlington being only a formality.

At the farm headquarters of the Herron cult the party was received by a large number of adherents, who have become accustomed to gatherings at that attractive spot since it became known that Mrs. Rand had endowed its leader with her millions.

During the last year more than a hundred people have found various kinds of employment on the expensive improvements laid out by the professor.

At the open air funeral services Mrs. Rand's daughter explained to them what her monther's wishes had been:

"There are flowers everywhere, for she loved beauty. We have made no change from our usual manner of dressing, for she said to me: 'If anything is different in your dress let it be white.'"

Mrs. Herron wore white. The services were held on the lawn, where the Herron followers were grouped around the iron bound box. The professor delivered a short address by Mrs. Rand's last wish, he said. He spoke of the beauty of her soul and the strength of her character and felicitated himself and his followers upon having been permitted to know and love so superb and beautiful a spirit. He touched but lightly upon the practical benefits she had bestowed upon himself, already evidenced by large outlays of money upon the surrounding landscape.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the iron bound box was conveyed to the railway station and placed in a baggage car, and in a parlor car Professor Herron and his companion accompanied it to Burlington, Iowa.

Returning from the West, the couple, accompanied by their son, stopped at the farm before sailing for Europe, bound for Florence, Italy, where Professor Herron expects to complete a book which will set forth his peculiar beliefs and which he hopes to make an effective weapon in the warfare he and his followers are waging upon the present system of marriage and upon present day religion. Thereupon he plans to return to "Elmwood Farm" to build up the colony of believers in his doctrine and to send forth its propaganda throughout the world.

Professor Herron's doctrine is outlined in his own words as follows:

"I do not believe that the present marriage system is sacred or good.

"I believe that union is made by love alone, and that it is terminable at the termination of love.

"Love marries us, and, as long as our love lasts, love will keep us together.

"I think it wrong to obey a law that would keep us together when love has ended."

TO PRESENT HISTORIC CANNON.

S. A. R. Arranging Plans With Board of Freeholders.

On Monday night at the meeting of the Elizabethtown Chapter, No. 1, of the Sons of the American Revolution, at Elizabeth, the committee which has under its charge the matter of presenting to the Board of Freeholders a historic cannon, to be erected in front of the Union county court house, will make a report. This committee consists of Chief George C. Tenney, Lovell H. Carr and Moses M. Crane. The Board of Freeholders has already decided to accept the cannon, and there remains only to arrange for the ceremonies attendant upon its establishment in front of the court house in Elizabeth.

Such arrangements will be made on Monday night. It is expected that the formal presentation will be made on a Saturday afternoon about the middle of October, as on such an afternoon a larger attendance could be counted on, and the affair would be consequently a greater success.

The cannon which is to be put up is one of historic significance. It played a part in deciding the destiny of nations at the storming of Quebec. Again it came to the fore when "Mad Anthony" Wayne drove the British from Stony Point. After that battle it was presented to the soldiers from Elizabethtown as a token of appreciation for their services in the war. It has remained in Elizabeth ever since.

May Reduce Board of Education.

Elizabeth, Sept. 9.—An effort is to be made this winter to have the local Board of Education, now composed of twelve members, one from each ward, cut down to eight, consisting of four Republicans, four Democrats and the Mayor an ex-officio member. A bill, which will be fathered by one of the three Union county Assemblymen, is already in preparation. In fact, it would have been introduced last winter, but is was decided to hold it off until this term, inasmuch as Union county had a number of bills under consideration, including the bill for the extermination of the Board of Excise and the bill providing for the appointment of a Board of Police Commissioners in second-class cities under 100,000 population.

AN ORDINANCE

To amend an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to license inns and taverns and to regulate and prohibit the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors," approved February 10, 1892, as amended.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That said ordinance be amended by adding thereto a new section as follows, to wit:

Section 27. That in order to enable the Common Council more effectively to regulate the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors within said city as they deem most conducive to the public good, the place in which any applicant for license to sell spirituous and fermented liquors, or for license to sell spirituous, vinous, malt or brewed liquors, under any of the preceding sections of this ordinance proposes to carry on his business under such license, is hereby required to be accurately set forth in such application for such license, and to be within the territory comprised within the following boundary lines, to wit:

Beginning at a point in the city line at Green brook distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet northeasterly from the center line of Watchung avenue; thence running southwesterly along said city line to the center line of Grove street; thence southeasterly along the center line of Grove street to the center line of West Front street; thence southwesterly along the center line of West Front street to a point distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet southwesterly from the center line of Central avenue; thence southeasterly in a course drawn parallel with the center line of Central avenue distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet southwesterly therefrom to the tracks of the main stem of the Central Railroad of New Jersey as the same now lies; thence noreasterly along said tracks to a point on said tracks distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet southwesterly from the center line of Park avenue; thence southeasterly in a course drawn parallel with the center line of Park avenue and distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet southwesterly therefrom to a point in said course distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet southeasterly from the center line of West Fourth street; thence northeasterly in a course drawn parallel with the center line of West Fourth street and East Fourth street and distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet southeasterly therefrom to a point in said course and the projection thereof distant one hundred and fifty (150) feet northeasterly from the center line of Watchung avenue; thence northwesterly in a straight line to the point of beginning.

Provided, nevertheless, that the foregoing provisions of this section shall not prevent the granting of any renewal of any license lawfully in force at the time this section takes effect to the same person who shall have been the lawful holder of such license continuously from that time to the time of such renewal.

Adopted by the Common Council August 7, 1905.

Attest: J. T. MacMurray, City Clerk.

In Chancery of New Jersey.

To Sarah J. French, Mary Louise French Smith, Sarah Margaret Shepard, Henrietta Whitney, George H. Whitney, Louis M. French, Roxanna D. French, Harriet A. French, Elston M. French, William A. French and David H. French:

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED that Mountain Water Company has paid into the Court of Chancery the sum of Fifteen Hundred Dollars ($1,500.00), the amount awarded to you by Commissioners appointed by the Honorable J. Franklin Fort, Justice of the Supreme Court of this State, as damages caused by the partial diversion of waters of the brook known as Green Brook by said Mountain Water Company from lands belonging to you, the parties interested in said award not having been able to agree as to the distribution thereof, said money having been paid under a petition filed in said Court of Chancery by Mountain Water Company, praying that said monies might be distributed according to law by the said Court of Chancery.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

TEMPTING DESERTS.

Steamed Fruit Pudding.

Cover the bottom of a butter mold with dices of bread lightly buttered. Over this place a layer of stewed apples or peaches, then another layer of bread and butter, alternating with the fruit until the mold is three-quarters full. Pour over this a custard composed of two eggs, one-half a cup of sugar and a pint of milk. Fasten the cover of the mold tight, drop into boiling water and steam one hour. Serve with foamy sauce or sweetened cream.

Fruit Tapioca.

Wash a cup of the fine granulated tapioca in cold water, rinsing several times. Place in a bowl with three cups of cold water and allow this to stand for thirty minutes. Then cook in a double boiler until the tapioca is clear and transparent. In the meantime pare and core half a dozen apples and place them in a deep baking dish. When the tapioca is clear pour it over the apples. Cover the dish tightly and bake in a moderate oven until the apples are tender. This should take from thirty to forty minutes. Remove the lid and brown the surface slightly. Serve cold with whipped cream or hot with foamy sauce. Peaches may be substituted for the green apples, and will take less time to cook. They should be pared, cut in half and the stones removed. When whipped cream is served with peaches pulverized sugar should be passed with them.

Green Gage Jelly

Put half a pound of sugar, with a cup of cold water, into a granite iron stewpan and stir until the sugar has melted. Then, without stirring, let this syrup boil for a few moments, and add two pounds of green gages. Stew gently until they are quite soft. Pass the fruit through a sieve, then measure the pulp and put it back into the stewpan, stirring it until it is hot. More sugar may be required if the green gages are not thoroughly ripe. Allow three-quarters of an ounce of gelatine for each pint of the fruit after it has been run through a sieve. Soak for a few moments in the cold water. Pour over it the hot pulp. Stir until the gelatine is thoroughly dissolved and turn into a china mold which has been rinsed with cold water. Let it stand over night, if possible, or at least from early morning until the evening meal. Serve it with whipped cream or a cold boiled custard flavored with lemon. This must not be cooked in tin nor packed into a tin mold.

TEACH CHILDREN NEATNESS.

The play cupboard is one of the essential equipments of a well arranged nursery. As its name implies, it is a place for keeping playthings, and it has a useful purpose in helping the child to understand the value of putting things away after they have been finished with. This lesson is so difficult to learn that many people never master it after years of misdirected effort; the play cupboard, therefore, as a means of teaching it has a high ethical value, says an exchange.

A triangular corner cupboard, which may be reached by one or two small steps below it, in themselves useful bases for play, is one form; another is a simple hanging cabinet, placed not too high on the wall; a third is a large built-in closet, which must be especially erected in the nursery, and is provided with several shelves, forming, in a sense, a mimic playhouse, which may be lighted by a window.

These cupboards may be closed with glass doors, although a better form is likely to be wooden doors, gayly decorated with the picturesque designs now so popular for rooms used by children. Colored pictures of birds and flowers are admirable for a play room, and readily awaken a love for natural science.

So soon as there is love for nature there is a desire for the intimate personal knowledge which is of most value to a growing mind. It is living knowledge which books may nourish, but do not always arouse.

It is well to have pictures so framed that they can be changed at will. If there is not much money to spend on frames, pictures may be used freely on the walls of a play room without framing.

IN THE BISHOP'S CARRIAGE

By MIRIAM MICHELSON

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company).

It wasn't a pleasant laugh, Mag. No—wait. Let me tell you the rest.

"You are so shrewd, Olden, so awfully shrewd! Your eye is so everlastingly out for the main chance, and you're still so young that I predict a—a great future for you. I might even suggest that by cultivating Tausig personally—"

"You needn't."

"No, you're right; I needn't. You can discount any suggestion I might make. You just want to be the first to go over, eh? To get there before Cray does—to get all there is in it for the first rebel that lays down his arms; not to come in late when submission is stale—and cheap. Don't worry about terms, you poor little babe in the woods. Don't—" His own words seemed to choke him.

"Don't you think—" I began a bit unsteadily.

"I think—oh, what a fool I've been!" That stiffened me.

"Of course, you have," I said, cordially. "It's silly to fight the push, isn't it? It's only the cranks that get cocky and think they can upset the fellows on top. The thing to do is to find out which is the stronger—if you're a better man than the other fellow, down him. If he's the champion, enlist under him. But be in it. What's the use of being a kicker all your life? You only let some one else come in for the soft things, while you stay outside and gnaw your finger-nails and plot and plan and starve. You spend your life hoping to live to-morrow, while the Tausigs are living high to-day. The thing to do is to be humble if you can't be arrogant. If they've got you in the door, don't curse, but placate them. Think of Gaffney herding sheep out in Nevada; of Iringer in the asylum; of Howison—"

"Admirable! admirable!" he interrupted, sarcastically. "The only fault I have to find with your harangue is that you've misconceived my meaning entirely. But I needn't enlighten you. Good morning, Miss Olden—good-by."

He turned to his desk and pulled out some papers. I knew he wasn't so desperately absorbed in them as he pretended to be.

"Won't you shake hands," I asked, "and wish me luck?"

He put down his pen. His face was white and hard, but as he looked at me it gradually softened.

"I suppose—I suppose, I am a bit unreasonable just this minute," he said, slowly. "I'm hard hit and—and I don't just know the way out. Still, I haven't any right to—to expect more of you than there is in you, you poor little thing! It's not your fault, but mine, that I've expected—Oh, for God's sake—Nance—go, and leave me alone!"

I had to take that with me to the Van Twiller, and it wasn't pleasant. But Tausig received me with open arms.

"Got tired of staying out in the cold—eh?" he grinned.

"I'm tired of vaudeville," I answered. "Can't you give me a chance in a comedy?"

"Hm! Ambitious, ain't you?"

"Obermuller has a play all ready for me—written for me. He'd star me fast enough if he had the chance."

"But he'll never get the chance."

"Oh, I don't know."

"But I do. He's on the toboggan; that's where they all get, my dear, when they get big-headed enough to fight us."

"But Obermuller's not like the others. He's not so easy. And he is so clever; why, the plot of that comedy is the bulliest thing—"

"You've read it—you remember it?"

"Oh, I know it by heart—my part of it. You see, he wouldn't keep away from me while he was thinking of it. He kept consulting me about everything in it. In a way, we worked over it together."

The little man looked at me, slowly closing one eye. It is a habit of his when he's going to do something particularly nasty.

"Then, in a way, as you say, it is part yours."

"Hardly! Imagine Nance Olden writing a line of a play!"

"Still you—collaborated; that's the word. . . . I say, my dear, if I could read that comedy, and it was—half what you say it is, I might—I don't promise, mind—but I might let you have the part that was written for you and put the thing on. Has he drilled you any, eh? He was the best stage-manager we ever had before he got the notion of managing for himself—and ruining himself."

"Well, he's all that yet. Of course, he has told me, and we agreed how the thing should be done. As he'd write, you know, he'd read the thing over to me, and I—"

"Fine—fine! A reading from that fool Obermuller would be enough to open the eyes of a clever woman. I'd like to read that comedy—yes?"

"But Obermuller would never—"

"But Olden might—"

"What?"

"Dictate the plot to my secretary, Mason, in there," he nodded his head back toward the inner room. "She could give him the plot and as much of her own part in full as she could remember. You know Mason. Used to be a newspaper man. Smart fellow, that, when he's sober. He could piece out the holes—yes?"

I looked at him. The little beast sat there, slowly closing one eye and opening it again. He looked like an unhealthy little frog, with his bald head, his thin-lipped mouth that laughed, while the wrinkles raved away from his cold, sneering eyes that had no smile in them.

"I—I wouldn't like to make an enemy of a man like Obermuller, Mr. Tausig."

"Bah! Ain't I told you he's on the toboggan?"

"But you never can tell with a man like that. Suppose he got into that combine with Heffelfinger and Dixon and Weinstock?"

"What're you talking about?"

"Well, it's what I've heard."

"But Heffelfinger and Dixon and Weinstock are all in with us; who told you that fairy story?"

"Obermuller himself."

The little fellow laughed. His is a creaky, almost silent little laugh; if a spider could laugh he'd laugh that way.

"They're fooling him a bunch or two. Never you mind Obermuller. He's a dead one."

"Oh, he said that you thought they were in with you, but that nothing but a written agreement would hold men like that. And that you hadn't got."

"Smart fellow, that Obermuller. He'd have been a good man to have in the business if it hadn't been for those independent ideas he's got. He's right; it takes—"

"So there is an agreement!" I shouted, in spite of myself, as I leaned forward.

He sat back in his chair, or, rather, he let it swallow him again.

"What business is that of yours? Stick to the business on hand. Get to work on that play with Mason inside. If it's good, and we decide to put it on, we'll pay you $500 down in addition to your salary. If it's rot, you'll have your salary weekly all the time you're at it, just the same as if you were working, till I can place you. In the meantime, keep your ears and eyes open and watch things, and your mouth shut. I'll speak to Mason and he'll be ready for you to-morrow morning. Come round in the morning; there's nobody about then, and we want to keep this thing dark till it's done. Obermuller mustn't get any idea what we're up to. . . . He don't love you—no—for shaking him?"

"He's furious; wouldn't even say good-by. I'm done for with him, anyway, I guess. But what could I do?"

"Nothing, my dear; nothing. You're a smart little girl," he chuckled. "Ta-ta!"

CHAPTER XIII.

JUST what I'd been hoping for I don't know, but I knew that my chance had come that morning.

For a week I had been talking Obermuller's comedy to Mason, the secretary. In the evenings I stood about in the wings and watched the Van Twiller company in Brambles. There was one fat role in it that I just ached for, but I lost all that ache and found another, when I overheard two of the women talking about Obermuller and me one night.

"He found her and made her," one of 'em said; "just dug her out of the ground. See what he's done for her; taught her every blessed thing she knows; wrote her mimicking monologues for her; gave her her chance, and—and now— Well, Tausig don't pay salaries for nothing, and she gets hers as regularly as I draw mine. What more I don't know. But she hasn't set foot on the stage yet under Tausig, and they say Obermuller—"

I didn't get the rest of it, so I don't know what they say about Obermuller. I only know what they've said to him about me. 'Tisn't hard to make men believe those things. But I had to stand it. What could I do? I couldn't tell Fred Obermuller that I was making over his play, soul and as much body as I could remember, to Tausig's secretary. He'd have found that harder to believe than the other thing.

CONDUCTOR LIEUT. GOVERNOR.

Isaac T. Parker Who Runs a Pennsy Train.

Isaac Thomas Parker, a conductor on the Pennsylvania Railroad, running from Southern Delaware to Broad Street station, Philadelphia, is probably the most distinguished employe that railroad has.

He is lieutenant-governor of Delaware and former quartermaster-general of the National Guard of that State. He has been in the service of the company thirty-five years and loves railroading far better than he does political preferment.

Lieutenant-Governor Parker is not a politician. He is a railroad man, who believes in his business. He began his career on the old Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad in 1870, running his train to Broad and Prime street, or, as it is known today, Broad street and Washington avenue. The old depot is there yet, but its passenger traffic left it many years ago.

But while time witnessed many changes in railroad equipment and development, Conductor Parker remained the same, every day conducting his train between points to his home State of Delaware and Philadelphia, winning the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

For thirty years General Parker has been actively associated with the Scott Methodist Episcopal church, of Wilmington, and is at the present time superintendent of a Sunday-school, and takes the keenest pleasure in his religious work.

A year ago, when the State ticket was made up by the Republican party, General Parker was unanimously chosen as the nominee for the lieutenant-governorship, and he was elected. In this way did his fellow citizens single him out to show him the regard in which they held him. And the men whose votes made his election possible were those who in thirty-four years had learned to know him.

The lieutenant-governor is modest. He prefers not to talk of his honors.

"I appreciate them," he said, "and am glad to have them simply because they show that I have many sincere friends. But I have no political ambitions, and will remain a railroad man to the end. Why shouldn't I? Men do not give up their business when elected to office, unless the office demands all their time, and mine does not. I am only called upon to serve when the Senate is in session, and then I preside over it." There is no salary attached to the office of lieutenant-governor of Delaware.

HUNTS FOR WIFE NO. 1.

Widow Doubts Her Own Right to Estate.

Middletown, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Searching for the first wife of her husband, of whose existence she knew nothing until her husband's death, Mrs. Stephen W. Whitmore, of East Millstone, N. J., was in Middletown Wednesday. Mrs. Whitmore says that on the finding of her husband's first wife depends the disposition of a large amount of property.

The story she tells is a remarkable one. Before her marriage to Whitmore, in Yonkers, in 1899, she was a trained nurse. She had quite a sum of money, inherited from relatives in Germany, which after marriage she combined with Whitmore's money to buy property at East Millstone. Soon afterward Whitmore became ill and she nursed him faithfully for six years, he dying last March. On his deathbed he told her he had been married before, but his wife was dead.

Shortly after Whitmore's death, Mrs. Whitmore alleges, his father and two brothers came to her and threatened to turn her out, saying that she had no claim on the estate, as Whitmore's first wife was living and had never been legally separated from him.

Mrs. Whitmore found out that Whitmore had been married to a Miss Green in Middletown in 1896, and that shortly after he suddenly left her because of her alleged infidelity and went West. He returned to Yonkers three years later and married his second wife, who was Miss Koch.

Mrs. Whitmore could learn nothing of the whereabouts of the first wife or whether she is living or dead. She says the father and two brothers have applied for letters of administration of her husband's estate.

STOP THOSE NAUGHTY CARDS.

It developed yesterday that a well to do young woman had been arrested by Postoffice Inspector Cortelyou and arraigned before United States Commissioner Linsly Rowe at Jersey City for sending improper cards through the mail. She had sent them to a friend, who had been married recently, and induced others of her friends to mail them. The bridegroom was indignant, and informed the officials, but the offender was penitent, and he relented, and the complaint was not prosecuted.

Commissioner Rowe said yesterday:

The souvenir postal cards are pretty, as a rule, and they serve a good purpose. They are all right. But there have also been placed on the market thousands of indecent postal cards that cannot be called souvenir cards by any stretch of the imagination. The sending of these cards through the mails has caused much annoyance to many innocent young girls in Jersey City, and we are going to stop the practice. We are also going to make it warm for those who sell these cards.

GOLF.

In preparation for his play at Fox Hills next Thursday, Friday and Saturday, "Marty" O'Loughlin, the professional at the Plainfield Country Club, has been practicing every day on the local course. Early in the week he and F. O. Reinhart played two matches with Dudley H. Barrows and a partner and each time "Marty" and his partner won out with good scores. O'Loughlin will be paired with Robert Abbott in the professional-amateur match to be played at Fox Hills a week from today, and the friends of the young "pro" confidently expect that he will make a good showing.

FACTORY LAWS.

State Department of Labor Sends Out Pamphlet.

The State Department of Labor has issued a pamphlet containing the laws relating to factories, mills, workshops and bakeries and the employment, safety, health and work hours of persons, employes and operatives in places where goods are manufactured.

There are two laws in the book.

One act regulates the age, employment, safety, health and work hours of persons engaged in mills, factories, workshops and other places where goods are manufactured. This act also creates the department of labor, which is to enforce the law.

The other law is an amendment to the law noted above and refers to bakeries. It defines the hours of employes and requires inspections of bakeries.

THIEVES ARRESTED.

Three Men Accused by Special Railroad Officer.

Special Railroad Officer Novello, of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, Thursday night picked up three men, George Kuinzi, Patrick Sullivan and James Durning, who had a brass journal in their possession which they were trying to dispose of at Third avenue and Amity street, Elizabeth Several Central railroad men appeared in court yesterday morning and recognized the journal as one of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. This company has had much material stolen lately in the neighborhood of the Stephenson Car Works. It is believed that the men caught can explain the disappearance of a number of articles.

P. H. S. EXAMS MONDAY.

Principal Travell may be consulted at the High School building at 11 o'clock Monday morning and in the afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., initiated several candidates at its meeting last night.

FIRST REGIMENT LOSES COLUMBIA

NEWARK GUARDSMEN SURRENDER TROPHY TO SECOND NEW JERSEY.

Rifle Range, Sea Girt, Sept. 9.—The First New Jersey had to surrender the Columbia trophy, which it had won for a number of years, to the marksmen of the Second Regiment, Thursday, the Trenton boys winning the match with a score of 1,074. The contest was open to teams of six men from each regiment, troop, battery and naval reserve of the State. The First Regiment finished second with 1,039, and the Fifth third, with 900. The Newark guardsmen had an excellent chance of winning the match and thus retain the trophy, but after leading at the end of the 200, 500 and 1,000-yard stages, they fell down in the skirmishing and were passed by the Second.

The winners received the trophy, to be held for one year, besides $100 in money and a gold medal for each member of the team. The First Regiment's share of the prize money was $50, and that of the Fifth $25. The match was one of the most important on the programme of the New Jersey State Rifle Association. Sergeant Silvester, of the Second Regiment, who shot on the New Jersey team in the national and Dryden trophy matches, made the best score in Thursday's contest, having a total of 204 for the four stages.

Mrs. John Cline and daughter, Miss Edith Cline, of Chatham street, will return home Monday after spending five weeks in the Catskills.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. McClurg, Mrs. J. F. Griffen and George Griffen will soon remove from East Second street to the Blish property on West Seventh street, which they recently purchased.

Thomas M. Muir, of The Daily Press staff, and Bertram C. Firstbrook, of Grant avenue, leave tonight for a Canadian trip. They will visit Niagara Falls, Toronto, Montreal and other places of interest before returning.

STORIES ABSURD.

Freeholders Refute Charges of Extravagance.

Discussing the attacks recently made against the Board of Freeholders by a local paper, E. K. Adams, a member of the body, and who is at the present time in the field for higher honors in the political world, said to a reporter yesterday:

"The board will simply ignore these attacks. There is no ground for them. It is unnecessary to refute attacks made on a man against whom the finger of reproach was never pointed during his thirty-eight years of service in this board, and now that he is dead the members revere his memory, for every one knows that he was upright and honorable. There are no grounds whatever for these stories.

"To show how the board is economizing in certain quarters, I will give you an example. The lunacy committee saves thousands of dollars every year through the services of N. R. Leavitt, who investigates the financial condition of all patients admitted to Morris Plains. In many cases he finds that they have property left them or money, and he then has a guardian appointed who deducts the cost of maintaining the patient from the amount which the patient may have left him, and pays it over to the county, remitting his bill monthly to the county collector. He visits the asylum and investigates the financial standing of patients from this county, the only cost being his fees, which are light."

Mr. Leavitt said he had recently been in conversation with the State Commissioner of Charities, and had explained to him the system in vogue in Union. The commissioner was highly pleased, and declared Union county was ahead of all the others in this, and he would confer with Governor Stokes in regard to having the measure introduced in the Legislature so as to get the State to adopt the same plan.

BURGLARS IN FOUR PLACES.

Raid on Dunellen Houses Early This Morning; Thieves Get Little.

Thieves entered five houses in Dunellen early this morning. They got very little for their trouble. From the way in which they went through drawers and clothes, refusing to take silverware or wearing apparel, they evidently searched only for money.

They entered the houses of William Snyder, John Logan, Adam Herlick, Willard Apgar and Capt. O. H. Day. All these places are in the same neighborhood. They confined their operations to the lower floors. Small sums of money were taken from Logan's, Herlick's and Day's. At the Snyder house they got nothing.

Mrs. Snyder heard the robbers working, and frightened them off by coming downstairs. This was about 3 o'clock. She saw one of the men, and describes him as slim, about twenty-one, and wearing a derby hat. The house smelt of perfumery as she came down the stairs, she says.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Work on the extensive improvements planned by L. W. Randolph for his drug store on West Front street, will be started next week and hastened toward completion. The plan is to make more room in his store so that he can better handle his constantly increasing business.

Money Wasted Over Bridge.

New Brunswick, Sept. 9.—It has been brought out at the hearing before James H. Van Cleef, special master, that the Amboy bridge, for which the county has paid already $138,602.50, on the contract price of $146,950, could be built for from $75,000 to $85,000, according to the opinion of William E. Crehore, of Elizabeth, an expert engineer, who has designed bridges for the Pennsylvania and Lehigh Valley railroad companies. The expert said the contractors should be able to build it for that amount and that he would estimate the cost to the county at $99,446, the additional cost being the profit for the contractors.

Plenty of Seats Remaining.

Reports that no seats are left for Monday night's performance of "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" are offset by Manager Counihan's announcement that plenty of them are still to be had at the box office. If not convenient to call for them today, they will be reserved for a limited period by calling Manager Counihan or Treasurer Cunningham over the telephone.

Had to Leave Borough.

Joseph Prentiss, of Grove street, who was charged with abusing the occupants of his home, was given a hearing last night before Recorder Doud. The Recorder gave Prentiss the choice of leaving the borough, or remaining to pay $20. Prentiss took his clothes and left the borough, with the judge's warning of never to return or pay the $20, ringing in his ears.

Flack Out Again.

Joseph Flack, acting-chief borough marshal, who sprained his ankle Thursday in attempting to catch a stray horse in Washington Park, is again on duty, but still suffering intensely from the injured member.

Lawrence for Mayor.

New Brunswick, Sept. 9.—John Lawrence, former commander of the State Grand Army of the Republic, will be nominated for Mayor by the Democrats here. Mayor William S. Myers will not run again, as he does not care for a second term. William Schlesinger may be named by the Republicans for this office.

Dr. Ambrose K. Brennan, of Grant avenue, has returned from a visit to New Haven, his former home.

COUNTY PENNANT WILL COME TO PLAINFIELD

Daab's Men Win the Necessary Sixth Game, 6 to 2.

A THRILLING RALLY

Terrific Assault on Red Waller In One Inning Changes the Tide and Wrests Victory From Defeat.

In an atmosphere of strict business, unmarked by the diversions practiced in the last two games, the Commuters and the Pirates settled the pennant matter at Recreation Park Saturday afternoon. The Commuters cinched the streamer, displayed faultless workmanship, turned off a thrilling and victorious rally, tore Red Waller's delivery to pieces when the skies were darkest, and jammed a sudden and unexpected dose down the thorax of the hopeful and excited Westfield fan; all in one exhibit, score 6 to 2. This seems almost too much to put into one game, but it was a great crowning of a fat year, after three lean and sere seasons, for the faithful and exuberant Plainfield fanatics.

Such a peacefulness as attended the exhibit was never before seen in any ballyard outside of the Epworth League. P. Cregan made one mild kick over a strike-out decision by the Westfield arbiter, and a hurried flow of words followed an incident in which Micky Flynn got home because Jack O'Neill blocked him on the lines, but these things were as nothing, and not a head or a slat was placed in the remotest peril. The umps' decisions were received with smiling courtesy or stoical coolness, and the dove of peace warmed its feet unafraid in the very hair that flamed so fiercely on Mr. Waller's upper works in the midst of alarms and spikes and fists and things on other occasions. The pact of peace was so sternly kept that G. Mallen himself, caught off second base, made no audible protest when he was waved into outness. Greater quietude than this can no game have.

Two more changes were sprung by the Pirates in their battle line. Robertson, of Fordham and other places—once an Alls player—pranced about in right field, and "Dude" McCormick, a celebrated jumper for whom countless big league clubs are said to be yearning, covered short. Neither of them showed up enough to merit an obituary. Deegan had the Indian sign on them both, and neither worked spryly in his territory. James, alias "Kid," Dalton, who was forced out of his new job at second for us early in the season by a sprained ankle, was back in the game. James was all there and helped press the burden on the Pirate shoulders. His ankle bone stood the gaff well, allowing even the liberty of a swipe sprint to second.

What happened through the game is largely a story of the rise and fall of the Hon. John Ruddyhair Waller. For seven stanzas John had our heroes flung to a standstill, and they looked like a vain and weak-shouldered lot at the plate. But they fell on him in sudden fury in the eighth, and lammed him for as sound a thumping as ever a twirler got in one inning.

The striking rally was full of real thrills. Held by Red's artful twirling, the Commuters trailed after the hated rivals, two tallies, then one, then two again, to the bad. Red was pitching in a style that would look good in a boys' baseball story. Twice he retired the side on strike-outs, and whiffed nine men in seven innings. One of the snuffed out trio was made up of Dalton, Connolly and Cregan, as haughty and dauntless a set of stickers as we can dig up in one whole batting order. Paddy Cotter came in ever and anon and sang loud and admiring strains about the other end of the battery—it looked like there was nothing but Red to the whole show. This sort of thing always makes the Commuters mad. They had a particular reason for wanting Saturday's game, so they got madder and madder until the seventh, when Pete Cregan and Mike Leonard were whiffed in succession; then their patience became exhausted. Unconscious of what was seething in the Commuter souls, or reckless to the verge of madness, the unfortunate Mr. Waller thumped in a run in the Pirate half of the session. This aroused their manly fury to a truly terrible pitch, and the way they went at Red in the eighth was something awful to behold.

With the picture of the debonair way in which he had whiffed their mightiest men before them to fan their rage, those Commuters ham-

BEST BALL FOURSOMES

Thomas Van Boskerck and Howard Huntington Tie in Golf Event.

COUNTRY CLUB CONTEST

Reuben Knox, R. B. Carroll, J. B. Betts and C. L. Goodrich Win Honors on Park Club Course.

One of the events on the Plainfield Country Club course Saturday was the best ball foursome for two cups offered by Roger F. Murray and E. B. Shoemaker. The tournament was a handicap event, the cups to be awarded to those having the lowest net score. The handicap for each pair was on a basis of the lowest handicapped pair, to be substracted from the gross score made by both players.

The tournament resulted in a tie, Thomas Van Boskerck and Howard Huntington and Gordon Abbott and C. W. Abbott each returning a net score of 73. They will play off the tie this week.

The scores were as follows:

Thomas R. Van Boskerck and Howard Huntington, 81, 8—73; Gordon Abbott and C. W. Abbott, 79, 6—73; Edgar I. Serrell and C. A. Stover, 82, 6—76; Frank O. Reinhart and C. B. Morgan, 74, plus 3—77; George F. Earle and J. A. Lane, 92, 12—80.

In the weekly competition for the golf committee cup, Thomas R. Van Boskerck won first honors with a net score of 76, C. A. Stover finished second with a score of 80, and A. H. Atterbury was third with an 85. The leading scores returned were as follows:

Thomas R. Van Boskerck, 84, 8—76; C. A. Stover, 90, 10—80; A. H. Atterbury, 107, 22—85; A. E. Barclay, 105, 17—88.

The game was revived at the Park Golf Club on Saturday, after a cessation of several weeks. The return of many members from their vacations resulted in a large field taking part in the weekly competition for the president's and Park Golf Club cups. For the handicap cup, Reuben Knox, Raymond B. Carroll and J. B. Betts received the honors, the last two named returning a tie score of 88. The scratch cup, the point winners were Raymond B. Carroll, Rev. C. L. Goodrich and Reuben Knox, each returning low gross scores.

The scores posted for the two cups were as follows:

Reuben Knox, 99, 19—80; Raymond B. Carroll, 86, plus 2—88; J. B. Betts, 117, 29—88; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 97, 8—89; Alex. Gilbert, 103, 12—91; John L. Watson, 109, 16—93; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 103, 5—98; Charles L. Nichols, 117, 19—98; A. W. Kenworthy, 115, 15—100; Nelson A. Miller, 112, 10—102.

SHALL "RING" CONTROL? THE ISSUE, SAY "ANTIS"

COUNCILMEN MURPHY WRITES ON INDEPENDENTS' MOVEMENT.

The following letter has been received from Councilman Murphy:

Editor The Daily Press:

The question to be determined by the voters of this city at the primaries on September 12th is whether or no the local political Republican "machine" shall control the Plainfield Common Council of 1906, as outside of the First ward there is no contest except for delegates to the city convention and the councilmen from the ward.

The Republican voters of this city will then have their first opportunity to decide this question under the new primary law, which provides for a secret ballot at the primary, as this will be the first contested primary election.

The gentlemen who are endeavoring to elect as their candidates men who are well known and representative citizens and who are independent are now asking the Republican voters to support them. If they are successful this spirit of local independence will grow stronger and will certainly be to the great benefit of the public. If the movement fails of success the local "machine" will be greatly strengthened, as having proved its ability to overcome any opposition to it and its methods.

It is therefore, in my opinion, the duty of every voter to attend the primaries and vote according to his personal convictions in this matter.

BANISHED FOR A CRIME

Italian Released From Prison on Promise to Leave the Country.

BACK TO SUNNY ITALY.

Dunellenite's Term of Two Years Rescinded, Provided He Sails Away Before September 26.

John Pasco, the young Italian, of Dunellen, who was sentenced to State prison for two years nine days ago by Judge Strong, was arraigned in court Saturday in the Middlesex County Court at New Brunswick, before Judge Strong, and the previous sentence was rescinded and the young man was ordered to leave the country on or before September 26. Pasco and his parents, who are respectable Italians, wore serious faces in court Saturday.

A week ago Saturday they were in a merry frame of mind, and considered the shooting of a fellow employe by Pasco a thing that would be passed over lightly. The youth readily pleaded guilty to the charge, and told the court how Stiliger, the fellow employe, had tormented him and he had gone to his home, secured his revolver and had returned and shot at Stiliger, the bullet passing through the flesh of Stiliger's neck.

Pasco cried when Judge Strong failed to see the joke and sentenced him to two years in prison. Saturday morning his parents succeeded in having Judge Strong reopen the case. They showed that John is the older of two children; that neither had ever been in any kind of trouble; that the boy had not realized the seriousness of using a revolver to protect himself, and that the family felt keenly the disgrace of having the older child sent to State prison. They offered to send the boy back to Italy if the court would rescind the sentence.

Judge Strong looked with favor on the application and so ordered. Pasco wsa released on bail furnished by his father, and Probation Officer Buckelew, of New Brunswick, will accompany him on the sailing day and see that he leaves the country, the expenses of the trip being paid by the boy's father.

LIVELY FIGHT SURE FOR SENATORSHIP

CONTEST BETWEEN CHILDS AND FRELINGHUYSEN INTERESTING.

The political situation in Somerset county is sure to cause one of the most strenuous campaigns on the part of the two candidates for State Senator that has taken place in Somerville in many years. There seems to be no doubt whatever among the Republican leaders as to the convention selecting Colonel Joseph S. Frelinghuysen as their candidate against the Democratic candidate, who will be Senator Samuel S. Childs.

Though Colonel Frelinghuysen has not been what might be termed a peacemaker, it is believed that he can make an excellent fight against the odds that confront him in his own party. Already many conferences have been held, and it is believed that the delegates to be elected Tuesday will be unanimous for his nomination at the county convention.

Senator Samuel S. Childs, who defeated Colonel Frelinghuysen three years ago by a majority of 325, is believed to be the best vote getting candidate that the Democrats can nominate. His three-year term has been characterized by an honest and careful consideration of the interests of the people of Somerset county, and as the Democratic party are united on him as their candidate, his chances for re-election seem good.

The Republicans will probably nominate Irving Hoagland for the Assembly and the Democrats will place Stewart A. Kenney, a well known merchant of Somerville, on the ticket with Senator Childs.

Recently Colonel Frelinghuysen gave a theatre party, at the opening of the New Plainfield theatre. His guests were the members of the county committee and a few friends from the Thompson faction of the party that were conspicuous for their absence. However, the Colonel expects to have the party all in one big family before election day.

Mrs. Blackford Weds.

Charles J. Skoguist, of Metuchen, and Mrs. Emma Blackford, of South Plainfield, were married by Rev. J. W. Musson, of Faith chapel, yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed at Mr. Musson's home. Mrs. Skoguist was the widow of Nathan Blackford, and is well known in Piscataway. Mr. and Mrs. Skoguist will live in Perth Amboy after the honeymoon.

EYES ON COLLECTORSHIP

Friends of Murray and Hanna Putting Up Strong Fight For the $2,400 Berth.

LEE'S FRIENDS ACTIVE

Independent Man Giving the "Machine" Much Anxiety—Hanna Favored in Fourth Ward—Murray a Favorite.

John W. Murray, Jr., or Thomas Hanna will be the next collector of taxes unless the wheel of fortune points to the success of the anti-organization movement. Which of these two men will be selected by the regular Republican leaders for the berth, which is worth $2,400 a year, is not definitely known, nor is it likely to be until the night of the city convention.

A third factor in the fight for the collectorship within the organization is William Townsend, of the Second Ward, whose candidacy is strongly supported in some quarters. Townsend's friends have been hustling quietly for some time, but what they have accomplished in the way of promises or pledges is not divulged by them.

Hanna's main strength is in the Fourth ward, which is said to be pledged for him. The present collector, Robert A. Lee, hails from that ward and formerly served it in the Councilmanic body. He and his friends in the Independent ranks have left no stone unturned to get a solid delegation favorable to his candidacy. Both Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell and County Register Frank H. Smith, who are the organization leaders in the ward, are known to be friendly to Hanna, but they say that the delegates are unpledged.

Naturally the Third ward will be friendly to John W. Murray, Jr., but there is some reason to believe that Collector Lee's claims will find sure acknowledgment among the delegates, among whom will be Councilman William S. Tyler, probably the most conspicuous foe of the "machine" in the city. Over in the Second ward, all three organization men, Hanna, Murray and Townsend, have friends. The organization leaders, Judge William N. Runyon and Assessor Charles H. Hand, profess to have no choice.

In the First ward, City Clerk James T. MacMurray is the asknowledged "machine" leader, and efforts to get him to come out openly for one candidate or another have been futile. He seems to be playing a waiting game. The chances are, however, that when the time comes MacMurray will throw his support to John W. Murray, Jr. The latter was his choice for the office when the "anti-machine" Common Council selected Lee to fill the unexpired term of Smith.

But there is another side to the story, and that is from the Independents' standpoint. They are fighting tooth and nail for Lee, whose only offense, they say, is that his brother-in-law, J. Stephen Higham, is an "anti-ring" member of the Councilmanic body. Lee has some strength even within the organization, and he is giving the regular leaders no little amount of worry. Tomorrow night will tell the tale.

$300 BARN FIRE.

Small Sunday Afternoon Blaze Stirs Up East Front Street.

Fire did $300 damage to the barn back of P. S. Dayton's residence on East Front street early yesterday afternoon. The blaze was a sharp little one and kept the firemen busy for half an hour.

The origin of the fire is unknown. It discovered itself to several people at once by breaking through the roof. Mr. Dayton was told of the blaze by an excited neighbor and pulled Box 17.

The wagons and horses were taken out unharmed. The flames were confined to the upper loft.

Miss L. A. Smalley owns the place. The loss is fully covered.

Appointed Vocal Instructor.

William Holmes, of the First Baptist church, has been appointed vocal instructor at the Academy of the Sacred Heart, Albany, N. Y. This institution, which is about fifty years old, is for women only and a special feature is made of music. Mr. Holmes has other music interests at Albany. His new duties will commence October 1. During the fall and winter he will be in Albany, Tuesday Wednesday and Thursday of each week, still retaining his vocal interests in this city.

To the Anti-Machine Man.

Do not fail to read the list of Independent Republican candidates published in the advertising columns on page 4. It is essential that you vote correctly, otherwise your ballot will be thrown out by the election officers.

AGAINST SUNDAY GOLF

Protest to be Voiced by Ministers of Denominational Churches.

HOT FIGHT IS ON

Distinguished Citizens Favor Amendment to Club's Constitution—Up Three Years Ago.

Members of the Plainfield Golf Club opposed to Sunday golf have asked the local ministers to preach next Sunday against forms of desecration of the Sabbath. It is said that these members have been successful in their efforts and that from every pulpit will be heard a protest against allowing play on the golf course on Sundays.

A special meeting of the club has been set for Tuesday night, September 19, to take action on proposed amendments presented by members in favor of allowing play on Sunday afternoons, as is the custom of many of the leading organizations of a similar character throughout the country.

The proposed amendments were presented by influential citizens identified with the club. Among the signers were O. T. Waring, T. J. Mumford, J. C. Gilbert, A. E. Barclay, H. M. Stockton, M. S. Ackerman, O. G. Waring, William R. Cock, G. W. Endicott, Walter Gaston, Joseph W. Reinhart, A. F. H. Streuli, John Grierson, Charles A. Reed, Archibald Cox, Henry L. Hall, F. W. Butler, E. B. Shoemaker, Edward A. Cruikshank, Arthur L. Otterson, G. F. Earle, A. G. Hooley, Frederick H. Wills, W. T. Kaufman, Henry D. Hibbard, Edwin S. Hooley and G. G. Davidge.

These members, whose efforts to have a Sunday afternoon golf resolution passed by the club three years ago, argue that the enjoyment of the ancient Scottish game on that day is no more of a desecration than carriage driving, automobiling or similar recreation. They hold that if a professional or business man attends church morning and night on Sunday there is no reason why he should not be permitted to take part in his favorite pastime in the afternoon.

Three years ago the effort to inaugurate Sunday golf was defeated at a club meeting by a vote of 93 to 91.

INJUNCTION ON DAM.

E. S. Hooley Obtains Relief in Chancery Court.

Through his counsel, Reed & Coddington, Edwin S. Hooley, of Rockview avenue, has obtained an injunction in Chancellor Magie's court, restraining John Hermann, of Somerset street, from rebuilding the dam near his sash and blind factory. The recent heavy rains and flood wrecked the dam, and the water flooded the property of Mr. Hooley, as well as that of other owners, doing considerable damage.

The counsel for Mr. Hooley has applied for a rule to show cause why the injunction should not be made permanent. Tuesday, September 19, is the date when the rule is returnable.

Did They Hit Stokes, Pere?

Assistant Division Superintendent Davenport, of the P. S. C., reported to police headquarters yesterday afternon that an old man riding on an East bound line car was cut on the head at East Second street and Johnson avenue, shortly after 11 o'clock, by a stone thrown by one of a gang of young hoodlums. The old man told the conductor he was Governor Stokes' father. The conductor was impressed by this information, but the police were not. If that was the Governor's father," said Sergeant Frederickson, "I guess I'm his grandfather."

FLOOD OF CAMPAIGN DODGERS AT ELEVENTH HOUR

SITUATION IN BOROUGH

Independent Republicans to Take No Part in Primaries.

TO HAVE 3rd TICKET

Anti-Administration Men to Take Action Thursday Night—What the Mayor Has to Say.

To avoid trouble at the polls, the anti-administration Republicans of North Plainfield will take no part in the primary election tomorrow. It was the original intention of the Independent Republicans to come out and battle against the regulars for the county delegates, but the report of the latter's intention to challenge all those who had affiliated with the Citizens at the last election decided the "Cits" to leave the primary to those of unimpeachable regularity.

"It is true that we will take no part in the primary," said one of the anti-Smalley leaders this morning. "I do not wish to be quoted, but you may say that much."

The Citizens are to meet on Thursday night. It is said to be their intention to endorse the Democratic mayoralty nominee, whether he be Thiers or Conroy, and to nominate two councilmanic candidates.

Mayor Smalley says he doesn't know what the issue of the local campaign will be.

"I hope they will attack the administration of affairs during the four terms I have had the honor of being mayor. It is open to their investigation and review," was the way Mr. Smalley summed it up.

The Independents have not given out the platform upon which they depend to defeat the regular organization.

MEMORIAL BUILDING FOR FRESH AIR CAMP

DAVID HAND GIVES MONEY FOR ADDITIONAL MEMORY OF SONS.

Carrying out the dying wish of his son, David Hand, of Berkely avenue, will erect an auditorium for Miss Curry's Netherwood Fresh Air Camp. The building will be a memorial to two dead sons, David and Irving.

David Hand, Jr., died about five years ago, leaving a considerable amount of money that he had saved. This money remained untouched by his parents. A few weeks ago Irving Hand was seized with a fatal illness. When he realized that he was in the valley of the shadow, he asked his father to take a part of his money and combine it with David's money for a gift to the fresh air camp. The entire Hand family has been interested in the camp ever since its inception.

The announcement of the gift was made yesterday afternoon, by Miss Curry, at the last meeting in the camp. Mr. Hand, she said, had decided that an auditorium building was the best form in which the gift could be put.

Plans for the structure are being drawn, and it will be ready in ample time for the opening of next season. At the Hand home this morning it was said that the dimensions and cost of the building had not been decided upon. The cost will be considerably over $1,000, whatever it may be.

—The regular business meeting of the First Baptist church will be held on Wednesday night, September 20.

HOW TO CAST YOUR BALLOT AT TOMORROW'S PRIMARIES

Following is the election law on the method of voting at primaries:

Each voter on entering the polling-room shall register for the ensuing general election, if qualified to do so, unless his name shall be already registered, and after such registry shall ask the board of election for the party ticket he desires to vote, and thereupon shall receive one ticket of the kind demanded; the said voter shall retire with said ticket to one of the booths or compartments, and therein with black pencil erase the name of all persons on said ballot except those for whom he desires to vote; nothing herein shall prevent any voter from voting for any person whose name is not on his party ticket by writing the same thereon; while in the booth or compartment he shall fold the ballot so as to expose the endorsement on the back thereof, and on emerging from the booth shall proceed directly to the ballot-box of his political party, and there deliver his ballot, folded as aforesaid, to the proper member of the board of election, who shall forthwith, in the presence of the voter, deposit the same in the ballot-box provided for the political party of such voter, unless challenged or disqualified as provided in section thirteen (13); should any voter to whom an official ballot has been furnished spoil or render the same unfit for use, he may obtain another from the board of election on returning the one so spoiled or unfitted for use, but no more than three official ballots, one at a time, shall be furnished to any voter at any primary election; if any voter shall make oath or affirmation that he is unable to read and write, and shall request the assistance of the board of registry and election in preparing his ballot, the said board shall designate one of their number to retire with said voter to the booth and assist him in preparing his ballot.

"Anti-Machine" Candidates Make Last Appeals For Support at Primaries.

THE OUTLOOK TODAY

Biggest Fight On in Second Ward—Wilbur the Organization Candidate for Freeholder—The Situation.

"All is fair in love and war" and the same maxim seems to apply to politics judging from the local situation in the Republican factional fight. The postoffice men have been working overtime distributing and delivering last hour campaign circulars. Most of these emanate from the Independents, although the regular organization has been getting busy in this respect.

The campaign circular gotten out by the First Ward Republican Club, an Independent organization, is typical of the lot. It says: "A continuance of ring rule means—return to low license and more saloons; saloons in residential parts of the city (may be next door to you); expensive water such as you now have." The Second Ward Independents say in their circular: "The election of the machine delegates means—the administration of city affairs by 'machine methods.'" Influential men are responsible for the Independents' campaign literature.

From present indications, the battle at the primaries tomorrow will be more bitter than it was two years ago when the regular Republican organization revolted against the party ticket at the general election. All sorts of fake reports have been sent out, among them being that Daniel F. Ginna, the organization candidate for Common Council in the Second ward, had withdrawn from the race.

As matters stand the outcome is problemmatical, but it looks as if the "machine" will carry almost if not everything in sight tomorrow. The hottest sort of a fight is being made over the councilmanic berths. The collectorship and the freeholdership are not being neglected though by a good deal.

One of the strongest campaigns in the movement is being waged by Councilman Theodore Wilson, in the Second ward. He has been working night and day enlisting support from those who do not endorse the organization. It is claimed by his supporters that he has enough promises to ensure his nomination. But the regulars under the leadership of Judge Runyon and Assessor Hand laugh at this claim, and appear to be equally sanguine over the outcome.

It the First ward, where City Clerk James T. MacMurray, the principal object of attack for the Independents, lives, the regulars declare that they will re-elect Councilman William Gloak hands down. Councilman William Starr Bullock, his opponent, feels quite confident of the First district and is devoting more attention to the Second district.

All is harmony in the Third ward so far as the councilmanic situation is concerned for the factions are united on President Leslie M. Daniel for re-election. But in the Fourth ward, a different condition prevails. There Councilman Charles Randolph, heretofore considered as a "anti-machine" man, has been nominated by the regulars. He will be scratched by the Independents. They have no candidate opposing him.

The fight for delegate to the city convention, which will choose the councilmen-at-large, the collector and the freeholder, is being given much attention. This will mean three councilmen one way or the other and the success or failure of the Independent movement largely depends on it.

If the regulars have things their own way at the city convention, it is probable that Samuel P. T. Wilbur will be the successor of Freeholder MacDonald. He seems to be the unanimous choice of the "machine." As told in another column, either John W. Murray or Thomas Hanna will be the organization's candidate to succeed Robert A. Lee in the tax office.

Only in one ward, the Third, have the Democrats a candidate for Common Council. He is John W. Connors. There is no fight in the party and its leaders admit that they have no chance at the November election.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Prospects of a rural free delivery route for Greenbrook road are growing brighter. It is understood that the extension is to be made from the Bound Brook postoffice. There is a good field for a route in the section, and the citizens are, naturally, very anxious to secure its establishment.

The gas mains have not all been laid yet on the south side. The residents are wondering if the P. S. C. is trying to work a "joker" on the franchise agreement.

W. G. Vance is able to be about, after suffering several days with injuries resulting from a fall from a ladder while picking apples.

The primary elections will be held tomorrow by both parties. Balloting will take place in the borough hall, from 1 o'clock to 9.

Mrs. Sanford Ramsey is recovering from her illness at the home of her parents, Rev. and Mrs. W. E. Davis, of Lebanon.

Miss Hattie Case has returned to her home in Brooklyn after a two weeks' visit to relatives here.

Miss Florence Grieb, of Elizabeth, has returned home, after visiting her grandfather, Jacob Grieb.

Miss Augusta Kottman, of New York, has returned home after a visit with Miss Mary Hunt.

Mrs. Thomas Robinson, of Yonkers, is spending several days with Miss Sarah Cunningham.

John Peters, Jr., of Cranford, has returned home after a visit to relatives here.

Z. P. Osmun entertained Alfred Osmun and family, of Jersey City, last week.

Miss Grace Predmore has returned from a short stay at Midland Beach.

William Wiedenhaupt is entertaining Everett Gowdy, of New York.

George Miller, of Roselle, visited friends in Greenbrook yesterday.

Mrs. Charles Thornton is recovering from her severe illness.

Mrs. Clement Dixon visited friends in Newark yesterday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

William Grattan, a well known Plainfield character, was the guest of the town yesterday. Officer Shackleton gathered William in on the corner of Park avenue and the trolley early on Sunday morning, after he had created a little excitement by insisting on having the whole corner to himself. Judge Clark dismissed William last night with a reprimand. Lucky Bill.

The Woman's League will hold an important meeting tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in Meyer's Hall. Business pertaining to the work of the Industrial School will be transacted. All women who are interested in the work are invited to attend the meeting.

The closing exercises at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home yesterday afternoon was attended by many from here who are interested in Miss Curry and her great work among the poor of New York's East Side.

Margaret Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Reynolds, of Bartle avenue, was operated upon for appendicitis at Muhlenberg Hospital last night. Drs. Hedges and Westcote performed the operation.

Manager Daab's team took another from Westfield in the county championship race Saturday afternoon. This victory makes the winning of the pennant an assured thing for the Daabsters.

"Man Eater" Mullin's team, the Florodoras, of Plainfield, failed to put in an appearance for the game scheduled with the local team Saturday afternoon.

Miss Bella Hyams, who has been spending the summer with Miss Susie Parse, returned to her home in New York Saturday.

Miss Florence Nicholl, who has been spending two months visiting points of interest in Europe, returned home yesterday.

The weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held last night in the class rooms of the Methodist church.

Mrs. Albert Moore, of Stanbery avenue, has been entertaining her mother from Elizabeth over Sunday.

The Farther Light Society, of the Baptist church, resumed their monthly meetings yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Frazee Ryno, of Park avenue, has been entertaining her mother from Westfield over Sunday.

Willie Deegan, Manager Daab's star twirler, was the guest Saturday evening of William S. Rapp.

Republican and Democratic primaries will be held tomorrow night in the town hall.

Miss Elsie Cook spent Saturday with Miss Elsie Shott, of East Sixth street, Plainfield.

NETHERWOOD HOME CLOSED.

Offering of $115 Received at Exercises Yesterday.

With an attendance of 300 people the programme rendered at the closing exercises of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home yesterday afternoon was unusually interesting. After reports were made, letters from Rev. E. R. Rodman, David Hand, J. F. Parker, C. W. McCutchen and Mrs. D. M. Runyon were read.

Solos were rendered by Miss Ada Cumming and a quartette composed of E. D. Crane, Thomas A. Beale, L. L. Loveland and C. H. Titus rendered several selections, assisted by Whitfield Frazee, cornetist. Addresses were made by George A. Chapman, Winfield S. Angleman, David Torrey and Miss Florence G. Hawkins.

Previous to the close Miss Curry made an address, in which she took occasion to thank all those who directly or otherwise helped to maintain the Home during the last year.

An offering of $115 was received, which leaves the Home free and clear from all debt.

Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, pronounced the benediction, after which the many friends of Miss Curry gathered around to bid her farewell.

BABY CAMP STILL OPEN.

Work to Continue While Weather Continues Favorable.

The closing days at the King's Daughters' Camp on the mountain are very busy ones for those in charge. It is proposed to keep the institution open as long as the weather continues favorable. Only one child has died at the camp this summer, and that case was practically beyond hope when taken there.

The work at the camp has grown to such proportions that the officers of the City Union, King's Daughters, have decided that another year it will have to be established on a more businesslike basis, that is, there will be a commissary department, with some one person in charge. One drawback this season has been that the organization has been obliged to pay practically the retail price for meats, flour, vegetables and other necessaries, very few persons contributing any of these things. The officers see no reason why it should not be possible to get these things at wholesale price, considering the object, which would mean a great saving.

Miss Edythe Leek, of East Fifth street, has returned from a visit with relatives in Morristown.

Mrs. A. F. Weber and family, of Liberty street, have returned from a week's visit with friends in Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Howes, of the "Madison," have returned from their vacation, spent with the latter's parents in Massachusetts.

AMUSEMENTS.

The gift of sight is a blessing for which every patron of the theatre should feel grateful, for it is by way of this most used of senses that enjoyment of as brilliant a stage spectacle as was ever offered could be made possible. "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast," which comes to the New Plainfield theatre tonight, is chiefly a succession of gorgeous stage pictures, all of which are of more than average elaborateness and surpassing splendor. The "Henderson" and "Kiralfy" extravaganzas at the height of their brilliancy never offered anything as beautiful or as effective as the "Beauty's Awakening" scene in the second act of this imported spectacle; besides the magnificent scenic effects, there is an abundance of witty dialogue, catchy songs and music interpolated by a host of comedians and an army of very charming young women. The company numbers over 100 and includes a ladies' orchestra of twelve pieces. The seat sale is still on and those who intend viewing the performance should lose no time.

"The Honeymoon," the most sparkling and delightful gem of comedy ever constructed, will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre on Thursday night by Miss Charlotte Burnett, the dainty comedienne, and a carefully selected cast of well known and recognized artists. Miss Burnett is particularly suited to play the distinguished heroine Juliana; she has the archness; the coquetry; the dancing eyes and saucy curls and the dainty form to portray the lighter scenes. She shows her high ability also as an emotional actress in the pathetic scenes, which she plays with simple sincerity and girlish loveliness that endears her at once to every individual in the audience. The scenery and costumes are gorgeous, neither money or effort being spared to make this the most beautiful production leaving New York.

"Happy Hooligan's Trip Around the World," the clever farce comedy which comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night, is one of the brightest and best entertainments of its kind ever staged. It has attached to it a corps of pretty girls that are a wonder to the theatrical profession. For adorned beauty, symmetry of form, radiance and brilliancy the "Hooligan" girls are without peers. One of the gowns worn in the production, a black velvet affair, trimmed and embroidered with brilliants, represents an investment of over $2,500. When wearing it Mlle. Valesca shines as a bright-eyed, resplendent houri, transcendentally beautiful and harmoniously symmetrical.

NOTICE!

"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James, Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J. SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

The Daabsters played without an error and every man worked hard for victory.

Mallen made a sensational catch of O'Neill's long drive to deep centre, showing that he is still in the game.

Manager Denman was certainly a crest-fallen man, as he saw the last hope of winning the championship fade away.

It was a heart-breaking contest for Westfield. After having the game by 4 to 2 for seven innings, to lost it by a score of 6 to 4.

McCormick and Robertson, Westfield's two new men, did nothing remarkable at the bat, although their fielding was good.

No one was more pleased with the batting rally in the eighth than Manager Daab. He wore a smile that refused to come off.

Captain Driscoll acted like a two-year-old after the eighth, his joy knowing no bounds. This was true of the rest of the team.

Henning, as usual, was off on balls and strikes, roasting both Waller and Deegan. He gave Deegan scarcely any credit for his drop ball.

More money changed hands over Saturday's contest than in any of the other six contests, and several local fans were caught betting against their team.

"Tuck" Turner officially declares that he has retired from professional baseball for good and hereafter will content himself with playing on independent teams.

Captain Mallen had nothing to say when "Willie" Deegan and Kiernan caught him asleep at second base after making a two bagger. He admitted that he was out.

For the fine article of ball which Manager Daab has given Plainfield this year, it is up to the fans to get together at the close of the season and dine the team in royal fashion.

For five innings Waller was invincible. He used a straight ball and kept it up around the neck of the opposing batsment, but when the locals found him he weakened very much.

"Willie" Deegan pitched a masterly game throughout, but after the eventful eighth inning when Plainfield made four runs, which won the contest, he put on more steam and his opponents were helpless.

"Kid" Dalton appeared for the first time in seven weeks and played a brilliant game. His timely hit in the first brought Kiernan home with the initial run and his fielding was gilt-edge. He is in the game from start to finish.

All honor to Manager Daab, Captain Driscoll and the team. They have given Plainfield the best team in its history, won the county championship from Westfield and proved their right to be called the best independent team in this part of the country.

Now that Plainfield has won the series with Westfield and the county championship, the local fans would like to see Summit and Dover here, if Manager Daab can arrange it. Perhaps the two managers can arrange to sandwich the remaining three contests with Summit and Dover.

FOR ALLENTOWN FAIR.

The Allentown Fair is by all odds one of the most unique exhibitions of the country. Its attendance is simply enormous, and why, you ask? Everything is complete to the minutest detail. The entertainments are exceptionally fine. The live stock show has no equal. The fruit and vegetable exhibits are among the finest procurable, and with the genuine good time always found at Allentown, there is no reason why the fair should not be popular. On the days of the fair the New Jersey Central will sell reduced rate tickets to Allentown and special trains will be run from various points. 9-6 e o d

ALLENTOWN FAIR.

The New Jersey Central will run low rate excursion to Allentown for the Fair on September 21st. Special train leaving Plainfield at 7:55 a. m. Returning from Allentown at 6:30 p. m. Round trip tickets $1.50. The Fair is bigger and better than ever and for a good time you should go. 9-6 e o d Ate Corn and Potatoes.

Six of the Y. M. C. A. boys, under Boys' Secretary Robbie's guidance, went back to natural and a vegetable diet for a while Saturday. They went to Hermann's, in North Plainfield, and ate a lunch of roasted corn and potatoes in the open. A couple of hours later they had a swim in Wilson's pond. The start was made at 11 o'clock, and they returned at 5.

Plainfield, N. J., September 11, 1905.

It is your duty as a citizen and as a taxpayer to vote at the primaries tomorrow. Within the Republican party, in both Plainfield and North Plainfield, bitter factional fights are being waged. Vote as your conscience and common sense dictate.

If you have any doubt as to whether your ballot is properly marked for voting, ring up or call at The Daily Press office before you vote at the primaries. Specimen ballots of all the wards, for whatever party or faction you may espouse, are on exhibition at this office.

William Waldorf Astor and Richard Croker each in turn found life abroad better to their liking. And now James Hazen Hyde has forever renounced America to live in France. All of this is very creditable to the "land of the free and home of the brave."

Much misunderstanding exists regarding the purpose of the special election which has been arranged by the Common Council to take place on Tuesday, September 26. It is called under the provisions of a statute of 1876 permitting municipalities to obtain permission to investigate the desirability and feasibility of city ownership of water works. The result of the vote on September 26 will not mean that the people want or do not want to gain control of the water supply. It will simply mean that they approve of a thorough investigation of the subject, incidently permitting the Common Council to make an appropriation for the purpose. The necessary information on such an important question cannot be obtained without some outlay and before this expense can be met the taxpayers must authorize it. Not until all the necesasry information is at hand and the Common Council is ready to present a definite proposition will the people be called upon to express their approval or disapproval of municipal ownership of the utility. The question will be asked, naturally, why was not this special election merged with the general one in November as provided by the State election law? The reason given by the public affairs committee of the Common Council is that it was deemed too important to be decided at the time an unusually exciting political contest is being fought out. It was deemed that the subject would not be given the mature consideration at an election when partisan and factional spirit is running high. Consequently, the committee decided that it was justified in authorizing the expenditure of approximately $800 to conduct a special election for the purpose.

It was an Elizabeth paper that said Plainfield would control its water supply some months before the people at the county seat would accomplish that end. This may be true, but it is not wise to think that municipal ownership will be put in operation here at any early date. We were a long time in getting municipal street sprinkling, and today we are told that the much-needed and long-desired municipal collection and disposal of garbage system is too expensive to be assumed. Since the two latter propositions were first suggested, Plainfield has added to its heavy obligations on the sewage disposal system and other indebtedness by recently issuing a large amount of bonds to cover the expense of erecting a $100,000 school house. Now, whether the city establishes a municipal water plant by condemnation, purchase or by the construction of a distinctly new and separate system, it is reasonable to believe that the expense incurred will foot up to approximately $1,000,000. It should be stated in this connection that the present Water Supply Company is said to value its plant in the neighborhood of $3,000,000. The expense of a municipal plant would naturally be met by issuing bonds, and anyone can figure out in round figures just about how much interest the city would be obliged to pay annually on such bonds. It should also be taken into consideration that the city's present contract with the Water Supply Company has seven years yet to run, therefore it can be seen that the chances of establishing a municipal system at an early date are slight. We draw attention to this phase of the subject, not in any spirt of opposing the plan of public ownership of water or any other utility which would be a benefit to the people, but that the taxpayers know that the proposition is a serious one.

M. WITTE SEES A BOOM FOR JERSEY

TELLS ENGINEERS FROM THIS STATE OF GREAT PROSPECT OF BUSINESS.

Sergius Witte, the Russian peace envoy, was visited last week at the Hotel St. Regis, in New York, by a number of civil engineers from this and other cities of the State, who at various times have designed machinery for the Russian Government. M. Witte was presented by G. Wilfred Pearce, of Newark, a set of resolutions embodying the kindly regards which many makers of steam, compressed air, electric and other machinery entertain for the Russian Minister of Railways and Steamships, Prince Hilkoff, whose management of the trans-Siberian Railroad has stamped him as one of the greatest railroad men in the world.

M. Witte, responding to the resolutions, expressed the belief that the manufacturers of New Jersey who have in past times done a large business with Russia, are going to have still better opportunities for business opened to them in the near future because of the many large orders for machinery and general industrial supplies that come from that country.

Among others who paid their respects to the Russian envoy were Charles D. Pearce, of Jersey City, who designed and built the water works at Vladivostok; Martin B. Cunningham, of Paterson, who designed most of the electric engineering features at Port Arthur, and Rodney B. Miller, of Camden, a well-known designer of steam machinery.

In the resolutions presented to M. Witte there was embodied some of the views on the feeling of American engineers, which were expressed in Russian by William L. Saunders, M. E., ex-Mayor of Plainfield and president of the Ingersoll-Sergeant Machinery Works at Phillipsburg. Mr. Saunders has made many million dollars' worth of machinery for Prince Hilkoff and for members of the family of M. Witte, whose guest he was recently in St. Petersburg.

It is perhaps natural for Prince Hilkoff to favor the New Jersey manufacturers of machinery, as he once lived in this State. He ran away from home when a boy, and landed penniless from a merchantman in Jersey City, where he worked for three years at locomotive building. Later he worked for one year for Seth Boyden in Newark.

Eddy, Canaan, Conn.; L. M. Daniel, Plainfield; De Lagnel Berier, Ridgewood; Harry S. Blake, Clinton, Conn.; M. E. Webber, Tarrytown, N. Y.; Edward C. Phillip, Hoboken; N. C. Hendrickson, Jamaica, Long Island; William K. Gillette, Pelham Manor, N. Y.; Dr. Charles S. Benedict, New York city, and the "class boy," Edwin M. Daniel, Jr., of Plainfield.

DUNELLEN.

Richard and David Steinfelt, of Newark, who claimed to be match peddlers, were arrested Saturday night on suspicion of being something more and worse. They were detected lighting matches back of houses on Washington avenue, and it was feared they were either thieves or firebugs. They told conflicting stories when arraigned before Recorder Campbell and suspicion was strengthened. There was no proof, however, and the men were released after sharp talking to.

A wheel belonging to Daniel Gray was stolen from Alberts' poolroom about four months ago. Yesterday Gray found a bicycle which he positively identified as his, in the possession of James Jackson, colored, eighteen years old, an employe of Frank Randolph, who lives just beyond New Market. Jackson was arrested. Judge Campbell put him under $50 bail to appear for a hearing Wednesday night. Randolph went on the bond.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Mrs. Daniel Bigley was the leader of the C. E. prayer meeting last night at the Baptist church. There was a good attendance and an interesting meeting.

Miss Maude Totten and her brother, Randolph Totten, of Robbinsville, have returned home after spending three days visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. William Faulks entertained Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tappen, of Plainfield, yesterday.

Samuel Goff is seriously ill with an attack of neuralgia.

BIG FAIR TO BLOCK TICKETS SCALPING

TRENTON DIRECTORS TO ISSUE TICKETS ON MAIL ORDER SYSTEM.

Preliminary arrangements for the exhibition of the Interstate fair, which will be held at Trenton September 25, 26, 27, 28 and 29, are already fully matured, and at recent meetings of the board of directors of the association plans were decided upon for several new features and extensive improvements to the grounds and buildings.

A resolution was passed which is intended to prevent the whoesale scalping of tickets, which has been so extensively complained of in the past. The scheme to foil the scalpers provides that all tickets for every day of the exhibition, except one section each for Wednesday and Thursday, for the grandstand, shall be disposed of by the mail order method. This sale opened September 9, and will close September 14. Each letter must be accompanied by cash or its guarantee equivalent. Not more than six tickets will be reserved for one person.

LITERARY.

The following story of Walter Pater, the first biography of whom has recently appeared in the Contemporary Men of Letters Series (McClure-Philips), has just reached this country. Pater, it is said, was very much afraid of the dark; and being ashamed of the weakness, tried hard to school himself out of it. Frequently in the middle of the night he would descend to the dark and deserted drawing-room of any house where he happened to be staying, and would sit in the middle of it, his eyes shut, trying to conjure away the fear of the dread shapes and horrors with which he felt himself surrounded. On one occasion, while he was visiting at a country home near London, his friend brought back unexpectedly from town a celebrated woman writer, with whom Pater had been in correspondence, but whom he had not yet met. She arrived late in the day—after Pater had gone to bed. She had not dined and grew hungry about midnight. Slipping on her dressing-gown, the loose folds of which somewhat exaggerated her exceedingly long and angular figure, she descended in search of the cracker jar. As she started to cross the silent, shadowy drawing-room, she was startled by the appearance directly before her, of a white-clad figure. She shrieked; and Pater, for it was he clad in his pajamas, opened his eyes. Panic stricken by the materialization of his worst terror of the night he fled precipitately into the arms of the apparition. What explanation followed, and what effect this nocturnal adventure had upon the writer of "Marius" is not known, but the episode was the beginning of a friendship which proved most profitable to both concerned.—McClure's Magazine.

A little girl who reads nature-books, studies natural history, and is devoted to pets was discovered holding bunny in her lap, trying to direct his attention to a book that she had, and ever and anon boxing his long ears vigorously. Auntie was shocked, of course, and inquired what was the moving cause of such cruelty.

"He's so stubborn," replied the little teacher.

"A rabbit stubborn! Why child, I never heard of such a thing. What is he stubborn about?"

"I'm trying to teach him the multiplication-table, and he just won't try to learn, nor even say it over after me. Now, you say, it sir, 'Three times two are six—three times three are nine.' "

But the rabbit didn't say it, and again auntie inquired into her little niece's conduct as two or three more cuffs were administered to the poor creature's all to convenient ears.

"Why, auntie," explained the girl, "the books all say that rabbits multiply faster than any other animal, and this obstinate little creature won't even go through the three times threes with me."—Henry M. Wiltse, in September Lippincott's.

The annexation of Texas in 1845 brought peace and happiness to the citizens of the republic of Texas, who had become weary of war with Mexico and the incessant worry of protecting the frontier from Indian raids. The massacres of Texans at the Alamo and Goliad were gruesome reminiscences of the cost of liberty. Texas history for a hundred and thirty years was written in the blood of its pioneers. There was also a touch of romance, happiness and love mingled with the horror. The occupation of the frontier of Texas by the United States troops in 1845 was hailed with delight by the citizens of Texas, and the State was now destined to enjoy the tranquillity of life to which it had been a stranger.—Vinton L. James in Sunset Magazine for September.

Hetty Green, America's richest woman, and Ada Clare, "Queen of Bohemia," are contrasted types treated by brilliant writers in the National Magazine for September. Mayor Dunne's argument for city ownership of Chicago's street railways is forcefully replied to by Allen Ripley Foote. Judge William H. Brawley, of South Carolina, brilliantly analyzes the sources of secession in "Our Civil War in Perspective." Henry Austin's "The Episode of the Spanish Poem" is an odd and amusing sketch on the lighter side of New Orleans life. Lee McCrae writes briefly, but pointedly, of the General Forrest statue in Memphis as a tribute to American bravery. The Nan Pattersons of current yellow newspaper fame, and their admirers, are scathingly dissected by Mrs. E. D. Kendall in a topical poem entitled "The Newer Woman." Michael A. Lane begins publication of a series of six scientific papers under the general heading "Man in Perspective." The first paper is "The Social Idea." Boy and girl readers will be delighted to know that the September National contains the first half of a two-part story for the young folks, entitled "The Little Green Goblin of Goblinville," by James Ball Naylor, the author of "The Witch-Crow and Barney Bylow." Other stories in this number are by Lewis E. MacBrayne, Jessie M. Whittaker and F. F. D. Albery.

A Slow Village.

Marksboro, a Jersey village up the Susquehanna Railroad, has a new baby, the first born there in seven years. The total population of the place is 357, and it has only six children under ten years old, counting the spell-breaker. Nobody has died there in the past two years, so that the undertaker as well as the stork has had a sinecure.—Paterson Press.

OYSTERS.

Now is the season for Oysters. Do you know how to fry them?

Sprinkle a few drops of lemon juice on the oysters, add a very little mace, turn in egg and mace, then in grated crackers and fry in a pan in "SFAX" VIRGIN OLIVE OIL. Frying the oysters too long makes them hard.

Beware of the many adulterated cotton seed oil brands with which our market is flooded, and which only cause indigestion.

Be sure to use

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

FASHION WHIMS.

New fall sweaters have collars and cuffs of knitted plaid.

Brown has had a strenuous run in millinery and will not play a large part in the composition of the autumn hat.

Young girls are wearing the dantiest of soft white and mull frocks simply tucked and capped by white mull hats.

Yellow linens have a little vogue, but the color is too trying to take well and is not nearly so popular as pink or blue.

Hunt up all your odds and ends of velvet, for this material is to be more extensively used than ever in adorning the winter gown.

One of the prettiest flower fans contains an ovel mirror on the reverse side, while attached to its ribbon loops are three tiny bags holding sachet, puff and powder.

Skirts haven't made up their minds whether to sweep the ground or disport themselves airily aloft, but the chances are a sensible length will be a la mode for walking.

A good many women now wear all white instead of black for mourning and long, heavy veils are slowly but surely being abandoned, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

It has become almost a necessity that dress accessories should match, and certainly there has been no prettier fashion than that of having shoes, gloves, hat, parasol and bag all of a single hue.

The open-work stocking is numerous and various, but fashion agrees that there is nothing really daintier than the plain silk hose molding the instep to perfect curves.

The first matinee days will probably witness a large crop of lace blouches, so multitudinous and beautiful are the new designs in all-over laces.

Sleeves hesitate to declare themselves openly, but it is at least ordained that all fullness must be above the elbow, and it is apparent that there need not be quite so much fullness as we had at first thought.

A blouse should never look like the top of a gown worn with a stray skirt, and that is exactly what the surplice separate waist looks like and why it does not "take."

One delectable petticoat of straw-cloored taffeta is embroidered with flower baskets spilling their pink and blue blossoms among the lace frills at the foot.

The "keepin" hairpin is a boon in the shape of a novel pin with fleur de lis top and curved prongs, so made that is cannot possibly slip out of the hair unbidden.

The smartness of the maline neck ruff depends wholly on the way it is worn, the correct method being to drop it loosely and low on the shoulders as ruffs are worn in old pictures.

Most dainty and charming of all the fichus is a simple little ruffled affair of white net which can be gotten up for a few pennies yet lends indescribale quaintness to the frock it adorns.

WRINKLES.

Forehead wrinkles are of two varieties, says the Pilgrim. There are wrinkles running from temple to temple, and wrinkles running up and down. There is a third class of creases which seem to cross all the other ones, making a sort of checkerboard of a lady's brow. These last are the constitutional wrinkles.

The worst wrinkles are those that go up and down between the eyes, for there is no hiding them. Glasses only make them more conspicuous, for they give a severe look to the face; the monocle brings them out with startling distinctness; the lorgnette simply calls attention to them, and bangs and frizzes fail to conceal them. They are always there, and they give the face a menacing look.

The temple to temple wrinkles—those long wrinkles which run across the forehead—can be covered up in a way. The pompadour can be pulled down in chorus girl fashion, hiding them on one side, or the hair can be banged and curled in English style, which is heavy and deep in the front. These wrinkles can be, in a great measure, covered up; yet, cover them up as she will, no woman's forehead will ever look youthful if she allows these wrinkles to remain. They, somehow, give her away very quickly.

"I can tell a woman's age," said an expert, "by looking at her forehead. I don't have to see her teeth or her hands. If there are deep wrinkles I know she is old and careless, which is a bad combination for a woman."

In these days of plumping creams she can keep her hands in shape past the age of 40, and if she goes to a cosmetic dentist she can preserve her teeth, but it takes a wise woman to know how to take care of her forehead.

The best wrinkle remedy is cold cream. But there are wrinkles and wrinkles, and there is cold cream and cold cream. "What can I do for a deep furrow in my brow?" asked a woman of a wrinkle specialist. The specialist looked at the deep furrow, which was so heavy that you could lay your finger in it, and said: "You can do a great deal. But will you?" then he added, more soothingly, "Treat it, madame, treat it."

Mrs. Henry Hunter, of Bensonhurst, is spending a week with her mother, Mrs. Welsh, of Lee place.

By MIRIAM MICHELSON

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company).

It hasn't been a very happy week for me, I can tell you, Maggie. But I forgot it all, every shiver and ache of it,

YES, THERE IT WAS.

when I came into the office that morning, as usual, and found Mason alone.

Not altogether alone—he had his bottle. And he had had it and others of the same family all the night before. The poor drunken wretch hadn't been home at all. He was worse than he'd been that morning three days before, when I had stood facing him and talking to him, while with my hands behind my back I was taking a wax impression of the lock of the desk; and he as unconscious of it all as Tausig himself.

The last page I had dictated the day before, which he'd been transcribing from his notes, lay in front of him; the gas was still burning directly above him, and a shade he wore over his weak eyes had been knocked awry as his poor old bald head went bumping down on the type-writer before him.

The thing that favored me was Tausig's distrust of everybody connected with him. He hates his partners only a bit less than he hates the men outside the trust. The bigger and richer the syndicate grows, the more power and prosperity it has, the more he begrudges them their share of it; the more he wants it all for himself. He is madly suspicious of his clerks, and hires others to watch them, to spy upon them. He is continually moving his valuables from place to place, partly because he trusts no man, partly because he's so deathly afraid his right hand will find out what his left is doing. He is a full partner of Braun and Lowenthal—with mental reservations. He has no confidence in either of them. Half his schemes he keeps from them; the other half he tells them—part of. He's forever afraid that the syndicate of which he's the head will fall to pieces and become another syndicate of which he won't be head.

It all makes him an unhappy, restless little beast; but it helped me today. If it'd been any question of safe combinations and tangled things like that, the game would have been all up for Nancy O. But in his official safe Tausig keeps only such papers as he wants Braun and Lowenthal to see. And in his private desk in his private office he keeps—

I stole past Mason, sleeping with his forehead on the typewriter keys—he'll be lettered like the obelisk when he wakes up—and crept into the next room to see just what Tausig keeps in that private desk of his.

Oh, yes, it was locked. But hadn't I been carrying the key to it every minute for the last 48 hours? There must be a mine of stuff in that desk of Tausig's, Mag. The touch of every paper in it is slimy with some dirty trick, some bad secret, some mean action. It's a pity that I hadn't time to go through 'em all; it would have been interesting; but under a bundle of women's letters, which that old fox keeps for no good reason, I'll bet, I lit on a paper that made my heart go bumping like a cart over cobbles.

Yes, there it was, just as Obermuller had vowed it was, with Tausig's cramped little signature followed by Heffelfinger's, Dixon's and Weinstock's; a scheme to crush the business life out of men by the cleverest, up-to-date trust deviltry; a thing that our Uncle Sammy just won't stand for.

And neither will Nancy Olden, Miss Monahan.

She grabbed that precious paper with a gasp of delight and closed the desk.

But she bungled a bit there, for Mason lifted his head and blinked dazedly at her for a moment, recognized her and shook his head.

"No—work to-day," he said.

"No—I know. I'll just look over what we've done, Mr. Mason," she answered, cheerfully.

His poor head went down again with a bob, and she caught up the typewritten sheets of Obermuller's play. She waited a minute longer; half because she wanted to make sure Mason was asleep again before she tore the sheets across and crammed them down into the waste basket; half because she pitied the old fellow and was sorry to take advantage of his condition. But she knew a cure for this last sorry—a way she'd help him later; and when she danced out into the hall she was the very happiest burglar in a world chock full of opportunities.

Oh, she was in such a twitter as she did it! All that old delight in doing somebody else up, a vague somebody whose meanness she didn't know, was as nothing to the joy of doing Tausig up. She was dancing on a volcano again, that incorrigible Nance! Oh, but such a volcano, Maggie! It atoned for a year of days when there was nothing doing; no excitement, no risk, nothing to keep a girl interested and alive.

And, Maggie, darling, it was a wonderful volcano, that one, that last one, for it worked both ways. It paid up for what I haven't done this past year and what I'll never do again in the years to come. It made up to me for all I've missed and all I'm going to miss. It was a reward of demerit for not being respectable, and a preventive of further sins. Oh, it was such a volcano as never was. It was a drink and a blue ribbon in one. It was a bang-up end and a bully beginning. It was—

It was Tausig coming in as I was going out. Suddenly I realized that, but I was in such a mad whirl of excitement that I almost ran over the little fellow before I could stop myself.

"Phew! What a whirlwind you are!" he cried. "Where are you going?"

"Oh, good morning, Mr. Tausig," I said, sweetly. "I never dreamed you'd be down so early in the morning."

"What're you doing with the paper?" he demanded, suspiciously.

My eye followed his. I could have beaten Nancy Olden in that minute for not having sense enough to hide that precious agreement, instead of carrying it rolled up in her hand.

"Just taking it home to go over it," I said, carelessly, trying to pass him. But he barred my way.

"Where's Mason?" he asked.

"Poor Mason!" I said. "He's—he's asleep."

"Drunk again?"

I nodded. How to get away!

"That settles his hash. Out he goes to-day. . . . It seems to me you're in a deuce of a hurry," he added, as I tried to get out again. "Come in; I want to talk something over with you."

"Not this morning," I said, saucily. I wanted to cry. "I've got an engagement to lunch, and I want to go over this stuff for Mason before one."

"Hm! An engagement. Who with, now?"

My chin shot up in the air. He laughed, that cold, noiseless little laugh of his.

"But suppose I want you to come to lunch with me?"

"Oh, thank you, Mr. Tausig. But how could I break my engagement with—"

"With Braun?"

"How did you guess it?" I laughed. "There's no keeping anything from you."

VETS' RANKS THINNING.

Thirty Thousand of the Boys in Blue Died in 1904.

Denver, Col., Sept. 11.—According to the report of Commander in Chief King, 30,304 survivors of the Civil War died during the last year, and the pension roll now contains the names of 684,608 survivors, as against 690,792 at the end of 1904. The work of the commission on legislation for veterans in public service is especially commended. House bill No. 15,254, introduced in Congress April 30, 1904, had it become a law, would have caused the summary discharge June 30, 1907, of all veterans 70 years old or over. The commission succeeded in killing the bill. The members are urged to vigilance, however, because of efforts to a similar end that it is reported will be made in the future.

Flag legislation has been secured in thirty-two States during the last seven years, three of which—Idaho, Kansas and Wyoming—were brought into line in the past year.

Good progress is also reported on the movement to establish a national park on the site of the battle of Fredericksburg, in Virginia.

Surgeon General Warren R. King advocated some action toward providing for the care of indigent veterans and their wives who may have lost their reason. In several instances he found it impossible to secure admission for persons in this condition to the national asylums for the insane. In the end they were compelled to drift back to poor asylums of the States.

Quartermaster General Charles Burrows makes an interesting report on the finances of the organization, his books showing the expenditures of last year to have been $15,334.68, with assets amounting to $26,261.71, leaving a balance of $10,927.03.

KNOCKED OUT FATHER.

Hit Him in the Temple with a Pitched Ball.

Mayor Kelly, of Chatham, played baseball Friday for the first time in a quarter of a century, with disastrous results. As he was going home from business about 5 p. m. he saw some boys at the national game in a lot, and hopped the fence to join in the sport.

"Roll," he said to his son, who was in the box, "I'll bet you a box of Uneeda biscuits you can't strike me out."

The boy took the challenge, and the Mayor swung hard at the ball, which dodged the bat and hit him squarely on the temple. His Honor went down and out, and was unconscious for nearly half an hour. He was taken home in an ambulance.

ANOTHER ERRORLESS GAME.

Hobokens Play a Fast Game with Royal Giants.

Following up their good work of Saturday in defeating Westfield in a sensational contest, the Hobokens defeated the Royal Giants at St. George Cricket Grounds, Hoboken, yesterday by a score of 4 to 1. "Willie" Deegan was in great form and allowed the visitors but two hits up to the ninth inning, when he let up and allowe dthem to score one run. The Hobokens played a brilliant game in the field and at the bat. As on Saturday, they played an errorless game. The score:

POND MEN WON.

Singer Combination Handily Trounced at the 'Port 14 to 4.

The Pond Tool Works nine got back at the Singer factory men in Elizabethport Saturday afternoon, winning the third game of the series by a score of 14 to 4. Ettlinger, the former Dunellen pitcher, twirled for Pond's, and O'Loughlin, of Clinton avenue, caught him.

Ettlinger's pitching was a puzzle to the 'Port men. He held them safe at every stage, only four hits being made from his delivery. The Pondville players went at the other man freely and took advantage of every chance. In the eighth Ettlinger made himself the hero of the game by smashing out a three-bagger with two men on bases.

Pond's lined up as follows:

Ettlinger, p; O'Loughlin, c; Daily, 1b; Dodge, 2b; Taylor, 3b; Martin, ss; Barnes, rf; Keefe, cf; O. Dodge, lf.

SEES PERILS AHEAD IN CENTRALIZATION

CHARLES S. SMINCK ON TOO MUCH FEDERAL CONTROL.

Although he is an ardent Republican, Charles S. Sminck, of East Front street, finds perils in the theory of centralization. In fact he believes firmly in State's rights in the matter of control of steamboat inspection, railroads, insurance and big corporations, as outlined in the following letter published by the New York Journal of Commerce:

"It is time the business world woke up to the vital importance of this question and called a halt on the mad politics of the movement, which may be lasting in result by making the Federal capital not the seat of sane government but a centralized bureaucracy wound round and round with red tape, pulls and scandal.

"Tammany Hall never had a worse scandal than the known inefficiency of the Federal steamboat inspection previous to June 15, 1904.

"In 1887 the writer of the article publicly called attention to the violation of the Federal steamboat laws, and nothing was done in the matter by the Government until after the disaster to the General Slocum. It took the Government just seventeen years to find out that the Federal supervision of steamboats was rotten and inefficient. How long would it take in the case of railroads, insurance companies and other coporations for the Federal Government to discover the same fact?

"The idea of practically abandoning the State governments and establishing in their place a single centralized institution at Washington should call forth an earnest and patriotic protest from the people. The further you take the affairs of Government away from the people the greater the chance for favoritism, corruption and injustice. Larger evils are more apt to be created by this so-called short cut to honesty in public life than there would be if some of our impetuous statesmen would have a little patience and allow things to adjust themselves along the lines laid down by the able and far-sighted founders of the Government.

"The great mass of the people are honest and they will strike down dishonesty as soon as they are certain of its discovery. The remedy is apt to come more quickly through the State governments than through the National Government.

"Imagine the complicated scheme some Washington statesmen are trying to get up so that politicians can fix the railroad rates and create a national political organization of graft and blackmail.

"The simple way to do would be to compel the railroads to publish their rates. A shipper doesn't care what the rate is providing his competitor has to pay the same rate.

"Pass a law making it a criminal offence to grant or to receive a rebate. Put the violators of the law in jail for each offence and the rebate system will stop.

"Another thing, enforce existing laws and see that it is done before trying new remedies which, in effect, would revolutionize the Government."

$120 FOR SOMERSET COUNTY.

Twenty-four Italians Fined for Stealing Coal.

Detective Totten, of Somerset county, went to Bound Brook Saturday and arrested twenty-four Italians and Hungarians, old and young, on charges of stealing coal from the New Jersey Central Railroad at that place.

The bunch of prisoners was brought to Somerville and arraigned before Pustice Sutphen. He let them off after each one of them paid $5 fine.

TWO BEST PITCHERS IN THE COUNTRY

MATHEWSON AND CHESBRO ARE THE ONES.

Much talk has been heard regarding the relative merits of various of the well known major league pitchers this season. It is the consensus of opinion that the two New York twirlers—Christy Mathewson, of the Nationals, and Jack Chesbro, of the Americans—have led the leagues in all around efficiency in the box.

Mathewson's greatest exploit thus far has been the no hit, no run game he pitched in Chicago, against Frank Selee's Cubs. Chesbro does not stand out because of any one or two particular feats, but rather because of a steady streak of twirling of the highest class.

Chesbro, by the way, has had a rather varied experience in baseball. He was first sighted as a player by Jake Wells, the present theatrical promoter, who at one time was manager of the Richmond, Va., club.

Jack was put into the game immediately by Wells. He had been pitching well for small teams up to the time of joining the Richmond club. However, his new honor seemed to unnerve him. His first games were more disastrous than those of his protege, Walter Clarkson, the Harvard star, who was released by the New York Americans and signed by the Jersey City team, of the Eastern League. Jack lost his first five games. He asked for another chance. He was given it, and lost five more consecutive games. Wells thought Chesbro a punctured balloon, but the indomitable begged for still another trial.

"He's got nerve, all right," thought Wells. "I guess I'll let him try again." Jack pitched four more games and lost every one, a total of fourteen consecutive defeats.

"That will be about all for you, Jack," said Wells. "Pack up the little trunk and try chicken farming."

"Now, look here," was Chesbro's response. "I lost fourteen games straight, everybody knows—in fact, I haven't won a single game for you. But I tell you I can pitch, and if you let me pitch one more game, just one more, I'll prove that I know what I'm talking about."

Wells thought the matter over for a couple of days, and, finally, with many misgivings, sent Jack once more to the slab. Chesbro won the game handily, as he promised, and then won the next sixteen games in which he twirled. Seventeen straight more than wiped out the fourteen defeats, and thereafter Jack pitched phenomenal ball. It was the memory of his hard times at the start of his career that caused him to have faith in young Clarkson, even after the latter evidenced lack of major league caliber.

Many fans in various cities now vote the man who once lost fourteen straight games to be the greatest twirler of the day. Jack has let up on the spit ball to a considerable extent, and his salary wing is now in good shape.

Commitment for Boy Thief.

Mrs. Lena Friedman, mother of David Friedman, the ten-year-old thief, was in the city court this morning in response to an order from Judge Runyon. The magistrate told her it was time the boy was put away, and she was instructed to appear with him before Judge Vail in the county court for commitment to some institution, on Wednesday morning.

Stood Off the Police.

Nicholas Kelly, of Regent street, charged with disorderly conduct, refused to be arrested at his house last night when Marshal Weiss went after him, without a warrant. The cop had to get one, and it was procured so late that he decided to wait until this morning before serving it. Kelly was arrested on his way to work.

Awning Ablaze.

Somebody in the flat above George F. Brown's real estate office on Somerset street threw a lighted cigar butt from the window yesterday noon. It lodged on the awning and started a blaze that ruined it. The fire house is across the street, and the men put the blaze out before it could work into the stores.

Justice Hand's Court.

Summonses in the landlord and tenant cases of Henry DeMott against Sarah O'Neil and Mary Reidy against James Sanders have been issued by Justice Hand. Mrs. O'Neil lives at 214 New street; the other premises are at 528 West Fourth street.

PLAINFIELD WINS PENNANT

mered Mr. Waller with merciless fury. In that one inning they rapped five times safely, as many as in all the other innings combined, and luck saved Red from yet another thump. Not one of them struck out, even Deegan making the infield work for his death. They scored four runs, and all the tallies and four of the hits came after two outs—they simply would not be denied revenge.

After that there was nothing to the game. Red, shaken and dishearened, struck no more out; there was no more hitting, but nobody felt that any more was necessary. As for the Pirate band, in their remaining taump periods they had one W. Deegan to contend with, and found him an insurmountable stumbling block.

Willie's flinging all through the game was uniformly good. Red's twirling was spectacular in those seven good innings and Willie seemed to be overshadowed, but the post mortem discloses William as the chief exhibit on the firing line. Willie was touched for only seven thumps, and kept them well scattered. If it hadn't been for O'Neill's interference with Flynn in the first, the Pirates would have had just one talley. Just to show that he could do such things, Bill fanned the side in the sixth.

The silent curvesmith was faultlessly supported. The Pirates were outplayed in every department. They made three misplays, and escaped other black marks because there is no column for errors of judgment.

Both teams opened on the blackboard in the initial session. Kiernan sauntered, stole second, went to third on Cosgrave's sacrifice, and registered on Dalton's clean rap to center. Dalton was forced by Connolly, and Dan was nipped trying for second on the play.

Flynn started the trouble for us after Bertwhistle made an easy out. He rapped to left and went to second on Wahl's scratch hit. Robertson hit to Deegan and Willie held the ball to see where it would do the most damage. While Bill was figuring Flynn shot around the corner at third and hiked for home. Bill fired to third at the same instant and Leonard whipped the ball down to O'Neill. In the doubling and dodging that ensued Jack forced Micky off the line, and the ump gave him the run. In the meanwhile Wahl went to third and Robby to second. Joe came in on McCormick's rap to second, Dude roosting safe on fielder's choice, and nobody taking third. He scored on Waller's put out, Deegan to Driscoll. Barry filed out to Driscoll.

In the second Leonard carried in another for us on fielder's choice, Wahl's error and Dave Driscoll's rocket shot into right. Dave lost the chance to score some more by forgetting that there was only one out when O'Neill popped to second. He went on toward third and made a double easy. It was painful for the crowd because the faux pas came after a brilliant bellywhopper to second.

The fourth and last mark for the Pirates eventuated prettily in the seventh on Barry's Texas leaguer, Paddy Cotter's sacrifice and Red's sharp welt to right. Bertwhistle flied out and Flynn was easy, box to first. The inning was further enlivened by a scintillating running catch by G. Mallen; it was the fielding feature of the game. While on the subject of the reserved and retiring Pirate leader, we will call attention to the fact that he made the only extra-base hit of the contest. That he was caught napping immediately afterwards simply illustrates the uncertainties of baseball glory. George has experienced much of this uncertainty in the course of his earnest life.

Willie Deegan began the bumpful and exhilarating eighth by rapping a bounder to Flynn. If a pitcher doesn't strike out he is regarded as doing well, so Pete Kiernan was not cast down by Willie's swift death. He calmly singled to left. Wally Cosgrave, taking up the burden of vengeance, followed suit with a promptness that electrified the Plainfield fanatics. Dalton slammed one for the hole between second and short. Micky Flynn, playing close to the bag, raced around and got two fingers on the leather, just enough to knock it down. Kiernan, thinking Micky had stabbed the globule, slowed up for a scurry to cover, and started again for third too late to make it before the ball, retrieved by the quick-footed Michael, reached Tommy Barry. Still, Cossy was on second, and James held first. To show that it takes more than two outs to end a flinger's troubles, Dan Connolly put the round thing exactly where the other two thumpers had landed it, and Cosgrave romped in. Pete Cregan, still smarting under the sting of that suspicious strike-out, chopped viciously at the leather and sent it on a Texan trip to right. Robertson hesitated just a fraction of a second before he started for it, and then went so fast that he tripped himself up. Dalton plunged in with the tieing tally, Dan went to third and Pete to second before the ball came back. Mike Leonard did his full duty with a ripping slash to right that brought Dan and Pete in.

The scoring of those two tallies loosed batteries of joy. Capt. Dave chirrupped like a schoolboy and thumped everybody within reach on the back. Pete Creegan hopped around and chattered, the other members of the team displayed varying degrees of emotion, and several hundred people in the grandstand and bleachers gave all the symptoms of temporary madness. Other people on the seats and one C. Denman were curiously silent and unsmiling during this period. It's funny how the same event has different effects on different people.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Grace M. E. church, being among the first to secure the new Methodist hymnal, the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, commenced last night the first of a series of evenings with hymns and their writers. He spoke in a general way of music as a method of expression and then gave incidents in the lives of well known hymn writers, such as Joseph Addison, James Montgomery, Augustus Toplady and Charles Wesley. As each of the best of the hymns of these writers were mentioned, the congregation joined in singing them. The service was concluded with the singing of "God Be With You 'Till We Meet Again." It is Dr. Parsons' intention during the fall and winter to have a number of similar services.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, occupied his pulpit yesterday after an absence of several weeks on his vacation. Large congregations attended both the morning and night services, and the pastor delivered two strong and impressive sermons. The chorus choir also returned for the fall and winter months, and the music was a feature of the day. Last night Dr. Chambliss announced that it was his purpose to shorten the Sunday night services, and his sermons at that time would be short, allowing more time for special music. In making this change he explained that it was due to the fact that after the many services held during the day there was a natural exhaustion on the part of the members, and he believed it wise to make the Sunday night service a brief one.

Piano Instruction.

May Vincent Whitney has returned from a few weeks' stay at the shore and will resume piano instruction at her studio in the Babcock building on Monday, September 18. Miss Whitney has just purchased a fine Chickering baby grand piano, which has been placed in the studio.

Scalp Lacerated.

Patrick Bergen, a laborer, aged forty years, living on South Second street, received a slight lacerated wound of the scalp while at work in the West End, this morning. He went to the hospital where the wound was dressed and the man returned home.

Attacked a Girl.

Charged with attacking a young woman in South Plainfield, Edward Garry, aged twenty, of that place, was arrested by Constable Brown, of Perth Amboy, last week, on a warrant sworn out before Recorder Pickersgill, of that place. Garry gave bail for his appearance before Justice Sedam, of New Brunswick.

One in Three Gets Fined.

Three drunks and disorderlies were arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court this morning. Only one of them, William Wright, felt the weight of judicial wrath. He was fined $3. The others, Michael Gleason and Henry Palmer, colored, were released.

Funeral of Mrs. Woodson.

The funeral services of Mrs. Elizabeth Woodson were held from the Mt. Olive Baptist church yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Dr. E. E. Jackson, the pastor, officiated. The interment was in the Methodist cemetery.

Five-Lear-Old Boy Dead.

Joseph O'Connors, the five-year-old son of Mrs. Julia O'Connors, of Grove street, died this morning. The funeral will be held from the house Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Andrew Muir, of Essex street, leaves on Wednesday for Woodstock, Can., where she will visit relatives.

The Fourth ward Independents have circulated a card in which they attack Thomas Hanna, who is mentioned as possible choice of the "machine" for tax collector. They declare that he is a resident of Elizabeth.

Special Election Polls.

At the special election on Tuesday, September 26, the polls will be open from 7 in the morning until 7 at night, and not from 11 in the morning as previously stated.

Legislation Needed.

The Lake Hoptacong steamers are pleasure boats and their patrons are largely women and children who, in case of danger, would become panic stricken. They should be surrounded by every protection that the inventive mind and the legal authorities can devise. If there is no law on the statute books of New Jersey that today places these pleasure boats under State supervision, it is high time that such a law was enacted, and it should be the business of the Legislature next winter to place the owners of the Lake Hopatcong steamers in such a position that when the Governor of the State talks seriously to them they cannot "sass" back without fear of punishment.—Trenton State Gazette.

FACTIONS ARE FIGHTING HARD AT THE PRIMARIES

HEAVY VOTING TONIGHT

Regulars Are Optimistic and Victory Seems To Be Theirs—Mr. Ackerman's Candidacy.

The fight is on in intense earnestness, but the heat of the battle will not be reached until after sunset, when the men from the shops and the commuters throng the primaries to register their choice between Regulars and Independents. No sooner had the polls opened at 1 o'clock than the organization settled down to work to poll as much of the vote as it possibly could in order to encourage the rank and file. On the other hand, the Independents lost no time and were scurrying about to bring friends of the revolt to aid their cause.

Since yesterday there has been no apparent change in the situation, except that the struggle has become more bitter. In the Fourth ward, where Collector Robert L. Lee lives, a circular aimed at Thomas Hanna was sent broadcast. Hanna is a favorite of the organization for Lee's berth and is believed by some to be picked for the place in the event of the "machine" winning the day. The attack on him is based on the allegation that he is a resident of Elizabeth, and indulges in a lot of prattle about "home rule." As the tax collector's books show that Hanna is a resident of the Second ward, the argument is considered by the politicians to be a silly one.

As stated in The Daily Press yesterday, it will be either John W. Murray, Jr., or Thomas Hanna for collector of taxes provided the "machine" carries the day. There is no doubt about it that the "machine" will endeavor to land Hanna if possible, but its delegates may not listen to dictation, and in that event Murray may prove the stronger. If the Fourth ward, which is out and out for Hanna, combines with the Second, there is no question but that City Clerk James T. MacMurray, the leader in the First, will clinch the nomination. Of course all this is in the event of the organization carrying the day.

The "machine" leaders appear to be amused over the campaign literature of the Independents. They say that the claims made regarding their alleged usual trick of preventing a fair vote reflects on several of the "anti's" candidates, for they willingly became officeholders as organization men.

As told yesterday, the hardest sort of a fight is being made in the Second, and there is a good chance of the Independents vanquishing the "machine." Councilman Theodore Wilson will be greatly benefited by the strength given him by former Councilman George P. Mellick, who is the Independents' choice for councilman at large. In fact, Mr. Mellick's standing in the community has been a great aid to the Independents in booming their cause.

So far as to the delegates to the county convention, there is but little dispute, the First ward being the only exception. Plainfield Republicans are entitled to name the State Senator, and a candidate has been agreed upon. He is Ernest R. Ackerman, president of the Lawrence Cement Company, the biggest concern of its kind in the country. He is one of the ablest and most liked men in the city and his nomination by the Republicans can not fail to help pile up a big vote for the G. O. P. here.

The polls will be open until 9 o'clock tonight, and the heaviest vote will be polled during the previous hour. Those who wish to learn the result will have to stay up until midnight, for it will take a long

FUNERAL SERVICE OF AUGUSTUS J. WINCKLER

LARGE ATTENDANCE OF RELATIVES AND FRIENDS AT OBSEQUIES.

The funeral services of Augustus J. Winckler, one of the best known citizens of the borough, were held yesterday afternoon from the home in Park place, and were very largely attended by relatives, friends and neighbors, Mr. Winckler having been one of the most well known residents of the borough.

The services were in charge of Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, of which Mr. Winckler was an active member and hearty supporter. The floral tributes were very beautiful and there were many of them, including several large set pieces. During the services E. E. Runyon sang "On Jordan's Shore" and "It Is Well with My Soul."

Mr. Goodrich spoke from the text "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints"—Psalm 116:15. He dwelt at some length on the exemplary Christian life of the departed, referring to his untiring zeal and energy in the cause of Christianity and his great devotion to his home and church. His words were filled with beautiful thoughts and were tenderly expressed. He referred to the fact that Mr. Winckler was one of those who helped to build the famous war boat, the Monitor, and as that boat sailed out into a greater sea of usefulness, so the life of the departed had grown to one of usefulness and devotion and had now passed into that greater life where there is unending rest and joy for those who die in the Lord.

The interment took place in Hillside cemetery and those who served as pall bearers were: Elmer Weseman, Edwin I. Weseman, Warren W. Weseman, E. E. Winckler, Dyckman Winckler and William Smith, all relatives of Mr. Winckler.

QUARANTINE IN THE SOUTH.

William R. Sweeny Encounters an Odd Experience.

William R. Sweeny, formerly of this city, but now of Trenton, who has been on a business trip South for the Vanderbilt Timber, Mining and Southwestern Railway Company, of Hopewell, Alabama, has had an interesting experience while away regarding board of health measures to prevent the spread of the yellow fever. He says that a doctor boards all trains and examines each passenger and makes him sign a statement to the effect that he has not been in the fever district for seven days past.

While at Tallapoosa, Mr. Sweeny had dinner with the Hon. O. C. Sexton, Assistant Secretary of State of Alabama. The company which Mr. Sweeny represents has fifteen miles of railway, 30,000 acres of good Georgia pine land and eighteen sawmills.

Assistant to Tax Collector.

Frank M. Dunham, who formerly was employed in the office of the tax collector at different times, is engaged there as an assistant to Collector Robert L. Lee, pending a permanent appointment by the Common Council, as recommended by the Board of Assessors. His appointment is assured, and as Mr. Lee needs assistance, he was temporarily employed until Councilmanic action.

Orchestra Rehearsed.

Nine enthusiastic amateur musicians defied the weather last night and turned out for the first rehearsal of the Y. M. C. C. orchestra, under the leadership of M. A. Korff. Edson C. Martin, a new member, was among them. The rehearsals will be weekly features hereafter. Mr. Korff hopes to make the organization bigger and better than it ever has been.

Rally Day Service.

The Sunday-school of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will observe rally day with a special service at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon of Sunday, September 17. All teachers and pupils are especially urged to be present. Hereafter the sessions of the school will be held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

Hurt Stopping Horse.

Frightened by a passing automobile, a horse driven by Frank Lovetta, of Scotch Plains, and attached to G. Brienzi's junk wagon, tried to bolt at East Front street and Farragut road last night. Lovetta pulled the horse in, but the animal fell, jerking him from the seat and breaking the shafts and harness. Lovetta was cut about the head and narrowly missed being trampled on.

SPECIAL MUNICIPAL ELECTION ARRANGED FOR SEPTEMBER 26 WILL NOT TAKE PLACE

There will be no special election on Tuesday, September 26.

The Common Council will meet next week, in all probability, to officially announce that fact.

Provisions of the law of the State will save the taxpayers the cost of holding the election. It was intended for the purpose of ascertaining whether it is the wish of the people that the Common Council incur the expense of learning whether municipal ownership of the water supply would be beneficial.

As has been said, no election will be held on that date and it is said that none is likely to take place now until after the general election in November.

The special election would have cost approximately $800.

According to law the board of registry would be required to meet on Tuesday, September 19, to prepare for the election. That is one week before the date set for election. To do this it is necessary that notice be given two weeks prior. There is where the law was overlooked.

The resolution of the Common Council calling for the election was passed by that body on Tuesday night, September 5. The local papers for that day had been published, and therefore but thirteen days for advertisement remained before the date for the board of registry to meet.

It was said this morning that several members of the Common Council will ask that body to arrange for another election at an early date, but this could not be confirmed.

"CITS" WANT DR. THIERS

Probable Democratic Mayoralty Nominee in Borough is the Demand.

TROUBLE OVER BOOKS

David J. Carney Declares Political Enemies Are Withholding His Property—"Cits" to Meet September 21.

Strong influence is being brought to bear on Dr. Charles R. Thiers, the probable choice of North Plainfield Democrats for mayor, to accept a nomination from the Citizens' party. The "Cits" are the Independent Republicans of the borough who oppose Mayor Newton B. Smalley and his friends in and out of the administration. Dr. Thiers has not consented to accept the anti-Smalley overtures and has referred all inquiries to County Committeeman David J. Carney.

As announced in The Daily Press yesterday, the "Cits" will take no part in the primaries today. They have called a special meeting for Thursday night, September 21., At that time they will name a complete ticket and intend to wage a vigorous campaign.

Members of the Citizens' party, like a good many other people about the State, are loud in their denunciation of the new primary law. They declare that some of its provisions work a great injustice and prevent a free and untrammeled primary.

Trouble over the canvass books of the borough Democratic organization has broken out between D. J. Carney and the fusionist leaders in the party. Carney accuses the Swackhamer-Conroy faction with holding back the books from him by trickery.

About ten days ago, Carney says, he met Levi Kline, Walter Linsarger and David Bodine in the exempt firemen's hall on Somerset street to go over the canvass books. The books were in the charge of Carney, who is a member of the county committee. After the discussion, Carney says, he asked if he could not leave the books there while he went downtown. Bodine, who is one of the exempt officers, is said to have offered his desk as a storing place, saying they could be procured any time Carney wanted them.

Carney asked for them yesterday, but he didn't get them, he says. Carney is said to have told some unvarnished things to Bodine, ending with the statement that he could easily procure the books if he thought it worth while.

Mr. Carney, in speaking of the matter today, said:

"Oh, that will be all right. These fellows are so uncertain at times that you must overlook breaks like this one. Now, suppose it had been something else—but then that's changing the subject. Poor fellows. I suppose they cannot see anything unfair in what they do. But how they can dissect a man who refuses to see the light in any other than the way the clouded gleam of understanding leaks into their intellect."

Mr. Carney says the incident will do more to defeat Conroy than anything else.

The polling place for the First district is in Jerolaman's poolroom, and for the Second district in Trewin's barber shop, both on Somerset street.

"Scotch High Balls."

John Murdick, a Scotchman, employe as a mason on the new Plainfield Trust Company building, was found helplessly drunk on Somerset street, the borough, this morning, by Marshal Meyers. He was taken to the lockup, where he will be given a hearing before Recorder Doud at 7 o'clock tonight. Mr. Murdick has been living at John J. Goff's hotel on West Front street since coming to Plainfield a few months ago and has the reputation of being a good workman.

Preparing for Active Social Season.

The Park Club has been thoroughly renovated and put in fine condition for the coming season. It is likely that the clubhouse will be open on Saturday night. Arrangements are now being perfected for the opening of the fall season and a programme of attractive events will be presented.

REVISE GOLF AMENDMENT

Advocates of Sunday Play Substitute More Stringent Proposition.

TO BE VOTED ON

No Meals To Be Served At Clubhouse Except To Room Holders—Informal Play in Afternoons.

To meet the objections of those who oppose any seeming desecration of the day, the advocates of Sunday golf in the Plainfield Country Club have subsituted a revised proposition for the proposed amendment filed by them with the secretary of the organization a week ago. The matter will be laid before the club at a special meeting to be held Tuesday night, September 19.

The restrictions placed upon the club members on Sundays under the proposed amendment pertain chiefly to the use of the clubhouse. These are the provisions of the amendment:

"The use of alcoholic drinks in the clubhouse or on the grounds of the club is prohibited.

"The clubhouse shall be open on Sunday for persons occupying rooms therein; only such persons may have the service of the kitchen and dining room on Sunday. For all other persons the clubhouse shall be closed on Sunday until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

"Except as provided above for persons occupying rooms, no meals or refreshments of any kind shall be served on Sunday.

"No card playing or other form of amusement of any kind shall be permitted in the clubhouse on Sunday.

"All play on the grounds of the club is prohibited on Sunday until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. After that hour only informal play shall be permitted, all competitions of every kind or play for cups or prizes being prohibited.

"Caddies shall not be allowed on the grounds of the club on Sunday. The object of this provision is to prohibit the employment for pay of any persons as a caddie on Sunday; but it shall not be construed to prohibit members from caddying for each other. The caddie house shall be closed on Sunday."

The revised proposition is signed by the same members whose names appeared on the original petition. It is said that the new proposition will be accepted by the majority of the members.

NEW SCHOOL DEDICATED.

S. St. John McCutchen Attends Exercises at Bernardsville.

Bernardsville, Sept. 12.—The formal dedication of the new $100,000 public school presented to Bernards township, and erected by Frederick P. Olcott, took place Saturday afternoon. There was an interesting programme, which opened with prayer by Rev. C. H. Von Glahn. The programme also included addresses by R. V. Lindabury, William McElroy, of New York, and Samuel St. John McCutchen, of Plainfield.

The dedicatory ode was read by Rev. J. A. Neets, and there was also a reading by Miss Edna Moore. Besides the band selections, there was singing. A large crowd was in attendance.

To Determine Sanity.

For the purpose of determning to the satisfaction of those interested whether John G. Cook, of Scotch Plains, now an inmate of the State Hospital, at Morriston, is insane, so that his wife may be permitted to sell some land at Scotch Plains, a sheriff's jury has been drafted by Sheriff Coriell. This jury appeared this afternoon at 2 o'clock before a commission comprised of Dr. G. W. Endicott, H. Otis Newman and G. W. Bird. Among those who were witnesses before the commission were the head keep and head physician from the State Hospital. The jury was in charge of Deputy Sheriff P. V. Weaver.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS REOPEN

New Building on Somerset Street Thrown Open to Borough Pupils.

AN END TO CROWDING

No Registration Figures Obtainable From City Authorities—Superintendents and Board Members Speak.

School life on both sides of the brook began again this morning after a summer long cessation.

Registration figures were impossible to obtain today, but in both municipalities the attendance this year will almost certainly be larger than last year. The new Somerset street school building will put the borough authorities in good position to handle the problem of placing the pupils, and no crowding is expected there, but the city is not likely to be so fortunate until the new High School is completed, offering the Stillman building for pupils of lower grade.

Following the annual custom, Superintendent H. M. Maxson and Principal J. W. Travell spoke to the pupils of the Plainfield High School at the opening this morning. Mr. Maxson's subject was "Esprit de Corps."

In the course of his remarks he declared this city offered unusually good educational advantages in its High School, and gave its young people an exceptionally complete preparatory training. Most of the pupils, he said, came back as to return to pleasure; he desired to remind them that they came back to a duty.

Two of the High School faculty were missing at the opening. Miss Lena Bass and Miss Niles, who have been in Europe, are still on the ocean, homeward bound. They are expected to arrive in a day or two. Two new teachers were present: Miss E. M. Howard and Miss Mary Lock. They take the places of Miss Ball and Miss Cunning, who have had a year's leave of absence.

Approximately 900 pupils registered in the North Plainfield schools, about 675 in the Somerset street building and 225 in the Watchung school.

There is no hint of over-crowding, and all the classes started in with full sessions. Every room but one in the new building was put into use, and the exception will be ready for use in a day or two, when the seats for it come.

At the opening of the department this morning, Supt. H. C. Krebs and James R. Joy, Rev. J. O. McKelvey and Dr. J. H. Cooley, of the school board, spoke.

Entertained Old Friend.

Among the members of the band which will play at the Italian concert tonight is an old playmate of Salvi Velardi, one of the committee in charge of the affair, whom Velardi met for the first time in twenty-three years when the musicians arrived in town yesterday. Velardi tendered his old friend, Antonio Selccezzi by name, a reception at his home last night. The band made music for the affair.

Chief Kiely Unruffled.

Chief of Police Kiely, who is still on his vacation, was at police headquarters for a few minutes this morning. The chief got three weeks off, and is not due to return to duty until Sunday. He appears to be enjoying himself, unaffected by the consequences of the Tyler raid. He smilingly refuses to discuss the matter.

Somerville's Last Game.

The West End baseball team will close a successful season Saturday afternoon, when the last game will be played with the Hopewell A. C. "Smiling Jimmie" Montross, of this city, will play in right garden in place of Altemus.

The Same Old Story in Advertising.

Mrs. Charles E. Ball, of Sycamore avenue, lost a pair of gold spectacles in a case on Sunday. She advertised her loss in The Daily Press and J. M. Bettman, of Willow avenue, a Press reader, found them and returned them to the owner.

DR. CHAMBLISS' PLEA AGAINST SUNDAY GOLF

Distinguished Divine Argues Earnestly And Ably Against Country Club Change.

EFFECT FAR-REACHING

Question Is, Says He, Whether the Organization Shall Lower Its Flag—Looks At It Broadly.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church, and who is considered to be one of the ablest ministers in the State, has written the following letter to The Daily Press, which will interest every reader, whether he is or is not a member of the Plainfield Country Club:

Editor The Daily Press:

It is true that it has been suggested to some of the city pastors that some utterance from them in the pulpit or through the press might be helpful towards preventing the proposed change in the constitution of the Country Club. It is not true, so far as I know, that they have been asked to oppose the amendments on the general ground that they contemplate a desecration of the Sabbath. Ministers and others, church members, or not, who value the Sabbath as a day of worship and rest may differ among themselves as to what its obligations exclude. One must not attempt to be a law unto another. If some think it not wrong or harmful to spend part of the day in riding, driving, playing baseball, golf or what not, those who differ with them may try, courteously and faithfully, to get them to see the matter in another light, but, after all, to his own Master each must stand or fall.

The present question, as I look at it, is whether this particular club, founded by earnest Christian men as a family club, composed now of a large number of the foremost men and women in Plainfield, including church members and ministers of the Gospel, and which has hitherto been guarded by its constitution against everything which would even apparently be a compromise between good and evil—whether this club shall now lower its flag. I cannot help feeling that this would be peculiarly deplorable. For one thing, it seems unjust and unkind that a great many men and women who love the club and have been among its chief financial supporters, should be forced either to withdraw from membership or, by remaining, seem to endorse what in conscience they condemn. But taking a larger view, what must be the effect upon multitudes, not in Plainfield only, but far and wide, whom we now find it so hard to reach with the claims of our Lord and Saviour, when it is known that this Gibraltar among the clubs in reverence for the Lord's Day has fallen!

Surely, men of high position and great influence, like some of those who appear to favor the proposed amendments, ought to be very careful what stand they take on such questions as are involved in the present issue. If this were an insignificant club, composed of people of no special weight socially or religiously, the matter would not be so serious. But as it is, I for one cannot but tremble for the consequences if the change is made. The consequences—who knows where they will stop? The gate once opened, who can tell what will not come in?

I have not the honor of membership in the club, though I had hoped to have, but as one who wants to be a good citizen as well as a Christian, and as a personal friend of many of the members, I trust it will not be thought an impertinence that I have thus ventured to express myself on a question that deeply concerns us all.

J. A. CHAMBLISS.

Church Reception.

Rev. C. E. Herring, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, is planning for the first of a series of receptions to be held in the parlors of the church, on Thursday night, September 21, from 8 to 10 o'clock. His idea is to hold one of these receptions two weeks after each communion service during the fall and winter. There will be a programme of vocal and instrumental music and refreshments will be served.

An Infant Dead.

Samuell Radcliff, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Radcliff, of 216 Pond place, died yesterday from an attack of marasmus. The funeral services were held this afternoon from the late home, Rev. George Mooney, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, officiated. The interment was in the Plainfield avenue cemetery.

CHARLES A. BOARDMAN AN IDEAL DIRECTOR

WIDELY EXPERIENCED, HAS HAD MEDICAL TRAINING AND IS A HARD WORKER

Taking up the work where Mr. Henckel left it, Charles A. Boardman, the new physical director of the Y. M. C. A., has started in to advance and enlarge the field of the Y. M. C. A. physical department along the most progressive lines. Mr. Boardman is peculiarly well fitted for the task.

He is not only experienced widely in Y. M. C. A. gymnasium work, but has had two years' medical training at Tufts College. His knowledge of medicine and physiology will make him unusually valuable in bringing the members of his classes up to the best physical form.

CHARLES A. BOARDMAN.

Physical Director of the Y. M. C. A.

Mr. Boardman is an enthusiastic student of departmental science and a tireless worker. The physical work committee considers itself fortunate in securing a man of his calibre and ability and will support him in widening and strengthening the work.

Mr. Boardman likes Plainfield highly and is well pleased with the field for his activities which it presents.

Names Excise Commission.

Judge Woodbridge Strong has announced the appointment of three excise commissioners for the city of New Brunswick under the act of 1901. They are: Mayor William S. Myers, Water Commissioner John E. Elmendorf and Charles Morris. The latter, who is a clerk in the postoffice, serves for three years, Mayor Myers, one year, and Mr. Elmendorf, two years. It is expected that Mayor Myers will be elected chairman. The mere fact that Mr. Myers is Mayor at present is not considered a bar.

MUIR HOODOO AT WORK.

Small Scion of Unfortunate Family Swallows Marble While at Play.

Another accident was added to the long list of accidents furnished during the past five years by the family of Andrew Muir, of Essex street, yesterday. Four-year-old Robbie is the victim of the Muir hoodoo this time. He swallowed a full sized marble while breathing on it for luck before taking a shot in a game of taw.

Dr. Cregar was summoned and went after marble according to the modes and methods prescribed in such cases. It is hoped to expel the glass ball by this evening, without injury to the boy. Robbie has just recovered from a broken ankle bone.

Nicholas Kelly, Exile.

Upon his promise to move out of the borough, Mayor Smalley released Nicholas Kelly, of Regent street, when arraigned before him for a hearing last night on a charge of disorderly conduct. The Mayor at first imposed a fine of $20 and seven days in jail, but upon second thought decided to remit the fine if Kelly would leave North Plainfield. The prisoner agreed to the Mayor's proposition and today he moved to this city.

That Park Club Wall.

Freeholder William A. Westphal expects to call a meeting of his committee today or tomorrow to consider the matter relative to the report that the Park Club is encroaching on the course of Green brook by having a wall beyond the line. After an investigation a report will be made to the Board and the action to be taken will then be determined.

W. C. T. U.'s Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the union's rooms on Madison avenue tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Officers will be elected and reports from the president and superintendents will be received.

Miss Florence Wylie, of Putnam avenue, has returned from a stay with friends in Long Branch.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Richard Pennock entertained a number of his young friends at a birthday party at his home on Madison avenue Saturday afternoon. It was Master Pennock's eighth anniversary. Among the young people present were Russell Brakeley, Walter Meseroll, Adam Dealaman, Allen Pederick, Master Todd, A. Bruman, T. Osborn and Kenneth Dealaman. A peanut hunt and "The Wonderful Piece of Cake" were the features. Adam Dealaman won the hunt and Walter Meseroll the cake.

An unusually interesting social affair will be held at the Presbyterian church tonight, when Rev. W. W. Casselberry, the pastor, will tender a reception to the Sunday school. Mr. and Mrs. Casselberry, who spent part of their vacation in Holland, will tell of the trip, and Miss Emma D. Hilyer, of the borough, will whistle several selections. Souvenirs will be presented to the scholars who attended every session of the school and one church service a week during the months of July and August.

Rev. W. W. Casselberry is seeking to interest the church organizations of the borough in the formation of a physical culture and manual training class for young people. It is proposed to have the class meet every other week. It is believed that such a class would do much to draw the younger people into church influence as well as keep them out of positive mischief.

The Dunellen eleven has begun preparation for the new season under Capt. Bowlby. They were out for first practice last week and will keep steadily at it until the game begins in earnest. Capt. Bowlby says the combination promises to be one of the best that the borough has ever turned out.

Lewis Churchill has completed his studies at Columbia University. He was among the leaders in scholarship in his class, and has been offered positions by the New York Subway Company and the Long Island Railroad Company.

Abner Coriell, Jr., who is one of the most enthusiastic and finished amateur photographers in this section of the State, spent last week taking views of the Watchung range. He got several fine pictures of the Rock.

From 1 o'clock to 9 the two parties will conduct their primaries this afternoon and evening. George W. Day is polling clerk of the Democrats and Daniel Gulick of the Republicans.

The women of the Presbyterian church will hold a meeting at the home of Mrs. Hamilton, of Church street, tomorrow afternoon.

George Kuldoshes now takes his outings in an automobile. He purchased the touring car of Edward White last week.

Work on the Hetfield building was delayed yesterday by the weather. It will be completed by tomorrow, it is expected.

Mrs. E. G. Gordon is entertaining Mrs. Myers and her two children, of Philadelphia, for a few weeks.

George Vliet and Russell Garretson will not return to school until the last week of the month.

C. Boyce has returned to the South after an extended stay with his parents.

Mrs. Dutcher has gone to a Hudson River resort for a three weeks' stay.

Miss Josephine Dealaman is spending several days out of town.

Miss Lizzie Liable is confined to the house by illness.

Miss Edna Vail is entertaining an out-of-town friend.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Judge Clark did not suspend sentence on William Grattan, who was charged with being drunk and disorderly Sunday, because he wished to establish a precedent, but the Judge has a tender spot in his heart for the old survivors of the war of '61, and for this reason Grattan was allowed to depart with a warning and a time limit to get out of town.

Gray Brothers, the local breeders of fancy poultry, have entered their stock in the poultry exhibit at the Trenton Fair. Messrs. Gray Brothers won a number of first prizes with their entries made last year at the several fairs and poultry shows.

Don't fail to attend the primaries held tonight in the town rooms. If you are not registered for the November election you can have your name placed on the registry list tonight.

Miss Ingran, who succeeds Miss Osgood as teacher in the seventh and eighth grades in the public school, will reside in town, making her home with Miss Susie Parse.

Mr. and Mrs. Orbie Price, of Plainfield, have been visiting Mrs. Price's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hull, of Front street.

James B. Medhurst, of the borough, has been entertaining his son from New York over Sunday.

Rev. E. Fenton Bury, of Ireland, has been visiting Rev. and Mrs. T. Moore-Smith at The Manse.

Mr. and Mrs. L. D. H. Gilmour and family, of the borough, are at Atlantic City for two weeks.

The Misses Hayes have returned from a stay of several weeks at Lynn, Mass.

The Township Committee meets Friday night in the town rooms.

The Misses Marsh have been entertaining out of town friends.

Fanwood Council, R. A., meets tonight in the library rooms.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Philip Smith, Heber Cubberley, Earl Darlington, John Linabury, Mabelle and Marjorie Cubberley began the autumn term of school in Plainfield today.

Mrs. Emma Blackford, who was married Sunday afternoon to Charles J. Skoguist, of Metuchen, lived in Plainfield for several months past.

An effort is being made to increase the usual attendance at the prayer meeting at the Baptist church on Tuesday evenings.

Miss Elizabeth Smith has returned home from Brooklyn, where she visited with Mrs. Charles Conran.

The Republican primary meeting will be held tonight at William A. Norman's house.

—Thomas Buckley, of the Potter Press Works, left yesterday for Wisconsin, where he will be engaged for two months erecting printing presses.

AFTER THE RUSH OF THE DAY

When you get home and the evening meal is over you can feel the day's wear and tear disappear under the spell of Regina music. All you have to do is to sit and listen. And the whole family will enjoy it too. It rests tired mothers and soothes fretful little ones. A Regina Music Box plays all kinds of music. There are thousands of steel tune-discs that last forever and you can have just what you want—classical or popular, sacred or secular music. The tone of a Regina is rich, deep, mellow—real music, not tinkling. It's simply and strongly built. A child can "run it" and there will be no repair bills.

Our Easy Payment Plan

places a Regina in your home for $1.00 now and a small payment each month—so small you'll never miss the money. Ask us to explain.

NOTICE!

"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James, Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J. NEW LACKAWANNA FERRY.

Twenty-third Street Terminal Will Be Opened September 20.

New York, Sept. 12.—The Lackawanna Railroad will open its new ferry terminal at West Twenty-third street Sept. 20. The structure will be an imposing one. It was the original intention of the Lackawanna to have the structure ready for patronage early in August, but fire which recently swept its Hoboken terminal made it impracticable to inaugurate the service until the slips for the present Barclay and Christopher street lines had first been restored.

On week days the boats will run every fifteen minutes between 6 a. m. and 10 p. m., and every half hour between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m., while on Sundays the fifteen-minute service will not begin until 8 a. m.

BERNARDSVILLE SHOW.

Horse Exhibit Under Somerset County Polo Club Auspices.

Bernardsville, September 12.—The fourth annual horse show here Friday afternoon, under the auspices of the Somerset County Polo Club, met the expectations of the most sanguine lovers of such sport, and successfully closed late in the day. The almost perfect weather brought society out in large numbers. The splendid appearance of the horses challenged admiration. With their approved conformation, thoroughbred points, high mettle and shining coats, they champed their bits and pawed the ground in apparent consciousness of the praise they evoked and of which they were justly deserving.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membrane and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

AMUSEMENTS.

The great London success, "The Honeymoon," used by Miss Charlotte Burnett this season, possesses all the qualifications to make a play a huge success. It has the comic situations, pretty girls, dashing young lovers, catchy songs, good dancing, and one exciting dramatic situation following another in such quick succession that the audience fairly hold their breath until each thrilling curtain. Miss Burnett, starring in "The Honeymoon,' is a brilliant intellectual woman, as any one will testify who has ever seen her clever work. She has a winning stage presence, a mellow rich voice, yet distinct and clear; winsome, changing, fascinating facial expression and over all a natural simple method of acting that brings her close to the hearts of the people. Miss Burnett is a graduate of Wellsley College, which fact alone has assisted greatly in giving each and every part a correct delineation. The stage settings are beautiful, the costumes grand. At the New Plainfield theatre Thursday night.

Coming to the New Plainfield theatre next Friday night is "Happy Hooligan's Trip Around the World," probably the must successful, and certainly one of the most entertaining farce comedies ever produced. The plot, or rather the outline of such plot as affords a groundwork for this musical absurdity, is based on F. Opper's cartoons, published in the New York Journal and its associate papers of the Hearst syndicate. The genial hobo, as pictured by Mr. Opper, has become a favorite in nearly every household in the country, and his predilection for always getting into trouble, while not meaning to do so, has caused laughs by the millions. The theatrical version of "Happy Hooligan's Trip Around the World" was arranged by Maurice Hageman, and for this season's edition of it he has entirely rewritten the lines, scenes and comedy incidents, bringing them up to the very minute. The production, too, is entirely new in every detail, as for the current tour over $25,0000 has been invested in scenery, costumes and in engaging the services of the very best people available for the different roles.

For the week of September 18th Keith's announces the engagement of the famous Fadettes Female Orchestra, under direction of Caroline B. Nichols. This unique organization, composed of thirty pretty and talented young ladies, renders classical and popular selections in delightful style, and the management promises special stage settings to suit the performance. A feature of especial interest to little folks is Berzac's Circus, reputed the most marvellous and amusing equine act in the varieties. Clay Clement, the clever German-dialect comedian, will present the one-act comedy, "The Baron's Love Story," while Ann Warrington & Co. will offer the farcical sketch, "The First of May," illustrating the tribulations of moving day. This week will also witness the first American appearance of Miss Daisy Harcourt, the dainty little Australian singing comediene, while popular performers on the bill are George W. Day, the black-face philosopher; Brazil & Brazil, comedy acrobats; Rich & Harvey, refined song-and-dance specialties, and Miss Marie Laurent, in high class ballads. The Kinetograph, with up-to-date moving views, is always a feature of Keith bills.

Sousa and his famous band opened the New York concert season at the New York Hippodrome on Sunday evening with a programme which included classical and popular selections. The compositions of the great bandmaster were also heard. Mr. Sousa was assisted by several soloists, including Miss Ada Chambers, soprano; Miss Jessie Straus, violinist, and Herbert L. Clarke, cornetist. The concert concluded with the "Ride of the Valkyries," from Wagner's "Die Walkure," in which the famous composer depicts vividly and most powerfully the wild ride skyward of those warrior maidens. This is but the first of a series of Sousa concerts at the Hippodrome during the year. On Sunday night, September 17, the second sacred concert will be given.

The marvelous success of the new Hall Caine play, "The Prodigal Son," which had its initial presentation at the New Amsterdam theatre on Monday evening a week ago, has evoked the problem as to whether this play is not destined to prove even a greater popular success than was "The Christian," and for the past decade that, as every one knows, has very properly been regarded as the supreme test. It is very certain that even the luxurious existence of "The Christian" has never been able to boast an interest so intense, an enthusiasm so marked and so prolonged, expressions of satisfaction so boldly and generally expressed, as those witnessed at the New Amsterdam theatre on the evening of Monday, September 4. The vast auditorium was filled in every part, and although the temperature outside was well nigh endurable, and although this, practically the first essay of the massive production, necessarily made a long performance, yet the vast audience remained to the very close—a close long delayed by the enthusiam of the audience which called up the curtain scores of times, and in its entrancement wore out boxes of costly gloves untold in the expression of its approbation. A fascinating plot, most clearly and entertainingly told, a scenic production such as has not before been given a drama on the American stage—certainly not for a decade; a list of interpreters that fairly entitles the long cast to carry the caption "all-star;" a series of incidents and climaxes which follow one another in such rapid succession as to almost bewilder as well as entrance—such is the new Hall Caine play, "The Prodigal Son," now on for a brief run at the New Amsterdam. Seats may be secured by mail by addressing Manager, New Amsterdam theatre.

From present indications the production of "The Bad Samaritan," the new George Ade comedy, will surpass the pictorial display made in that other successful Ade comedy, "The College Widow," which was the hit of the last New York dramatic season. Henry W. Savage, George Marion and George Ade have been busy for several weeks rehearsing the company preparatory to the openings in Washington Monday next. One scene represents a seaside resort which the author has called Nirvana-by-the-Sea, and the stage will be an epitome of the life and hurly-burly seen at a summer resort where people go for rest and are thrown into a very vortex of excitement. Mr. Ade, in his characteristic manner, has burlesqued the airs of the new-born rich and shown the inclination of the average American to bask in the approval of a new celebrity. In this case it is Isaac Gridley, who has made a fortune out of hides and tallow and who goes to the coast resort to spend his money. He is helped along wonderfully by a score of new-found friends only too willing to part him from his wealth. His attempts to do good are all misconstrued, hence the amusing title of "The Bad Samaritan." He finally ceases his philanthropy and starts out to have a good time on his own account. In the seaside act Mr. Savage has employed over a hundred persons, who will lend a color and gayety to the scene, and the effect, it is thought, will be more of a pictorial display than was shown in the third act of "The College Widow," where the finale of the football game was shown. "The Bad Samaritan" will be at the Garden theatre, New York City, tonight.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST.

With seasonable weather Manager Daab will give Plainfield a Garrison finish in baseball.

The Hoboken team will play Jersey City at St. George Cricket Grounds on Sunday.

No member of the local team has more admirers than "Jack" O'Neill, whose backstop work this season has been gilt edge.

Manager Konkle, of the Morristown-Chatham team, has written Manager Daab for a game here. No decision has been reached yet.

It is confidently believed that Manager Denman will "pad" up his team with leaguers for the remaining three contests with Plainfield in the hope of getting more than one victory out of the series.

Westfield is scheduled to appear on Crescent Oval on Saturday. Let every fan turn out and support Manager Daab and his team. It has cost money to give Plainfield a champion team and it deserves united support.

Manager Daab will not make a barrel of money in Plainfield this season, but it is up to the baseball public to stand by him and encourage him so that he will feel sure that he has the support of every lover of the game.

The opinion held by many that "Willie" Deegan could not pitch Saturday and Sunday and be effective does not seem to hold good. Last week he pitched two hard games against Westfield and the Royal Giants and won both.

The suggestion that the loyal supporters get together and plan a banquet for the winners of the county championship in baseball, is well received by those who have supported the Daabsters. It is not too early to "get together and do something."

"Ed" Dooley, the irrepressible baseball fan who caused so much trouble at the last Plainfield-Westfield game on Crescent Oval, says that he has sent his regrets to Manager Denman for not attending Saturday's contest. Work prevented him from being present.

The plainfield team has played twenty-four games to date and only lost four. It is doubtful if another team in this part of the county can show as good a record. Of the lost games, the Philadelphia Giants took the first, by a score of 11 to 6, then the All-Cubans, by a score of 1 to 0; Westfield the third, by a score of 7 to 2, and the All Cubans again, by a score of 4 to 1. The victories include the defeat of Jersey City, Elizabeth Stars, Philadelphia Giants, twice; Philadelphia Professionals, All Americans, three times; Newburg, three times; Rahway, Westfield, six times, Newburg and Westfield were whitewashed on two occasions.

GOLF.

George VanBoskerck and A. L. Otterson were the winners of the two cups offered by Roger F. Murray and E. B. Shoemaker in the best ball foursome played at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday. Their score, 80, 9—71, was returned after the majority of the scores were returned and being the lowest they get the cups. According to the other scores there was a tie score of 73, returned by T. R. VanBoskerck and Howard Huntington and Gordon Abbott and C. W. Abbott. The winners went out in 39 and returned in 41. Another excellent score was made by F. O. Reinhart and C. B. Morgan, 36 out and 38 in, with a handicap of plus 3, making a net score of 77.

There is also a change for the Golf Committee cup honors, T. R. VanBoskerck won first honors with a net of 76, Robert Abbott and W. D. Riggs divided the remaining honors, each returning a net score of 79.

The standings for the Golf Committee and Gaston cups, weekly competitions at the Plainfield Country Club, up to and including September 7 and 9, are as follows:

Plainfield, N. J., September 12, 1905.

Don't forget to vote today. Polls open until 9 o'clock tonight.

The purpose of today's primaries is to nominate candidates for various municipal offices and for party committees. For each ward a member of the Common Council, a justice of the peace and a constable is to be named. In addition delegates are to be selected for the city and county conventions. It will be the duty of the city convention to choose candidates for tax collector and freeholder as well as three for councilmen-at-large.

time to count the vote. This will be due to the fact that the voting machines will not be used, paper ballots being authorized by the primary law. In addition there will be considerable scratching in some districts and this will make the work of the election officers the more difficult.

The Democrats have no Councilmanic candidates. In the Third they had selected John W. Connors, and in the Fourth Fred Endress. Both of them declined.

Andrew McCardell cast the first ballot in the Second district of the Third ward when the polls opened at 1 o'clock this afternoon. During the first hour nine ballots were cast, and a heavy vote is anticipated.

RIGHT AGE TO MARRY.

Former Mrs. Frank Leslie Says Woman Should be 28.

New York, Sept. 12.—"Marriage is either heaven or hell. Some marriages are made in heaven, but many, I fear, are made elsewhere. My advice to girls is not to be married before they are twenty-five—yes, twenty-eight years of age. They are then more mature, and know better whom to choose for a husband."

Thus Baroness de Bazus, better known to the world as Mrs. Frank Leslie, expressed herself apropos of marriage in general. The Baroness having returned from a four months' trip abroad is passing several weeks at Montclair, N. J. Her reflection on marriage may have been reminiscent. In October, 1891, she married "Willie" Wilde; in June, 1893, she divorced him.

Woman Hurt by Fall.

Mrs. Mary Schwalbach, of Scotch Plains, fell from her porch this morning and injured her head so severely that the services of Dr. F. W. Westcott were required to restore her. She was dazed when picked up, and suffered from the shock for several hours. Dr. Westcott said her injuries did not appear to be serious.

Concert Tonight.

The rain compelled a postponement of the Italian concert and fireworks display at Concert Park last night. The programme will be given tonight, if the weather is clear, and again tomorrow night. Some of the members of the band played about the streets this morning.

COLBY AWAITS RESULT

Independent Republican Leader Closes Whirlwind Canvass.

AGAINST THE MACHINE

Bitter Fight in Hudson—Bayonne's Ex-Mayor Makes Costly Fight for Shrievalty.

The Republican primaries being held in Essex county today are the most exciting held in the county for years. Both the partisans of Everett Colby, who is seeking the Senatorial nomination on a platform of limited franchises and equal taxation, and Major Lentz's machine followers, are confident of success.

Colby has made a "whirlwind campaign," and if enthusiastic and large audiences count for anything, he will give the Major and the machine behind him a hard tussle. If the Major and his forces are beaten it will probably mean their downfall. The officeholders are naturally with the Major, as his defeat will mean much to them. Since the Major put a muzzle on Register George E. D Camp and others, who were too pointed in their remarks about the power of the machine, there has been a silence in the regular Republican camp that you could cut with a knife.

There are 477 delegates, of which 309 come from Newark and 168 from the townships. In order to win Colby must secure 239. In the townships outside of the city Colby is undoubtedly very strong, and unless all signs fail will get a large majority of the delegates. The failure of the machine to announce its choice for Senator has greatly injured its chances of success. William Pennington, of illustrious ancestry; Malcolm MacLear, who declares he is not a follower of the machine, and Assemblyman Edward Gmichtel continue to be Colby's most formidable opponents.

Colby said yesterday that he felt confident of winning because he had the people with him. The Young Men's Republican Club, of Bloomfield, composed of active hustling fellows, is with Colby almost to a man.

Primaries will be held throughout Hudson county today by the Republicans and Democrats, closing one of the most bitter and remarkable fights the Democracy in the county has ever witnessed. There is perfect harmony among the Republicans so far as the candidate for sheriff is concerned, and ex-street and water commissioner, John C. Kaiser, of Jersey City, will be nominated without opposition.

In the Democrat's camp there is a fight to the finish between ex-Mayor Egbert Seymour, of Bayonne, and Under-Sheriff John J. Heavey, of Jersey City. Seymour has the backing of Leader Robert Davis and the machine and will probably defeat Heavey.

Seymour was picked by Davis some months ago as candidate for sheriff after, it is said, having promised Heavey, who has been under-sheriff ten years, that he should have the place. Heavey was ordered to get out of the race, but he declined and was backed up by his wife.

Heavey has caused Seymour to spend, it is estimated, $10,000 in his canvass. The ex-Mayor has purchased enough tickets for balls, sociables, drawings, fairs, benefits, etc., to fill a freight car. He was in the country for a few days in July, and when he got back home he found $100 worth of tickets awaiting him. Some of them he sent back.

Seymour has attended a dozen social events in one night. He has distributed 50,000 cards bearing his picture in eleven colors and referring to him as "Bayonne's favorite son." He has also distributed thousands of buttons.

The last Legislature made the salary of Hudson county's sheriff $10,000 a year. Before that the sheriff's fees aggregated from $25,000 to $50,000 a year.

BRIDGE CONTRACT STANDS.

Freeholders Used Objectionable But Necessary Means, Say Justice.

New Brunswick, Sept. 12.—Justice J. Franklin Fort, of the Supreme Court, has dismissed the writ of certiorari obtained by Charles A. Bloomfield against the Board of Freeholders in the matter of the awarding of the contract to Dean, Schwiers & Sutton for the Milltown bridge on the ground that they were not the lowest bidders. In his opinion, the justice declares that the method pursued by the board in awarding this contract is objectionable, and only warranted in this instance because of the urgent public necessity.

In this case Dean, Schwiers & Sutton put in two bids, one on the county plan and the other on a plan of their own, upon which there was no competitive bidding. This latter plan was accepted and the contract made, although the West Virginia Bridge Company had the lowest bid on the competitive county plan.

Justice Fort says the testimony establishes that the county plan was not a good one for this bridge, and the plan accepted was the best and safest.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gow, of Lee place, are entertaining a friend from out of town.

FATHER EGAN FLAYS BAYONNE COUNCIL

FORMER PLAINFIELD PRIEST DEPLORES ON SALOON CONDITIONS.

Rev. Father Egan, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, Bayonne, and formerly pastor of St. Mary's church here, caused a stir at all the masses at this church on Sunday, when he severely flayed the Common Council and entered into a general denunciation of Bayonne for its condition as to saloons. Without mentioning any names, the priest accused a certain councilman, who, he claimed, purposely defeated the attempts of the clergy and laity, together with many outside of the church, to have the Board of Aldermen deny the application for a saloon license near the church.

Father Egan spoke plainly and said that he wanted to be understood as to what he thought of the saloon question in that city. The priest's remarks were prompted by the action of the municipal authorities in granting a license for a place to be opened at Avenue C and Twelfth street, in that city. A petition signed by Father Egan and several members of his congregation, as well as by many residents not members of the church, in the vicinity of where the saloon is to be opened, was presented at the meeting of the councilmen.

A strong protest was made on the grounds that Bayonne now had too many saloons. For some reason which the priest did not explain in his remarks, the petition was lost sight of when the matter came up for disposal.

"They turned me down," Father Egan told his parishioners, "and I know who was responsible for the defeat of our petition. I could mention the name of the one man who was responsible. They turned me down this time, but I will promise them that they will never do it again. I will know what to do next time. The petitioners were, without question, justified in opposing another saloon. This city has become notorious for its saloons. I cannot go out of town any time but that when I meet my fellow clergymen they do not jestingly tell me that I come from 'a rum-soaked city.' That is certainly a condition of affairs that a city government should be proud of."

There are members of the Board of Aldermen who attend St. Mary's church, and some of them heard the priest's remarks.

OBITUARY.

Miss Mary Helen Mottley.

After an illness of but a few weeks, Miss Mary Helen Mottley, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mottley, of 223 Richmond street, died early yesterday morning for a complication of diseases. Besides her parents, she leaves two brothers, James and John. Funeral services will be held from her late home tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock and from St. Mary's church at 9, where a requiem mass will be offered. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

BAG HELD ONLY PAPER.

Hotel Man Wants to Find Benevolent Stranger.

Emil Pinnaud, manager of the Bellevue Hotel, of Paterson, is looking for a large, benevolent looking stranger who represented himself as a diamond broker and fleeced him out of $475, giving as security a bag of worthless paper, which, the stranger said, contained diamonds to the value of $10,000.

The benevolent looking man had spent three days at the hotel and made himself agreeable to all the patrons. He spent money freely and exhibited to Mr. Pinnaud a bag of precious stones. The stranger had two bags that looked alike. When he did not return after cashing a check for $475 and giving Mr. Pinnaud the bag of "gems" as security, the hotel manager opened the bag and found a roll of green paper.

The benevolent looking stranger has not been seen in Paterson since he left the hotel.

AUTOISTS PLAN NEW SPEED LAW

CONSERVATIVE DRIVERS HOPE TO PLACE DRASTIC CURB ON SCORCHERS.

Trenton, Sept. 12.—Prominent automobilists from different parts of the State will meet in a short time to plan for the enactment, by the coming Legislature, of new regulations for the governing of horseless vehicles on the public thoroughfares. The desire is to take the initiative in order to break the hostile storm which is gathering because of speed violations by reckless drivers.

It is recognized that New Jersey with her fine roads is a paradise for autoists and that it would be a decided loss to them, as well as to the State, to have the sport seriously hampered by unfriendly legislation. It is the intention, therefore, of the auto owners who are conservative in their methods of driving to place some drastic curb on those who are less considerate of the rights of the public.

It is believed, first of all, that the right plan is to insist on the licensing of all drivers, with the proviso that licenses be revoked for violations of the law. This would keep incompetent persons from obtaining them.

Governor Stokes will be invited to participate in the conference of the auto owners and the advice of prominent lawyers will be secured. It is likely that Judge Dill, of the Court of Errors and Appeals, will be asked to aid in the forming of the proposed bill.

Judge Dill is an enthusiastic autoist of the better sort. He took part in the securing last winter of restrictive legislation, at the same time helping to bring about the defeat of the legislation so radical as to almost prohibit the use of autos in the State.

Former Governor Foster M. Voorhees has this to say concerning the proposed new law:

"I am strongly in favor of restricting the right to run automobiles to persons who are competent to handle the machines and to persons who have sense enough to handle them in a careful manner. Did it ever occur to you that it requires more skill, presence of mind and watchfulness to run one of these powerful and dangerous machines than it does to run the Chicago flyer on the Pennsylvania Railroad?

"The locomotive of the flyer has simply to keep on the rails and the engineer is not compelled to dodge in and out among other vehicles, as is the driver of an auto on the public roads. And yet, what would be thought of the company that would place that or any other train in charge of any save a competent and trustworthy engineer?

"How reckless and absurd it is to allow a powerful and speedy automobile on the public highways in charge of inexperienced or incompetent persons."

SEMI-FINALS NEXT IN TENNIS TOURNEY

CHAMPIONSHIP PLAY ON THE COUNTRY CLUB COURTS.

The first and second rounds of the men's singles, tennis championship, with the exception of one match have been completed at the Plainfield Country Club and the remaining match as well as the semi-finals will be finished this week. The result of the play thus far is as follows: First round—Wylie Brown defeated Owen Fleming, 6—0, 2—6, 6—4; Howard Carter defeated Arthur Lovell, 6—4, 7—5; James Fleming defeated L. L. Tweedy, 6—1, 6—2; Hartley Mellick defeated James Middledith, by default; W. L. Glenney defeated C. Boardman Tyler, 5—7, 6—4, 6—3; John Martin defeated Willard Wadsworth, by default; T. M. Day, Jr., defeated T. M. Day, 3d., 6—1, 6—1; H. J. Cochran defeated A. B. Beers, 6—3, 6—2. Second round—James Fleming was defeated by Hartley Mellick, 6—4, 6—2; W. L. Glenney won from John Martin, 6—2, 6—1; H. J. Cochran won from T. M. Day, Jr., 6—4, 3—6, 6—1. In addition to the semi-finals there yet remains to be played the match between Wylie Brown and Howard Carter in the second round.

PERSONAL FLAVOR.

As there is only $500 a year in it, the position the Cork County Council has voted to O'Donovan Rossa can scarcely be called a corking job.

Wonder where President Hadley, of Yale, learned so much about poker hands.

The Czar hasn't yet explained why he didn't dictate those peace terms from his headquarters in Tokio.

There is as yet no sign that the President intends to call a peace convention between Secretary Shaw and Governor Cummins.

That rioting at Tokio is only another evidence of Japanese progress in Western ways.

There seems to be a disposition to consider Professor Pickering's theory of a lunar gnosis a luny notion.

Peach Crop Short.

Orange, Sept. 9.—Peach growers in Sussex and Morris counties are overjoyed at the unusually good peach crop this year. Last year's crop was "winter killed," and the year before the crop was not a success, but the heavy rains of the last few weeks, succeeding a period of hot and dry weather, saved the fruit this season. The fact that the crop is unusually good is especially gratifying because of the failure of the crop in Maryland and Delaware.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

FASHION WHIMS.

Fluffy neck ruches of dotted tulle, to match the hat, are shown in the best millinery shops.

The girl who can wear olive green will be quite distingue this fall.

Anything from a full length redingote to an eton jacket "goes."

The braid and button trimming, in millinery effect, will be used to some extent, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Coquettish little hats of bright felt, with the brims pinched high all around, will be worn with the autumn walking suits.

Lingerie waists over a lining will be worn all winter, whereat the economical girl rejoices.

Silk girdles knotted at the side with long fringed ends are a pretty fancy.

A good deal of garnet is shown among the first fall things, and it will undoubtedly be worn more than for several years.

Small toques made entirely of iridescent feathers, will be in vogue again, and one or two have already appeared on the street.

Stockings of iridescent coloring, like changeable taffeta, are novel. The clocks are embroidered in the predominating tone.

With a white frock and white shoes the fad is to have the stockings match the bright color of the belt and hat, rather than white.

With a nobby little vest of checked cloth and well lined, the brief bolero may be made to do duty as a coat until well into sharp weather.

A simple finish of two tucks is still used on many very elegant skirts; and where something different, yet equally simple is desired, a single band of trimming around the hem is equally fashionable.

Waists of plaid silk are to be the approved third piece of the tailored coat and skirt suit.

It is prophesied that coleskin is again to be one of the fashionable furs of the winter.

A scarf of dyed Alencou, made fluffy with little ruffles of the same and bordered with baby velvet ribbon, is a valuable possession to the girl who knows how to wear these little accessories.

HOUSEHOLD NOTES.

Creamed cauliflower with a rice border is a delicious vegetable. The two are cooked separately, of course; the rice well washed and boiled in salted water until each flake is separate. Cream the cauliflower in the usual way and serve on a platter with the rice around it. No one who has tried the combination has been known to disapprove it.

Cream cheese in combination with chopped olives or with chopped nuts is recommended for sandwiches. Moisten the cheese with a little thick cream and add a little salt. About ten olives, stoned and chopped, to one cheese is the proper proportion. Mix the two and spread between thin slices of bread and butter. Trim the crusts and, if desired, cut the slices into rounds or triangles. Peanuts, English walnuts, or pecans, or a mixture of these nuts, combines well with the cheese. Prepare exactly as with the olives.

Pimentoes make the daintiest of tea table sandwiches. The pimentoes should be cut in tiny rings and only a few of them spread on bread and butter. The flavor should be delicate, not obtrusive.

Triangular shaped saucepans are new inventions, and will no doubt become very popular. They are made to exactly fit into each other, so that a single burner of a gas stove serves to cook several pans.

A bread toaster for a gas stove is another new device. Four slices of bread can be toasted at once, and clever arrangement prevents any part of the bread from coming in contact with the flame.

EAT SLOWLY.

Fast eating is sure to be injurious, because to properly prepare the food for digestion it must be thoroughly masticated.

Rapid eating is still worse when it is caused by the hurry of business, or by the common habit of "bolting" the food. Such eating is sure to produce indigestion or dyspepsia.

The teeth, as well as the stomach, are made for labor, and neither can have their proper work to do if only paps and broths and puddings and hashes and other soft and artificially prepared foods are crowded into the stomach, as though the cook in the kitchen could masticate and digest the food better than the natural grinders and the chemical action and assimilating power of the stomach.

Those people who shovel great vulgar mouthsful of food into their mouths and bolt it down, as though they had put ten minutes for a meal, are gormandizers instead of polite people.

They know little of the pleasure of deliberate eating, nor the luxury of satisfying hunger, and certainly they are laying the foundation of disease.

Dry, hard food, vigorously chewed, stimulates the flow of saliva, strengthens the teeth and keeps them healthy, and invigorates the digestion.

O. S. Rogers has returned from Alfred, N. Y., to his home in Madison avenue.

By MIRIAM MICHELSON

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company).

He was immensely satisfied with his little self. "I know him—that old rascal," he said, slowly. "I say, Olden, just do break that engagement with Braun."

"I oughtn't—really."

"But do—eh? Finish your work here and we'll go off together, us two, at 12:30, and leave him cooling his heels here when he comes." He rubbed his hands gleefully.

"But I'm not dressed."

"You'll do for me."

"But not for me. Listen: let me hurry home now and I'll throw Braun over and be back here to meet you at 12:30."

He pursed up his thin little lips and shook his head. But I slipped past him in that minute and got out into the street.

"At 12:30," I called back as I hurried off.

I got around the corner in a jiffy. Oh, I could hardly walk, Mag! I wanted to fly and dance and skip. I wanted to kick up my heels as the children were doing in the square, while the organ ground out: "Ain't It a Shame?" I actually did a step or two with them, to their delight, and the first thing I knew I felt a bit of a hand in mine like a cool pink snowflake and—

Oh, a baby, Mag! A girl-baby more than a year old and less than two years young; too little to talk; too big not to walk; facing the world with a winning smile and jabbering things in her soft little lingo, knowing that every woman she meets will understand.

I did, all right. She was saying to me as she kicked out her soft, heelless little boot:

"Nancy Olden, I choose you. Nancy Olden, I love you. Nancy Olden, I dare you not to love me. Nancy Olden, I defy you not to laugh back at me!"

Where in the world she dropped from, heaven knows. The organ grinder picked up the shafts of his wagon and trundled it away. The pickaninnies melted like magic. But that gay little flirt, about a year and a half old, just held on to my finger and gabbled—poetry.

I didn't realize just then that she was a lost, strayed or stolen. I expected every moment some nurse or conceited mamma to appear and drag her away from me. And I looked down at her—oh, she was just a little bunch of soft stuff; her face was a giggling dimple, framed in a big round hat-halo, that had fallen from her chicken-blond head; and her white dress, with the blue ribbons at the shoulders, was just a little bit dirty. I like 'em a little bit dirty. Why? Perhaps because I can imagine having a little coquette of my own a bit dirty like that, and can't just see Nance Olden with a spick-and-span clean baby, all feathers and lace, like a bored little grown-up.

"You're a mouse," I gurgled down at her. "You're a sweetheart. You're a—"

And suddenly I heard a cry and rush behind me.

It was a false alarm; just a long-legged girl of 12 rushing round the corner, followed by a lot of others. It hadn't been meant for me, of course, but in the second when I had remembered that precious paper and Tausig's rage when he should miss it, I had pulled my hand away from that bit baby's and started to run.

The poor little tot! There isn't any reason in the world for the fancies they take any more than for our own; eh, Mag? Why should she have been attracted to me just because I was so undignified as to dance with the pickaninnies?

But do you know what that little thing did? She thought I was playing with her. She gave a crow of delight and came bowling after me.

That finished me. I stooped and picked her up in my arms, throwing her up in the air to hear her crow and feel her come down again.

"Mouse," I said, "we'll just have a little trip together. The nurse that'd lose you deserves to worry till you're found. The mother that's lucky enough to own you will be benefited hereafter by a sharp scare on your account just now. Come on, sweetheart!"

Oh, the feel of a baby in your arms, Mag! It makes the Cruelty seem a perfectly unreal thing, a thing one should be unutterably ashamed of imagining, of accusing human nature of; a thing only an irredeemably vile thing could imagine. Just the weight of that little body riding like a bonny boat at anchor on your arm, just the cocky little way it sits up, chirping and confident; just the light touch of a bit of a hand on your collar; just that is enough to push down brick walls; to destroy pictures of bruised and maimed children that endure after the injuries are healed; to scatter records that even I—I, Nancy Olden—can't believe and believe, too, that other women have carried their babies, as I did some other woman's baby, across the square.

On the other side I set her down. I didn't want to. I was greedy of every moment that I had her. But I wanted to get some change ready before climbing up the steps to the L station.

She clutched my dress as we stood there a minute in a perfectly irresistible way. I know now why men marry baby-women; it's to feel that delicious, helpless clutch of weak fingers; the clutch of dependence, of trust, of appeal.

I looked down at her with that same silly adoration I've seen on Molly's face for her poor, lacking, twisted boy. At least, I did in the beginning. But gradually the expression of my face must have changed; for all at once I discovered what had been done to me.

My purse was gone.

Yes, Maggie Monahan, clean gone! My pocket had been as neatly picked as I myself—well, never mind, as what. I threw back my head and laughed aloud. Nance Olden, the great doer-up, had been done up so cleverly, so surely, so prettily, that she hadn't had an inkling of it.

I wished I could get a glimpse of the clever girl that did it. A girl—of course, it was! Do you think any boy's fingers could do a job like that and me not even know?

But I didn't stop to wish very long. Here was I with the thing I valued most in the world still clutched in my hand, and not a nickel to my name to get me, the paper, and the baby, on our way.

It was the baby, of course, that decided me. You can't be very enterprising when you're carrying a pink lump of sweetness that's all a-smile at the moment, but may get all a-tear the next.

"It's you for the nearest police station, you young tough!" I said, squeezing her. "I can't take you home now and show you to Mag."

But she giggled and gurgled back at me, the abandoned thing, as though the police station was just the properest place for a young lady of her years.

It was not so very near, either, that station. My arm ached when I got there from carrying her, but my heart ached, too, to leave her. I told the matron how and where the little thing had picked me up. At first she wouldn't leave me, but—the fickle little thing—a glass of milk transferred all her smiles and wiles to the matron. Then we both went over her clothes to find a name or an initial or a laundry mark. But we found nothing. The matron offered me a glass of milk, too, but I was in a hurry to be gone. She was a nice matron; so nice that I was just about to ask her for the loan of carfare when—

When I heard a voice, Maggie, in the office adjoining. I knew that voice all right, and I knew that I had to make a decision quick.

I did. I threw the whole thing into the lap of Fate. And when I opened the door and faced him I was smiling.

Oh, yes, it was Tausig.

In Chancery of New Jersey

To Frank J. Kirk, Defendant:

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein The Plainfield Trust Company is complainant, and you are the defendant, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of said complainant on or before the nineteenth day of September next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by you to the said complainant and dated October 25th, 1904; covering lands in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, and you are made defendant because you own the said lands or some part thereof.

Dated, August 18th, 1905.

TALK OF Y. M. C. A. BASKETBALL LEAGUE

PLANS FOR INTERASSOCIATION ORGANIZATION LAID BEFORE THE MEMBERS.

Tentative plans for the formation of an inter-association basketball league, in which Plainfield will be represented, are being discussed by the various Y. M. C. A. physical departments of Northern New Jersey. Seven associations are suggested for membership in the league: Plainfield, Newark, Passaic, Summit, Montclair, New Brunswick and Ridgewood.

A meeting on the proposition was to have been held by the local association last night, but the rain kept the rank and file of the leaders and basketball supporters away. A few of them were present, however, and Physical Director Boardman talked over the proposition with them informally.

It was felt that Plainfield could give a very good account of herself in such a league, and a general sentiment in favor of supporting the proposal was manifested.

Mr. Boardman, while readily agreeing that the local department need not fear to meet any one of the combinations proposed, suggested that it might equalize matters more, and thus strengthen the pennant chances of the locals, to have eight teams in the league. It is very probable that he will ask the other directors to make the organization, if it is formed, an eight-team affair.

Another meeting of the local men interested will be called in a day or two, and Plainfield's stand on the proposition will be decided without loss of time.

Liquor Dealers' Meeting.

The New Jersey State Liquor Dealers' Association will meet in annual convention at Paterson on Thursday. As there are many questions of vital interest to the association to be discussed it is expected that the convention will be the largest in its history. At that time four delegates will be elected to the National Convention to be held in Madison Square Garden, New York, October 18 and 19. During the State convention there will be a parade of the delegates.

Revivalists' Convention.

The Elizabeth District Revival Convention is being held today and tomorrow in the Methodist church at Whitehouse. Many prominent speakers will talk on plans for concerted action in promoting revivals. Rev. Dr. J. W. Johnston, of the New York East Conference, Brooklyn, will preach the conference sermon on "How to Kindle Revival Fires?"

Freeholders Meet Today.

The regular monthly meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders will be held in the Court House at Somerville today. There is much business to be transacted and it is expected that the contracts for the new jail will be formally executed.

GOLF.

There will be no special events at the Plainfield Country Club in golf until Thanksgiving Day, when it is planned to present an exceptional programme.

Those who favor the opening of the Plainfield Country Club golf course on Sunday are agitating the question among the members, and they hope to carry the proposition by a substantial majority.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, the "pro" at the Plainfield Country Club, will leave today for Fox Hills, where he will take part in the open golf tournament to be held there on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Robert Abbott is matched to play with O'Loughlin on Saturday in the professional-amateur match.

The professional record of the Baltusrol Golf Club course of 71, held by George Low, and the amateur record of 72, held by Frank O. Reinhart, of this city, has been lowered this season by Dr. A. S. Morrow, who holds the remarkably low record of 58, going out in 29 and returning with the same number of strokes. The composite score competition for a cup presented by E. N. Todd was held during June, July and August, resulting in many exceptionally low scores. Dr. Morrow was the winner.

THE FORUM.

Baseball Betting.

Editor, The Daily Press:

One of the most unfortunate things connected with the present series of ball games between Plainfield and Westfield is that reprehensible habit some men have of placing wagers, either that Plainfield or Westfield will win. You will see men going up and down in front of the bleachers with rolls of bills to place, either for or against. Some days these men will want to bet on their home club, and then again they will place their money with Charlie Denman's "Haswases."

On Saturday afternoon one of North Plainfield's rooters, who would rather see a game of ball than eat, got very much excited as to the outcome, and waving a wad was looking for a taker. It was just at that critical point of the game when all of Plainfield seemed on the anxiousseat, and by the by it looked as if the entire field was all from Plainfield, that the gentleman aforesaid pulled out his bank notes, and turning to his next-door neighbor, who was a perfect stranger to him, and exclaimed: "I have to give all my money to my wife, but I have got one cent I would like to place that Westfield wins." Of course the other fellow was a dead game sport and accepted the proposition, which, of course, led the North Plainfielder to look in his jeans for more mazuma, finding another coin of the realm. With this the betting became exceedingly fierce, and pretty soon our North Plainfield friend had wagered his very last copper, four cents against the two placed by Mr. Unknown. As to the legal aspect of the case, this must be said, the pool was placed on the rail in front of the seats, so that in case the officers of the law came around they would take the money then. Again, after the game, which without doubt was won fairly and squarely by our only winners, the winner, out of his generous heart, divided his winnings amongst some of the Westfield juveniles.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The annual offering for the New Jersey Baptist Ministerical Education Association will be received at the First Baptist church on Sunday.

In the absence of Elmer D. Cutting, tenor of the First Presbyterian church choir, Sunday, his place was taken by E. Maxwell Honeyman. Miss Carroll took the place of a regular contralto, who is still on her vacation.

Herbert Cass, who acted as a precentor at the First Baptist church during the vacation of the choir, has returned to his home in Pennsylvania, where he will continue his studies in preparation for the ministry in the Methodist church.

Cop Basketball Teams.

Arrangements for the organization of two basketball teams have been begun by the cops. Patrolman Overbaugh and Detective McCarthy are forming the combinations.

PLAINFIELD A MEMBER OF BIG BALL LEAGUE

MAY JOIN WITH MORRISTOWN, WESTFIELD, MONTCLAIR AND OTHER TEAMS.

The closing days of the Lackawanna League has brought forth a discussion of plans for next season and the possibilities of the league being continued are now somewhat problematical. According to Charles Stillwell, Jr., president of the Morristown-Chatham Club, the team representing that club will finish the season, no matter what the other teams do. He says that the club has lost money, the same as every other club in the league, but will not quit for that reason.

Mr. Stillwell says that if a league is formed next season it will have to be much more compact than the present one, taking in nearby towns, such as Montclair, Westfield and Plainfield, rather than towns so far away as Stroudsburg. He also says that another year the forfeit for each club will have to be larger than the present amount, $100, which, in case of a club withdrawing from the league, has not been enforced and is of no value.

Summit, with a winning team, is content to continue to the end of the season, and the Dover management denies that it has any intention of withdrawing. Summit has plans for enclosed grounds, and is willing to enter a league next year, but such is not the case with others. It is believed that if Plainfield, Westfield, a Newark team and Trenton should decide to enter the circuit, the league might prove a success. The great distance of the league, from Orange to Stroudsburg, was one of the fatal flaws this season.

The financial support of the clubs in the Lackawanna League has been poor. Orange was forced to withdraw on this account; Madison was driven away from Phillipsburg and its own home for the same reason. Summit has been losing money because its grounds were not enclosed, while Dover and the Morristown club had to rely on other expedients than fast ball to pay for their teams. Stroudsburg also was obliged to solicit funds for their team's support, although the reason for the withdrawal of the Pennsylvania team was the return of its crack players to the South, whence they had been imported.

CHICKEN THIEF TRUST.

Jersey Farmers Have Banded Together to Smash It.

Washington, N. J., Sept. 12.—A chicken thief trust is the latest innovation in this section. That is the name the farmers of the neighborhood have given a band of thieves of which they have been the victims, and so greatly do they fear the trust that they have banded themselves into a mutual protective association, charging each member annual dues of $1. Guards have been elected to protect the chicken yards of members.

Chicken thieving has been going on the last month on a wholesale scale. From four to six places have been visited in a single night. The thieves never left a fowl in the coops. Mrs. Sarah Cummins lost 180 at one visit from the thieves, M. C. Mulligan lost 150 and his flock of turkeys.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Rev. Dr. Snodgrass to Address Middlesex People.

Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, former pastor of the First M. E. church, but now of the Simpson M. E. church, Perth Amboy, will make one of the principal addresses at the forty-first annual convention of the Middlesex County Sunday-school Association to be held in the First Presbyterian church, Perth Amboy, on Thursday. There will be morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

Dr. Snodgrass will make the opening address in the afternoon on the subject of "Prayer for Guidance and Power." This will be followed by an informal discussion. While the convention will be attended mostly by Sunday-school workers from Middlesex county, it is expected that prominent workers and speakers from other parts of the State will take part.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hunter will give up housekeeping and remove permanently to New York.

Miss Marion Porter, of New York, has returned home after a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Porter, of West Third street.

Mrs. Stevenson and Miss Stevenson, who have been visiting Mrs. W. G. Anderson, of Franklin place, have returned to their home at Erie, Pa.

Mrs. John Terry and son, William Henry Terry, of Rahway road, have returned from Stanton, having spent a week with Mrs. Terry's two sisters there.

ACCIDENT ON "L" KILLS 12

Misplaced Switch Turns Car Somersault Hurling it Into the Street.

42 ARE INJURED

New York, Sept. 12.—Twelve persons were killed and more than forty others injured yesterday morning, when, because somebody blundered, a southbound Ninth avenue elevated train took an open Sixth avenue switch at the Fifty-third street curve and hurled the second car, crowded with passengers, from the structure to the street.

Blame for the accident was placed on either Cornelius A. Jackson, switchman in the Fifty-third street tower, or Paul Kelly, motorman. The former surrendered and was held in $5,000 bail. The latter disappeared.

The cause of the accident was admitted to be the open switch. The question in dispute is as to the signals carried by the train. The switchman declares the forward car carried Sixth avenue signals, and he is believed by Frank Hedley, general manager of the road. The conductor, however, denies this and, with his crew, asserts that the crash was caused by the rails spreading when the emergency brakes were applied after the train took the wrong switch.

Terror came to all the passengers on the train when the second car fell to the sidewalk. Policemen and ambulance surgeons were soon at work and the hospitals near the scene were soon crowded with victims and, as the news spread, with frantic persons seeking relatives.

In an interview, S. S. Neff, an expert on "L" construction, declared the signal system of the road to be inadequate to care for the traffic and insisted that an entirely new plan should be devised.

It was estimated by lawyers that it will cost the Interborough Company millions of dollars to settle damage suits certain to arise from the accident.

Running at thirty miles an hour, the five cars of the train were crowded. It was four minutes past seven o'clock, and the early workers, many of them saleswomen and shop girls, were on their way to the lower part of the city. In these circumstances it is considered almost miraculous that the loss of life was not greater. The bodies of some of those killed were mutilated, while persons who had been by their sides a moment before the accident escaped unhurt.

Responsibility for the wreck lies between Cornelius A. Jackson, switchman in the tower at Fifty-third street, and Paul Kelly, motorman of the train. Immediately after it Jackson went to the offices of the Interborough Company, made a report of what had happened and submitted to arrest. Later he was held in $5,000 bail by Cornoer Scholer on a charge of criminal negligence resulting in the death of twelve persons. Wallace E. Palmer, a real estate dealer, of 16 Linden avenue, Bronx, became his bondsman.

Kelly disappeared at the time of the crash and up to a late hour last night all the detectives of the railway company had been unable to find him. It was learned he had gone to the home of Edward Hughes, a motorman on the Third avenue elevated line, 201 East 126th street, and had remained there until about three o'clock in the afternoon, when he left and was not again seen.

Stole His Choice Melons.

After expending much time and labor in raising about two hundred choice Rockyford muskmelons, R. F. R. Huntsman, of East Front street, discovered that his garden has been visited by a gang of boys and young men and almost stipped of the fruit. The melons had about reached that point in growth when they would be ready for eating and Mr. Huntsman was counting on a feast for the next few weeks.

Tuck Turner will play with the Troy team in the Hudson River League this week. Tuck hasn't played much for the Commuters, but it is comforting to have his mighty arm and trained eye handy.

An informal smoker will follow the meeting of Wetumpka Tribe, Improved O. R. M., Thursday night.

M. A. Korff will play a number of violin selections before the Y. M. C. A. meeting next Sunday.

JERSEY ENDEAVORERS MEET AT MORRISTOWN

SESSIONS ARE TO BE HELD ON OCT. 4, 5 AND 6.

Arrangements for the nineteenth annual convention of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union to be held in the South Street Presbyterian church, Morristown, October 4, 5 and 6 are nearly completed.

The first afternoon Mrs. Dukes, of Camden, will conduct a school of methods and the State executive committee will hold its final session in the evening.

Thursday morning after the usual addresses of welcome and response, Mrs. Peacock will present her report on correspondence work and President John T. Sproull will announce the convention committees. The afternoon session will be devoted to reports on missionary work, by R. A. Alberts, of Jersey City; evangelistic efforts, by the Rev. Abram Duryea, of Cherry Hill; fresh air work, by A. N. Pierson, of Westfield; addresses on missions, probably by J. Willis Baer, formerly secretary of the United Endeavor Society, and an open parliament to be conducted by Treasurer William Shaw, of the united society.

The report of Miss Ida B. Stephens, State secretary, will be given at the evening session, followed by addresses by Treasurer Shaw and recognition of Baltimore convention delegates. A sunrise meeting will be held Friday morning at 6:30, led by State President Sproull. Reports of the colored, press and Sabbath observance departments will be made by Bishop Walters, of Jersey City; A. B. Johnson, of South Orange, and the Rev. Dr. F. W. Johnson, of Washington.

The Rev. W. T. S. Lumbar, of Newark, will tell of the Bible study work, followed by the State treasurer's report presented by Joseph B. Hottel, of Newark.

The Rev. Dr. Floyd W. Tompkins, rector of Holy Trinity, Philadelphia, and one of the most eminent Episcopal divines in the country, will speak Friday afternoon, and Robert E. Speer, of Englewood, will tell of the opportunities for home mission effort. A junior hour conducted by Mr. Dukes, of Camden, will conclude the session. The closing meeting Friday evening will include presentation of State banners, reports of committees, closing words by the new State president and consecration service. The music will be under the direction of F. H. Jacobs, of Jersey City. Open-air evangelistic services will be arranged for.

At this session the report of the following nominating committee will be presented: The Rev. A. W. Anderson, Canton; E. M. Dutcher, Newton; the Rev. B. H. Rankin, Elizabeth; Mrs. A. R. Baxter, Trenton; Miss Ruth E. McComb, Haddonfield. The State secretary, Miss Stephens, will also arrange for a conference of all the district secretaries during the convention.

The programme committee have still several addresses to arrange for. The indications are that the convention will be largely attended, and the programme promises a series of meetings of more than usual interest.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Signor Caruso, the tenor, who has been the unquestioned idol of this past London opera season, is congratulating himself upon having brought his collection of fancy waistcoats up to the respectable proportions of 732 choice patterns.

Sir John Tenniel, the famous cartoonist of London Punch, has just passed his eighty-fifth birthday.

Professor Merriam, head of the paleontological department of the University of California, has just issued a new bulletin on a hitherto unknown type of "saber-tooth" tiger found in California fossil beds.

Miss L. Bernie Gallagher, the assistant photographer in the National Museum at Washington, is the only woman in that branch of the government service. She has been a most valuable aid to the veteran in photography, Professor Thomas W. Smillie, who for thirty-five years has been the photographer of the museum, and who has photographed more eclipses, probably, than any other man in the country.

Mr. Edison has but one speech to his credit, it is said. He was to lecture on electricity before a girls' seminary, and was to be assisted by a friend named Adams to work the apparatus. He was so dazed when he arose that he simply said: "Ladies, Mr. Adams will now address you on electricity, and I will demonstrate what he has to say with the apparatus."

Officers of the British fleet which visited Gmuiden a few days ago gave a pathetic account of the sad change which has taken place in Queen Wilhelmina, of Holland, whom they met at Loo. In the last three years she appears to have aged fifteen, they declare.

Kubelik, the violinist, rode sixty miles on the footplate of a railroad engine last week, from Llandrindod Wells to Crayen Arms. Describing the journey he said: "It was magnificent, interesting, charming. I pulled the throttle, started the engine and took the stoker's place and found I could use the shovel as well as the bow."

ORGANIZATION REPUBLICANS MAKE A CLEAN SWEEP

Independent Forces Are Routed At Every Turn After Making a Brave Fight to Capture The Primaries—Councilmen Bullock And Wilson And Collector Lee Defeated

RESULT IS DECISIVE.

Councilman Tyler Slashed in Third Ward — Regulars Will Regain Control of Common Council, Tax Office and Freeholdership.

After general skirmishing all along the line and in some districts a fierce struggle, the regular organization of the Republican party swept all before it at the primaries here yesterday.

While at no time was the result much in doubt, not until the polls were closed were the organization captains in the Second ward positive that they had made the rout complete. In that ward the Independents had done more effective work and their forces were in much better shape when the combat began. When evening came on they mustered a strong vote, but not sufficient to overcome the strength of the regulars under the generalship of Judge Runyon. Wilson was defeated decisively.

Lee Vanquished.

Another fight of some moment was going on in the Fourth ward, where Tax Collector Robert L. Lee lives, the effort there being to capture the delegates to the city convention in order to help nominate Lee. But there again the organization chiefs and lieutenants were on guard and completely vanquished the opposition.

Bullock Does Down.

In the First ward, Councilman William Starr Bullock, the Independent candidate for renomination, ran ahead of his ticket, but his opponent, Councilman William Gloak, came out with flying colors. As has been related, Councilman Theodore Wilson ran behind, his defeat being marked.

Knifed Tyler.

Over in the Third ward all was serene, except that the organization had its knives out for Councilman William S. Tyler. The head of the anti-organization men in the Common Council was a candidate for delegate to the city convention, and while he was elected, he was badly butchered.

Various Claims.

While the Independents feel that they have administered a rebuke to the organization, the regulars claim that they have been vindicated. The result shows, according to them, that the rank and file of the party are satisfied with the way the city is run and the party managed. The Independents have not given up the fight. They say that this is only the beginning and that they will be heard from in the future.

What Result Means.

The result of the primary means that the regular organization will regain control of the Common Council after January 1. It also means that Freeholder J. F. MacDonald will be succeeded by Samuel P. T. Wilbur. Furthermore, it ensures the election of either John W. Murray, Jr., or Thomas Hanna as collector of taxes. This place is now held by former Councilman Robert L. Lee.

No Third Ticket.

It is not believed that there will be any third ticket in the field at the forthcoming election. Under the provisions of the primary law the Independents could name a ticket at a public meeting. The wisdom of doing this has been questioned, and from what can be gleaned from the leaders of the anti-organization movement the Independents will vote the straight ticket.

Candidate Challenged.

There was no disturbance at the polls in any of the districts. In a few instances the right of challenge was exercised. Over in the Fourth ward Herbert Buxton questioned the right of Clifford Braider to cast a ballot, claiming that he is a resident of North Plainfield. Mr. Braider, who was an Independent candidate for delegate to the city convention, told the election officers that he is a bona-fide resident of the ward. He was allowed to cast his ballot.

Gloak's Big Majority.

In the First ward Councilman Bullock polled 141 votes all told, while his opponent, Councilman Gloak, ran up 342. As can be seen, Gloak's majority is greater than the total vote cast for his opponent. Altogether there were 508 ballots cast in this ward. Of this number 495 were Republican. There was some scratching. Dr. A. W. Anderson got seventeen and Councilman Clarence L. Murphy two votes for city committee.

Wilson Runs Behind.

Daniel F. Ginna, the organization's candidate for Common Council in the Second ward, got 218 votes in the First district and 103 in the Second, making a total of 321. Councilman Wilson, his opponent, received 117 in the First and 52 in the Second, bringing his total up to 169. This gave Ginna 152 majority. The total vote at the primary was 551. The Republicans cast 539. J. P. Mosher, the unopposed candidate for justice of the peace, was high man. It is noticed in the returns that John E. Keely, one of the organization workers in the ward, was badly cut. He was a candidate for delegate to the city convention and for membership on the city committee.

Daniel's Fine Run.

President of Common Council Leslie M. Daniel, a candidate unopposed for renomination, won the honor of the day in the Third ward and, for that matter, in the city. He made an excellent run. But Councilman Tyler, who was an Independent candidate for delegate to the city convention, was up against it, although there was no concerted purpose of making him a scapegoat. He was knifed forty-seven times in the First district and sixty-three times in the Second. He was elected by nineteen votes. George W. V. Moy's name was written on the ticket in place of Tyler in many instances. He got ninety-nine votes.

In Fourth Ward.

Councilman Charles Randolph ran ahead of his ticket in the Second and Third districts of the Fourth ward, although the Independents had it in for him. He received a total of 803 votes. Factory Inspector Andrew McCardell, County Register Frank H. Smith and a legion of organization men hustled out the vote in the ward, but the Independents, under Robert L. Lee, were just as active.

Martine Loses Vote.

Farmer Orator James E. Martine, it is said, lost his vote in the Second ward. According to the report, the Democratic warhorse provided himself with a Republican ballot and registered a vote for Councilman Wilson, the Independent councilmanic candidate. This ballot, it is said, he placed in the Democratic box. It was not counted.

Regulars Jubilant.

When the night wore on and the result was certain, some of the zealous organization men wanted to hire an Italian band to play "Tammany" in front of the home of Councilman Bullock. Bullock is alleged to have declared that Plainfield's Republican organization is "a little Tammany." James T. MacMurray, one of the chiefs of the organization, urged his friends not to do this. "Don't rub it in that way," said he.

Returns Are Late.

It was nearly 6 o'clock this morning when the complete vote of the primaries was filed with City Clerk MacMurray. Even at that hour there were many regulars around. All were rejoicing over their victory. As a rule the Independents went home as soon as the polls closed at 9 o'clock. By midnight none of them were about, but had they been there would have been no unpleasantness between the factions.

The struggle was bitter, but everyone was good natured. The fight was over and that ended it, for the time being at least.

LEAL'S SCHOOL ELEVEN.

First Practice of Squad Held Yesterday.

Leal's School had its first practice yesterday. Several valuable players have been lost by graduation but there is plenty of material in school for a good team this fall. The following from last year's squad are in school and with one or two exceptions will try for the team: Lawrence, Glenney, Dallas, Howard, Manning, Lyman, Houghey, Valiant, Davidge and Brown. The new men who will try for positions on the team are Eoff, Wilson, Alpaugh, Brokaw, J. Jewitt and Rushmore.

A good schedule composed of five or six league games has already been arranged and several other games will be added to the schedule, including contests with the Plainfield High School.

Leal's School Opens.

John Leal's school for boys opened yesterday for the fall and winter season with a large enrollment.

—O'Reilly's dancing class will meet tonight.

STRAY HORSE AND BIKE POLICE PRIMARY HARVEST

COP MARTIN, A NEWSMAN, GATHERED IN BOTH OF THEM.

Patrolman Martin, one of the new cops, was resting pensively against the corner of the Marsh building at midnight last night, enjoying the peace that settled on the streets after the excitement of the primaries, when he saw a dim, gray shape move slowly down the center of the roadway. It was large and ghostly, and moved uncertainly from side to side.

Martin clutched his night stick and sallied forth to see what had taken possession of the street. He put the night stick away when he got within close range of the ghostly shape. It was a big bay horse, with gentle eyes and an undecided air. The cop could see nobody who might have a claim on the animal and pinched it with the aid of a stable halter. The horse was lodged at George Cole's stable. It was unclaimed this morning.

A little later Martin found an abandoned bicycle on Second street in front of the theatre. He lurked around hopefully for an automobile during the rest of the night, but the bubble folk were more careful than the horse owners and wheelmen.

Martin was the only cop who had anything to show for the primary excitement. Not even a plain drunk and disorderly was turned in at the station house.

COLBY SMASHES THE ESSEX MACHINE

INDEPENDENT LEADER ROUTS CARL LENTZ'S FORCES.

Everett Colby, independent candidate for State senator from Essex county, carried that county yesterday at the primaries in spite of the most strenuous work in opposition by the Republican organization.

It was predicted last night that if Colby showed sufficient strength he would be taken up by the regular organization and put in nomination.

Otherwise another good Republican might be announced today and perhaps it would be Halsey M. Barrett.

Of 477 delegates, Colby secured nearly 240, and had control of the county convention.

Woodbury, Sept. 13.—At an early hour this morning there is every indication that John Boyd Avis will be the Republican nominee for Senator.

IN UNION COUNTY.

In Elizabeth, friends of Robert Kirkland put up a big fight and succeeded in getting forty one of the sixty-one delegates to the county convention. Over 900 votes were polled in the Eleventh ward alone. Kirkland is the opponent of Dr. Lawrence, of Summit, for the shrievalty.

Plainfield is likely to throw its support to Dr. Lawrence and from the returns throughout the county it seems that his nomination is certain.

Seymour in Hudson.

Jersey City, Sept. 13. —Robert Davis, the Democratic leader of Hudson county, vanquished the opposition at yesterday's primaries. The organization's delegates pledged to nominate ex-Mayor Egbert Seymour, of Bayonne, for sheriff, were elected in all but a few precincts in Jersey City. Seymour had a walkover in the other municipalities. Under Sheriff John J. Heavey, Seymour's rival, was badly disappointed over the result in Jersey City. Seymour polled 8,666 votes and Heavey 2,852 votes.

Murray for Mayor in Paterson.

Paterson, Sept. 13.—The principal fight here yesterday was for the mayoralty candidates. Samuel Murray, Republican, won from Joseph McDonald, securing not less than two-thirds of the delegates. McDonald is the present alderman from the Fourth ward. Thomas Carless, present freeholder from the Second ward, managed to best Jacob Geroe. Abram Kemmerling won in the First ward against Adrian Wenting. Kemmerling is custodian of the city hall.

Tenbroeck Beaten by Atkins.

Asbury Park, Sept. 13.—Mayor Frank L. Tenbroeck was defeated for renomination yesterday at the Republican primaries by Charles A. Atkins, proprietor of the Ocean hotel. The vote was the largest ever cast at a primary meeting. Atkins had 37 majority in the First ward, and enough in the Second ward to make his total majority about 100. Both men favor high license.

PLAINFIELD TAX VALUES

Totals, But Not Full Table, Made Public This Morning.

DETAILS NEXT WEEK

Net Taxable Valuation Is Put at $10,167,875—Railroad Property Is Rated at $83,189.

The table of taxable valuations for this city was announced by the County Board of Taxation this morning. The net valuation is put at $10,251,064. The totals in the table are as follows:

Number of lots, 5,353; valuation of real estate, $8,723,225; valuation of personal estate, $1,472,075; dedicated for debt, $27,425; net valuation taxable, $10,167,875.

The valuations include railroad property placed at $83,189.

The figures by wards are as follows:

First—1,178 lots, $1,788,775. Second—1,357 lots, $2,498,400. Third—1,137 lots, $2,298,550. Fourth—1,681 lots, $2,137,500. Total of valuation, $8,723,225; with $83,189 railroad property added, $8,806,414.

Personal estate valuations, by wards—First, $301,950; Second, $420,150; Third, $426,100; Fourth, $323,875. Total, $1,472,075.

The total real estate and personal property, with $83,189 railroad property added, is $10,251,064, an increase of $507,764 over last year.

Property exempt from taxation is as follows:

Public schools—First ward, $30,000; Second ward, $40,000; Third ward, $163,000; Fourth ward, $35,000.

Fire department — First ward, $10,000.

Church and charitable—First ward, $75,100; Second ward, $195,000; Third ward, $146,400; Fourth ward $38,000.

Cemetery—First ward, $3,000; Second ward (Hillside), $3,200; Third ward, $24,000.

Library—Third ward, $61,000.

Municipal property—Fourth ward, $61,000.

Total of exempt property by wards—First ward, $118,100; Second ward, $238,200; Third ward, $394,400; Fourth ward, $340,500. Grand total, $1,091,200.

The general Elizabeth totals are as follows:

Number of lots, 26,566; valuation of real estate, $21,025,749; valuation of personal estate, $3,091,950; dedicated for debt, $1,000; net valuation taxable, $24,116,699; number of polls, 13,715.

The Somerset County Board of Assessors met in the Court House at Somerville yesterday and effected organization by electing William D. Vanderbeek, of Bedminster, chairman and Frank T. Ross, of Bridgewater, secretary.

The amount of the county ratables this year is $20,343,489, an increase of about $638,097 over last year. Bridgewater township is $5,305,000, an increase of about $86,000. The county rate will be about 63 and the State school rate 17.

The full table of ratables will not be ready for publication until next week.

Adjudged Insane.

The sheriff's jury selected to decide as to the sanity of John G. Cook, of Scotch Plains, who has been in the State Hospital, Morristown, for some time, met yesterday afternoon in Codington & Swackhamer's office before a commission, and after hearing testimony, decided that Mr. Cook is insane. This action was taken to permit Mr. Cook's wife to sell some property at Scotch Plains, which she could not do until after the due process of law was followed.

Teachers' Union Meeting.

The Primary and Junior Sunday School Teachers' Union will observe its tenth anniversary on Monday and in the afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock Mrs. C. Frank French, of Washington avenue, will entertain the members at a lawn party at her home. An attractive programme has been arranged for the occasion.

Deadlock on Cumberland's Sheriff.

Bridgeton, Sept. 13.—Republicans had a fight on sheriff and it looks as though it would be carried into the convention. The machine wanted E. P. Bacon; the anti-machine men backed Daniel Souder. Neither has majority of delegates, because William Bacil has the Vineland delegation solid.

Baird's Machine Victorious.

Camden, Sept. 13.—Republican machine won everything in sight. There were small scraps for council and freeholders in four wards.

Giles Is Recovering.

Lincoln Giles, of East Second street, injured in a gas explosion at Westfield, continues to improve at the hospital.

CARNEY FORCES ROUTED BY CONROY SUPPORTERS

WHAT LEADERS SAY OF PRIMARY RESULT

MAC MURRAY, RUNYON AND MURPHY EXPRESS OPINIONS.

City Clerk James T. MacMurray—In my opinion the result shows that the taxpayers are satisfied with the way the city government is conducted. Of course, I am pleased over the primaries—more than pleased. I want to say now what I have always contended, that Plainfield is the best city in New Jersey. Nowhere else will you find a municipality so up-to-date and nowhere else will you find a cleaner government.

City Judge William N. Runyon—I believe that the Republican voters gave careful consideration to the issues of the fight. The people paid attention to everything that the gentlemen in the independent movement had to say and weighed issues well.

Councilman Clarence L. Murphy: "While the result of the primary election is a disappointment to the Independent Republicans who voted the 'anti-machine' ticket it does not follow that the issues raised by them in this local campaign are finally disposed of. Speaking for myself I would say that the decision made by the voters yesterday should be accepted as the will of the majority and no further contest be made this year. It is the intention of the members of the First Ward Republican Club to keep their organization together and if the situation warrants to put a ticket in the field for next year's primary. If we have done nothing more than to show the local leaders that there is a good healthy opposition to anything savoring of local bossism, we have not struggled in vain. This little political storm has had a tendency to clear the local atmosphere which lately has been rather overcharged and I think had at least given us better men as candidates of the 'machine' than would have been nominated without the opposition."

TAME IN DUNELLEN.

No contest and a light vote marked the election at Dunellen. The Democrats polled 31 votes and the Republicans 21. The Republicans nominated W. T. Fredericks for mayor, and Albert Randolph, two years, and Edward Pennock and J. N. Apgar, three years, for Council. The Democrats named Theodore Apgar and William Coons, three years, for Council.

Daabsters to Play Giants.

Manager Daab's Hoboken team, which recently defeated the Cincinnati "Reds" and numerous other strong teams, will again tackle the Champion Giants on Sunday next at the St. George Cricket Grounds and are confident of scoring another victory. The Giants and the Hobokens have met twice this season, the league leaders winning both times by the small margin of one run, a lucky double in each instance defeating the home team. Deegan, who allowed the Giants but four hits in the last game, will again twirl for Daab's team, while Manager McGraw, who has a wholesome regard for the ability of the Hobokens, will have his regular team on the field and one of his best pitchers in the box.

Rumor About Herbert W. Bowen.

Washington, Sept. 13.—Word comes to the capital all the way from Connecticut, to the effect that a lot of Republicans in the Third Congressional District of that State are so much taken with Herbert W. Bowen, former Minister to Venezuela, that they are proposing to "vindicate" him because of having been removed from his mission, by electing him as the successor of former Representative Brandegee, who has just been elected to the Senate.

One Contest in New Brunswick.

New Brunswick, Sept. 13.—At the primaries yesterday there was but one contest and that was for the nomination of alderman on the Republican ticket in the Second ward. Two candidates were named there by petition, Joseph J. Hansell and Assistant Prosecutor Charles E. Tindell. The latter was supported by the ward leaders. Tindell won by a close vote. Hansell may continue his fight.

Hunterdon Returns Slow.

Flemington, Sept. 13.—The primaries in Hunterdon county passed off quietly yesterday. The only strife was for delegates to the county conventions, which will nominate candidates for sheriff, assembly, three members of the board of freeholders and a county clerk. Returns are slow coming in so that no predictions can be made.

—Tomorrow morning Neuman Brothers will have 150 baskets of fine white and yellow peaches for table and canning purposes. Prices, 75c., 85c. and $1.00.

Thiers Beaten In Contest For Borough Democratic Mayoralty Nomination.

LEADERS IN CLASH

Linbarger and Carney In a Tussle—Republicans Have Quiet Time, After Cit Leaders Are Challenged.

All the excitement at the borough primaries was embodied in the fight between the Carney and Swackhamer-Linbarger factions of the Democratic forces over the selection of a mayoralty candidate—a battle between the middle-of-the-road party men and the fusionists. Carney was badly beaten, W. J. Conroy, the Swackhamer-Linbarger -nominee, winning the nomination by a majority of 84 in the two districts. The factions fought stubbornly at the polls, and a good deal of hard feeling between the leaders was openly manifested. Carney and Linbarger had a personal encounter.

Things were flatly one-sided at the Republican election. True to their announced determination, the anti-administration faction stayed away from the polls, after testing the sincerity of the regulars' threat to challenge every man who was understood to have voted with the Citizens at the last regular election. The disaffected Republicans had nominated delegates to the county convention for a test of strength, but to all intents and purposes the list of nominations was withdrawn. Not more than seven votes were cast for any one of the anti nominees, and one of them received only four. The regulars had virtually plain sailing.

The polling officers said it was the biggest primary election ever held in the borough. Mayor Smalley and James Daly, a Democratic leader, said the election was not as warm or as large as some others in the past.

The vote:

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Carmine Luigi, an employe of the Garretson & Gray crusher, narrowly escaped severe injury in a fall into the crusher pit Monday night. Carmine attended a celebration at a compatriot's shack, and started home in the dark with steps that were not any too certain. He wandered too near the edge of the quarry and lost his footing. He fell on his face halfway over a sheer, high drop, and barely saved himself. He was painfully cut about the face. He walked carefully after he arose and got home without further mishap.

Success in full measure attended the reception tendered by Rev. W. W. Casselberry, the pastor, to the members of the Presbyterian Sunday school last night. Mr. and Mrs. Casselberry's talks on their trip to Europe and Miss Hilyer's whistling solos were greatly enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

Archibald Brakeley has returned from Asbury Park, where he has been on the reportorial staff of the Press during the summer. He will return to his studies at Princeton next Saturday.

Councilman Schneider, head of the committee on the Chestnut street crossing gate, hopes to have a report of positive nature to present to the Council at the next meeting.

Thomas Thomas, a former resident here, was the editor of the morning edtion of the Asbury Park Press during the past summer.

James Jackson, colored, will be arraigned before Recorder Campbell tonight, charged with the theft of Daniel Gray's bicycle.

Albert Grieb, of Brooklyn, has returned home after a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Grieb.

Several boroughites attended the Italian band concert and fireworks in North Plainfield last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Siriski are entertaining Miss Mary Clement, of Raritan.

Miss Jamie Churchill has returned from a stay with friends out of town.

Mrs. Charles Ross has returned from a visit to relatives in Brooklyn.

W. G. Runyon has had a new sign hung on the front of his office.

James Martin has given up his position in G. W. Day's office.

Grover Kratzel has recovered from a severe attack of hay fever.

John Alberts has reopened his poolroom on North avenue.

The Afternoon Card Club will be reorganized next month.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The electric light service for several months past has been very unsatisfactory. Some of the principal lights in town have been out of service for several nights at a time. The Township Committee has been hustling the Public Service Corporation, but it has but little effect.

The rural free delivery mail service which was started September 1 has taken well with the residents in the outlying districts, who are now able to enjoy better mail facilities than ever before.

Miss Louise Robison, who has been spending her vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Robison, returned Monday to her position as teacher in one of the New York schools.

Mrs. J. Moore-Smith, mother of Rev. T. Moore-Smith; his sister, Miss Jennie, and his eldest boy, Alexander, have arrived from Scotland.

Conrad Peltz, who has been spending two weeks with his son, Conrad Peltz, Jr., has returned to his home in Bayonne.

Anthony Dobbins, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Ann Dobbins, has returned to his home in Newark.

There will be dancing tonight at Rapp's pavilion. Naylor's orchestra, o fPlainfield, will furnish the music.

Harold and Victor Todd have returned from a stay of several weeks at Asbury Park.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Johnston have been entertaining friends from New York.

Miss Beula Coles, of Park avenue, has been entertaining Newark friends.

Jack Wright, of Easton, is visiting Ralph Reeves, of West Fifth street.

Miss Ada Adams, of Newark, is the guest of Walter Vail, of Duer street.

PERSONAL.

Ray Fuller, of Arlington avenue, is detained at home by illness.

B. A. Hegeman, of Truell court, has returned from a Western business trip.

Miss Sarah Lippincott, of Philadelphia, is the guest of Mrs. V. Fritts, of West Fifth street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ladd, Jr., of Stelle avenue, have returned from Bass Rocks, Gloucester, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. William Newcorn, of West Front street, who are in the South, are expected to return home Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Eels, of South avenue, have gone to Westerly, R. I., where Mr. Eels has accepted a position.

Harold Hegeman, who has been spending his vacation at Bass Rocks, Gloucester, Mass., has returned to his home at Truell Court.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Cooley, who have been spending their vacation in Maine, have returned to their home in Watchung avenue.

Mrs. Robert Lowery, of East Seventh street, has returned from Lake Minnewaska, where she has been spending several weeks.

BIDS FOR BRIDGE.

Somerset Freeholders Meet in Court House.

All the members were present at the regular meeting in the Court House at Somerville yesterday of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders.

There were fifteen bids presented for the construction of the new bridge on Davenport street, over Peters brook. The bids were referred to Messrs. Hoagland, Baird, Whitenack, Emmons, Logan and the County Engineer for a report at a subsequent meeting.

An ordinance granting the Somerville Water Company the right to lay pipes on the north side of Union avenue, at a compensation to the county of $500, and also the furnishing of water for the proposed new fountain, was unanimously adopted.

The Board authorized the committee on the Drake bridge in Montgomery township to view the same and report to the Board for acceptance.

The Board will meet in Dock Watch Hollow Friday at 11 a. m. to view a bridge recently washed away.

GIRL BANDIT TAKEN.

Josie Wilson and Fellow Marauder Fight with Sheriff.

Salt Lake, Sept. 13.—After a hundred mile chase through deep canons and across the eastern Utah desert and a gun fight, Josie Wilson, a woman who has been stealing stock and robbing Uintah reservation homeseekers for weeks, was captured near Grand Junction. The woman was brought back to Vernal yesterday, along with John Jones, her fellow marauder. Both are said to be denizens of the Robbers' Roost, Utah's notorious hiding place for criminals on the San Rafael River.

Josie Wilson came originally from Colorado. She is about twenty years old and handsome. She has worn men's clothes for several years. The woman is said to have taken part in several daring robberies, including train holdups, and to have been a participant in the famous "gun night," in Bluff City, two years ago, when she and an outlaw drove a dozen cowboys and stockmen from a saloon.

EXTEND FRISCO ROAD.

Branch Line to Be Built in the State of Texas.

Austin, Tex., Sept. 13.—It is stated that the Texas-St. Louis line of the Firsco road is to be extended south from Paris to Mexia, Tex., a distance of 175 miles. The preliminary surveys have been made. At Mexia a line will connect with the Trinity and Brazos Valley, which is owned by the Yoakum-Hawley Syndicate and is now being extended south to Galveston and Houston.

The building of the 175 miles extension of the Texas-St. Louis line will give the Frisco a direct through route between south Texas points and St. Louis. The proposed extension will pass through a rich agricultural section of the State and will not encroach upon any exisiting railroad.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Abram Smalley, Aged 82, Succumbs to Heart Disease.

Abram Smalley, eighty-two years old, was found dead in bed at his home in Somerville yesterday. He had appeared as well as usual the night before. Heart disease was the cause of death. County Physician Taylor was called and granted a burial permit.

He is survived by three children: Mrs. Mary Brokaw, of Plainfield; Abram D. Smalley, of Dunellen, and Mrs. Goyn T. Hodge, of Somerville.

FOR ALLENTOWN FAIR.

The Allentown Fair is by all odds one of the most unique exhibitions of the country. Its attendance is simply enormous, and why, you ask? Everything is complete to the minutest detail. The entertainments are exceptionally fine. The live stock show has no equal. The fruit and vegetable exhibits are among the finest procurable, and with the genuine good time always found at Allentown, there is no reason why the fair should not be popular. On the days of the fair the New Jersey Central will sell reduced rate tickets to Allentown and special trains will be run from various points. 9-6 e o d

Lake Excursion.

The beauty spot of New Jersey is Lake Hopatcong and one who visits the place is charmed with the diversified entertainment afforded. The surroundings are delightful in every respect and a day spent in the rarified mountain air of the Jersey foothills will do wonders for the tourist. There are ample facilities for fishing and boating and one who enjoys the rambles in wooded paths and the quietness of the natural pines, to him Lake Hopatcong is the gem of places. On September 17, 1905, the New Jersey Central is going to run one of its famous low priced and popular excursions to the Lake. Round trip $1.00, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m. The run is made in three hours and the entire day can be spent in delightful enjoyment. 9 13 td

A Wonderland.

Trenton and its fair are famed and why shouldn't it be for no greater attraction than this fine exhibit is known in these parts. It is the old fashioned county fair in every particular and in every branch and department there is a completeness that obtains at no other exhibition. This year many new and attractive features have been arranged for which will make the fair a still greater drawing card. The dates of the fair are September 25 to 29, and during that time the New Jersey Central will place reduced rate excursion tickets to Trenton, including admission, on sale at all of its stations in New Jersey. 9 13 eod td

Mrs. Davenport, formerly Miss Jennie Rambo, a teacher in the Plainfield Seminary, has been spending several days with friends in town.

AMUSEMENTS.

Miss Charlotte Burnett, appearing at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night in the farcical romance, "The Honeymoon," is eminently fitted for her position as star of the company, after years of schooling with such prominent stars as Richard Mansfield, Julia Marlow and Charles Dalton, playing leading roles. New York managers predicted a great future for this young comedienne. Miss Burnett's management, with customary enterprise, has gotten together a magnificent organization, which will surpass all previous efforts. The farcial romance, "The Honeymoon," was chosen on account of its peculiar comedy, which fits Miss Burnett's style of acting and affords an exceptional opportunity for this clever comedienne. The scenery and costumes are gorgeous.

It is said that the advent of musical comedy is wholly responsible for the lack of interest nowadays in serious dramatic work. This is undoubtedly true to a very large extent, and the overwhelming preference shown to a combination of tough provoking incidents, and catchy, tuneful music, is easily attributed to the mental condition of the average theatre patron, who finds relief and relaxation in an entertainment such as "Happy Hooligan's Trip Around the World" affords and wherein is blended a wholesome quality of fun with song creations of vim and charm. "Happy Hooligan's Trip Around the World" will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre Friday night, and it only remains to be seen how many amusement seekers have kept a record of this musical comedy's unbroken series of triumphs.

"Marching Through Georgia," the latest success from the pen of that justly celebrated and successful author, Mr. Daniel L. Hart, comes to the New Plainfield theatre next Saturday. This play is a romance of love and patriotism woven around the stirring historical events incident to Sherman's famous march to the sea. The production is complete in every detail and an excellent company portrays the many characters. No play of more naturalness and originality, of more power and sincerity, of more daintiness in construction, of more delicacy and deliciousness of laughable situations, nor of greater adaptability as to thoroughness of local color and of atmosphere has ever visited us, and an evening of satisfaction and enjoyment is assured. Special Saturday bargain matinee.

"Checkers," the success of New York's last two seasons, will be presented at the New Plainfield theatre next Monday night. Both critically and financially this bid for this city's favor seems to have proved one of the most noted of the present theatrical season, as it was last. It but recently finished its ninth engagement in New York City, and it is booked to play four more there this season. The play when seen here will be practically the original company save that the phenomenal young actor, Hans Robert, will be seen in the title role. The production is a large one and the play, containing thirty-five prominent speaking parts, calls for a company numbering 150 people for its proper interpretation. "Checkers" is a breezy, up-to-date story and is told in a manner which seems to please all classes. It teems with pathos and humor and there is in it the thrill of sensationalism sufficient to satisfy the craving of those who care for that sort of thing.

Arthur Denton, of Washington avenue, will return to Brown University tomorrow to continue his studies.

GETTYSBURG AND WASHINGTON.
Personally-Conducted Tour via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The battlefield of Gettysburg, and the National Capital are attractions so alluring that few would feel like refusing them, especially in the cool fall days. It is to place these two attractions within easy reach of every one that the Pennsylvania Railroad Company announces a tour over the interesting battlefield, through the picturesque valleys of Maryland, and an entertaining stay at Washington.

The tour will leave New York, West Twenty-third street, 7:55 a. m., and Philadelphia, 12:20 p. m., Saturday, September 23, in charge of one of the company's tourist agents, and will cover a period of six days. An experienced chaperon, whose especial charge will be unescorted ladies, will accompany the party throughout. Round-trip tickets, covering transportation, carriage drives, and hotel accommodations, will be sold at the extremely low rate of $22 from New York, $21 from Trenton, $19 from Philadelphia, and proportionate rates from other points.

For itineraries and full information apply to ticket agents; tourist agent, 263 Fifth avenue, New York; 4 Court street, Brooklyn; 789 Broad street, Newark, N. J.; or address George W. Boyd, general passenger agent, Broad Street station, Philadelphia. 8 30 oaw td

Anthony Fiala's First Story.

In next Sunday's New York World will be presented the most remarkable story of a voyage in search of the North Pole that has ever appeared. It is the personal narrative of Anthony Fiala, the young Brooklyn man who headed the Ziegler expedition which has recently been rescued. It is told in his own words, with all the freshness of a memory that has forgotten nothing of the remarkable trip into the frozen North, and is illustrated with photographs taken on the expedition by Mr. Fiala. This publication of Mr. Fiala's story will be the first appearance in print of any account by him of his travels, and should be read by every one.

NOTICE!
"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as a bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James, Embury Ave., care Hiller, Ocean Grove, N. J. With a record second to no team in the country, the Daabsters certainly have every reason to feel proud of this season's work.

Crescent Oval is being put in first class condition for Saturday. The water has left the field and the diamond is being rolled down.

Dalton will make his first appearance on Crescent Oval Saturday, covering second base. His work has been of the best and he should be given a great reception.

No one can complain of the quality of baseball played by Plainfield and Westfield. Every contest has been a close one and in many cases the result was in doubt until the last man was out.

The host of friends of "Phil" Smith will be anxious to see how he will perform in fast company. Manager Daab has confidence in the young man, believing that he can hold his own.

Many of the enthusiastic fans are willing and anxious to join in a movement to entertain the Daabsters at the close of the season. Some suitable event should be arranged for the presentation of the pennant and it is up to the fans to arrange it.

Simply because the Plainfield team won the county championship from Westfield is no reason why the interest should lag. Let every lover of baseball support the team up to the last game, and encourage Manager Daab and his team to come back next year.

The attendance at Saturday's game on Crescent Oval between Plainfield and Westfield will in a large measure indicate to what extent the fans appreciate Manager Daab's effort to give the town good baseball. He intends to play the remaining three games in the series, and it is the duty of the fans to support him and help him come out right financially. Westfield will undoubtedly present several changes in its lineup, as the minor league season is closed.

Louis Wiltse, of the New Madison, who has been pitching for the York, Tri-State League team, will return home on Saturday. Manager Daab expects to secure his services to pitch for him against the New York Nationals, provided he can get the Giants for the last game here this season. He will try to have his brother, George Wiltse, pitch for the Giants, which would make the contest doubly interesting, as it would be brother against brother. The contest will be played after the post-season series between the Giants and the Philadelphia Athletics.

Plainfield, N. J., September 13, 1905.

As forecasted in these columns, the regular Republicans won at the primaries here yesterday. The Independents put up a good fight, particularly in the Second ward, but they showed the lack of organization. Now that the battle has been fought, the Independents show a disposition to turn in for the ticket. In that event, there will be a tame election in November.

Printers on Strike.

The union printers employed in the job printing establishments of Newark, went on strike yesterday. The refusal of the employers in six establishments to grant an eight-hour day, which was demanded by the Typographical Union, is the cause of the strike. The action of the local union followed instructions of the executive commttee of the International Typographical Union to enforce the eight-hour day.

CARNEY FORCES ROUTED

Opinions may differ as to whether the primary was as big as some of former years, but as far as the Democrats were concerned it was warm enough for all practical purposes. Both factions hustled out all the votes they could marshal, and workers labored busily at the polls, while the opposing leaders glowered at one another. After 6 o'clock, when the rush of ballots began, Carney, Swackhamer, Linbarger and their aides hustled about without cessation, talking, urging, and arguing. Hacks were in constant service, as at a regular election. Both Conroy and Thiers were out at the polls all afternoon. The latter went home early, but the fusionists stayed until the vote was counted.

Leaders Have Clash.

Late in the afternoon Carney and Linbarger came into collision over the canvass books, which the middle-of-the-road leader accuses the fusionists of having kept from him. After the clash Linbarger sought, unavailingly, to have Carney arrested for assault and battery.

Linbarger carried two books beneath his arm all through his work about the polls. Carney thought the books were the ones he was after, and rushed on Linbarger while the latter was talking to James Daly, one of the Carney men, in the hallway next to the polling place of the Second district, and snatched them from his grasp. Linbarger turned on Carney and sought to regain possession of the books. A tussle ensued, in which Linbarger was thrown to the floor of the hallway.

A crowd gathered, and a good deal of excitement followed. Carney found the books were not the ones he was after and returned them to the fusionist. Linbarger was not satisfied with that termination of the affair, and turned to Mayor Smalley, who was in the crowd, to demand Carney's arrest. The Mayor referred him to the recorder. Linbarger then commanded Marshal Emmons, who was in citizens' clothes, to arrest Carney. Emmons said he was not on duty. After an unsuccessful attempt to get Justice Smalley to issue a warrant against Carney, Linbarger allowed the matter to drop for the time being.

Linbarger Indignant.

He was very indignant over it, however, and criminal action may yet grow out of the incident.

"I am not through with this thing by any means," he said last night. "I will make Carney suffer for his assault yet."

Swackhamer, as well as Linbarger, had an uncomfortable fifteen minutes in the course of the election. Mayor Smalley halted the ex-Assemblyman early in the evening in front of the Second district polling place, and gave him a liberal piece of his mind, with characteristic force and fluency.

"You are a pretty sort of object to be leading a reform movement against my administration," said the Mayor. "You were in the Council with me for three years, and you know whether or not there was anything wrong with the government of this borough. Why don't you tell what you discovered, if you discovered anything? If you set out to talk about the administration, tell the truth."

The executive belabored the Democratic leader in this strain for ten minutes, to the unconcealed enjoyment of a large gallery. Swackhamer's reply was feeble, and he seemed glad to get out of range of Smalley's batteries.

Only One Contest.

There was no contest among the Democrats for any other nomination than that of Mayor. The fusionists did not name councilmanic candidates, leaving the nominations open for their allies among the Republicans, but the straight ticket men filled out the ballot. The Conroy adherents, for the most part, appeared to ignore the nominations so made, although a number of them showed a preference for a ful set of Democratic nominees by allowing them to stand.

Early in the polling the anti leaders made a test of the regulars' threat to challenge the votes of their followers. Former Freeholder Lutkins, W. G. Debele and I. P. Runyon appeared at the polling place in the Second district and asked for Republican ballots. William McLaughlin promptly challenged them. They swore in their votes, taking an oath to support the Republican ticket at the next election. In the First district A. E. Case, of Manning avenue, was challenged. He swore in his vote in the same way. After these challenges anti-administration Republicans were about as scarce in the polling places as feathers on a fish. Satisfied that the Smalleyites would do as they said, the Independents gave them no chance to compel an oath of fealty to the party ticket.

Robert Clark, Jr., was on both tickets as a delegate. This explains why there were only seven trailers in that list. Edmund Rushmore, one of the anti delegate nominees, sent word to the men who made up the ticket after the names had been filed, that he was a Smalley admirer and wanted his name withdrawn. It was too late, however, to take such action. Mr. Rushmore says he didn't know what he was signing when he affixed his acceptance to the nomination petition.

SWITCHMAN NOT IN TOWER.

Confesses that He Did Not See Train Approaching.

A thorough search of New York is being made by the police to find Paul Kelly, motorman of the Ninth avenue train that was wrecked at Fifty-third street, in that city, where one car plunged to the street, killing twelve persons and injuring almost fifty others. Every ferry and railroad station is still guarded by detectives and it is believed the motorman is still in that city.

A man who gave the name of Charles B. Branch was arrested at South Beach, S. I., in the belief that he was Motorman Kelly. Later, however, the police announced that a mistake had been mdae and that the prisoner was not Kelly.

Cornelius K. Jackson, the switchman who was in the signal tower at Fifty-third street, New York, and who set the switch for a Sixth avenue train, has confessed that he was not in his tower at the time of the accident. Jackson, after accident, declared that the wrecked train had carried signals indicating that it was a Sixth avenue train and that accordingly he set the switch to turn the train into Fifty-third street. Trainmen and others denied this and said the train carried the proper Ninth avenue signals.

After holding firmly to his story for more than twenty-four hours, Jackson weakened and told the truth to the railway officials.

Komura Seriously Ill.

Baron Komura, the apanese peace envoy, is a very sick man. He is eager to start for Japan, but the doctors say he is in no condition to travel and his return will have to be delayed. The Baron was so ill that Dr. Francis Delafield, the specialist, after a consultation between the other physicians, was called from Hot Springs, Va., to attend him. Dr. Delafield visited the Baron early today at his rooms at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York. After his visit it was announced that the Baron was in a more serious condition than had been supposed, and that unless he improved very rapidly throughout the day the plans for his departure would have to be changed and his home trip postponed.

PRIMARIES IN FANWOOD

Little Interest Taken And Vote Cast Was a Light One,

The Fanwood township voting was quiet and light. Only twelve votes were cast by the Democrats and fifty-three by the Republicans. There was only one lively feature to the balloting. Edward V. Goodman being unexpectedly defeated for the Township Committee nomination on the Republican ticket by W. Scott, Terry, of Alton. Goodman was also scratched as a delegate to the county convention. The assault on Goodman was engineered from the lower end of the township and the Scotch Plains voters took little interest in it.

Three Votes for Lee.

On the Democratic ticket Samuel Lee received three votes for Township Committee for three years. No nomination was made for Township Clerk, to oppose Edward L. Hand, who has served the township to the satisfaction of everyone for a number of years past.

The Republicans returned the compliment by having a vacancy in the nomination for Tax Collector, and John Y. Hatfield, the Democratic nominee, will have no opposition. None of the delegates on either ticket are pledged, but it is understood the Republicans are for Ernest R. Ackerman for Senator. The vote:

Republican.

For Township Committee, 3 years—Edward V. Goodman, 15; W. Scott Terry, 37. For Township Clerk, 3 years—Edward L. Hand, 51. For Justices of the Peace, 5 years—Joseph Clark, 51. For Commissioners of Appeal, 3 years—Thomas Whitenack, 53. For Surveyors of Highways, 1 year—Andrew Schaffer, 53; William Hull, 53. For Members of County Committee—Edward L. Hand, 52. For Delegates to County Convention—G. H. Johnston, 53; J. E. Johnston, 53.

Appropriations—Police, $100; Fire Department, $200; Roads, $2,250, Sidewalks, $200; Poor, $400.

Democratic.

September 29 Jewish New Year.

Rosh Hoshanah, the Jewish New Year, falling on Friday, September 29, is being already looked forward to and prepared for by the Hebrews of this city. A season of holidays follows it, terminating with the Feast of Tabernacles. The Day of Atonement comes ten days after the opening of the New Year, the former being the most solemn of the Jewish holy days. The days between the New Year and Yom Kippur, or the Day of Atonement, are days of repentance, culminating in the solemn Kippur feast. The Jewish Thanksgiving, or Feast of Tabernacles, comes next, and this winds up the autumn festival season. New Year's Day is the time of family reunions and business is suspended.

M. E. MINISTERS HOLD FIRST SESSION

ELIZABETH DISTRICT CONVENTION OPENS AT WHITE HOUSE.

The Elizabeth district of the Newark conference opened its two days' revival convention in the Methodist Episcopal church at Whitehouse yesterday with a large number of ministers and delegates from all over the district in attendance.

Rev. Dr. Daniel Halleron, of Newark, the presiding elder, is in charge of the convention. He conducted a quiet hour, for pastors, yesterday morning that was very impressive. The convention was formally opened at 10 o'clock, with an address of welcome by Rev. S. D. Decker, pastor of the church, who extended greetings to those assembled.

He said the watchword of the Elizabeth district is a revival in every church this year. He said also that he hoped the pastors in their visit to Whitehouse might gain many new ideas for successfully conducting revivals.

The presiding elder responded briefly, expressing the hope that revivals in the district might be promoted. Two twenty-minute addresses were made. One was by Rev. Albert A. Anderson, of Bloomsbury, on "Sermon Building for Revival Work," and the other by Rev. S. D. Harris, of High Bridge, about "How to Make Pastoral Visiting a Means of Revivals."

These were followed by a general discussion, after which the time until the dinner hour was taken up with the appointment of committees.

Valuation Increases Two Millions.

The total net valuation of property in the city of Elizabeth as reported yesterday at the annual meeting of the County Board of Assessors is $24,116,699, an increase of $2,417,299 over last year, including railroad property, valued at $1,304,799. As far as the returns from the other cities in the county has been received, the largest percentage of increase in the valuation of taxable property is in Elizabeth. The total valuation of taxable property in the county cannot be estimated at present, as the returns from the various assessors were not all submitted.

BURGLAR CONVICTED.

Sentenced to Life for Robbing Taylor's House.

Newburgh, Sept. 13.—Edward Brogan, the burglar who robbed Postmaster John R. Taylor's house at Cornwall on April 25, was put on trial Monday before County Judge Beattie, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Brogan is one of the most daring and desperate criminals and has before been convicted of burglary and other crimes, and barely escaped being tried for murder, as he is believed to be the man who was caught in the residence of William Leghorn here after the Taylor burglary and shot Rawdon Foster, the superintendent of the Strook Plush Company's plant, who grappled with the thief before he made his escape. Mr. Foster recovered from the wound.

At Postmaster Taylor's residence Brogan had a confederate. Both were masked, but Mrs. Taylor and her fifteen-year-old daughter identified Brogan as the one who kept up a conversation with them for three-quarters of an hour and who gave Mrs. Taylor a glass of water when she began to faint. Mrs. Taylor also identified some of the stolen jewelry recovered by the Newburgh police.

BOY BANK BURGLAR.

Only Seven Years Old, but Adept with Skeleton Keys.

Niles, Ohio, Sept. 13.—Seven-year-old Leonard Parks was arrested on Sunday after he had opened the rear door of the Dollar Savings Bank with a skeleton key and was trying to pick the lock of an inner door. So intent was the boy on his work that he did not know a policeman was near him until he felt a hand on his shoulder.

"What are you doing?" said the officer.

"Trying to get in the bank," quietly replied the boy, "but it's hard work opening these doors."

Parks, with Clyde Lenny, six years old, last Friday entered the First National Bank during the dinner hour, slipped behind the counter and stuffed $700 in bills into their pockets. The boys were caught, but only half of the money was recovered. They said, in mitigation of the theft, they wanted it to buy candy. On account of their age the bank officials did not prosecute.

PROTEST TO MOROCCO.

Fighting of Tribes Close to Tangier a Menace.

Washington, Sept. 13.—The following despatch was received from Mr. Gummere, the American Minister to Morocco:

"Tribes are fighting in the immediate neighborhood of Tangier. Anghere versus Raisuli's tribe. The Government is undecided in its position and the situation is entirely uncomfortable. A joint protest is being made by the diplomatic corps to the Minister of Foreign Affairs. Have been informed that the mountains are unsafe and I am returning to Tangier immediately."

Minister Gummere, together with other members of the diplomatic corps, lives during the summer months some distance from Tangier. Mr. Gummere occupies the house from which Perdicaris, who was kidnapped by Raisuli, was abducted. It is far out, and undoubtedly Mr. Gummere's situation was for a time somewhat perilous.

FOR PARK ROADS.

$2,000,000 Is Needed to Make Points Accessible.

Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 13.—The sum of $2,000,000 for the next two years is asked for in the budget of Major H. M. Chittenden, of Sioux City, chief of engineers of the Missouri River and Yellowstone Park, in his annual report forwarded to Washington Saturday.

Major Chittenden calculates that with the expenditure of this sum in addition to the $750,000 spent the last three years, it will be possible for visitors to ride all over the park with safety and upon perfect roads.

"The present roads are not sufficiently improved," says Major Chittenden, "and guard rails are needed to protect visitors from danger. Many of the roads are not wide enough to accommodate the travel. Twice as many have visited the park this year as in any previous year."

MOSQUITO KILLER.

Chemist's Discovery Approved by the Government.

New Orleans, Sept. 13.—Not a single death from yellow fever occurred here Monday. The record of new cases was thirty-eight.

Besides the report of no deaths, the more important announcement was made by Dr. J. H. White, United States Marine Hospital surgeon in charge, that the new mosquito exterminator, known as "Culicide," discovered by Dr. Mims, chemist for the city board of health, will be adopted by the Government.

Dr. White announced that the disinfectant is composed of equal parts of carbolic acid and gum camphor. He has advised strongly against amateur use of the composition, owing to its explosive character. None but skilled employes of the United States Marine Hospital service will be permitted to use the culicide.

Reports from the country parishes show twenty-six new cases and five deaths.

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

FOR WOMEN.

The attitude necessary for the use of bow and arrow is an exceedingly graceful one, showing off a fine figure to perfection, and a girl looks a vertiable young Diana in her white gown, hatless, and with a wealth of brown or auburn hair glistening in the sun, as she stands ready to shoot her arrow.—Lady Violet Greville in London Graphic.

"If women would spend more time at housework and less time at nonsense," says Mrs. Elizabeth Hunt, aged 105, of Brooklyn, "they'd be better off." If Mrs. Hunt could produce proof that women might keep young by doing housework, the domestic problem would be quickly solved.—Chicago Record-Herald.

There is a certain little dumpy woman in Atchison who is regarded with great respect by other women; four men have committed suicide on her account—Atchison Globe.

When the child's day is done and he is tucked into bed, modern science teaches us that he should go to rest with the kiss of peace and forgiveness upon his lips Whatever his daytime sins may have been, they should not be left as the final impression upon the sensitive brain; for they are trifles, after all, and the small sinner should not be left in the gloom, unshrived and unshriven, to carry this burden with him into sleepland. Children's bedtime memories and thoughts should be pleasant; if they have erred seriously, a little earnest talk with them just then will do worlds of good; but always, at the last, they should be loved and kissed and so left serene and happy.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

The girl who leans out of the attic window for two hours every day, holding her bare arms in the sun to get the desirable vacation tan, ought to be delighted with the announcement of a beauty specialist that by rubbing cucumber juice over her arms and holding them in the sun until it dries she can accomplish the same result in a few moments, without running any risk of sunburn.—Boston Globe.

SUCCESS CERTAIN.

It is said that Baron Rothchild had the following alphabetical list of maxims framed on his bank walls:

Attend carefully to details of your business.

Be prompt in all things.

Consider well, then decide positively.

Dare to do right, fear to do wrong.

Endure trials patiently.

Fight life's battles bravely, manfully.

Go not into the society of the vicious.

Hold integrity sacred.

Injure not another's reputation nor business.

Join hands only with the virtuous.

Keep your mind from evil thoughts.

Lie not for any consideration.

Make few acquaintances.

Never try to appear what you are not.

Observe good manners.

Pay your debts promptly.

Question not the veracity of a friend.

Respect the counsel of your principle.

Sacrifice money rather than principle.

Touch not, taste not, handle not intoxicating drinks.

Use your leisure time for improvement.

Venture not upon the threshold of wrong.

Watch carefully over your passions.

'Xtend to everyone a kindly salutation.

Yield not to discouragement.

Zealously labor for the right.

And success is certain.

BATHS FOR GOOD HEALTH.

Bathing is a requisite in gaining or retaining good health.

The pores of the skin act as a part of the human sewage system, and all impurities that are not carried off by the bowels and kidneys, and by the exhalations from the lungs, should escape through the skin. If they cannot escape in this way, inflammation sets in somewhere and illness results.

Everyone needs a good warm scrub twice a week, and should have a cold plunge, or a cool sponge bath every morning. When taking a sponge bath, wash yourself a "piece at a time" and dry as you go. Never use a sponge—use a wash cloth instead. A sponge cannot be boiled without ruining it, and so it is never really clean. In fact, a sponge is a perfect menagerie of microbes after it has been used for a short time. A few microbes, occasionally, do no harm to a healthy human being, but it is not a good plan to overwork one's system, by giving it an unnecessary number of microbes to contend with.

Always get your heart to beating rapidly before taking a cold bath. Physical culture exercises are good for this purpose—or, just as good, "rub" off the whole surface of the body with one's bare hands or with a dry, rough towel.—Boston Traveler.

John B. Berry, chief engineer of the Union Pacific Railroad, of Omaha, has been appointed a member of the Board of Consulting Engineers to meet in Washington September 1 to discuss the building of the Panama Canal.

IN THE BISHOP'S CARRIAGE

By MIRIAM MICHELSON

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company).

CHAPTER XIV.

He started as though he couldn't believe his eyes when he saw me. "The Lord hath delivered mine enemy into my hand," shone in his evil little face.

"Why, Mr. Tausig," I cried, before he could get his breath. "How odd to meet you here! Did you find a baby, too?"

"Did I find—" He glared at me. "I find you; that's enough. Now—"

"But the luncheon was to be at 12:30," I laughed. "And I haven't changed my dress yet."

"You'll change it all right for something not so becoming if you don't shell out that paper."

"Paper?"

"Yes, paper. Look here, if you give it back to me this minute—now—I'll not prosecute you for—for—"

"For the sake of my reputation?" I suggested, softly.

"Yes." He looked doubtfully at me, mistrusting the amiable deference of my manner.

"That would be awfully good of you," I murmured.

He did not answer, but watched me as though he wasn't sure which way I'd jump the next moment.

"I wonder what could induce you to be so forgiving," I went on, musingly. "What sort of paper is this you miss? It must be valuable—"

"Yes, it's valuable all right. Come on, now! Quit your fooling and get down to business. I'm going to have that paper."

"Do you know, Mr. Tausig," I said, impulsively, "if I were you, and anybody had stolen a valuable paper from me, I'd have him arrested. I would. I should not care a rap what the public exposure did to his reputation, so long—so long." I grinned right up at him, "so long as it didn't hurt me, myself, in the eyes of the law."

Mad? Oh, he was hopping! A German swearword burst from him. I don't know what it meant, but I can imagine.

"Look here, I give you one more chance," he squeaked; "if you don't—"

"What'll you do?"

I was sure I had him. I was sure, from the very whisper in which he had spoken, that the last thing in the world he wanted was to have that agreement made public by my arrest. But I tripped up on one thing. I didn't know there was a middle way for a man with money.

OH, HE WAS HOPPING!

His manner changed.

"Nance Olden," he said aloud now, "I charge you with stealing a valuable private paper of mine from my desk. Here, sergeant!"

I hadn't particularly noticed the sergeant standing at the other door with his back to us. But from the way he came at Tausig's call I knew he'd had a private talk with him, and I knew he'd found the middle way.

"This girl's taken a paper of mine. I want her searched," Tausig cried.

"Do you mean," I said, "that you'll sign your name to such a charge against me?"

He didn't answer. He had pulled the sergeant down and was whispering in his ear. I knew what that meant. It meant a special pull and a special way of doing things and—

"You'll do well, my girl, to give up Mr. Tausig's property to him," the sergeant said, stiffly.

"But what have I got that belongs to him?" I demanded.

He grinned and shrugged his big shoulders.

"We've a way of finding out, you know, here. Give it up or—"

"But what does he say I've taken? What charge is there against me? Have you the right to search any woman who walks in here? And what in the world would I want a paper of Tausig's for?"

"You won't give it up then?" He tapped a bell.

A woman came in. I had a bad minute there, but it didn't last; it wasn't the matron I'd brought the baby to.

"You'll take this girl into the other room and search her thoroughly. The thing we're looking for—" The sergeant turned to Tausig.

"A small paper," he said, eagerly. "A—a contract—just a single sheet of legal cap paper it was, type-written and signed by myself and some other gentlemen, and folded twice."

The woman looked at me. She was a bit hard-mouthed, with iron-gray hair, but her eyes looked as though they'd seen a lot and learned not to flinch, though they still felt like it. I knew that kind of look—I'd seen it at the Cruelty.

"What an unpleasant job this of yours is," I said to her, smiling up at her for all the world as that like of a baby had smiled at me, and watching her melt just as I had. "I'll not make it a bit harder. This thing's all a mistake. Which way? . . . I'll come back, Mr. Tausig, to receive your apology, but you can hardly expect me to go to lunch after this."

He growled a wrathful, resenting mouthful. But he looked a bit puzzled just the same.

He looked more puzzled yet, even bewildered, when we came back into the main office a quarter of an hour later, the woman and I, and she reported that no paper of any kind had she found.

Me? Oh, I was sweet amiability personified with the woman and with the sergeant, who began to back water furiously. But with Tausig—

What? You don't mean to say you're not on, Mag? Oh, dear, dear, it's well you had that beautiful wig of red hair that puts even Carter's in the shade; for you'd never have been a success in—in other businesses I might name.

Bamboozled the woman? Not a bit of it; you can't deceive women with mouths and eyes like that. It was just that I'd had a flash of genius in the minute I heard Tausig's voice, and in spite of my being so sure he wouldn't have me arrested I'd— Guess, Mag, guess! There was only one way.

The baby, of course! In the moment I had—it wasn't long—I'd stooped down, pretending to kiss that cherub good-by, and in a jiffy I'd pinned that precious paper with a safety pin to the baby's under petticoat, preferring that risk to—

Risk! I should say it was. And now it was up to Nance to make good.

While Tausig insisted and explained and expostulated and at last walked out with the sergeant—giving me a queer last look that was half-cursing, half-placating—I stood chatting sweetly with the woman who had searched me.

I didn't know just how far I might go with her. She knew the paper wasn't on me, and I could see she was disposed to believe I was as nice as she'd have liked me to be. But she'd had a lot of experience and she knew, as most women do even without experience, that if there's not always fire where there is smoke, it's because somebody's been clever enough and quick enough to cover the blaze.

"Well, good-by," I said, putting out my hand. "It's been disagreeable, but I'm obliged to you for—why, where's my purse! We must have left it—" And I turned to go back into the room where I'd undressed.

"You didn't have any."

The words came clear and cold and positive. Her tone was like an icicle down my back.

LOCKS OUT WORKMEN.

American Locomotive Company Disciplines 500 Picnickers.

Paterson, Sept. 13.—Five hundred workmen of the Rogers Locomotive Works, representing all the employes of the locksmith and boiler shops, were locked out Monday. The men were paid off Friday and instead of appearing at their work on Saturday morning they all went off to a big picnic that had been planned by them without the knowledge of their employers. The lockout was thought at first to be a strike, but Manager George H. Hanna soon explained the condition of affairs.

"We have had more or less trouble all summer with men who failed to appear at their work after payday. On Saturday the men went off on a picnic, which made it necessary to shut part of the works down at considerable loss. We simply refused to start the works today until we learn positively whether we are to run the plant or the men. No doubt everything will be amicably adjusted tomorrow."

The works are run almost at their full capacity and on Friday last paid $53,000, the largest amount in wages that has been paid since the American Locomotive Company got control of the works. The men were much surprised at the action of the manager, but most of them saw the justice of his stand. The loss in wages to the men for Saturday and Monday will amount to $2,500.

BANK ROBBERS FIGHT.

Posse Ambushed in Black Hills—Another Fight Reported.

Custer, S. D., Sept. 13.—Three posses are chasing the outlaws who on Saturday night robbed the bank at this place of a large amount of gold. Reports have come in that a big battle had been fought in the Black Hills between the posses and the robbers.

After the robbery the outlaws, of whom there were three, started toward the Big Horn Mountains. Posses from Deadwood, Custer and Hill City were soon in pursuit.

A courier returned from the chase this morning, having ridden all night. He reported the bandits had gotten into the fastnesses of the Black Hills and had ambushed the pursuers in a canon. An exchange of shots resulted in two horses being killed and one member of the posse being injured. The bandits continued the flight.

Another report reached here that the bandits were overtaken further west and that in a pitched battle one bandit and a deputy were killed and several men were wounded.

HAS RUNAWAY MANIA.

Little Paterson Boy Gives His Parents Fidgets Again.

Paterson, Sept. 13.—Gustav Berman, nine years old, is missing from his home at 510 Main street, again. He went away on Friday afternoon and has not been seen since. The police have been asked to look for him. The little fellow seems to have the "running away" fever, as he has been repeatedly absent from home for two days at a time. This is the first time, however, that he has been away for over two days, and his parents are wondering where he can be.

When the boy went away he was dressed in a light checked suit with knickerbockers and a blue cloth cap.

RAILROAD MEN'S JAUNT.

Traveling Passenger Agents on Way to Portland Fair.

Helena, Mont., Sept. 13.—A delegation consisting of over 150 traveling passenger agents, representing nearly every large railroad system in the United States, arrived in Helena Monday and were guests of this city for several hours. They were welcomed to Montana by Governor Toole and other representative citizens. The party left yesterday for Portland over the Great Northern Railroad to visit the fair.

AN ORDINANCE

to Provide Separate Sewers or Drains to Carry off the Surface Water in a Portion of Richmond Street

WHEREAS, The city finds it necessary, and the Common Council hereby so determines, to provide separate sewers or drains to carry off the surface water in a portion of Richmond Street hereinafter specified, and the water flowing into Cedar Brook through said portion of said street, and the Common Council has determined, and doth hereby determine that the public good requires the construction of the sewers or drains hereinafter specified:

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the Common Council doth hereby direct and order that separate sewers or drains to carry off the surface water in said portion of Richmond Street and the water flowing into Cedar Brook, as aforesaid, be constructed in and for said City of Plainfield in Richmond Street from East Fifth Street to Cedar Brook, with three inlets at East Fifth Street, three at South Avenue, and six at East Sixth Street, as shown for said portion of Richmond Street on a map on file with the City Clerk of the City of Plainfield, entitled, "Map for Separate Sewers or Drains to carry off the Surface Water in a portion of Richmond Street, City of Plainfield, N. J., November, 1904," (to which map reference is hereby made and the same made a part hereof) said separate sewers or drains to be constructed on said portion of Richmond Street between the above mentioned points, as shown on said map, with the necessary manholes and appurtenances to complete the same, and to be of the dimensions and materials, and to be laid along such lines and at such grades and in such manner as indicated and specified on said map.

Section 2. That the costs and expenses to be incurred under this ordinance shall be paid with money to be raised by taxation (by general tax for street improvements) pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, as other moneys are raised in said city.

Adopted by the Common Council Sept. 5, 1905. Approved by the Mayor Sept. 8, 1905.

J. P. BUCKLE, Mayor.
Attest: J. T. MacMurray, City Clerk.

19-YEAR-OLD BABY BY WIZARD MALADY

MISS SCALLY'S STRANGE LAPSE INTO INFANCY PUZZLE JERSEY DOCTORS.

A remarkable case of mental relapse is that of Miss Mary Scally, the nineteen-year-old daughter of Patrick Scally, of MacCulloch avenue, Morristown. A few days age she was like any other young woman of her age, bright, active and enjoying good health. Today she is like a baby of eighteen months, hardly able to walk and appreciating absolutely nothing of what goes on around her.

This is not her first experience of the kind. Twice before she has had these periods of relapse to infancy, and her case is a puzzle to physicians, and especially to Dr. A. Henriques, the physician in attendance on her.

That Miss Scally is not of weak intellect is shown by the fact that she was graduated from the parochial school of St. Mary's church here and was one of the brightest members of her class. She had one attack of this kind before being graduated from school, but as she soon recovered from that it was thought to be some strange illness due to overstudy.

After she left school she learned dressmaking and worked at that for a time until she had another attack. That attack occurred about eighteen months ago and lasted for several months. She did not come out of it until the night of the great fire last winter when the Kahn place burned. The excitement of that night restored her to her normal condition.

After that she remained at home, where she kept house for her father, who is a widower. Ten days ago she had another seizure.

Her case is not one of insanity, but she is incapable of thought, speech or responsible action. She acts just like a little baby, and to all intents and purposes is an infant. If she is standing up and is told to stand with her face to the wall until she is called, she will stand as ordered. She can be placed in any position and she will not move from it. She stares vacantly at those around her and takes absolutely no interest in events. She is in the care of her aunt, who has to feed her and give her water to drink.

An expert in nervous diseases will be asked to consult in the case.

Wins High Golf Honors.

Miss Inez Tolles, of Westervelt avenue, has been winning unusual honors as a golfer in Woodmont, Conn., where she is spending the season. She took three cups in tournaments, one of them a large silver work of art, the finest ever offered in Woodmont.

—For headache and neuralgia look to your eyes. Eye strain may be the cause. Consult Stiles & Co., specialists, at 105 East Front street, tomorrow, Thursday. Free consultation.

SMITH IS SIGNED.

High School Lad to Pitch for Daabsters.

For the purpose of arousing more local interest in the contests being played by Plainfield and Westfield, Manager Daab has arranged to use "Phil" Smith, of the Plainfield High School, in the box Saturday against the Denmanites. A few weeks ago Mr. Daab expressed the opinion that he would like to give Smith a trial, knowing his record to be a good one, and yesterday he had a talk with the High School twirler. Smith expressed himself as being well pleased with the opportunity to show what he can do and said he felt confident that he could deliver the goods.

Smith has one of the best records of any pitcher in his class and he has faced some of the strongest high school teams in the metropolitan district this season, defeating Morris High and Erasmus Hall and several other leading aggregations. An effort was made to get a game with the Central High School, of Philadelphia, but the Quakers would not play the locals.

Manager Daab is sure that with his strong team behind Smith, another victory will be scored for Plainfield. He has good control, plenty of speed, excellent curves and fields his position well. His first appearance with the Daabsters is sure to arouse great interest among the fans. Superintendent Maxson, who also met Mr. Daab yesterday, showed much interest in Smith's work and said that he was sure that he would do well.

CATHOLICS COMPLETE PLANS.

Bishop O'Connor to Pronounce Benediction at Jersey City.

Plans have been completed for the rally of the Holy Name societies of the diocese of Newark, which will be held in Jersey City Sunday afternoon. It is expected that from 7,000 to 10,000 Catholics will take part in the parade, and the exercises which will follow. The parade will start at Van Vorst's Park and end at Hamilton Park.

Before the parade starts there will be a short concert by the Boys' Catholic Protectory Band of eighty pieces, of Westchester, N. Y. This band will also head the parade, and will render a number of selections at Hamilton Park. Besides the addresses by Bishops O'Conor and McFaul there will also be one by Rev. Isaac P. Whelan, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, of Newark.

During the benediction of the blessed sacrament, which will be pronounced by Bishop O'Connor from the steps of St. Francis' Hospital, opposite Hamilton Park, Jersey City, there will be singing by the boys' chancel choir, of St. Michael's church, that city.

RED MEN'S SESSION LIST.

Annual Meeting Will Be Held In Trenton.

Herbert F. Stetser, great sachem of the great council of the Improved Order of Red Men of the State, has prepared his list of the district sessions to confer the degrees on the past sachems of the tribes throughout the State for the annual session, which will be held in Trenton in February.

The districts sessions will be held two months earlier this year in order to escape interference by the weather during the winter months.

The order is having a prosperous year, according to the reports received by Great Sachem Stetser, and the roll of membership will be greatly increased and will show that it has the largest membership of any secret organization in the State.

Witte Helps Cadets.

West Point, Sept. 13.—Nearly two dozen cadets, including much needed members of the football squad, who had been sentenced to "punishment tours" of various lengths for infraction of rules of discipline, have been pardoned at the request of Sergius Witte, the Russian peace envoy, and in honor of his visit to the military academy. The order was received with cheers.

Reward for Murderer.

A reward of $500 was offered today for the arrest and conviction of the murderer of Jacob H. Thompson, the aged exchange editor of the New York Times, who was lain in his room in the St. James Hotel, 109 West Firty-fifth street, New York, last Thursday, and an arrest is expected to be made within the next twenty-four hours.

Roosevelt Sends Portrait.

President Roosevelt has sent an autograph picture of himself to the committee in charge of the fair to be held this month in aid of the Home for Incurables, at Ridgewood. The picture will be raffled.

CONVICTS' DARING ATTEMPTED ESCAPE

THREE INMATES OF STATE PRISON SAWED WAY TO JAIL YARD.

Trenton, Sept. 13.—Three convicts made a daring attempt to escape from the State Prison about 1 o'clock yesterday morning. The men were confined in cell No. 62, wing 4, south wall. By filing the bars of the top window of the cell they got as far

The men who made the attempt covered by Keeper James Haney, who notified the centre. Keepers Harrison and Pearson responded to the call and caught the men before they had any time to scale the wall.

The men who made the attemept were Frank Avery, received at the prison May 16, 1903, from Hudson County, for a term of ten years for breaking and entering; Charles Smith, alias Osmond, received March 27, 1903, from Hudson County, for carrying burglar tools and resisting an officer, sentenced to seven years and $1,000 fine; John Logan, received June 11, 1901, from Middlesex County, for six years and six months, convicted of larceny.

Avery and Logan worked in the pants shop, known as shop No. 8; while Smith is a machinist. Smith secured the tools to do the filing, and is supposed to have been working on the job for some time.

Previous to this attempt all of the men have been of good behavior, and in a short time Logan's term would have expired.

When they were set upon by the keepers they offered no resistance. The men were handcuffed and placed in the dungeon.

LEFT HER AT ALTAR—ONCE.

Then Mugan, After Flight, Repented and Made Her Bride.

Stamford, Sept. 13.—Michael Mugan, of this city, won the affections of Mary McCauliffe and their wedding day was fixed for last Friday. At the appointed hour they went to St. John's Catholic church here, but just as the ceremony was about to begin Michael excused himself, saying he had forgotten the license.

He hurried to the station and boarded a train for Providence. He returned yesterday and sought forgiveness. It was granted, and yesterday the pair went to St. John's and were married. This time one of the bride's friends brought up the rear to see that Mugan did not change his mind again.

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE HELD.

Roselle Man Charged With Grand Larceny by Groceryman.

Justice of the Peace Benjamin W. Brown, of Roselle Park Borough, was arrested yesterday afternoon on complaint of Louis Savanali, an Italian groceryman, of Kenilworth, charged with assault and battery and grand larceny of a pocketbook containing $93. Brown, according to the testimony, made a levy and locked up the pocketbook in the cash drawer.

After judgment was satisfied the money was missing. Justice of the Peace W. W. Mendell held Brown in $500 bail for the Grand Jury.

Woman Protects Flag.

Reading, Pa., Sept. 13.—Mrs. Maria Wagonhorst yesterday proved herself Berks county's Barbara Frietchie. "Shoot if you must this gray head, but the man who takes one flag from the front of my property will run up against a bunch of trouble."

So in effect, if not in so many words, spoke Mrs. Wagonhorst when Supervisor Fegley attempted to open a gutter in front of her store. Recently she had constructed a drain and she believed the gutter would interfere with it. This morning she planted seven American flags along the drain, and then stood guard with a shotgun. The Supervisor and his assistants saw that she meant business, and departed with more haste than grace. The flags are still there and Mrs. Wagonhorst is still on guard. The matter will likely reach the courts.

Four Democrats Voted for Him.

William L. Gloak, who was a candidate for renomination to the Common Council in the First ward, received 222 Republican votes in the First district, and four Democratic votes. These ballots contained no other name.

—Frank Haurand, of Elmwood place, who has been at the hospital under treatment, has been discharged. His wife is still in the hospital with excellent chances for recovery.

WEALTHY WOMAN SUICIDE.

Miss Louise Gorham Vose Inhaled Gas at Uncle's Home.

The body of Miss Louise Gorham Vose, one of the prominent and wealthy women of the Oranges, was discovered yesterday morning in her bed at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Van Vechten, No. 52 Montrose avenue, South Orange. The gas in the room was turned on and Deputy County Physician Simmons announced that Miss Vose had committed suicide.

The father of Miss Vose, John G. Vose, established the exclusive settlement known as Montrose, founded the Orange Memorial Hospital and was one of the organizers of the Orange Valley Congregation church. He was drowned March 17, 1874, soon after the death of his wife. He was a lawyer and the organizer and first president of the Newark and South Orange Horse Railroad, now one of the Public Service Corporation's trolley lines. He gave the land and building for the Montrose station of the Lackawanna Railroad.

KNEW CURE FOR SNAKEBITE.

Farmer Mitchell Drank a Quart of Whiskey and is Recovering.

Waterbury, Conn., Sept. 13.—As Farmer Arthur L. Mitchell, of North Woodbury, was cutting fodder corn in a lowland lot yesterday a big red adder bit his left wrist.

Mr. Mitchell tore the reptile off, ran for the house and drank a quart of whiskey, which neighbors brought him. He suffered terribly all night, but the liquor is having the desired effect, physicians say, and he may recover.

Man's Body on the Beach.

The body of a man that had not been drowned was found on the beach at Coney Island a few yards from Henderson's walk today. There were no external marks of violence. The body was clothed in a mixed suit and was that of a man about forty-five years of age, 5 1-2 feet tall and weighing 150 pounds.

LOCAL WOMEN SEE NEED FOR A CURFEW LAW

Resolution is Passed at the Annual Meeting of the W. C. T. U.

MEMBERS INTERESTED

Mrs. Parse Resigns As President After Nine Years' Service—200 Members In Organization.

There was a general discussion of a curfew law at the annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union yesterday afternoon. The members became interested in the subject particularly in the enactment and enforcement of it in communities where needed.

The discussion was concluded with the adoption of resolutions which will be presented to the Legislature asking that action be taken looking to the enactment of such a law. This matter has been before the various local unions in the State, it being the purpose to present a number of petitions to the Legislature.

The resolutions are as follows:

"Resolved, That we petition to have the curfew law in New Jersey.

"Whereas, It is a well known fact that street education is demoralizing in the extreme, and if we can save the children from its pernicious influence, we shall lessen crime and pauperism and promote the best interests of the home. Two hundred thousand boys and girls are arrested in the United States every year. The chief purpose of law is to make it as hard as possible to do wrong, and as easy as possible to do right. Surely this applies to laws for the protection of our children.

"The curfew law is as essential to the well-being of the young in a village as in a city. Twenty-eight States have adopted this law, and it has proved an unqualified success. At least seven-eighths of the people of the different cities give it their sincere approval. It increases attendance at schools and raises the standard of the pupils in both deportment and lessons, is a decided improvement morally of the youth, and a pecuniary saving from the decrease of seventy-five per cent. in the arrests of youth."

After a service of nine years as president, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse tendered her resignation at the meeting. While no one was elected to the presidency yesterday, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, the county president, consented to fill the position, with the assistance of Mrs. Parse, until such time as the union is able to secure a head.

The reports presented by the superintendents yesterday were very satisfactory and showed improvement in the various departments of work. The membership of the union is more than 200, an increase over last year. Mrs. Stephen Cahoone, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. George Belcher, active members, died during the year.

The annual address of the former president, Mrs. Parse, was read. It showed that the past year had been one of the best in the history of the union and gave promise of even greater things in the future. Mrs. Parse briefly referred to the work in detail as accomplished by the officers and committees. The report of the treasurer, Miss Jessie Pruden, showed a balance of over $28.

The election of officers was as follows: Corresponding secretary, Mrs. P. H. Bennett; recording secretary, Mrs. Frank Rowley; treasurer, Miss Jessie Pruden; honorary presidents, Mrs. J. W. Yates, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse. The vice presidents, comprising representatives from the local churches, were re-elected for the coming year.

Wheelman Injures Child.

William O'Keeffe, the six-year-old son of J. P. O'Keeffe, of Plainfield avenue, was knocked down by a bicycle yesterday morning at Liberty and Third streets. His head was severely cut. The bicyclist rode on rapidly after the accident, without waiting to see how badly the child was hurt. The latter's hurt was dressed at Mallinson's drug store.

Dr. Gilbert's "L" Road.

The elevated railroad horror in New York recalls the fact that an old-time Plainfielder, Dr. Gilbert, is said to have been the inventor of the elevated railway. He showed a working model of such a road on Park avenue thirty or thirty-five years ago. Dr. Gilbert has been dead a number of years.

—Do your canning now. Neuman Bros. have 150 baskets fancy white and yellow peaches tomorrow morning. This is very choice fruit.

NO APPROPRIATION FOR FANWOOD COP'S PAY

VOTERS AT PRIMARIES REFUSE TO MAINTAIN POLICEMAN HOCKE.

The Republicans of Fanwood borough had a lively time at their primaries on Tuesday, and in the contest the annual appropriation of $600 for the maintenance of Policeman Fred Hocke was defeated by a vote of 12 to 4. It was alleged that Mr. Hocke is an inefficient officer and the residents were not willing to have him continue in office. All of the other appropriations, including $1,000 for lights, $800 for streets, $175 for street sprinkling, $200 for hydrants and $300 for general expenses, were carried.

The Republican ticket received sixteen votes and Charles Scheelen was chosen as delegate to the county convention. Harry E. Knight, the only Democratic nominee for delegate to county convention, received the same number of votes, while for county committeeman, Mr. Knight received seven Democratic votes.

Wright Babcock was nominated for Mayor, two-year term, and Harry E. Knight and Burton P. Hall were nominated for members of the borough Council. No nomination was made for commissioner of appeal. Dr. F. W. Westcott received nine votes for county committeeman.

FRELINGHUYSEN AND CHILDS TO BE RIVALS

REPUBLICANS TO RUN FORMER AGAINST PRESENT DEMOCRATIC INCUMBENT.

Somerset county Democrats at the primaries chose delegates favorable to the renomination of Senator Samuel S. Childs. There was no opposition, as expected by some persons, by friends who, it had been said, wanted the nomination to go to Alvah A. Clark.

The Republican voters elected delegates pledged to name for Senator Colonel Joseph Frelinghuysen, a member of the Governor's staff. He was the opponent of Mr. Childs three years ago, and was defeated by a narrow margin, going down because of a Republican dispute.

The county last year elected a Republican Assemblyman.

HE WAS NO STIFF.

Car Ain't Made What Can Kill Him, Says West End Boy.

In attempting to board a moving freight train at Grant avenue yesterday afternoon Arthur Wilson, fourteen years old, of Clinton avenue, slipped and fell against the side of the car. He dropped clear of the wheels, but his head was cut open on the iron car step.

He was only slightly hurt, but a woman who saw him fall and drop with blood flowing from his head thought he had been run over, and shrieked excitedly. A crowd gathered and several men rushed toward the boy under the impression that he was in a bad way. Arthur speedily disillusioned them.

"Aw, rats," he said disgustedly, jerking away from a man who was trying to make him lie down. "I ain't no stiff. Dey ain't making cars dat kin do me up." And Arthur, plastering his cap over the cut on his head, walked composedly away.

Interested in Bobbins.

Joseph Loughead, of this city, who went to Charlotte, N. C., early in the year to engage in contract work on cotton mill machinery, is North on a combined business and pleasure trip. Mr. Loughead is at present interested in the manufacture of cotton loom bobbins from paper by a process that may revolutionize the bobbin making industry, driving the old-style bobbin out of the market. The industrial move in which the Plainfielder is engaged is regarded as of the highest importance by the cotton spinners and cotton machinery men of the South.

Union Printers Capture One Office.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 14.—A strike of union printers in the newspaper and job offices of the Argus Company came to an end this afternoon, when the managers signed an agreement for an eight hour working day for printers in all departments. In other local printing offices in which strikes were ordered the situation remains unchanged.

Boys' Outdoor Affairs.

Several outdoor affairs of a "roughing-it" nature are being planned by the boys of the Y. M. C. A. Besides corn roasts and campfire dinners, hare-and-hound and paper chases will be conducted.

SUNDAY HOLY, SAYS HE

W. D. Murray Declares Plainfield is Threatened by Real Calamity.

MAKES A STRONG PLEA

He Argues That When Sunday's Observance Is Destroyed Men Will Work Seven Days In the Week.

Editor The Daily Press:

The city of Plainfield is threatened by what I believe to be a real calamity, and as a citizen I would like to say so. My interest in our city arises from the fact that I have lived here for nearly forty years, and for twenty-five of these years I have been giving practically all my leisure time to assisting those who have been engaged in preparing the young people of this city of homes for better citizenship and better living in every way.

No one can doubt that among the means used for this purpose Sunday has been the most helpful, and I presume that there are very few who would care to see Sunday abolished. Every man of us is glad that on one day in every seven he does not have to go to his everyday work. But how long would we have a Sunday if everyone of us did with this day what those want to do who propose to use it as a day of personal recreation? History has answered this question. Some people must attend church and keep the day holy, and insist on Sunday as a religious day, for only as such can it continue. Surely it is thoughtlessness on the part of those who practically say to us, "You go to church, you keep up the Sunday schools, you maintain a Sunday, you keep the day holy; we don't want to help you do it, we want to use for our own pleasure the day you are saving for us." For nothing is more certain than this: unless Sunday is observed as a holy day, it will not be a holiday, but men will have to work on Sunday as on other days. It has always been so; and the poor man who now finds it hard to earn bread enough in six days will work seven. By using Sunday for our own pleasure, we men of comfortable means would surely destroy it, not only for ourselves, but for the man who needs it even more than we do, our humbler but just as worthy neighbor.

May I also say that in our Christian work in this city the use of Sunday by the parents of the children and young people with whom we deal has been one of our greatest helps or our greatest hindrance. Parents now bring their children to me and to others and say "Teach our child the truth; train him so that he will be an honor to us; give to him two hours of your time every Sunday afternoon and take some of your evenings through the week to get ready to teach him." I for one rejoice in the honor and privilege, which I would not exchange for baseball or golf or tennis or any other game. But surely these same parents will do as much for their own child as I, a stranger, will do. While I, needing recreation as much as they, teach him that Sunday is God's day to be kept holy, will they by their example declare that it is not? And how small and selfish it is to think only of our own children, and the effect upon them of our use of Sunday. Think of all the other young people growing up in this splendid city of ours, who are influenced for life by what we do with this day. We Christian workers are glad to give our time to this work, but do not bind us with unnecessary shackles. Let us work in the freedom of unselfishness.

Yours sincerely,
WILLIAM D. MURRAY.

New Shower Baths Ordered.

Arrangements have been completed by the Y. M. C. A. for the installation of two new shower baths to take the place of the present ones. The latter are unsatisfactory in that the flow of cold and hot water cannot be proportioned properly. The new showers will be equipped with a regulator designed to remedy that trouble.

Reception at Y. M. C. A.

Paul Collier, winner of the Y. M. C. A. championship in tennis, will be presented with the prize at a reception to be held at the association building tomorrow night for those who took part in the tournament. Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary, will present the prize. During the evening there will be an informal programme of music.

Bernardsville Dinner Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kingsland, of "The Homestead," Fanwood, gave a dinner party on Sunday at Bernardsville. The guests were Miss Lillian Fancher, Palmer Jadwin, C. Clay Marshall, Miss Laura Carpenter, H. Robeson and Miss Eva Kingsland.

WILL BUILD A SCORE OF HOUSES IN THE BOROUGH

NEW YORK INVESTOR AND PROMOTER SAYS HE HAS SO PLANNED.

Twenty houses are to be erected in the vicinity of Somerset street and Codington avenue, if the announced plans of a New York man who says he is a promotor and investor are carried out. He is said to be negotiating for 200,000 bricks and is in earnest.

The investor is Edwin Williams, of 154 West Fourteenth street, who is building a house now on West Seventh street. Mr. Williams says he regards Plainfield as a fine field for building operations, and is anxious to invest his money in houses here. He says he will build other houses on this side of the brook besides the one going up on Seventh street.

The negotiations for brick are going on with Alex. Kane. The latter can furnish them, and the deal is likely to go through. The houses are to have eight rooms and all improvements.

Mr. Williams does work on a large scale, it is said. He draws his own plans, imports the labor necessary, and personally supervises all the work.

FIREMEN'S FUNDS MOUNTING HIGHER

STATE ASSOCIATION HAS NOW NEARLY A MILLION DOLLARS INVESTED.

President Bird W. Spencer, in his opening address to the several hundred members of the New Jersey State Firemen's Association, who held their twenty-eighth annual meeting at Atlantic City yesterday, announced that United States Senator Dryden had stated that should any national legislation be enacted to control insurance companies that he would endeavor to preserve the income which the Firemen's Association now derived from a 2 per cent. tax on insurance premiums, which constituted the main income of the association.

The organization is nearing the million marking with its cash on hand, and the money invested in securities. Last year the income was $60,000 more than the outgo. The sum paid for relief to firemen was $52,499. Attorney Cotter, counsel for the association, spoke in favor of the enactment of the bill which was to provide an annual payment to volunteer firemen of $15 or $12 a year in lieu of the exemption in taxes which was formerly allowed by the State and suggested that the members lend their support this year to a bill of the kind.

These officers were elected: President, General Bird W. Spencer, for the twenty-eighth term; vice presidents, John Senft, Moorestown; J. C. Bittler, Hammondton; Edgar H. Cook, Atlantic Highlands; Garrett L. Pear, Frenchtown; Patrick W. Walsh, Phillipsburg; J. E. Stanton, Sussex; Fred A. Williams, Montclair; Andrew Eschenfelder, Vallsburg; Joseph P. Coburn, Harrison; William G. Samler, North Bergen; treasurer, John J. Lane, Summit; financial secretary, George T. Everett, Hackettstown; secretary, William Exall, Newark; first assistant, T. N. Nowell, Bloomfield; second, Evan Benners, Moorestown.

The association was so well pleased with Atlantic City as a meeting place that it was decided to hold next year's session there.

GOLF PLAY BEGINS.

Metropolitan Open Tournament at Fox Hills Course.

Play began this morning in the first open golf championship tournament of the Metropolitan Golf Association over the course of the Fox Hills Golf Club at Stapleton, S. I. The contest, which will continue for three days, consists of a thirty-six hole round played today and another tomorrow. Two Plainfielders, Frank O. Reinhart and "Marty" O'Loughlin, are contestants.

On Saturday there will be a four-ball eighteen-hole match between teams consisting of two players, an amateur and professional, best ball at each hole to count, as well as an eighteen-hole handicap match, both being open to amateurs and professionals of the United States and Canada. The handicaps in the latter even will be limited to eighteen strokes and will not be given out until after the play is completed.

It Was a Cold Morning.

The mercury dropped to 44 degrees this morning and even the man who has not discarded the straw hat found an overcoat comfortable. Had it been just four degrees colder Plainfield would have had a touch of frost. It is going to be colder tonight, so get out the heavy blankets.

HOW MR. COLBY DID IT

Threats Against Him Led to a Popular Uprising.

CORPORATIONS ROUTED

He Will Build New Machine and If It Grows Selfish Will Smash It Also.

Everett Colby, who smashed the Republican machine of Essex county, picked his way among its picturesque ruins last night in Newark and went through the formality of accepting the nomination for State Senator from a willing convention. Mr. Colby married Miss Edith Hyde, daughter of the late Charles Hyde, of this city, two years ago. He is well known and is much liked here.

"It was such a splendid machine," said Mr. Colby last night, in speaking of his victory. "It was too bad that it was necessary to smash it. It was all right until it got under the control of the corporations. Then it ceased to be useful to the people who made it. I believe in machines, too. Otherwise I would have conducted this fight as an independent candidate. We will build a new machine, and when that gets into the control of those who are working only for their own interests it will also be destroyed. Just now there is a strong reaction against graft."

Mr. Colby is a Wall street broker who was born in Wisconsin. He came to New York, where he lived until ten years ago, and then moved out to East Orange to spend the summer. He liked the place so well that he has resided there ever since.

After mosquitoes ceased to interest him Mr. Colby started to study politicians, and he began to wonder if there might not be some way of draining the civic meadows so as to get rid of them. The way the corporations helped themselves through the aid of bills introduced at Trenton astonished him, so he was elected Assemblyman, and he framed a bill of his own, with the idea of limiting the scope of the railroad and trolley companies. His proposed law was looked over by the legislators.

"It's very fine," said they, "and we have taken the liberty of amending it a little. And, by the way, if you do anything as radical as that again you will meet your political ruin. The corporations will not submit to such things."

There was no point left to the bill when it was finally passed. Mr. Colby made up his mind to sharpen a stronger weapon for the corporations, and last May he established headquarters in a New York office building and began operations. He took advantage of the new primary law which was adopted in the State a year ago to bring himself to public notice as practically a popular candidate for the nomination, although he declared he was still in the Republican camp.

"It was uphill work at first," said he yesterday. "I was told I was a young New York upstart and that I had an unheard of temerity to run for office without a party indorsement. I felt, though, if I ever aroused the public to the abuses of power by the corporation in this State that I would certainly win. I believed the scheme of taxation which assessed $5 a thousand on railroad property and made the property owner, the man who had a house and lot, pay $22 a thousand was all wrong. I believed, too, that the State should give franchises for a limited period only.

"On those lines the campaign was fought. There were times when I was discouraged, I admit, but I realized soon that the people were with me. The workingmen took an interest; the commuters gave their support. Noonday mass meetings were held. Speeches were made from a wagon. To keep things interesting I had a quartette sing. And once, I confess, I sang myself. 'Undignified,' said the old line politicians. Well, I dropped everything and went into this fight. I have not been near my New York office for five weeks. I was so situated that I could go into this matter, and I did it because I believed I was in the right. I lived in Newark and I did not even have time to get down to my cottage which I had hired for the summer at Seabright.

"Do you know when I first thought victory was in sight? It was when the Public Service Corporation ordered our campaign posters out of their trolley cars. It made thousands of votes. Now that the fight is over, I can scarcely realize that the victory has been so complete. In primary elections here the Republicans have been turning out about eight per cent. of the electors to vote. There has not been time yet for estimates, but I should think that forty or fifty per cent. of the Republican voters took part in this primary fight. In some districts more than that percentage must have voted. The su-

NETHERWOODITES PLAN A NEIGHBORHOOD CLUB

ORGANIZATION FOR PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS AND SOCIAL PLEASURES.

Among the results of the primaries on Tuesday there was one that was not strictly political. A. Clinton Wilmerding, of the Netherwood district, who took an active interest in the primaries, entertained a number of his neighbors at his home after the polls closed, and during the talk it was suggested that it would be an excellent idea to form a club, the objects of which would be to combine social pleasures with well directed efforts toward securing improvements for that part of the city.

In the course of the discussion it was pointed out that there are several improvements needed, and it was believed that if they were properly brought before the attention of the Common Council they would be made. In addition to seeking the desired improvements, the social side seem to appeal to those present, and no doubt during the winter months several gatherings will be arranged for. Tuesday night's meeting was entirely an informal one, and it was decided to meet again tonight, when more definite plans will be discussed. Officers will probably be chosen.

William Gahagan, a resident of the section, is much interested in the club, and it is likely that at least fifty others will be induced to join and help further the growing interests of Netherwood.

BOROUGH'S TAX RATE IS FIXED AT $2.54

THIS IS A RAISE OF EIGHT POINTS OVER LAST YEAR.

The tax rate in North Plainfield will be $2.54 for the coming year. This is eight points higher than last year. The borough rate will be two points less. The increase in the total rate is accounted for by the fact that the special school tax is eight points higher and the county rate is four points higher than last year. The Board of Health does not require any money for the coming year.

The county tax for the coming year will be 64 cents on the $100 against 60 cents last year. The State school tax remains the same, 16 cents. The borough tax is 76 cents against 78 cents last year and the special school tax is 98 cents against 90 cents last year. The dog tax of $3 will remain the same as before.

The Somerset County Board of Assessors met at Somerville on Tuesday and Borough Tax Collector George F. Brown received official notification of its action this morning. The Board of Health tax is abolished because of a good sized reserve fund in the treasury which will carry the Board through the coming year.

DR. CLAWSON ENGAGED.

Miss Marion Woodcock to be His Bride.

Dr. Frank T. Clawson, of West Seventh street, gave a dinner last night at the Plainfield Country Club to announce his engagement to Miss Marion D. Woodcock. Covers were laid for eighteen. Miss Woodcock is a daughter of Clarence Woodcock, of West Seventh street, and is a charming young woman.

Miss Woodcock gave a luncheon at her home this afternoon to announce the engagement. The decorations were pink. Covers were laid for ten.

Getting After Truants.

Superintendent Krebs, of the North Plainfield Public Schools, reports that the school routine has been reached and everything is progressing favorably. He held a conference with Samuel Townsend, chairman of the truancy committee of the Board of Education, and plans are now underway to enforce the law to the letter. Every effort will be made to compel attendance and if persuasion and co-operation with the parents does not accomplish the purpose, more stringent measures will be adopted.

W. S. Place to Wed.

Invitations have been sent out by Mrs. Josephine Eugenie Sproulls, of New York, for the marriage of her daughter, Marion Eugenie, to Walter Swift Place on Thursday evening, September 28, at 8 o'clock at the Church of the Archangel, St. Nicholas avenue, New York. Mr. Place is the son of Charles Place, of Grove street, and is engaged in business at Boston, Mass.

Tennis Tourney Postponed.

The boys' tennis tournament scheduled to be played at the Plainfield Country Club yesterday, has been called off for the first time in three years. It is said that those intending to take part have found it impossible to play at present.

TOTAL ENROLLMENT 2,519

Statistics Show 100 More Pupils in Public Schools This Year.

MR. MAXSON'S FIGURES

Failure to Have New High School Ready Causes Crowded Conditions—How the Difficulty Is Met.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Henry M. Maxson has completed the enrollment of pupils, and it shows an increase of about 100 over last year. The statistics are as follows:

High School, 274, increase of thirty-four; Whittier, 321, decrease of thirty, due to improved grading; Franklin, 440, increase of thirty-one; Washington, 225, same as last year; Irving, 614, increase of twenty-six; Bryant, 379, same as last year; Lincoln, 266, increase of thirty-four. This makes a total of 2,519. The entering class in the High School numbers 111.

New pupils have applied for admittance at all of the school, and while some have moved away during vacation or dropped out, there is an increase in the enrollment. The failure to get into the new High School has prevented the rearrangement of the classes in the grades as hoped for, and in consequence there is considerable crowding.

In the Irving School there are four rooms that have two classes under different teachers. The first class comes at 8:30, stays until 10:30, and then goes home. The second class, with its teachers, then comes in and stays until 12:30, after which the first class returns for a two-hour session. At 2:30 the second class comes back for its second session. In this way the room is made to accomodate two classes and each class gets four hours of school.

In the Franklin School there are two rooms with double classes, and it is probable that provision will have to be made for double classes in the Washington School and at the Bryant School. As soon as the new High School is ready for occupancy, which it is hoped will be about January 1, much of this crowding will be relieved, but not all of it, because some of the crowding is due to the fact that the school system has very much outgrown its accommodations while waiting for the new High School. The Wadsworth property having been sold, the kindergarten that was in that building has been transferred to the Whittier School.

SPANISH-AMERICAN VETS.

Interest in Proposed Oraganization Here is Renewed.

Renewed interest in the project, first broached a year ago, to organize the Spanish-American War Veterans of Plainfield and vicinity has developed. Plans are being discussed for a meeting, at which the proposed organization might be launched.

Patrolman Charles Flynn and Patrolman Overbaugh, and J. D. Macnab, instructor at the high school, are interested in the matter. There are veterans of the war enough in this city and surrounding places to form a flourishing post. It is not the object so much to recall the "glories" of the conflict, as to bring together the men who were united under the flag when some important history was being made.

A Candidate Withdraws.

Justice Hezekiah Hand announced this morning that he had withdrawn from the hunt for the Democratic shrievalty nomination, and would throw all his strength for Charles Moore, of Elizabeth. "Harmony seems to be the thing all the politicians are searching for," said the Justice, "and I want to do my part in increasing the crop."

Speech for Reunion.

S. S. Swackhamer will be one of the speakers at the Daily family reunion in Hunterdon county September 23. The gathering will be a large one and of note in the county. Mr. Swackhamer will speak on "The Hearthstone; Memories of the Past." He will forget politics and factional strife, and speak sentiment and poesy.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Middlesex county's ratables amount to $58,548,290. Last year the total ratables were $34,647,650, showing an increase of $3,000,640 this year. New Brunswick still leads, with a total of $10,054,508, an increase of $290,206 this year. Perth Amboy is next, with $9,868,120, an increase of $1,286,569. The largest net increase in any taxing district was in South Amboy, where the ratables this year show an increase of $759,173 over last year, due to the addition of $768,000 of railroad property. If it had not been for this, South Amboy would have shown a decrease. There was considerable discussion at Tuesday's meeting of the county assessors, as to whether the amount of railroad property valuation should be included in the schedule of ratables submitted for the purpose of determining each taxing district's share of the county and State school tax. Some of the assessors were of the opinion that it should not be included, and County Collector Serviss was of this opinion also. This course was favored by those districts where the railroad property was large, like Dunellen, while the rural districts, with little or no railroad property, insisted that the railroad property should be included in the amount serving as the base for apportioning the county.

The Highway Protectors' Association, of Middlesex county, designed to curb reckless and careless automobile driving, has perfected its organization and outlined its plan of action in a lengthy prospectus, which will soon be given to the public. It is planned to dispose of stock in the association, which is to have an authorized capital of $125,000, divided into shares of the par value of $10 each. These shares are non-assessable and non-transferable, and are to be subscribed for at par, each shareholder being a member of the association and entitled to its privileges. Branch memberships providing for an annual payment of $2 are provided for, and the affairs of the association are to be governed by trustees appointed by the shareholders and the branch members. The capital secured from the sale of stock is to be devoted to the protection of members, the securing of counsel to obtain necessary legislation and to compel the enactment of additional legislation to correct abuses which are possible under the present automobile laws.

The nine is undecided as to who will take Smith's place in the box Saturday. It has been suggested, and there is a possibility, that the team will declare the game off and attend the contest at Plainfield to see how the young twirler makes out against the swift semi-professional combination from Westfield. His mates naturally have every confidence in Phil, and will listen to no talk other than of a decisive victory for him. Smith is very popular with the other members of the nine and they would all rejoice to see him score a great success.

There is a continuance of the large attendance at the mission services conducted nightly by Father Younan at St. John's church. Father Younan is an interesting talker, and handles subjects of everyday life with a force and virility that holds the attention and the thoughts of his hearers. A gratifying number of the church members will make the mission. The question box is an interesting feature of the services. The mission will end Saturday night.

A passing automobile frightened a horse belonging to John Bernstein, of Lincoln, while the animal was standing before an open wagon at the trolley loop Tuesday afternoon, and the runaway that followed resulted in the breaking of the harness. The horse shied, and snapped loose from the traces. It bolted across the field, and was captured only after a hard chase. The wagon was not damaged.

A good deal of campaigning in favor of a $20,000 school building and against any other sort of a structure for the New Market district is being done. The next election will very likely be warmer even than the two preceding ones.

Miss Edna Nichol, of Dewey Park, has secured a position as stenographer in a New York law office. Miss Nichol is an expert shorthand writer, and is entrusted with the taking of testimony in important cases.

Work on the new Siriski building, North avenue, is proceeding slowly. It is expected that the structure will be enclosed by the end of next week. It will have the most attractive front on the avenue.

A pet dog belonging to A. Gardner was seized with convulsions yesterday, and died. The animal's attack frightened the family somewhat, but it made no attempt to bite anyone.

W. B. Smith has added a number of high bred pigeons to his coop. Mr. Smith is becoming a highly successful raiser of squabs.

Ernest Peters has entered the employ of E. A. Craig, in the latter's electrical business in Plainfield.

J. Y. Wilson has planned to remove with his family to Paterson, before the end of the week.

Mrs. W. Case, of Phillipsburg, has returned to her home after a stay at the home of F. W. Vail.

Mrs. J. Vail and her daughter, Miss Ethel Vail, have returned from a visit in Phillipsburg.

Ernest Quigley, of Greenbrook, has purchased a motor cycle.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Daabsters and Denmanites fight is out again at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon. The fact that Plainfield has won the coveted pennant will not interfere with the attendance or interest in the game, as the fans want fast baseball and they have had it this season.

Miss Margaret Reynolds, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at Muhlenberg Hospital Sunday, is doing nicely, the operation, which was performed by Drs. Westcott and Hedges, being considered a most successful one.

Miss Lily Frazee, who has been spending a week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hull, has returned to her home in Newark.

Unless there is more interest in the election than there was manifested by the voters in the primary election the polling vote will be light.

Miss Josephine Lambert, valedictorian of the class of '04, has entered the Moody School at Northfield, Mass., for a course of study.

Mrs. Stevens, who has been spending the summer at Mrs. C. N. Flanders, has returned to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Robinson, of the borough, have been at Lake Hopatcong for a week.

Miss Schultz, of New York, is spending a week with Mrs. Frank Hosinger.

George Vanderbilt has returned from a visit with relatives at Canarsie, L. I.

DANCE AT "HOMESTEAD."

Delightful Social Affair in Fanwood Tuesday Night—Those Present.

A delightful dance was given at "The Homestead," Fanwood, Tuesday night. A large number of guests were present to enjoy the festivities. "The Homestead" was attractively decorated with flowers and palms. An orchestra from New York furnished music.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. T. C. T. Crane, the Misses Boucher, R. H. Clark, Jr., Miss Ada Clarke, Dr. and Mrs. Woodman, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Helm, Miss Swick, Charles Clay Marshall, Palmer Jadwin, Miss Pendergast, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Streit, Mr. and Mrs. Van Ness, A. T. Barnes, E. H. Pillsbury, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Carpenter, Miss Laura Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Thompson, Miss Adelaide Pendergast, Mr. and Mrs. C. King, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Kingsland, Miss Eva Kingsland, J. Lynch Pendergast, Miss Lillian Fancher, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hoar, Miss Dorothy Hoar, Miss Marian Todd, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Christianson, Miss Nanon West, Mr. and Mrs. George Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson, Miss Robinson, Mr. Whitman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Knight, Miss Knight, E. H. S. Pendergast, Mr. Hegus, Mr. and Mrs. H. Seaman.

BURGLARS ENTER FIVE HOUSES.

Steal Jewelry and Money Without Awakening Sleepers.

Burglars had a busy time early yesterday at New Brunswick. Before they finished their work they had entered five houses and in each instance carried away all the silverware and jewelry they could find, and also all the cash they could secure. The police have no clue to work on. In each house the men visited they got away without alarming any of the sleepers. The robberies were not discovered until breakfast time.

The homes of Dr. Seerfing, George W. Lunt and Mrs. Pennington, on Morris street, were entered, and on Carroll place the homes of Mrs. Nicholas and Henry Stalker were visited. The robbers used the same method to gain admission to each of the five houses, in every case cutting out a pane of glass in the rear of the house.

Lackawanna Direct to Hopatcong.

Orange, Sept. 14.—The Lackawanna Railroad, which for many years has been trying to reach Lake Hopatcong, where it could land passengers without going in the roundabout way used now, has at last obtained a route from Mt. Arlington across Bertram Island, where the road will build a public pier. The engineers of the road have already drawn the plans, and it is believed work will be begun on the pier next week. The company has already ordered six steamboats, which will be put on the lake next spring, and will replace the boats now owned by private concerns over which there has been so much trouble recently. Nine of these passenger boats were recently inspected, and seven of them were condemned.

HONOR FOR DUNELLEN METHODISTS' PASTOR

REV. S. K. DOOLITTLE ON 3 IMPORTANT COMMITTEES AT REVIVAL CONVENTION

Whitehouse, Sept. 14.—Even a greater number of ministers, delegates and visitors attended the second session of the two-day revival convention of the Elizabeth district of the Newark conference in the Methodist Episcopal church. After the dinner hour many who had been deterred by the threatening weather and the late arrivals, those chiefly from a distance, arrived on the scene in time for the services of the afternoon. Rev. S. K. Doolittle, of Dunellen, was among the most actively interested. He was appointed on three committees.

The committees named are as follows:

Finance—Rev. Andrew Henry, of Clinton; Rev. S. K. Doolittle, of Dunellen.

To Prepare for Evangelical Work in the Churches This Fall—Rev. Sylvanus D. Decker, of Whitehouse; Rev. Albert A. Anderson, of Bloomsbury; Rev. S. K. Doolittle, of Dunellen.

Resolutions—Rev. Andrew Henry, of Clinton; Rev. S. K. Doolittle, of Dunellen.

The committee to prepare for evangelical work in the churches this fall will prepare a chart of the churches so grouped that there may be a unity of effort in revival work.

Among the ministers in attendance are Rev. S. K. Doolittle, of Dunellen; Rev. George Oaksen, of Cokesbury; Rev. A. S. Luring, of Everittstown; Rev. Dr. Maschmann, of Phillipsburg; Rev. George F. Illman, of Junction; Rev. W. S. Newsom, of Califon; Rev. Albert A. Anderson, of Bloomsbury; Rev. S. D. Harris, of High Bridge; Rev. M. L. Rhodes, of Quakertown; Rev. Dr. Daniel Halleron, of Newark; Rev. Dr. J. W. Johnston, of New York; Rev. Andrew Henry, of Clinton; Rev. J. N. Nelson, of Norton; Rev. Dr. E. E. Roberson, of Bound Brook; Rev. W. W. Youngson, of Elizabeth; Rev. P. C. Bascom, of Flemington.

CAN'T COLLECT FEE.

George A. Francis Barred From Real Estate Commission.

George A. Francis, real estate dealer in Westfield, who is well known in this city, was plaintiff in the Court of Common Pleas yesterday morning in a suit to recover from John Pretzler, also of Westfield, $100, which he claimed was due him for the sale of a piece of property.

Francis, who was represented by Lawyer Vincent W. Nash, Jr., of this city, testified that through him Pretzler sold to Ellen O. D. Ensign, of New York, a piece of property in Westfield, for which Pretzler received $4,500. He claimed that he sent Mr. Ensign to Pretzler, the latter having verbally promised to pay him $100 if Francis sent him a purchaser who would pay the $4,500 asked.

The evidence given by the plaintiff showed that there had been no written agreement on the part of Pretzler to pay him the $100, and Judge Vail granted Pretzler a non-suit, because the statute covering the sale of real estate distinctly specified that no one could collect for such sales on real estate unless the claimant had an agreement in writing.

KIRKLAND'S CHANCES.

Friends Believe With Plainfield's Help He Will Be Shrievalty Nominee.

Supporters of Robert J. Kirkland, of Elizabeth, for the shrievalty nomination on the Republican ticket, watched with much interest the results of the primares in that city. Upon the outcome depended Kirkland's chances. It is yet undecided whether Kirkland, after failing to win in the Eleventh ward, has a chance left, because the complexion of some of the wards has not been revealed. In two wards there was a fight for delegates, the Sixth and the Eleventh. The struggle in the Sixth resulted in a partial victory of Kirkland.

Sanguine Kirkland men still claim enough delegates in the county to name their man. They admit the Eleventh against them, also two delegates in the Sixth, and admit also that the Tenth and Twelfth are divided. They are counting on at least nine delegates from Plainfield, and believe they will get support from the townships.

Lake Excursion.

The beauty spot of New Jersey is Lake Hopatcong and one who visits the place is charmed with the diversified entertainment afforded. The surroundings are delightful in every respect and a day spent in the rarified mountain air of the Jersey foothills will do wonders for the tourist. There are ample facilities for fishing and boating and one who enjoys the rambles in wooded paths and the quietness of the natural pines, to him Lake Hopatcong is the gem of places. On September 17, 1905, the New Jersey Central is going to run one of its famous low priced and popular excursions to the Lake. Round trip $1.00, and special train leaves Plainfield at 9:20 a. m. The run is made in three hours and the entire day can be spent in delightful enjoyment. 9 13 td

LAWYER'S VIEWS ON DIVORCE.

There is just now an epoch of divorce agitation. This agitation is mostly due to the clergy; and naturally, therefore, takes its trend from the clergyman's point of view. Naturally, also, the public press largely reflects the action of those who make themselves busiest in the movement, falls in with the edge of the strongest current, and floats in its general direction, says Ernest Dale Owen in the August Arena.

The lawyer, however, comes directly in contact with the very living and practical thing itself, and ought to be heard in the general movement toward a solution of the question. The assistance he may be in suggesting what his experience leads him to say is based, not only on cases actually brought and tried, and that become public, but on the scores of instances where men and women lay bare before him their innermost lives for his counsel—instances of which the world, and even the clergy, know little.

The marital relation is the most important thing on earth. It is the very material out of which humanity is forced. Its influence upon the direct parties to the relation is stupendous—its effect upon the children they bear is beyond all calculation. Church, law, the various forms of ethical promulgation, are all puny factors, as formative of society, compared to the characters which the individuals of humanity bring with them into their lives at the start. And the thing that controls such individual characters is the relation of the parents to one another physically, mentally, morally and in their relative and reciprocal actions.

The responsibility of influencing this reciprocal relations, therefore, is so high, its proper adjustment is of such transcendent importance, that we must avoid unripe conclusions, narrow actions, or such as is based on any fundamental except it be the result of all views, all experiences and all natural considerations.

Perhaps we may dam the stream. But may it not overflow into the creation of a pestilential swamp breeding social and physical disease? The highest skill in sociological engineering should be brought to bear upon the problem—it is receiving, at best, a crude and unscientific empiricism.

That divorce laws are abused in many cases may be assumed. That is only reason for greater persipcacity in their adoption, not cause for their abridgment. Ministers abuse their cloth, but they should not be expurgated. Doctors often kill where they should cure, but they should not be exterminated. The laws for the collection of just debts are often abused—are daily made the means of desperate oppression—but they should not be annulled. Marriage itself is often made a sensuous curse, and yet it is, in its essence, the very keystone to bind into the arch of safety the whole structure of society. Shall we abolish that because it is abused?

A hundredfold more important is the problem of marriage than that of divorce. Let reformers apply themselves to finding a remedy for the "evil" of inconsiderate and unintelligent marriages—let public opinion, advisers and parents cease procipitating ill-boding marriages—and the divorce question will take care of itself. "But that is another story."

Walter Roberts, of Netherwood, will remove to New York for the winter the first of next month.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wadsworth, of West Eighth street, are home from their vacation, spent in Maine.

Mrs. Clarence Murphy, wife of the First ward councilman, is suffering from a severe attack of hay fever.

The New York State League season has closed. Wilkes-Barre won the pennant.

"Willie" Deegan will be on the bench Saturday in case things get too hot in the thumping department.

With "Jack" O'Neill, the reliable backstop, to catch him, "Phil" Smith will be well coached to do his best.

The local team has many admirers among the fair sex and a large number are expected at Saturday's game to cheer the boys.

Westfield considers it a joke that Manager Daab intends to use "Phil" Smith in the box on Saturday. Some jokes have stings in them.

The fans who have seen Dalton play will want to see him on Saturday, and those who have not, should not fail of this opportunity.

"Phil" Smith is a Plainfield boy, and as such has a host of friends who will watch his work on Saturday with unusual interest. He will find many loyal rooters at the game.

Many new faces will probably be seen on the Westfield lineup. Manager Denman will not lay down at this stage of the game. He is anxious to make the best possible showing.

Don't imagine for a minute that the Daabsters intend to give the remaining three games to Westfield. Not on your life. They will work as hard to take every one of the remaining contests as they did the first seven.

Manager Daab has expressed himself well pleased with the suggestion made by The Daily Press that the three remaining games with Westfield be sandwiched with contests against Summit and Dover, and says he will take the matter up at once with Manager Denman.

Some persons have said that the interest is all gone in the Plainfield-Westfield series, since the Daabsters have won the pennant. This is not the case with the loyal fans who like good baseball and believe that Plainfield has the best ever. Attend the game Saturday and show your appreciation.

Several prominent fans have said that they would be glad to join in a movement to give Manager Daab and his team a "blow-out" at the end of the season, when the pennant can be presented in a suitable manner. Agitate the mater among your friends and keep the ball a-rolling. Mr. Daab and the players would fully appreciate such and expression of appreciation.

TENNIS.

In two straight sets H. J. Cochran defeated W. L. Glenney in an unfinished match in the men's tennis championship tournament at the Plainfield Country Club Tuesday afternoon, and as a result Cochran will now figure in the finals. He defeated Glenney 6—4, 6—1. As soon as Wylie Brown and Howard Carter play off their match in the second round the tournament will be finished as scheduled. The winner of this match will meet Hartley Mellick to decide who shall play Cochran for the club championship.

H. J. Cochran, of the Plainfield Country Club, is among those entered for the open tennis tournament for the championship of New Jersey to be held under the auspices of the National Lawn Tennis Association at the Morristown Field Club courts, beginning September 18. The championship cup is the gift of Otto H. Kahm and cost $350. Women's championship singles will also be played for a cup valued at $175. There are also ten smaller cups of solid silver for various winners, and as consolation prizes. C. Wyckliffe Throckmorton is chairman of the committe in charge.

GOLF.

Golf is again on the boom at the Park Golf Club and from now on there is sure to be much interest in the scheduled events.

"Marty" O'Loughlin, of the Plainfield Country Club, left yesterday for Plainfield Country Club, left yesterday will play in the golf tournament.

As Robert Abbott returns to Yale within a short time, he will not have the opportunity to play in many important golf events at the Plainfield Country Club.

Frank O. Reinhart, although not devoting a great deal of time to golf this season, visits the Plainfield Country Club frequently to keep in practice. He has returned several very low scores during the season.

INTERESTING TIMBER OWNERS IN FORESTRY

STATE MAY ESTABLISH A DEMONSTRATION TRACT NEAR THIS CITY.

Trenton, Sept. 14.—The State Board of Forest Park Reservation commissioners has been meeting with Governor Stokes to consider several timber tracts and to determine in a measure the future policy of the commission in reference to forestry in the State.

In order to ascertain, if possible, in what sections of the State suitable lands could be bought, Secretary William H. Chew was authorized to invoke the co-operation of the newspapers in placing before the people the objects of the new forest law. A synopsis of the law was prepared, and timber land owners having property for sale were requested to communicate with the commission. These circular letters were sent to the principal newspapers, and the result has been the tender of many tracts of timber land in all parts of New Jersey. These tenders were grouped together and the most advantageous tracts were investigated by such expert foresters as John Gifford and F. B. Meier.

The tracts examined were in the northern and central parts of the State, as well as in the pine belt of the south. At first it was thought that the policy of the commission would be to purchase one large tract, preferably in the southern portion of New Jersey, where the land could be had at a very low figure, and which could probably soon be made to return a sufficient amount of money to make the tract self-supporting.

The matter was thoroughly considered, and it was later determined that a wiser course for the commission to pursue would be to establish one or more smaller tracts on which the principles of forestry could be practiced with a view to benefiting a greater number of timber land owners throughout the State. Accordingly, it will probably be the aim to establish these "demonstration tracts" in accessible localities near towns and railroads where they may be easily visited and where the benefits of practical forestry may be observed by more people than would travel to a remote region to examine a large reserve. But, of course, if this policy is adopted it is expected to establish, in connection with these smaller tracts, a large reservation from which a crop of timber can, after a time, be annually taken with a profit to the State.

Many of the tracts investigated by the expert foresters have been found impracticable because of their inaccessibility to railroads and the great danger of forest fires. Fire is the greatest menace to forestry and judgment is required to select tracts which can, without great expense, be protected from its ravages. A tract in the Watchung mountain woodland near Plainfield has been considered.

Land has been offered to the commission at prices ranging from $2 an acre up to prohibitive figures, but the commission proposes to use the limited appropriation at its disposal to the best possible advantage. Throughout the State a gratifying interest in forestry is being awakened, and the work of the board promises to be fraught with much benefit to the people of New Jersey.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Miss Grace Corbin, daughter of Major General Corbin, has been adopted into the Sioux Indian tribe and named Princess Pure Heart.

General Herman Haupt, of Washington, is the oldest living graduate of West Point Military Academy, and a man distinguished in Civil War military history and in railway and engineering circles.

Dr. Carl Peters, the well-known explorer, has just returned to London after an extended tour in South Africa, principally in Rhodesia, where he has made some interesting historic discoveries tending to confirm his theory that Mashonaland is the ancient Land of Ophir.

There is violent opposition among Canadians against the erecting of a monument in Quebec to the memory of General Richard Montgomery, the American hero of Revolutionary fame. Even the crude board sign erected three-quarters of a century ago near the cliff to mark the spot where Montgomery fell, has been ordered removed by the military department of Ottawa.

That Commander Peary is well able to endure the hardships of the North Pole climate is explained by a citizen of Maine who says when Peary was a young man it was a common thing for him to take "a camping outfit of a blanket and a lunch and start for the Maine mountains, where he would pass the deep secluded spots, never building a camp, but simply rolling himself in his blanket, would sleep in the open."

Prof. John Pickard, Ph. D., has been called to the head of the archaeological department of the Northwestern University. He is one of the foremost archaeologists and philologists of America, having for a number of years been one of the editorial staff of the "American Journal of Philology" and lecturer in several European institutions of standing.

Richard Nelson, of East Fifth street, has returned from a two weeks' visit with friends in Washington, N. J.

Therefore, as its manager announces, "a feature of the present year's advertising will be a series of strong newspaper advertisements which will be published in some of the leading papers of Boston and nearby towns." The electric sign is a splendid auxiliary of newspaper publicity, but only an auxiliary. The producers of electricity admit it.—Ex.

"Timely topics discussed by Plainfielders," a feature of The Daily Press, discontinued during August, will be resumed tomorrow. These articles, appearing once a week, have attracted much favorable comment on the part of our readers. This has been due to the fact that the contributors in every instance have been men specially qualified to write on the subject under discussion. It is proposed to maintain the standard in order that the articles will prove at once interesting and instructive. At our solicitation, Joseph O. Osgood, chief engineer of the Jersey Central, has written a timely paper on "The Most Practicable Method of Sewage Disposal for North Plainfield." Mr. Osgood is a member of the North Plainfield Board of Health and has a National reputation as an authority on engineering matters. He was the consulting engineer for the improvements at the Plainfield sewage disposal plant and has taken a lively interest in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the city and borough.

ELKS MAY BUILD SEASHORE HOME

NATIONAL BODY OF B. P. O. E. CONSIDERING ERECTION OF MAMMOTH HALL.

J. J. Tyndall, a prominent Pittsburger, who went to New York city yesterday, after a brief stay at Atlantic City and conferences with the officers of the Atlantic City Lodge, No. 276, B. P. O. Elks, advances the proposition that the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, which has nearly one thousand lodges in this country, shall select Atlantic City as its permanent meeting place, erecting a mammoth convention hall.

The plan, which as a matter of course, meets with some opposition, has been under consideration for nearly a year past and Mr. Tyndall, on proposing it to Elks in various parts of the country, finds that in general it is regarded with favor. The idea of selecting Atlantic City is that it would serve the duel purpose of a meeting ground and an outing place. A big convention hall would be erected which would be a paying investment, Mr. Tyndall holds, in view of the fact that it could be leased to the many organizations, fraternal and otherwise that meet there yearly, or that would meet there were there a building of sufficient size to house them comfortably.

Mr. Tyndall also proposes to establish at Atlantic City the National Elks' Home, which was founded in Virginia some years ago, and which has not proved a success, owing, it is said, to the undesirability of its location. These propositions, Mr. Tyndall proposes to put before the order in a series of articles to the "Antlers," one of the official organs of the Elks.

COLBY FOR GOVERNOR, IS THE LATEST TALE

HIS VICTORY OVER MACHINE MAY FORCE POLITICAL LEADERS TO ACCEPT HIM.

When the smoke of fierce battle cleared away yesterday it was found that Everett Colby had won his fight for the nomination for State Senator on the Republican ticket, as told in The Daily Press.

Against the most powerful forces for corporation control known in this State Colby has won out by not only winning enough delegates to be nominated Senator on the regular Republican ticket, but to control the nomination of the eleven Essex county Assemblymen, the sheriff and the registrar nomination. In other words, the regular Republican machine, headed by Major Carl Lentz and controlled by corporate influence, has had taken away from it the very life blood of its being—the control of political offices.

Not only is this true, but Colby is now the dominating force in Essex county politics on a platform of limited franchises and curbing of corporate control of politics.

Now that Colby has won out on this issue, the State leaders are today "sitting up and taking notice," and they shake their heads at the thrashing the regular Republican, almost invincible, machine in Essex county has received. The issue of limited franchises and curbing of corporate control of politics has dawned in New Jersey into a bright light, and Colby is its center. The issue is now an admitted one by the State Republican leaders, and it will become the Republican cry in the next Gubernatorial campaign.

Because of Colby's magnificent showing, he is today the logical candidate for Governor, and this causes much annoyance in many quarters. William M. Johnson, of Bergen county, wants this nomination, and State Treasurer Frank O. Briggs has been coming fast to the front for the honor. Of course this is early to figure, but the enthusiasts today are claiming that Colby will be the ideal man to nominate for Governor to succeed Governor Stokes.

The returns show the magnificence of Mr. Colby's victory. He goes into the convention tonight with 284 out of 479 delegates, or more than forty enough to nominate him for Senator.

MORE BELCHER FORGERIES.

Lawyer Repudiates His Signature to Searches on Property.

Paterson, Sept. 14—Another chapter in the Mayor Belcher frauds was developed yesterday when Rayton E. Horton, a lawyer, declared that his signatures to two searches on property owned by the Mayor, and on which he gave mortgages to the Silk City Safe Deposit and Trust Company, were forgeries.

The total amount of the mortgages is $6,500. They were given after the property had been encumbered for more than its market value, which the searches showed the property to be free and clear. The bank called upon Mr. Horton to make good its loss. Mr. Horton declared yesterday that he never made or signed the search.

Belcher was counsel and vice president of the bank, and it now appears that he drew up all the legal papers connected with the mortgage, and that the search he submitted to the directors was a fraud.

WOODHULL & MARTIN'S

PRACTISED AS BURGLAR.

Boy Admits Sending Bomb and Firing Houses.

East Orange, Sept. 14.—Thomas French, the seventeen-year-old boy charged with having written threatening letters and of having sent three dangerous infernal machines to Valentine Riker, has pleaded guilty to the charge. He has also admitted having set fire to the Columbian Public School, in East Orange, on September 30 of last year, and to the stable of Charles Cogswell, at 120 Arlington avenue North, near his own home.

Ex-City Attorney Philemon Woodruff, counsel for French, asks to have the boy examined to determine his sanity. He says he set the fires, wrote the letters and sent the bombs for a joke. Yet he has never been known as a bad boy. He is quiet in his habits and often worked about his mother's place, seeming to take a pride in seeing it in good condition. His family is highly respected. His father, who was a coal dealer, accumulated a comfortable fortune before he died.

Young French got his idea for constructing the bombs from the published illustrations of the bombs sent to Jacob H. Schiff, Randolph Guggenheimer and Edward Wassermann.

A week ago last Sunday Mrs. French was aroused in the middle of the night by stealthy steps in the lower part of the house. She went downstairs, but could find no one. Then she went up to arouse her son, but could not find him in his room. No one was found, and now the boy has admitted that it was he who was walking about the house that night, practising as a burglar.

THE POLITICAL TIPSTER.

Johnston Cornish, of Washington, is a candidte for State Senator from Warren county. He is junior member of the firm of the Cornish Company. He was born at Bethlehem, Hunterdon county. He was mayor of Washington for three consecutive years, being elected in 1884. In 1890 he was elected to the State Senate by a large majority, and before his full term expired he resigned to become a member of Congress, to which office he was elected in 1892. In 1899 he again was elected to represent Warren county in the State Senate by a plurality of 1,675 over the Republican candidate.

CATHEDRAL TO REOPEN OCT. 15

INTERIOR OF BUILDING UNDERGOING A TRANSFORMATION.

St. Patricks' Cathedral, in Newark, which is being extensively renovated, will be reopened Sunday, October 15, and the event will be marked by fitting ceremonies. It was originally intended to have the opening Sunday, October 1, but the alterations will not be finished in time.

Bishop John J. O'Connor will offer a solemn pontificial high mass, and will preach the sermon at the 10:30 o'clock mass. He will pontificate at night, and the sermon will be preached by Rev. Dr. Charles J. Kelly, rector of the Church of Our Lady of Grace, Hoboken. Professor William F. Hattersley, the organist of the church, is arranging a special musical programme.

At the 10:30 o'clock service a special collection will be taken, when Rev. Dr. Isaac P. Whelan, the rector, hopes to be able to raise the additional funds needed to pay for the improvements. The $10,000 given by Mrs. Julia D. Shanley, in memory of her husband, the late Bernard M. Shanley, has been expended for the decorations, new stations of the cross and a new altar railing. The entire alterations, Father Whelan thinks, will cost about $23,000.

The decorations of the church are almost completed. The ground colors of the walls are olive and gold, with gold stencil work about the edge to draw out the lines. The capitals of the pillars are of gold leaf. The new stations of the cross are in place. They are in relief form. Electric lights have been also installed.

In a week or two a new floor will be laid and new pews put in. The latter will be of white quartered oak treated to a golden hue.

Dr. Whelan says it will take about a week to take the present floor and seats out, and another week to put in place the new. The new altar railing which is being made will be put up the week before the opening. The pillars will be of marble, with bronze work between.

The outside of the church, as well as the inside, has undergone repairs. The building has been repainted and reappointed, and the steam plant has been repaired.

Middlesex Valuation Increases.

New Brunswick, Sept. 14.—The county Board of Assessors determined the net valuation of taxable property in Middlesex county to be $38,548,290, an increase over last year of $3,900,640. The largest increase is shown in Perth Amboy, where, with the railroad property taxable added, the total valuation is increased $1,286,569. The total taxable property this year is $9,863,120, or but $191,388 less than this city, with its $10,054,508.

Paying Fire Laddies.

Lambertville, Sept. 14.—There was considerable excitement and warm argument at the September meeting of Common Council Monday evening. The board of engineers of the fire department appeared and asked that instead of paying each fireman $10 a year the money be paid to the various companies and by them distributed to the members. The request was finally conceded to.

Hotel Sterling to Open.

The Hotel Sterling, of Trenton, of which Charles J. Fury, of Somerville, is one of the proprietors, will be formally opened this evening under the direction of the new management, when an elaborate table de hote dinner will be served to the guests. An orchestra will provide music. It is the intention of the proprietors to run a first-class, up-to-date hotel in metropolitan style.

Middlesex Convention Today.

New Brunswick, Sept. 14.—The Republican county convention will be held here today. The chief interest will be centered in the nomination for sheriff. There are several candidates, among the more prominent being Freeholder George J. Haney, of Perth Amboy; Court Clerk William Oberman, of Deans, and Andrew S. Church, ex-mayor of South River.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—William Peck, formerly of this city, has purchased a restaurant near the trolley junction at Bound Brook.

—Neuman Bros. have received a large shipment of Bartlett pears, just the kind of fruit for canning and preserving.

—Dodger, the old trolley dog who used to follow the cars to and from the Watchung avenue transfer station all through the city, is living an idle and comfortable life at the Junction office. Dodger was ordered from the city by the police, on charges preferred by an irascible passenger who accused him of biting him.

Bank President's Trial.

Trenton, Sept. 14.—In the United States Court yesterday, Judge William H. Lanning presiding, the trial of Dr. Wesley R. Wales, the Cape May man charged with the misappropriation of $16,000 from the Cape May City National Bank, of which he was formerly president, was continued, the day being taken up exclusively with technical testimony, introduced by the Government with a view of showing that the accused banker had deposited worthless notes as collateral security for loans to himself. The trial will be concluded today, it is believed, going to the jury late in the afternoon.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 17.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The Great Surrender.—Acts ix. 1-22; Rom. vi, 16-23.

In the ninth chapter of the Acts we have the record of the wonderful conversion of the Apostle Paul. On his way from Jerusalem to Damascus to persecute the disciples of Christ he had a remarkable vision of Christ, and from Saul, the persecutor, he was transformed to Paul, the apostle. Convinced of the sinfulness of his course, accepting the mercy of God in Christ, he cried out, "Lord, what wilt Thou have me to do?" and in that exclamation we see the great surrender of Paul unto Christ.

The surrender of Paul to Christ was a great surrender.

1. Paul's surrender was the surrender of a great man to a great cause. Paul, the apostle, is one of the world's greatest men. At the moment when he surrendered himself to Christ he was a great national figure and was already recognized as one of the great leaders of Judaism as against Christianity. He was an educated man, a deep thinker, a leader among men, and had he continued to remain in opposition to Christianity he would probably have written his name high in the annals of his own people, but in Christianity he found an especial field for proving his greatness to the world. No human void has ever been more powerful than his, and no pen of man has wielded a greater influence than his. But the greatness of his surrender was greatly increased by the cause to which he surrendered. Great men have sometimes surrendered themselves to causes anything else than great, but no man ever surrendered himself to a worthier cause than religion, and the vast majority of the world's great men have been religious men. Young men, if they will follow the example of the world's great men, need never be ashamed to surrender themselves to Christ, the greatest of the world's great men.

2. Paul's surrender to Christ was great in its completeness. It was an absolute, entire consecration to Christ. He surrendered self to Christ, in that he surrendered his will, the citadel of self, to Him. "What wilt Thou have me to do?" he asked. And from that moment the will of Christ was his will. He went where Christ would have him go, spoke what Christ would have him speak, did what Christ would have him do, suffered without murmur or complaint what Christ would have him suffer, and, last of all, as the crowning act of his entire surrender to Christ, he died as a martyr for Him. What surrender could have been more complete? He surrendered all—time, talents, life. They were all asked of him, and he gave them. Such a surrender should be an inspiration to all young Christians. Let us not only sing "I surrender all," but, following in the footsteps of the great apostle, do it.

3. Paul's surrender to Christ was great in its results. It brought to him eternal life. Every one of us must surrender ourselves to some supreme influence. Shall it be to sin, the wages of which is eternal death, or shall it be to Christ, the reward of which is eternal life?

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. xxviii, 20-22; Deut. vi, 1-5; Isa. lv, 1-7; Eccl. xii, 13, 14; Matt. vi, 33; xxii, 35-40; xxvi, 36-45; Mark ii, 14; Rom. xii, 1, 2; II Cor. viii, 1-5.

Canadian Missionary's Testimony.

Rev. Egerton R. Young, D. D., the well known Canadian missionary and author, has been making a tour of the world. In a recent letter he makes the following pleasant reference to Christian Endeavor as he saw it on this journey:

"Following, as we did, so closely on Dr. Clark's footsteps in some of the Pacific islands and also in New Zealand and Australia, we heard many cheering words of the blessed results of his visits and of the stimulus given to the Christian Endeavor and other Christly work by his presence and addresses.

"I was so thoroughly monopolized by the churches that had arranged my programme that I did not have the joy of speaking in nearly as many Christian Endeavor societies as I had desired, but with those I did meet and address I was very much pleased. What struck me most decidedly was not only the brightness and spirituality of their gatherings and the brave, decided Christian lives these Endeavorers were leading, but I was deeply impressed by the earnest desires of so many of them to be able to make their lives successful for Christ and humanity."—Christian Endeavor World.

The Name Beautiful.

After quoting Marianne Farningham's description of Christian Endeavorers as "young people of the beautiful name," the Bulletin of the District of Columbia Christian Endeavor Union says: "It is, indeed, a beautiful name. And a beautiful thing about it is that it is appropriate to young people of different denominations. There are Baptist Endeavorers and Presbyterian Endeavorers and Lutheran Endeavorers and Endeavorers of forty or fifty denominations, but all Christian Endeavorers."

Nuggets.

Endeavorers, remember your history as well as your present opportunity.—Dr. Clark.

The more spiritual and earnest our societies are the better will they fulfill the high purpose for which God created this movement.—Rev. F. B. Meyer.

Endeavorers, stand by your pastor and your church. Remember that the great word of the times—yes, of all times—is "service."—Dr. J. H. Pettee.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Sept. 17: "The Great Surrender"—Acts ix, 1-22; Rom. vi, 16-23.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

Greater contrast it would be difficult to find than that between the condition of Saul of Tarsus as he goes to Damascus and as he returns.

In both cases he is filled with religious zeal. Few men of his times or of any age have been so intensely devoted to the things of religion. With him it was the master passion and ruling force, shaping all his thinking and all his acts.

He is not native of Jerusalem, but in early life was sent there to be taught, by the most eminent teachers, the law of his forefathers. He has been an apt and most diligent pupil. As he goes to Damascus he is the most representative man among the younger ones of the Jews. In him must center the hopes of his people to a great extent, whether or not they fully realize it.

Gamaliel, their most learned and influential teacher, is aging and by nature dislikes controversy. The times are full of agitation and are electric with forces making for change. What shall be the course of events in the next quarter century no one can foresee, but all can discern that the very existence of the Jews as a people is in the balance. Part of the rulers have almost completely forsaken all that was distinctive in their national faith and life and joined politically and socially with the Romans—have, in fact, become almost gentiles in belief and practice. Faith in the spiritual things has with them become extinct, and they are essentially heathen in sentiment rather than Hebrew. But they hold the chief places of power in the temple and in all matters of government. They are the chief priests, but they are Sadducees. They seek not righteousness, but rulership.

Saul has nothing in common with them. He has studied the writings of the great prophets of his nation who in the ages past have from Moses to Malachi stood for religious purity and national integrity. He is saturated through and through with their spirit. He is zealous as was Elijah for Israel and hates with intensest hatred all that is false and contrary to the Jehovah faith of his fathers. He is puritan in principle and practice. He keeps the law with all exactness as the only hope of salvation for himself and his people. He is a Pharisee of the Pharisees. If the nation can be united in right doing and belief, then will come the glory of which all their prophets have spoken. Now is the critical time. He is a God chosen man to do this work. The hope for nation and world lies in getting the people to keep the law rigidly.

Worse than the difficulty with Sadducees is the new danger arising from the followers of the young Galilean carpenter, Jesus of Nazareth, who was executed a few years back, ostensibly as a leader of insurrection, but really because he claimed to be the promised leader and made Himself greater than Moses and taught principles which if followed out would overthrow the whole mass of rabbinic tradition which in practice had come to have even greater authority and importance than the law of Moses.

His followers believed that He had risen from the dead and ascended to heaven, where He ruled as divine and would come to judge all men. Multitudes believed their teachings and were living according to their rules. They called it "the way of the Lord."

Paul saw that if this "way" was right it must eventually do away with all the temple ritual and overthrow the whole fabric of Phariseeism, since it was based on faith in Jesus Christ as Son of God and not on the efficacy of fasting, almsgiving and personal meritorious deeds.

He determined to crush it out. He goes to Damascus for this end. In his zeal for God life itself, theirs or his own, shall not stand in the way. It is a life and death struggle and will be a fight to a finish. It is Phariseeism and "the way" in the wrestle for religious supremacy and world dominion. Jesus of Nazareth represents as no other man ever has done the ethical principles of prophetism. Saul of Tarsus represented as no other man so well had done the principles of Phariseeism.

Outside the gates of Damascus these two met. Luke's report of the encounter thrills us as we read and realize the interests at stake.

Jesus conquers, and the greatest of the Pharisees becomes the first and greatest of the prophets of "the way of the Lord" and is sent specially to the gentiles. Has he turned Sadducee? Has he repudiated all his love of righteousness as a Pharisee?

No. Rather he has found the truth and error in each of these ways and the higher, mightier truth in the way of Jesus and he has become Christian by "the great surrender."

Force of a Child's Remark.

A New Hampshire woman prominent in church affairs stood leaning over her big five-year-old boy, who when he had finished saying his evening prayer with an irreverent drawl and his amen with a yell, asked her, "Mother, why do you make me say my prayers when you never pray at evening or any other time?" Her lips were closed. There are too many Christian women who never pray except in public.—Christian Work and Evangelist.

A Blessed Intercession.

We have the assurance that not in a general way, but in a special manner and degree, Jesus has prayed for a peculiar blessing in the line of our loving labors in behalf of those to whom we are sent in his name. What need have we to doubt or fear as to the result of our labors which have this intercession in their behalf.—H. Clay Trumbull, D. D.

NOTICE!
"In behalf of your proprietary article called AZIENZA CREAM, as a remedy for diseases of the skin, I desire to add my appreciation of its wonderful properties as a cure in a case of Bone Tumor or Abscess of five years growth on my husband's back, which I have cured in less than five weeks time by constant application, and now it is as well as any part of his body. It was cut out once by a specialist and had again grown to a large size, was as hard as bone and of a very dark purple color. The AZIENZA at once allayed the pain and began to soften it, and in less than eight days, by my pressure upon it, suddenly to my surprise it discharged a quantity of pus, impregnated with a hard, cheesy substance. I kept it open and cleansed it as it discharged and every day would dress it with a plaster of AZIENZA CREAM, until it was entirely healed up. I cannot speak too highly of AZIENZA CREAM and its merits. For inquiry regarding this case you may apply Mr. and Mrs. James, Embury Ave., care Hillier, Ocean Grove, N. J. Signed, July 12, 1905: Mrs. C. W. James, Mr. C. W. James." Leading Druggists, 25c-50c

FOR THE GENTLER SEX

HUSBAND NOT A HOUSEMAID.

Are you one of those women who continually request your husband to run get you this, that and the other as long as he is about the house? Do you habitually call him back from the corner to mail a letter or give him a sample of silk to match? Does he no sooner sit down than you ask him to run upstairs and get the baby's pins, or take the small child walking, or run around the corner and get the meat for supper? says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

There are misguided wives who make it a constant practice to keep the man of the house fetching and carrying for themselves and baby from the time he enters the door until bedtime and all day Sunday. It's "Tom, get me this," and "Tom, please bring me that," until in the eyes of a third party Tom's position in the home appears to be that of a well-trained servant.

It is hardly fair, little wife, to let him drop to that, is it? Do you really require that he should go into bondage of this sort to you and baby? He does it patiently, maybe, but it wears on him and hurts his self-respect. Why don't you do your own buying, and mail your own letters and match your own samples? Why don't you have the baby's things handy, so he won't have to wait on you hand and foot when you're busy with the little one?

What would you think if your husband brought home a lot of his office work for you to do at night? Suppose he expected you to spend your spare hours clerking for him and helping him with his bills and accounts? Ridiculous, wouldn't it be? Yet, for some reason, you expect him to act as second housemaid and assistant child's nurse the whole time he is away from the office.

Nine times out of ten it's simply habit that gets you into this practice. Of course, there are exceptional cases of illness which make it necessary for a faithful husband to step into the shoes of a domestic help and assist with the meals and the children. But unless there is this necessity it ought not be expected.

The man's field of labor, little wife, is in his office or factory, where he earns the bread for you. Yours is in the home, where you do every whit as much as he toward earning the living. He doesn't expect you to go down to the office and work. Don't expect him to come home at night and do the housework and mind the baby.

Do your own end as well as you can. Be as independent and self-reliant about it as possible. When he comes home let him rest. And if you manage right you can be ready to rest with him.

THE USE OF KEROSENE.

The kerosene can is not a thing of beauty, neither is it suggestive of strength, yet it is one of the most valuable of the housewife's allies. A spoonful of kerosene added to the basin of water in which the windows are to be washed makes them beautifully clear and easy to polish, while at the same time it repels flies and mosquitoes, says the Philadelphia Inquirer. If screen doors and windows are thoroughly brushed and freed from dust, then wiped over with kerosene, they will look as good as new, while mosquitoes, flies and moth millers will give them a wide berth as long as any trace of the odor remains.

If, as is frequently the case even in best regulated families, the beds become infested with occupants that do not belong there they may be exterminated by a free use of kerosene. If one has a careless neighbor, as is apt to be the case in an apartment house, baseboards, window sills and the springs of the beds should be wiped off with oil at least once a week as a preventive.

Applied liberally about the kitchen sink, boiler and pipes, cockroaches and water bugs may be defied, even in an old house.

For wagon grease or tar spots rub well with kerosene while the grease is fresh, then wash out in cold, soft water, using no soap.

Kerosene will remove ink stains and fresh paint, while nothing takes out blood stains better than cold soapsuds to which kerosene has been added.

Irons that have been put away sticky should be well scraped with a thin knife, then rubbed with a rough cloth, moistened in kerosene.

A spoonful of kerosene in boiled starch keeps it from sticking, but do not use enough to make it smell of the oil.

Nothing equals kerosene for cleaning porcelain bath tubs. The ugly black streak around the sides that requires such vigorous rubbing when only soap and water are used disappears as by magic when wiped with a soft cloth, moistened with kerosene.

Common kerosene is excellent in cleaning hardwood or stained floors. Sweep carefully and dust before applying the oil. Use only a small quantity at a time, wiping a small space, then rubbing the oil up with a soft absorbent flannel cloth.

IN THE BISHOP'S CARRIAGE

By MIRIAM MICHELSON

(Copyright, 1904, by The Bobbs-Merrill Company).

"I didn't have any!" I exclaimed. "Why, I certainly—"

"You certainly had no purse, for I should have seen it and searched it if you had."

Now, what do you think of a woman like that?

"Nancy Olden," I said to myself, more in sorrow than in anger, "you've met your match right here. When a woman knows a fact and states it with such quiet conviction, without the least unnecessary emphasis and not a superfluous word, 'ware that woman. There's only one game to play to let you hang round here a bit longer and find out what's become of the baby. Play it!"

I looked at her with respect; it was both real and feigned.

"Of course, you must be right," I said, humbly. "I know you wouldn't be likely to make a mistake, but, just to convince me, do you mind letting me go back to look?"

"Not at all," she said, placidly. "If I go with you there's no reason why you should not look."

Oh, Mag, it was hard lines looking. Why?—Why, because the place was so bare and so small. There were so few things to move and it took such a short time, in spite of all I could do and pretend to do, that I was in despair.

"You must be right," I said at length, looking woefully up at her.

"Yes; I knew I was," she said, steadily.

"I must have lost it."

"Yes."

There was no hope there. I turned to go.

"I'll lend you a nickel to get home, if you'll leave me your address," she said after a moment.

Oh, that admirable woman! She ought to be ruling empires instead of searching thieves. Look at the balance of her, Mag. My best acting hadn't shaken her. She hadn't that fatal curiosity to understand motives that wrecks so many who deal with—we'll call them the temporarily unstraight. She was satisfied just not to let me get ahead of her in the least particular. But she wasn't mean, and she would lend me a nickel—not an emotionally extravagant ten-cent piece, but just a nickel—on the chance that I was what I seemed to be.

Oh, I did admire her; but I'd have been more enthusiastic about it if I could have seen my way clear to the baby and the paper.

I took the nickel and thanked her, but effusiveness left her unmoved. A wholesome, blue-gowned rock with a neat, full-bibbed white apron; that's what she was!

And still I lingered. Fancy Nance Olden just heartbroken at being compelled to leave a police station!

But there was nothing for it. Go, I had to. My head was a-whirl with schemes coming forward with suggestions and being dismissed as unsuitable; my thoughts were flying about at such a dizzy rate while I stood there in the doorway, the woman's patient hand on the knob and her watchful eyes on me, that I actually—

Mag, I actually didn't hear the matron's voice the first time she spoke.

The second time, though, I turned—so happy I could not keep the tremor out of my voice.

"I thought you had gone long ago," she said.

Oh, we were friends, we two! We'd chummed over a baby, which for women is like what taking a drink together is for men. The admirable dragon in the blue dress didn't waver a bit because her superior spoke pleasantly to me. She only watched and listened.

Which puts you in a difficult position when your name's Nance Olden—you have to tell the truth.

"I've been detained," I said with dignity, "against my wish. But that's all over. I'm going now. Good-by." I nodded and caught up my skirt. "Oh!" I paused just as the admirable dragon was closing the door on me. "Is the baby asleep? I wonder if I might see her once more."

My heart was beating like an engine gone mad, in spite of my careless tone, and there was a buzzing in my ears that deafened me. But I managed to stand still and listen, and then to walk off, as though it didn't matter in the least to me, while her words came smashing the hope out of me.

"We've sent her with an officer back to the neighborhood where you found her. He'll find out where she belongs, no doubt. Good day."

CHAPTER XV.

AH ME, Maggie, the miserable Nance that went away from that station. To have had your future in your grasp, like that one of the Fates with the string, and then to have it snatched from you by an impish breeze and blown away, goodness knows where!

I don't know just which way I turned after I left that station. I didn't care where I went. Nothing I could think of gave me any comfort. I tried to fancy myself coming home to you. I tried to see myself going down to tell the whole thing to Obermuller. But I couldn't do that. There was only one thing I wanted to say to Fred Obermuller, and that thing I couldn't say now.

But Nance Olden's not the girl to go round long like a molting hen. There was only one chance in a hundred, and that was the one I took, of course.

"Back to the square where you found the baby. Nance!" I cried to myself. "There's the chance that that admirable dragon has had her suspicions aroused by your connection with the baby, which she hadn't known before, and has already dutifully notified the sergeant. There's the chance that the baby is home by now, and the paper found by her mother will be turned over to her papa; and then it's good-by to your scheme. There's the chance that—"

But in the heart of me I didn't believe in any chance but one—the chance that I'd find that blessed baby and get my fingers just once more on that precious paper.

I blew in the A. D.'s nickel on a cross-town car and got back to the little square. There was another organ grinder there grinding out coon songs, to which other pickaninnies danced. But nary a little white bundle of fluff caught hold of my hand. I walked that square till my feet were sore. It was hot. My throat was parched. I was hungry. My head ached. I was hopeless. And yet I just couldn't give it up. I had asked so many children and nurse maids whether they'd heard of the baby lost that morning and brought back by an officer, that they began to look at me as though I was not quite right in my mind. The maids grabbed the children if they started to come near me, and the children stared at me with big round eyes, as though they'd been told I was an ogre who might eat them.

I was hungry enough to. The little fruit stand at the entrance had a fascination for me. I found myself there time and again, till I got afraid I might actually try to get off with a peach or a bunch of grapes. That thought haunted me. Fancy Nance Olden starved and blundering into the cheapest and most easily detected species of thieving!

I suppose great generals in their hour of defeat imagine themselves doing the feebleest, foolishest things. As I sat there on the bench, gazing before me, I saw the whole thing—Nancy Olden, after all her bragging, her skirmishing, her hairbreadth scapes and successes, arrested in broad daylight and before witnesses for having stolen a cool, wet bunch of grapes, worth a nickel, for her hot, dry, hungering throat! I saw the policeman that'd do it; he looked like that Sergeant Mulhill I met 'way, 'way back in Latimer's garden. I saw the officer that'd receive me; he had blue eyes like the detective that came for me to the Manhattan. I saw the woman jailer—oh, she was the A. D., all right, who'd receive me without the slightest emotion, show me to a cell and lock the door, as calm, as little triumphant or affected, as though I hadn't once outwitted that cleverest of creatures—and outwitted myself in forestalling her. I saw—

Mag, guess what I saw! No, truly; what I really saw? It made me jump to my feet and grab it with a squeal.

I saw my own purse lying on the gravel almost at my feet, near the little fruit stand that had tempted me.

Blank empty it was, stripped clean, not a penny left in it, not a paper, not a stamp, not even my key. Just the same I was glad to have it. It linked me in a way to the place. The clever little girl that had stolen it had been here in this park, on this very spot. The thought of that cute young Nance Olden distracted my mind a minute from my worry—and, oh, Maggie darlin', I was worrying so!

I walked up to the fruit stand with the purse in my hand. The old fellow who kept it looked up with an inviting smile. Lord knows, he needn't have encouraged me to buy if I'd had a penny.

"I want to ask you," I said, "if you remember selling a lot of good things to a little girl who had a purse this—this morning?"

I showed it to him, and he turned it over in his crippled old hands.

"It was full then—or fuller, anyway," I suggested.

"You wouldn't want to get her into trouble—that little girl?" he asked, cautiously.

I laughed. "Not I. I—myself—"

DATA IN REFERENCE TO JERSEY WEATHER

RECORD OF CONDITIONS DATING BACK AS FAR AS 1740.

German Valley, Sept. 14.—In the possession of one of the residents of this place is a record of the weather conditions from 1740 up to the present time. The record contains the following data in reference to cold winters and exceptional mild ones:

The winter of 1740-1741—An extremely cold one. Long Island Sound frozen over three leagues across. The Delaware River, not navigable from December 15 until March 15; January 8, at Lewis, Del., 'tis all ice toward the sea as far as the eye can see; snow lays three feet deep on the level and there is much suffering among the poor.

1741-1742—An open winter.

1742-1743—An open winter.

1744-1745—An open winter.

1750-May 30—Frost and snow.

1754-55 — Winter very mild. Troops sailed from New York city to Albany in January and February.

1762-63—Snow fell on November 8, and lay until the middle of the followng March.

1764-65—Another cold wave; February 7, an ox roasted on the ice. Near Philadelphia, March 28, snow fell two to two-and-one-half feet deep on the level.

1771-72—March 12, snow in many places two feet deep. April 2 snow fell six inches deep.

1779-80—From Thanksgiving to the middle of March intensely cold weather; snow lay on the ground nearly four feet deep for three months.

1780-81—A very mild winter. To January 27 ground scarcely chilled.

1788-89—A severe winter. During February thermometer registered in many places from 28 degress to 30 degrees below zero.

1797-98—Winter long and severe. Hudson River closed in November and Delaware by December 1.

1798-99—Long winter with deep snow; deep snow March 12.

1799—Very late spring; ice middle of April; frost June 6.

1799-1800—Cold in winter in the South; snow three feet deep in Georgia; snow and hail in Florida.

1852—Very cold winter; snows as far South as New Orleans and Jacksonville, Fla.

1878-79—A cold winter.

1880-81—A cold winter and deep snows.

1888—Blizzard March 12 and 13.

The record shows that there were frosts every month in the summers of 1812 and 1816.

To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggsts or by mail. The liquid embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation. Cream Balm is quickly absorbed by the membrane, and does not dry up the secretions but changes them to a natural and healthy character. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.

ACKERMAN FOR SENATOR; LAWRENCE FOR SHERIFF

UNION'S REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES POINT TO THAT RESULT.

Ernest R. Ackerman, Republican, of Plainfield, will be nominated for State Senator without opposition, as a result of the primaries in Union county.

The principal fight among the Republicans was for sheriff, the contestants being Captain Robert R. Kirkland, of Elizabeth; Dr. W. H. Lawrence, of Summit, and William A. Wright, assistant postmaster of Rahway. It is believed that Dr. Lawrence will be nominated. He carried the two banner Republican wards at Elizabeth Tuesday night against Kirkland.

What helped to defeat Captain Kirkland in the strong Republican wards of Elizabeth was the fact that next year Surrogate George T. Parrot, the Republican incumbent, comes up for re-election, and if Elizabeth gets the shrievalty nominee this year it could not reasonably expect that the candidate for surrogate next year should come from that city.

The reports from outside of Elizabeth show that three out of four wards, if not all four wards, in this city, and all the township will be against an Elizabeth man for sheriff.

Rahway, it is claimed, will stick to Wright, its candidate, so long as there is any show for his winning. When the break comes then, it is asserted, the Rahway delegates will go to the Summit candidate.

Everard K. Tucker will be the Republican Assembly nominee.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Crescent Temple, Ancient Arabic Nobles, Order of the Mystic Shrine, of Trenton, will be instituted under charter tonight at its quarters in the Masonic temple, Trenton. The ceremony will be conducted by Noble George W. Wiedenmayer, illustrious potentate of Salaam temple, Newark, who was appointed special deputy for this purpose by the imperial potentate noble, Harry A. Collins. The potentates of all the different temples in this country have been invited, and it is expected that over thirty of them will be present. The officers and patrol of Salaam temple and the officers of Lulu temple, of Philadelphia, were also invited. The charter was granted to Crescent temple by the imperial council, which convened at Niagara Falls June 21. This will be an important event in the history of the temple, as before then it was under dispensation.

Death of An Infant.

burban towns, like Montclair and the Oranges, gave a big vote against the machine. Naturally we expected a large labor vote in Newark, but we carried wards in this city which we never expected to have with us."

In the event of Mr. Colby's victory in November he will be an important factor in a fight to be made with the aid of the Democrats against the control of the corporations in the State by the trusts.—New York Herald.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Epworth League, of Grace M. E. church, is planning a fall reunion sociable. The date has not yet been set.

R. L. Ewing, general secretary-elect of the Y. M. C. A. of Madras, India, will address the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Eva Wells, child soloist; Martin A. Korff, violinist, and Miss Clara Van Fleet will furnish special music. There will be a piano and violin recital at 3:40 p. m. To give some idea of the extent of the field to which Mr. Ewing is going, it may be said that the population of Madras, India, is equal to that of Newark, Camden, Trenton, Elizabeth, Passaic, Orange, Montclair and Plainfield combined.

EQUAL TO BIG SHOWS.

New Theatre Proves Capable of Showing Great Scenic Productions.

The presentation of "The Sleeping Beauty and the Beast" at the New Plainfield theatre Monday night proved conclusively that the playhouse is capable of showing off the biggest productions in as thorough a manner as could be desired. The pantomime is one of the biggest shows ever produced, and the theatre can take care of anything the managers are ever likely to send on the road.

Two carloads of scenery and eighty-seven people were used in presenting the spectacle, with ten changes of scene, and the stage and stage management gave no hint of distress in carrying the performance through.

It was a pleasure for those who desire to see the theatre a success to note the size of the audience. The night was a miserable one, yet the house was packed.

SCHOOL DIRECTORS EXCITED.

Board's President Says Children Should Take Members' Places.

Opposing the action of the Elizabeth Board of Education to transfer a portion of the commercial department from School No. 9 to Battin High School, where there is room for it, President W. B. Sayre at a meeting last night said that if the Board should decide to make the transfer it was time that the members took the places of the children in school and that the children take their places in the Board.

The discussion waxed warm and the members grew excited in an exchange of hard words. The resolution to make the transfer was adopted, President Sayre being the only one to vote against it.

Struck By Train.

While returning from his work at Elizabeth, last night, Walter Francis Gannon, son of Michael Gannon, the well-known newspaper correspondent, was struck by a Long Branch train and hurled a distance of twenty feet. He received a bad scalp wound and injuries to his back. Bystanders picked him up and carried him to the Elizabethport station, where Dr. Whitehead was summoned. It is believed that the young man will recover. There were two trains approaching at the time and Gannon became confused. He stepped out of the way of one into the other.

Did President Take Beer?

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 14.—"Did President Roosevelt accept a case containing sixty bottles of beer?" is the question the Allegheny County Woman's Christian Temperance Union has addressed to the Chief Executive. The matter was brought up yesterday at the annual meeting of the union, when a newspaper clipping was read saying a new brewing company in the West had sent a case of beer, and had been thanked on behalf of the President by Secretary Loeb, in a letter written on White House stationery.

Football at P. H. S.

There was a talk this morning over the football prospects at the Plainfield High School. It is probable that many of the star players will don the togs at the first call for candidates early next week. The first meeting will probably be held tomorrow morning or Monday, when plans for the year will be made.

WEAR PINK CARNATION IN M'KINLEY'S MEMORY

FOURTH ANNIVERSARY OF THE ASSASSINATION OF THE PRESIDENT.

Remembering William McKinley and his sad death at Buffalo on September 14, 1901, many persons today will wear a pink carnation. This flower was the martyred president's favorite blossom, and since his death it has been the pretty custom to honor his memory by wearing one on the anniversary of his death.

It was on Friday afternoon, September 6, 1901, that McKinley, while holding a reception at the Buffalo exposition, was shot down by Leon Czolgosz, a confessed anarchist. The stricken president made a brave fight for life, but in vain, and on the morning of Saturday, September 14, the sad news was flashed over the world that he was dead. Time has softened the grief of his fellow citizens over his loss and abated their horror at the cowardly act of the anarchist, but has not changed their feeling of love and respect for him. Therefore they delight to honor the memory of his clean, pure life and distinguished services, and it may well be that the anniversary of his death will be more generally observed from year to year. The wearing of a carnation is a small thing in itself, but seen upon thousands of coats and waists the beautiful flower becomes not only an appropriate but a striking memorial.

A permanent memorial to McKinley is the Carnation League of America, the many members of which today will wear the dead president's favorite flower in silent token of sorrow for his loss. The members also wear a carnation in the lapel of the coat, the hair or at the throat, on each recurring 20th of January, the anniversary of McKinley's birth. The movement is growing and many additional names will no doubt be entered upon the rolls of the league following this anniversary. The headquarters of the organization, which is purely partiotic, are in Dayton, O., the home of Lewis G. Renolds, the founder, but the membership extends into every State and the trustees include leading citizens of the country.

FINDS SECRET OF LIFE.

Professor Discovers Substance Which Controls Fertilization.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 14—Another forward step has been made by Professor Loeb, of the physiology department of the University of California, in his experiments in regard to artificial generation of life in eggs of sea urchins and starfish.

His latest discovery is that a certain substance in the egg is exuded at the moment of fertilization and that this forms the "fertilization membrane." So long as this substance remains in the egg it is not capable of fertilization. Any chemical which will drive out this substance and form membrane will produce life in the egg.

Church Ox Roast.

The congregation of the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church is holding an ox roast today on the church property in West Fourth street. The feast began at noon and will continue on until 11:30 tonight. The Toney Brothers Mandolin Club is furnishing the music. Rev. H. C. Ashley is in charge and he is assisted by T. H. Hooker, Alexander Stills, W. M. Grobes, A. P. White, E. B. Maynard, Henry Williams, Thomas Johnson, Major Selby, Spencer Kelly, Elmer Thomas.

Seniors' Class Officers.

The class of '06, the seniors at the Plainfield High School, this morning held an election for officers. This was the result: Stuart Freeman, president; Miss Gertrude Hunter, vice president, and Leslie Palmer, secretary and treasurer. This is the second term of Freeman's presidency. After officers were elected, a talk followed regarding a change of the class colors.

W. W. Astor's $1,000,000 Claim.

William Waldorf Astor has filed claims with the controller against the city of New York for nearly $1,000,000 because of alleged damages, to his property in Gerard River, Cromwell and Walton avenues, the Bronx, in that city, caused by the change of grade. Several thousand other claims for amounts from $500 to $150,000 have been filed recently.

Mrs. Marget Duffy, of West Sixth street, has planned the erection of a two-story addition on her house. F. L. Lancaster drew the plans.

"THAT'S D— WHITE OF ANDY"

SUCH THE EPITAPH SELECTED BY CARNEGIE FOR HIS TOMB.

Pittsburg, Sept. 14—"That's d—— white of Andy."

This is to be the epitaph carved on Andrew Carnegie's tomb. The millionaire Scotchman declares in all seriousness that this expresses the sentiment he likes and he will insist on his wishes being carried out.

"And I want the whole word of the qualifying adjective written in full," said Mr. Carnegie. "I want no 'D' and a dash after it. Every letter must be there."

According to the narrative related today by a prominent Pittsburger who is an intimate friend of Mr. Carnegie, this is how it happened.

John McLuckie, who was burgess of Homestead during the big steel strike of 1892, went to Texas and had a strenuous struggle in earning a livelihood. Several years ago Prof. VanDyke, of Rutgers College, was traveling through the Lone Star State and chanced to meet Mr. McLuckie. They became fast friends and on returning to the East Prof. VanDyke told Mr. Carnegie of the heroic efforts the famous burgess was obliged to make in his striving for success.

The steel king's sympathetic heart was touched, and when the story of the Homestead man's adversity was finished Mr. Carnegie said:

"The next time you see McLuckie tell him he can have anything he wants."

In the course of a few months Prof. VanDyke had occasion to return to Texas and hastened to deliver the good news.

"No, no," said McLuckie, "I don't want assistance. I'm very much obliged to you, professor, but I'm making good and can continue to do so, if the Lord gives me health."

"Why, the offer comes from Mr. Carnegie," answered Prof. VanDyke.

"That's d—— white of Andy," exclaimed McLuckie.

When Prof. VanDyke repeated the conversation Mr. Carnegie was delighted with the epigram. He clapped his hands and said:

"That sentiment must go on my tomb—it will surely be my epitaph."

Mr. Carnegie has often told the incident and among his intimate friends the Carnegie epitaph is an open secret.

McLuckie, the author of it, is still in Texas.

Wife Shot Him.

George Wilson, a compostor, twenty-nine years old, of 149 East Fifty-second street, New York, was shot and dangerously wounded by a woman a few minutes before 8 o'clock this morning on the sidewalk in front 146 Center street, New York. Wilson is in the Hudson Street Hospital, while his wife, Elizabeth, twenty-four years old, of neat appearance and fairly pretty, is a prisoner in the Elizabeth street police station. No reason has been advanced for the shooting, of which, as far as is known, there was only one witness, Arthur Herbst, of 57 Eighth avenue, Long Island City, who is a fellow employe of Wilson's at the Stillson Press, 122 Center street. According to Herbst, Wilson and his wife have not been living together for some time.

Boys Under Charges.

Trenton, Sept. 14.—Lester King, Sylvester Van Syckel and Patrick Caulfied, Trenton boys, whose families are well to do, were arrested a few days ago in Lambertville on charges of breaking into freight cars. They gave assumed names at that time, and it was not until today that their identity was discovered. Patrolman Bamford was sent to the Flemington jail by the Trenton authorities, and he identified King and Van Syckel, who are wanted in this city on two charges of burglary. One of these charges sets forth tat young King, in company with Van Syckel, robbed the confectionery store of King's father, in South Broad street. A second charge against the boys is that they robbed Lehman's grocery.

Mrs. Mackay to Pupils.

Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, recently elected a member of the school board at Roslyn, L. I., addressed the teachers and pupils of the village school yesterday afternoon. "It was you who elected me," she told the children. "I intend to do all I can for your school and for you children. Education serves to upbuild the character. Character is the only thing that is really worth striving for. I want you all to be real men and women." There are three hundred children in the school. They saluted Mrs. Mackay in military fashion after her little talk to them.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Cape May Has Stanch Friends.

No place has stronger friends than Cape May and friends that would never think of summering anywhere else beside the sea than just here. So it is agreed by many little groups of friends to meet here again to renew the pastimes and pleasures of 1905. —Cape May Wave.

Few Drownings.

The record of the season, so far as casualties on the beach are concerned, this year have been exceptionally few. In several the evidence indicated that they were due to some constitutional infirmity of the unfortunate victim rather than to the dangers usually incident to bathing.—Atlantic City Review.

Simplicity Needed.

In three years, it is probable, the question of the revision of our judicial system will come once more before the voters; meanwhile the simplest, most efficient and most economical system that can be devised should be laid before the people for their intelligent consideration.—Hackensack Record.

Cape May Has Asbury's Sympathy.

It is evident after a single glance at the papers, that the crusade against illegal liquor selling is not merely a local agitation or pushed with either private or political objects in view. It is state-wide in its scope, and every resort of importance has caught it. Now some of the popular places in South Jersey are being visited. No doubt our local hotel men will exchange sympathetic geetings.—Asbury Park Herald.

Disarmed His Enemies.

President Roosevelt, who was criticised in Hackensack not long ago for appointing to the postmastership a Republican who had not been indorsed by the local organization, is now coming in for praise. Even many of Postmaster Jeffers' former enemies are now ready to admit that Jeffers is a capable man who means to give the best service possible, and what is better still, a decided improvement in the postoffice management has already begun.—Jersey City Journal.

Will Probably Reappear.

The Jersey City Journal says the Morris canal scheme was so thoroughly ventilated last winter that legislators will be unwilling to assume risks in connection with a bill in the interests of a company, and no other kind of a bill would have motive or motive power sufficient to secure a place on the legislative calendars. The scheme was quite as thoroughly ventilated at the sessions of 1900 and 1901, yet the old, familiar bill has found a place on the calendar about every year since, and will probably reappear next January. —Paterson Guardian.

A Paying Illumination.

Lights on the boardwalk are to be turned off after Monday evening. They will illuminate the promenade for the last time, and a farewell will be taken of them by many who have enjoyed the feature which was the best advertisement the resort had during the year. It was a novelty that hit the popular chord. It fitted in well with the idea of novelties along the beach. Hotel men have induced Council to continue the illumination next year and the appropriation ordinance now going through Council contains the item which will provide the visitors next year with the same joy.—Atlantic City Sunday Gazette.

Evidence of Sanity.

A farmer near Reading hanged himself this week from remorse when charged with adulterating his milk with formaldehyde. Betwixt poisoning people slowly and killing them outright, it is only a matter of degree. It is injuring a neighbor in either case, and might naturally drive a sensitive man to suicide. There are easier and better ways of succeeding in the milk business than by adding poison. The same expense and effort might make the cows give more or better milk, or help the buyer to catch an earlier train to market or gain extra income in some other way. It is an evidence of sanity in such a case to commit suicide. —Atlantic City Daily Union.

The Water Question.

The people of Plainfield will, at a special election to be held on September 26, vote on the question of municipal ownership of water plant. The result of the vote will not mean that the people want or do not want the city to gain control of the water supply. The election is called under the law of 1876, permitting municipalities to obtain permission to investigate the desirability and feasibility of city ownership of water works. Such investigation would mean a considerable outlay of money, and the vote of the people will simply give or deny to the City Council the permission to go forward with the inquiry. The Plainfield Daily Press said yesterday that it is not wise to think that municipal ownership will be put in operation in Plainfield at an early date. Plainfield has recently added to its obligations on the sewage disposal system, and other indebtedness, by issuing a large amount of bonds to cover the expenses of erecting a $100,000 school house. Whether Plainfield establishes a municipal water plant by condemnation, purchase or construction of a new system, the expense will foot up to approximately $1,000,000. —Elizabeth Journal.

BRIDE AT SEVENTY-TWO

Mrs. Anna Dobbing Weds Constable Robert Walpole Who is Seventy-three.

SURPRISE FOR PLAINS

Ceremony Suddenly Decided On At Golden Wedding Anniversary of Bride's Sister In Kearny.

Constable Robert Walpole one of Scotch Plains' best known old residenters, and Mrs. Ann Dobbing, of the same place, were married Wednesday night in Kearny. The wedding took place without the knowledge of their relatives or friends at home. The groom is seventy-three and the bride is seventy-two.

Mr. and Mrs. Walpole were regarded as an engaged couple by their families, but it was not expected that the ceremony would be performed without preparations for a big home celebration, with all the features that belong to a nuptial occasion. Mr. Walpole says he didn't have any idea of getting married when he went to Newark, but was led to do it by joking friends.

Mr. Walpole and Mrs. Dobbing went to Newark to attend the golden wedding anniversary of the latter's sister, Mrs. Isaac Oliver. Mrs. Dobbing was bridesmaid at the Oliver wedding a half century ago. The guests at the celebration knew this and that Mrs. Dobbing was engaged to Mr. Walpole. One of the women suggested that it would be too delightfully romantic for anything to have the bridesmaid marry right there, and the idea was hailed with enthusiasm by the rest of the gathering.

Mrs. Dobbing blushingly consented after Mr. Walpole, who is a veteran soldier as well as an officer, stoutly declared he was ready at any time. Rev. William J. Tilly, of Harrison, who was present, performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Walpole returned to Scotch Plains Thursday morning and announced the marriage. Their relatives and the townspeople were amazed but congratulatory. Mr. Walpole is one of the village's most popular citizens, among the young people as well as the older ones, and the event created more talk than anything that has happened in the neighborhood for years.

The bride and groom were serenaded by their friends last night. A drum corps and various instruments were used to swell the volume of noise. Mr. and Mrs. Walpole took the serenade good naturedly.

They will reside at the bride's home on Front street. Both of them have lived in Scotch Plains many years and are known to a good many people in this vicinity. The groom is very well known in Plainfield. He served all through the Civil War, and is one of the sheriff's constables at the county court.

EIGHTH GAME TOMORROW.

Westfield and Plainfield in Championship Series.

Unusual interest is being manifested in the eighth contest between Plainfield and Westfield which will be played at Crescent Oval, tomorrow afternoon, because "Phil." Smith, the High School pitcher, will occupy the box for the Daabsters. It will be his first appearance in fast company and his friends as well as Manager Daab expects that he will maintain his good reputation as a twirler.

Reports have come from down-the-line that Manager Denman will come here "loaded" for the game, and several new faces are likely to be seen. Those of minor leaguers who have finished their season in the leagues to which they belong.

HUNT CLUB'S ELECTION

Board of Stewards Are Chosen For The Coming Year.

PLANS NEW QUARTERS

Pack of Hounds to be Increased to Twenty-two—Membership of Organization Increasing.

In preparation for an active fall season, the members of the Watchung Hunt Club held a meeting on Tuesday night and elected a Board of Stewards of seven. It being the desire to increase the membership of the board to ten, another session will be held at the Casino on Monday night. The board will also choose officers for the coming year.

It is proposed to start the regular hunts on October 1, although two early morning runs have been arranged for the last two Saturdays in this month, starting from the kennels at Highland Farm at 5:30 o'clock.

The club has also decided to engage quarters for a club room at 1121 Putnam avenue, which will be furnished in true style. Here the out-of-town members will be entertained and there will be occasional smokers and other entertainment. It will also be possbile to secure a lunch or dinner. The club now numbers forty-eight and on Tuesday night seven new members were proposed for election on Monday night.

The club proposes to have twenty-two hounds in all, thirteen new ones having been purchased. Of these four will come from the Westchester pack, five from Adam Beck, of Toronto, Canada, and four from the Pytchly pack at Brixworth, Northampton, England, where Dr. M. O'M. Knott's brother is a member of the hunt club which has a membership of over 600. The new hounds will be here in time for the opening of the season October 1.

At the meeting of the club on Monday night it is likely that the fall and winter schedule of runs will be prepared and announced. In many respects they cover about the same territory as last year.

The Board of Stewards thus far elected are as follows: Lewis E. Waring, George S. Ring, H. A. Bourn, S. A. Cruikshank, Dr. M. O'M. Knott, of this city; C. D. Freeman, of the Colonial Country Club, and Chauncey Sayre, of South Orange.

THEY GET A CARLOAD OF LUMBER FOR NOTHING

CHARLES HAND AND J. P. HOMAN WIN ACTION BROUGHT BY DEALER.

By a verdict rendered in the District Court at Elizabeth yesterday Charles H. Hand and J. P. Homan were relieved of the necessity of paying for a carload of lumber used in erecting the new row of buildings at Watchung avenue and Second street. In effect, the result of the suit compels Mason M. Smith, a lumber dealer of North Tonawanda, N. Y., to bear the loss of the carload because his stenographer made a mistake in inditing his acceptance of the Hand and Homan order.

The Plainfielders ordered three carloads of lumber; this was in October, 1904. A short time afterward two cars were delivered. One of them was invoiced according to the order, but the other was not. Through the stenographer's mistake this car was listed as so many pieces instead of feet. Hand and Homan accepted the one carload, but refused the other. They used the accepted load, and Smith brought suit.

Isaac P. Runyon, counsel for the defendants, asked for a jury, an unusual thing in the District Court, and the case went to trial yesterday. Mr. Runyon contended that the shipper could not collect on a contract that was only partly fulfilled. This contention was upheld by the court, who instructed the jury accordingly. The verdict, which was arrived at in a comparatively short time, was no cause of action, a complete victory for the defendants.

The original contract was for $535. The invoice sent out by Smith called for more lumber than the order cited. Although Hand and Homan got a carload for nothing, they really lost on the transaction, because the lumber they were compelled to purchase in order to fill out the necessary amount made the total cost more than that figured on in the first place.

—Although the season is nearly over, Neuman Bros. will have 200 baskets of fancy canning and preserving peaches tomorrow morning. This fruit is very choice and reasonable in price.

ROBBER MAKES APOLOGIES

"Sorry I Got To Do This" He Wrote After Making Haul.

A TRAMP THE THIEF

Mrs. William Baker Gave Food to the Man Who Later Returned to Steal—His Description.

The house of William Baker, who lives on Park avenue, over the city line, was robbed in broad daylight Wednesday, by an ungrateful tramp. $200 worth of silver, jewelry and clothing was taken.

Mrs. Baker and her daughter were left alone in the house early Wednesday morning, Mr. Baker and his man going to New York. Not long after that Miss Baker, who was not feeling well, went back to bed. Shortly after 9 o'clock a ragged looking tramp came to the door and asked Mrs. Baker for something to eat. He acknowledged frankly that he was a rover, but said with every appearance of sincerity that he hadn't been able to get anything to eat for two days excepting some apples, and was actually suffering from semi-starvation. His face bore out his story, and Mrs. Baker's sympathies were touched.

She gave the tramp a hearty meal, which he ate ravenously. Then she put up a snack for him to take along. Just as soon as he started on his way again Mrs. Baker left the house to do some work in the barn. When she returned a half-hour later, she found drawers and closets open and their contents scattered around. Several pieces of silver, two watches, three pins, some jewelled trinklets and other small valuables, together with a pair of trousers, a tan waistcoat, a coat, a light raincoat and a small sum of money were missing.

On the dining room table cloth Mrs. Baker found this note, scrawled in big letters on a piece of her own note paper: "Am sorry I Got to do This but must Look out for Myself. The Kid is a sound Sleeper."

This last is a reference to Miss Baker. She heard no sound to disturb her slumber, although the thief rifled her room pretty thoroughly. She took a medicine in which there was a narcotic before she lay down, which accounts for her uninterrupted sleep.

There is no doubt that the tramp was the thief. He probably saw Mrs. Baker go to the barn and sneaked back at once. It is likely he was under the impression she was alone in the house and was prepared to silence her if she had come back from the barn while he was engaged in going through the place.

Mrs. Baker describes him as a young man of 25 or 26, light-haired and slimly built, with a slouching gait. He was smooth-faced and wore a bicycle cap. When Mrs. Baker saw him start from the house he went in the direction of this city. He probably jumped on the first freight train he could get.

BOARDER DISAPPEARS AND SO DO GOODS

JOHN REYNOLDS, A PAINTER, WANTED BY THE POLICE.

A young man who described himself as John Reynolds, a painter, disappeared from the boarding house at 318 East Fifth street, yesterday afternoon, and $170 worth of jewelry belonging to other boards disappeared about the same time. The police are looking for him.

Reynolds came to the house about two weeks ago. He was a nice young man, and became popular with the other boarders. He was last seen at the house shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At 5:30 Mrs. Elizabeth Aaron, who keeps the house, discovered that the room on the second floor had been ransacked. Two rings, three pins, other bits of jewelry and some money were missing. The last seen of Reynolds in town was at the postoffice at 5:40 o'clock.

He is described as five feet, ten inches in heighth, about twenty-eight years old, slight in build, and weighing about 135 pounds. Two of his eye teeth are capped with gold. He wore a blue serge suit.

Colored Brothers Fight.

Clarence Hill, twenty years old, and Benjamin Hill, seventeen years old, colored, and brothers, were arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning for fighting last night on West Third street. Clarence and Benjamin dislike one another because each wears the other's clothes to social functions. The magistrate suspended a $10 sentence over their heads.

ROASTS ORGANIZATION

Plainfield in Depth of Intolerant Bossism, Says Newark Evening News.

SAYS KEEP UP FIGHT

Attack on James T. MacMurray and Andrew McCardell—Lauds L. V. F. Randolph.

The Newark Evening News yesterday editorially reviewed the result of Tuesday's primaries here in this fashion:

"Plainfield has not yet had enough of bosses and bossism. On Tuesday last it repudiated reform, stamped independence under foot and bowed its neck to the yoke of the twin Republican bosses, City Clerk MacMurray and State Labor Inspector McCardell. Plainfield is not the only place that has supinely yielded to the further rule of bosses and bossism, but it is conspicuous in its self-imposed disgrace, because a reform movement was started there under auspices which gave promise of real independence and geunine reform. The people had a grand opportunity, but they do not seem to have had quite strength enough to succeed.

"A number of elements combined to bring about the defeat of the Plainfield reformers. In the first place, the bosses were thoroughly organized. They controlled a great proportion of the factory vote in the city, of which there is enough to turn the majority from Republican to Democratic, at their dictation. This latter was actually done three years ago. Between the influence of MacMurray as city clerk and McCardell in his dual capacity as State labor inspector and foreman in the great Pond Tool Works, the other citizens of Plainfield seem to have no show whatever.

"Add to this situation the further fact that the reformers of Plainfield who are in favor of honest, independent, economical local government belong almost exclusively to the commuting class; men of wealth and intelligence, but who go to New York to business every day. Almost invariably these men are defeated in any effort to effect local independence. Still further, the bosses had the saloon influence with them. Recently the Plainfield City Council, to which the reformers have been able to send some of their best men, raised the license fee to $1,000, and also passed an ordinance, over the Mayor's veto, restricting all saloons to a certain limited district within the city. City Clerk MacMurray denounced the councilmen who did this, and declared that they would never be returned to Council. The bosses are now in position to enforce this threat and to undo everything good that has been done in the past few years.

"There is not the slightest doubt that the Plainfield bosses would have forced one of their constituents on the county ticket for State Senator, but they feared the voters outside of Plainfield's limits. Their high-handed work of three years ago had not been forgotten, and while they could command their own cohorts in Plainfield, and throttle reform there, they dared not attempt it a second time in the county at large. And so Plainfield, from which much was expected at last Tuesday's primaries, has fallen back into the depths of intolerant bossism. It is in worse plight now than ever before, for its best elements have been overwhelmingly defeated by its worst, and its bosses are more defiant than ever. Nevertheless, the independent voters and property owners of Plainfield must not give up in despair. What Essex has done, Plainfield can do. The enormous power wielded by the bosses may be their undoing, and Plainfield may yet be what former Mayor Randolph and other of its best citizens would make it."

TRAMP HOLDS UP BOY.

Leo Leek Robbed of a Dollar on South Avenue in the Daytime.

Leo Leek, twelve years old, a son of W. C. Leek, a Richmond street butcher, reported to the police last night that he had been held up and robbed of a dollar on South avenue yesterday afternoon. Leo lives with his grandparents in Westfield. He was riding home on his bicycle along South avenue, he says, when a tramp sprang out from the bushes and halted him. He went through the boys' clothes and took out the dollar, which was in an envelope. Leo was not harmed.

The boy says the robber was about six feet tall and wore a cap. Acting-Chief Frederickson learned late last night that a tramp answering this description was in Graceland about an hour and a half after the holdup. An unsuccessful effort was made to capture him.

Miss Ida Rocap returned to Plainfield last evening, after a delightful summer at Patchogue, L. I.

LOOKS LIKE LAWRENCE

Summit Man Likely to Defeat Kirkland For Shrievalty.

PLAINFIELD'S POSITION

Elizabeth's Candidate Can't Count a Majority—Fourth Ward Here Pledged to Him.

Without Plainfield, politicians say, Robert Kirkland cannot hope to win the Republican shrievalty nomination. He has no chance of getting Plainfield s support. Consequently, it is argued that Dr. Lawrence, of Summit, will defeat the Elizabeth man at the county convention.

Andrew McCardell, leader of the Fourth ward organization, assured Kirkland some months ago that he would throw his strength his way. McCardell has the reputation of meaning what he says. Therefore, Kirkland will get nine votes from this city. On the other hand Lawrence will find eighteen votes coming his way from Plainfield. These eighteen represent the total of the First, Second and Third wards.

It can be taken for granted that unless the trick is done on the first ballot, Plainfield's solid vote, twenty-seven, will go to Lawrence. As it stands, with the Fourth ward for him, Kirkland will have about fifty-seven votes at the convention. Lawrence will have the bulk of the other seventy-three which go to make up the total for the county. Rahway has a candidate of its own, Postmaster Wright. But that is only complimentary and before the ballot is announced it will go over to the Elizabeth man.

An Elizabeth paper, which is somewhat off in its calculations, summed the situation up yesterday in this way:

"Unless some of the county delegates outside of this city come to the support of the Elizabeth candidate for sheriff, Captain Robert Kirkland's chances for the shrievalty honor will be by no means as bright as his friends present them to be. Elizabeth delegates cannot carry the convention by several votes, and from reports of other cities and the townships through the county, few Kirkland men can be found outside of this city. Here, according to the estimate of one G. O. P. politician, Kirkland has 48 delegates. If Plainfield goes solid for Lawrence, as it is believed it will, Kirkland will be beaten.

"Summit has eight delegates for Lawrence, and it is thought that Rahway, Westfield and Cranford delegates will eventually rally to Summit's side. There are 68 votes in the county convention, not including Elizabeth. With the 14 anti-Kirkland men who are reported to have been elected Tuesday from this city, it makes 82 probable votes against Kirkland's 48. Therefore, Kirkland would have to carry Westfield, Cranford, Union, Roselle and part of the scattered vote in order to win. That is considering the fact that all of Plainfield's twenty-seven votes are cast for Lawrence, as a prominent Plainfielder affirmed yesterday would be the case."

COLORED MAN PASSED A WORTHLESS CHECK

POLICE ARE LOOKING FOR EDWARD GREEN.

Edward Green, colored, residence unknown, is wanted by the borough police on a charge of passing a worthless check on Bartender VanArsdale at Boyce's Hotel in Somerset street, on September 6. Green, who is a stranger here, came to Plainfield Tuesday night, September 5, and engaged Moses Carey, the hackman, to drive him to Scotch Plains. While there he attempted to pass a check on William Lee, but the latter war too wise.

Early the next morning he walked into the barroom at Boyce's Hotel, and asked Mr. VanArsdale is he could accommodate him by cashing a $6 check. F. W. Koolburg's name was signed to thte paper, but this is believed to be a forgery. VanArsdale took the check to the City National Bank, where he was informed that it was no good. Chief Marshal Weiss has been at work on the case, and he has asked the Plainfield police to help him. Green disappeared the day he gave the check and has not been seen since.

Bible Society Session.

The Somerset County Bible Society meets in annual convention in the Presbyterian church, Bernardsville, on Tuesday, September 26. There will be a sermon by Rev. Dr. W. S. Cranmer, of Somerville, and an address by Rev. Dr. H. D'B. Mulford, of New Brunswick.

CITIZENS ISSUE A CALL

Meeting Set For Next Monday Night, In The Somerset School.

SWACKHAMER A SIGNER

Three Ex-Mayors and Other Prominent Citizens Affix Their Names to the List—Conroy's Endorsement Probable.

A call for a citizens' meeting was issued today by the anti-administration forces of North Plainfield. The meeting is to be held next Monday night in the Somerset street school.

It was understood until today that the meeting would be held next Thursday, but Monday was fixed upon as the best date at a meeting of the Cit leaders last night.

The call asks the citizens to come together "for conference, and, if it be deemed advisable, to prepare a platform and arrange to nominate by petition candidates for borough offices on a Citizens' ticket." It is believed the meeting will endorse W. J. Conroy, the Democratic nominee for Mayor, and name two candidates for Council.

That the reigning faction of the Democratic force is in sympathy with a Cit movement for fusion is evidenced by S. S. Swackhamer's name on the list of signers to the call. Other prominent signers of the call are former Mayors Needham, Van Winkle and Place, T. S. Armstrong, L. E. Barkalew, E. A. Overton, W. W. Howland, R. M. Fountain, A. V. P. Honeyman, Dr. J. H. Buchanan and H. K. Carroll.

In opening the call the Cits ask "all voters of the borough who believe that personal and party interests should be subordinated to public welfare, and who favor an administration of local affairs on purely business principles," to come to the meeting.

LOUIS K. HYDE HEAD OF CITY NATIONAL

Louis K. Hyde, a son of the late Charles Hyde, was elected president of the City National Bank at a meeting of the directors this morning. He was chosen after J. T. Closson, the vice president, declined the honor. Mr. Hyde's selection was unanimous.

The vacancy in the presidency was caused by the death of Captain J. Frank Hubbard. Out of respect to the latter's memory the election of a successor was postponed until today.

The new president is now a resident of Titusville, Pa., but he will remove here shortly. At present he is making plans to build a handsome residence near Hydewood Hall, the home of his brother, Frank DeLacey Hyde, on the mountainside.

Mr. Hyde was vice president of the Second National Bank, of Titusville of which his father was the head. The son succeeded him to the presidency. The father was also president of the local bank in which the son now holds the same office.

Mr. Closson declined the office of president because of his defective hearing.

MRS. TEMPLIN DEAD.

Taken Ill Yesterday With Heart Disease.

Mrs. Emily Y. Templin, aged seventy-four years, died at 5 o'clock this morning at her home on North avenue, following a short attack of heart trouble. She was taken ill yesterday, and the family physician, D. P. J. Zeglio, was summoned. She did not respond to the treatment owing to advanced age.

Mrs. Templin was born in Easton, Pa., and moved to this city ten years ago, where she continued her residence. Since coming here her husband and one son died. She was living with her daughter, Mrs. Anna Gunagan, when she died. Mrs. Templin was a member of Trinity Reformed church, being a regular attendant. She is survived by three sons, Howard B. Templin, Frank S. Templin and Herbert D. Templin, and one daughter, Mrs. Anna Gunagan, all of this city.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock from the home of Howard B. Templin, 216 East Second street, and the body will be taken on the 8:44 train Monday morning to Doylestown, Pa., where the interment will be in the family plot. Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, will conduct the services here.

WORKING FOR MISSIONS

Conference of Young People Representing Many Denominations.

DR. SAILER SPEAKS

Outlines Best Plans for Study—Meetings To Be Held In Crescent Avenue Church.

For the purpose of forming missionary study classes among the young people's societies in the Plainfield churches, a meeting was held in the small hall of the Y. M. C. A., last night. It was arranged by the chairman of the missionary committee of the Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. Pastors, vice presidents and chairmen of the missionary committees in the local churches were present.

The meeting was largely the outcome of the missionary conference held at Silver Bay, Lake George, this summer, which was attended by several Plainfielders, including Miss Emma Stevens, of the borough; Miss Halloway, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and each made a brief report on the conference. W. D. Murray, who is also identified with the Silver Bay conference, and was instrumental in organizing a missionary study class in his church, also spoke.

After the reports were presented, Rev. Dr. T. H. P. Sailer, educational secretary for the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian church, was introduced and gave a talk on mission work and the value of organizing classes for study.

He referred to the study and work of missions as being an unsolved problem, and attributed the lack of knowledge of the issues in the foreign mission fields as the cause for no interest being taken. He said that the per capita average contribution to missions today is less than it was ten years ago, yet wealth is constantly increasing.

Another point urged was insistence, the knack of keeping at people until they are thoroughly aroused in the cause of missions. He believed that some would be willing to interest themselves if they could be inoculated for life and not be obliged to do something continually to maintain that interest. Dr. Sailer did not believe that the occasional missionary sermon the most effective method to arouse interest and urged the plan of class study, suggesting a good leader, a short course, of two months, weekly meetings and not over six members to a class. He also suggested a library as desirable.

During his talk, Dr. Sailer offered many helpful suggestions and at the close there was an informal discussion of the subject, the speaker answering several questions which tended to explain more fully the plans for study.

As a result of the meeting it is quite likely that several classes for mission study will be formed and some one course of the many offered followed.

Miss Halloway announced at the close of the meeting the dates for three important mission meetings to be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, to which all were invited. On Tuesday night, September 26, Don O. Sheldon, well-known here, will give a mission talk, and a similar talk will be given on Friday night, October 6, by Rev. Mr. Diefendorfer, formerly pastor of Grace M. E. church. On Friday night, September 13, Mr. Vickery, of New York, secretary for the Young People's Missionary Association, will give an illustrated lecture.

Among the pastors present at last night's meeting were Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, Rev. E. V. Stevenson, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, Rev. A. E. Finn, Rev. George Mooney, Rev. A. C. McCrea, Rev. C. E. Herring, Rev. George B. Shaw, Rev. C. L. Goodrich, and nearly every young people's association in the evangelical churches had representatives present. It is quite likely that another meeting will be held soon when more definite action will be taken. The meeting closed with a prayer and the benediction by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, after which there was an informal talk about the plans.

Prof. Griggs' Lectures.

The first of a series of six lectures, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First M. E. church, will be given in Vincent chapel Tuesday night, September 26, by Prof. Edward Howard Griggs. His subject will be "Socrates." Charles Francis Carter has this to say of Prof. Griggs' influence: "Few men there are who could speak of ten world leaders and give the impression of such genuine inner appreciation of each of them."

Threat to Behead Baron Komura.

Victoria, B. C., Sept. 15.—Advices received from Tokio say that incendiary postcards are received at the Tokio Foreign Office threatening that Baron Komura will be assassinated on his return from America. The Tokio Yomiuri publishes the text of one, which says: "Baron Komura, our plenipotentiary in America, hearing Russia's bluff, has made concession on concession, so that the victory of the war is to the vanquished. If this is true, we shall take off the heads of Count Katsura and Baron Komura and take suitable steps against their coadjutors."

ADVISES CORSETS FOR MEN.

Solution of Their Clothes Problem, Says Woman Speaker.

New York, Sept. 15.—"In ten years every man will be wearing corsets," was the startling announcement of Miss Linda Wade at the dressmakers' convention, during her lecture on the right way to wear corsets.

"Why, men have been having difficulty with their clothing for years," she continued. "As summer men, when they do away with ugly straps over the shoulders, they are continually hiking at their trousers. Belts are worse. They have to make them so tight they're uncomfortable. I assert that women are more healthfully and comfortably dressed than men! The corset is the only solution of the problem for the latter."

Although the corset question is going to be such an important one to men, Miss Wade was careful that there were none in the audience when she began her demonstrations.

"The whole secret of wearing corsets," said Miss Wade, "is having them fit right. My waist measures just the same with my corset as without." Doing some breathing exercises, Miss Wade looked entirely free and happy in a blue satin affair. "The trend in the corset season," she announced, "is to push the bust to the front. Then the straight front leaves the abdomen and stomach entirely free."

Miss Wade said the right way to put a corset on was to work the figure into it so the chest is high and the stomach pushed out of sight. "There's no use having superfluous flesh on the hips or at the bottom of the corset. There are no vital organs there. It's just plain fat, and the thing to do is to use that fat like putty and push it back where it belongs. Also, extra flesh under the arms can be pushed forward; indeed any superfluous spots of flesh may be put where you want them."

CHANCERY IN PATERSON.

Members of Passaic County Bar Clamoring for a Location.

Paterson, Sept. 15.—Now that the fall terms of court are near at hand, the wailings of the members of the Passaic County Bar are heard louder than ever in their cry for the location of Chancery Chambers in this city. This movement has been under way for several years, but nothing beyond having a law passed making it legal to set aside each year a certain amount for the rental of Chancery Chambers in this city has been done, except that it is understood that one of the items in the appropriation bill last year was for this purpose If this is true there is no reason for any delay in opening Chancery Chambers in this city, the members of the Bar Association argue.

Vice-Chancellor Stevenson, who resides in this city, has long ago expressed his sympathy with the movement, although, he says, it means additional labor upon his shoulders. Other members of the local Bar Association claim that it would facilitate matters for him, and argue that when he is called to Jersey City for the express purpose of trying a Paterson issue he would only be compelled to journey to the local chambers, if such were established. The lawyers and witnesses in the case would not be put to so much inconvenience and everybody would be benefited.

It has been pointed out that the chambers could be located in the court house without inconveniencing Justice Pitney or Judge Scott in any manner. There are times when both the Supreme and Criminal court rooms are occupied on the same day, but these occasions are rare, and the calendars of both county courts could be so arranged as not to conflict with the movements of the vice-chancellor.

Such arrangements could easily be made between the State department and the county officials controling the courts.

GIRLLESS TELEPHONE PLANTS.

Allentown Exchange Expects to Save $20,000 a Year.

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 15.—Deciding today to spend $200,000 in installing girlless telephone plants here and in Hazleton, the management of the Consolidated Telephone companies deprived more than a hundred telephone girls of their jobs. They will be out as soon as the new plants are ready, by December 1. The 60 girls here are so angry about it that many left instantly and the service is greatly impaired.

The directors of the syndicate say they are sorry for the girls, but they calculate on running each girlless exchange at a saving of $20,000 a year. If the trial plants are as successful as it is believed they will be, the girlless system will be installed in the entire consolidated territory, which includes Scranton, Wilkesbarre and the ten other largest cities of Pennsylvania east of the Susquehanna river. More than 400 girls are employed in all the exchanges.

Des Moines to Make Beer.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 15.—The Des Moines City Council has declared that a petition presented by liquor interests for the right to manufacture beer and other alcoholics contained the necessary majority of voters' signatures and raised the bar to the estblishment of breweries and distilleries which has existed since the enactment of the State prohibition law years ago. At least one new brewery will be built at once.

Even though the wings of the "Dove of Peace" have been clipped, the bird is still game and will fight to the end of the season.

"Red" Waller naturally will feel proud, despite the loss of the pennant. He won his first game this season from the Daabsters.

The Plainfield High School will be well represented at the game tomorrow, as unusual interest will center in the work of "Phil" Smith.

Manager Daab says that if successful in securing new grounds he will have a suitable pole erected for the display of the championship pennant next season.

"Phil" Smith, who will pitch for the Daabsters tomorrow, has been practicing this week with his catcher, Davis, so that he will be in the best of condition.

The announcement that "Phil" Smith will pitch for Plainfield tomorrow has caused a flurry among the bettors, some wagers of 5 to 4 being made on Westfield.

Captain Driscoll says that every effort will be made to take the three remaining games from Westfield and that there will be no letting up until the last game is played.

Connolly, who has been one of the heaviest hitters on the local team, has had a drop in his batting, while Kiernan, who was in the same condition earlier in the year, is hitting the ball very hard. Cosgrave has also returned to his old-time form.

By the way, the effort to give the Daabsters a reception at the end of the season is constantly meeting with approval. It has been suggested that City Judge William N. Runyon present the pennant. It would afford an excellent opportunity to recount the season's victories, especially over Westfield.

"Warry" McLaughlin, who has had a very successful season pitching for the New London, Conn., team, returned home yesterday. Soon afterward there was a report in circulation that Manager Denman would use him tomorrow against Plainfield. "Red" Waller will undoubtedly occupy the box.

GOLF.

There will be the weekly competition for the president's and Park Golf Club trophies at the Park Golf Club tomorrow and a large field is predicted.

Events at the Plainfield Country Club tomorrow will include the weekly competition for the golf committee cup. E. B. Shoemaker now leads in this competition with thirteen points, and C. B. Morgan is a close second with 9 5-6 points, while Henry D. Hibbard and Morris J. Dumont are tie for third position with 8 1-2 points. H. C. Munger is next with 7 1-2 points and W. D. Riggs with 6 1-2 and E. A. Cruikshank with 6 1-3 follow. The competition is very close and it will not be possible to guess the winner until nearer the end of the season. It is assured that Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers will win the Gaston cup for women, as she has a lead with 35 1-2 points, while her nearest competitor is Miss Daisy Elsberg with 19 points.

A 200 TO 1 WINS.

Brother Frank Is the Pikers' Friend.

Brother Frank, a brown colt, two years old, by Knight of the Thistle—Perfidy, owned by Mrs. C. E. Durnell, brought joy and many hundreds of dollars to nearly thirty racegoers at the Gravesend track yesterday by winning the fifth race at odds of 200 to 1. The other 8,000 spectators lost large sums on the race and stood with long faces while the fortunate speculators cut up antics on the lawn and shouted the name of the skate that won.

It was the second time this season that a horse at such long odds has won. Twelve days ago, at the Sheepshead Bay track, Killkare, a two-year-old filly, won a race with the early price of 200 to 1 against her, but she was heavily backed and closed in the betting with odds of 60 to 1 against her. A fortune was taken out of the ring on that occasion, but no such "killing" was made with Brother Frank, as he was not considered by the wise men of the turf to have a chance to win.

Consequently only a few small bets of $1 and $2 were recorded on him by the bookmakers. Even his trainer, C. E. Durnell, whose wife owns the horse, thought so little of his chance that he bet but $10 on him. "Boots," as Durnell is called by turfmen, bet his $10 because he did not wish to have the colt race without a wager of some sort. He bet the money "straight" and as he received odds of 200 to 1, he cashed in $2,010.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

A Tip a Bribe.

While a "tip" is nothing more or less than a bribe for service expected or given it is a habit so strongly entrenched that laws passed by legislators will hardly be able to eradicate it. It is really up to the people themselves to stop it. They must unite in a general declaration that henceforth they will not give themselves up to the habit.—Atlantic City Press.

Speak-easy Crusade.

It is evident, after a single glance at the papers, that the crusade against illegal liquor selling is not merely a local agitation or pushed with either private or political objects in view. It is State-wide in its scope, and every resort of importance has caught it. Now some of the popular places in South Jersey are being visited. No doubt our local hotel men will exchange sympathetic greetings. —Asbury Park Journal.

Don't Knock.

The newspapers of New Brunswick and Rahway are reading the riot act to citizens who are always saying something mean about the town. The man who can't say a good word for the community of which he is a member and in which he has a home, deserves no sympathy. These are the ones who, when the town becomes prosperous in spite of their knocking, step to the front and claim credit for the work that others have done.—Trenton State Gazette.

Trading Stamp Law.

The new trading stamp law, which went into effect on September 1st, doesn't seem to have discommoded the trading stamp people in the least. They have complied witht the law by printing on each stamp its cash value, but this value is so infinitesimal that there is not much likelihood of the stamp issuers being financially embarrassed by demands for ready cash. The stamps will continue to be turned in for merchandise, with only an occasional demand for their redemption in cash—Camden Post-Telegram.

Women Run Hotels.

In Atlantic City fully one-half of the smaller hotels are presided over by women. Some have grown rich. They took the helm, forcing the more timid husband to the background, while they piled up the fortune he enjoys in later life. To the careful marketing of the woman of the house can be traced the profits. To the instinct of women in knowing how to handle unreasonable guests can be attributed the fact that the hotel was well filled all summer, and to the delicate handling of the servants were the wants of the guests carefully looked after. Let her have all the credit that is due, and more, too. Hats off to the woman hotel proprietress.—Atlantic City Press.

Legally Declared to Be Alive.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 15.—John Fulton, of Paterson, N. J., who left his wife, Mary A. Fulton, in Pittsburg twenty-eight years ago, has been declared legally alive and sole heir to the estate of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Quinn, who left an estate valued at about $1,300. Fulton, who disappeared again mysteriously over a week ago, was not in court, but was represented by his attorney, A. H. Moeser. Attorney Moeser told the court that he had not seen or heard from his client since a week ago last Saturday, but believed he had returned to Paterson, where he had been making his home. The final hearing was before Judge J. J. Miller in the Orphans' Court, and the court made an order discharging the rule to declare him dead.

The members of Miantonomo Tribe, Improved Order Red Men, will hereafter hold their meetings on Tuesday night, instead of Friday. Since the organization of the tribe it has met on Friday night each week, but there are now so many other attractions on that night that a change was thought advisable.
